Service Men Were Honored

In connection with the Candle Light Service, program and worship at Nazareth Church New Year's Eve, service men discharged and on furlough were given a welcome in the church parlors. A table especially decorated was arranged for them and their parents and wives. A little token in form of a folder was presented in behalf of congregation by Pastor Urness. Lunch including, ice cream, was served to all. Following served on the committee: Mrs. J. Ness, Mrs. L. M. Larson and Mrs. E. O. Urness. The following discharged servicemen were present: Raymond Sagstuen, Myron Johnson. Mernet Johnson, Orris Johnson, Chester Larson, Lloyd Larson, Myron Gunheim, Theodore Gusa, Vern Wilson, Walter Moberg and Martin Larson still in service

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness were honored as gold star parents.

Adult and junior leaders of 4-H club in Marshall County should begin making plans to attend one of the Leader's Institutes held this year at Argyle on January 9th and Middle River on January 10th.

Mrs. Margaret Fobes Tabbut, state club agent, and Mr. Burton Kreitlow, district supervisor, will be on hand to present material which will be valuable to every local club.

Middle River Take State Honors

The village of Middle River with contributions totaling 206 per cent of its Minnesota War Service Fund quota, took top honors in the entire state, William C. Walch, state director asserted in a letter of appreciation to J. W. Sands, treasurer of tne county fund. Mrs. Mary Davidson was chairman of the Middle River organization.

Marshall county turned in $9, 691.05 to the State during the drive for funds during the fall, again oversubscribing its assigned quota.

All War Service Fund campaigns conducted during the war have been under the general supervision of H. M. Hanson, register of deeds, at Warren.

Mrs. B. O. Waagedahl Died

Mrs. B. O. Waagedahl, pioneer Holt township resident, passed away at her home here on Saturday evening. She was 89 years old. Mrs. Waagedahl had been in ill health for some time and has been confined to her bed the past year. Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon from the Lutheran Free Church at Ringbo.

A complete obituary will be published next week.

THE LAST DAY

FOR MEN NOW IN THE ARMY TO RETAIN THEIR PRESENT GRADES BY REENLISTING . . .

Men now in the Army who reenlist before February 1 will be reenlisted in their present grade. Men honorably discharged can reenlist within 20 days after discharge in the grade they held at the time of discharge, provided they reenlist before February 1, 1946.

There's a long list of attractive reenlistment privileges in the new Armed Forces Voluntary Recruitment Act of 1945. The ability to keep your present grade is only one of them, but this privilege expires on January 31.

There are plenty of other reasons why many thousands of men have enlisted, and more thousands are enlisting every day. You'll certainly want to know all of the opportunities open to you. If you'll read them carefully, you'll know why a job in the new peacetime Regular Army is being regarded today as "The Best Job in the World."

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE NEW ENLISTMENT PROGRAM

1. Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (1-year enlistments permitted for men now in Army with 6 months' service.)
2. Enlistment age from 17 to 34 years inclusive, except for men now in Army, who may reenlist at any age.
3. Men reenlisting retain present grades, if they reenlist within 20 days after discharge and before February 1, 1946.
4. The best pay scale, medical care, food, quarters and clothing in Army history.
5. An increase in the reenlistment bonus to $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service.
6. Up to 90 days' paid furlough, depending on length of service, with furlough travel paid to home and return, for men now in Army who enlist.
7. A 30-day furlough every year at full pay.
8. Mustering-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged to reenlist.
9. Option to retire at half pay for life after 20 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. All previous active federal military service counts toward retirement.
10. Benefits under the GI Bill of Rights.
11. Family allowances for the term of enlistment for dependents of men who enlist before July 1, 1946.
12. Opportunity to learn one or more of 200 skills and trades.
13. Choice of branch of service and overseas theater in the Air, Ground or Service Forces on 3-year enlistments.

Watch Hog Market Closely

Price breaks which occured in some large hog markets early in December should serve notice to every farmer who has hogs to sell of the need for orderly marketing to avoid further sharp price drops and holdover losses, according to Mr. Kranz, county AAA chairman.

Information received from the Deparment of Agriculture indicates that there are not too many hogs on farms for the market this winter if an even marketing flow is maintained.

The 1945 spring pig crop, now coming to market, is 7 percent smaller than the 1944 spring pig crop. Furthermore, there is a demand for every pound of pork and pork products produced this winter. Between a billion and a billion and a half pounds of meat —a substantial part of it pork— will be shipped to Europe for relief and other export programs.

In addition, U. S. civilians want more pork, bacon, and lard.

Whenever a packer has more hogs than he can handle, however, he has only one recourse— to reduce the price and try to keep hogs back until he can catch up. Farmers should be alert to this condition and avoid heavy marketings when terminal markets are over-supplied and prices are breaking. They should be sure that the market can handle your hogs before they leave the farm.

A five-point program of orderly marketing was given by Kranz:

(1) Avoid scares and rumors. There are not to many hogs if they are marketed orderly way.

(2) Keep posted on markets and price trends.

(3) When hogs are ready, check markets daily.

(4) Keep an even flow of hogs going to market. If marketings decline send your hogs in.

(5) Be alert to changes. Check with your trucker, buyer, or the commission firm every every day when you have hogs to sell.

Price Support

The present hog support price of $13 per 100 pounds (Chicago basis) will be in effect until September 30, 1946. From October 1, 1946 to September 30, 1947, the price will be supported at an average of $12 per 100 pounds (Chicago basis). Hogs are listed by Congress as a steagall commodity to be supported at not less tean 90 percent of parity for at least two years after the war officially ends.

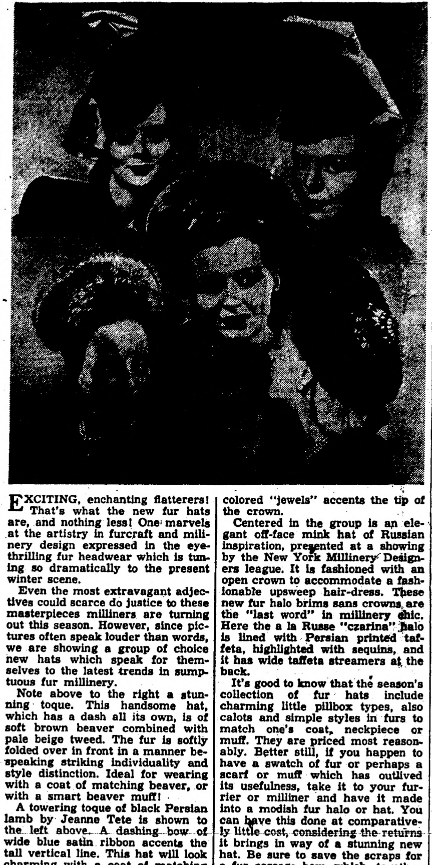
Fabulous Fur Hats Add New Note Of Luxury to Winter Costumes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS



EXCITING, enchanting flatterers! That's what the new fur hats are, and nothing less! One marvels at the artistry in furcraft and millinery design expressed in the eye-thrilling fur headwear which is tuning so dramatically to the present winter scene.

Even the most extravagant adjectives could scarce do justice to these masterpieces milliners are turning out this season. However, since pictures often speak louder than words, we are showing a group of choice new hats which speak for themselves to the latest trends in sumptuous fur millinery.

Note above to the right a stunning toque. This handsome hat, which has a dash all its own, is of soft brown beaver combined with pale beige tweed. The fur is softly folded over in front in a manner bespeaking striking individuality and style distinction. Ideal for wearing with a coat of matching beaver, or with a smart beaver muff!

The tall turban below to the left is sleekly molded of black felt. A swath of luxurious silver fox across the top of the crown adds height and softness to the silhouette. Wear this chic chapeau with a handsome silver fox stole for style distinction.

A swank halo breton is pictured below to the right. It has a bulky brim of glossy black Persian lamb. Most unique, and sounding the glitter note is the open mesh crown. A dazzling medallion of pearls and colored "jewels" accents the tip of the crown.

Centered in the group is an elegant off-face mink hat of Russian inspiration, presented at a showing by the New York Millinery Designers league. It is fashioned with an open crown to accommodate a fashionable upsweep hair-dress. These new fur halo brims sans crowns are the "last word" in millinery chic. Here the a la Russe "czarina" halo is lined with Persian printed taffeta, highlighted with sequins, and it has wide taffeta streamers at the back.

It's good to know that the season's collection of fur hats include charming little pillbox types, also calots and simple styles in furs to match one's coat, neckpiece or muff. They are priced most reasonably. Better still, if you happen to have a swatch of fur or perhaps a scarf or muff which has outlived its usefulness, take it to your furrier or milliner and have it made into a modish fur halo or hat. You can have this done at comparatively little cost, considering the returns it brings in way of a stunning new hat. Be sure to save the scraps for a fur corsage bow, which, together with your nifty chapeau, will give you a charming ensemble that will look smart with many a costume. A big vogue is on for white fur hats with matching neckpiece or muff. Thrilling are the cunning sets of hat and muff made up in the sportsy spotted furs, either ocelot or leopard.

If you have some leftovers of fur after the hat is made, perhaps you could induce your furrier to piece them together for a smart pouch handbag with drawstring top. This would be ever so chic.

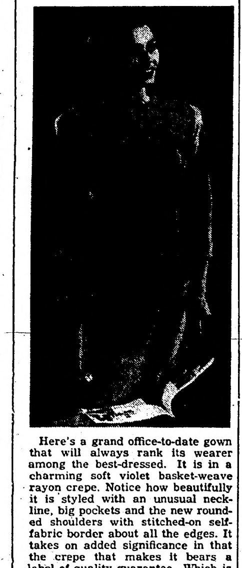
Chic Daytime Dress



Here's a grand office-to-date gown that will always rank its wearer among the best-dressed. It is in a charming soft violet basket-weave rayon crepe. Notice how beautifully it is styled with an unusual neckline, big pockets and the new rounded shoulders with stitched-on self-fabric border about all the edges. It takes on added significance in that the crepe that makes it bears a label of quality guarantee. Which is why you can wear it at the office or for dress-up. It can be depended upon to give perfect service and it dry-cleans to perfection.

Exotic Decor on New Lounging Slippers

And now it's lounging slippers that are going all out for glamour and novelty. It's new vogue this winter to wear fanciful and unique types made ornate with beadwork, embroidery, sometimes studded with colorful stones, and other exotic decor. Such are the gay Tyrolean scuffs platformed, cushiony, colorful and lavishly embroidered. Less pretentious, but just as eye-appealing, are hand-woven wedgies from Mexico, made of fabric. A noted designer creates a luxurious felt slipper with a bright contrasting satin lining and a huge felt rose on the instep. The popular ballet slipper comes in plaid and colors as well as black. Alaskan Indian boots of white reindeer skin are colorfully lined and are trimmed with hand-worked beaded flowers. Fine soft kidskin slippers built for comfort are good-looking and give excellent service.

Satin Dress First Choice Of Fashion-Wise Women

Satin dresses are in the limelight now and their importance will hold good throughout the midwinter season. It's satin in the evening and it's satin for daytime wear that is a first choice among women who know their fashions. Of course, black and brown satins come first, but the real sensation is the rich beautiful colors that are seen in the satin style parade. At fashionable gatherings the scene is made colorful with stunning satin gowns in such delectable colors as a dark subdued sapphire blue or perhaps a deep plum shade or a bronzy beetle green. The color that is newest is a radiant copper shade that makes up beautifully and is ever so flattering with mink fur. Deep pewter gray is another new color for satin.

Nitrogen Lack Shows In Farm Crop Colors

Pale Green Often Means Low Protein Content

The culprit responsible for the pale green color and spindly growth of many pastures and fields of small grains last spring was lack of nitrogen, according to W. H. Pierre, head of the agronomy department of Iowa State college.

Corn shows nitrogen application.

And nitrogen deficiency was also to blame for the "firing" or drying up of the lower leaves of corn in many other midwestern fields, Dr. Pierre asserted.

"Nitrogen is the plant food element that gives crops their normal, dark-green color and their fresh appearance," he declared. "Without enough nitrogen, plants become pale green and spindly. In corn when nitrogen hunger develops about midsummer, the older or lower leaves of the plant turn yellow near the midrib and may gradually die.

"Farmers sometimes mistake nitrogen-hunger signs in corn for drouth injury. Where small grains and grasses are concerned, a lack of nitrogen not only results in pale-green color but later maturity and lower yields.

"One of the other serious effects of nitrogen deficiency is a low protein content in crops, for proteins cannot be formed without nitrogen. This has an adverse effect in meat and dairy cattle raising, for low protein crops have a low feeding value."

Dr. Pierre pointed out that there are three ways in which nitrogen can be added to the soils so that crop needs can be met. One is through the growth of legumes, another is through the use of manures and crop residues and the third is through the use of fertilizers containing nitrogen.

Humidity for Storage Apples Is Important

The successful storage of apples depends on the ability of the individual to read the danger signs. When apples show signs of wilting or shriveling, it is an indication that the surrounding atmosphere or humidity is low, according to Purdue university. The dry air is absorbing the moisture from the produce, thus the apple shrinks.

Sprouting and rotting results from warm and moist temperatures and lack of proper ventilation. Containers should be open and kept off the floor and away from the wall. Apples should be stored at 34 to 38 degrees and 75 to 80 per cent humidity. Ventilation, sound produce, proper temperature and humidity are essential.

New in Machinery
Hole Digger

Jeep serves as post hole digger.

The new improved Jeep, adapted for peacetime work, combines the four basic functions of tractor, light truck, mobile power unit and passenger conveyance.

Among the many and various farm applications is its use as a post-hole digger as shown in illustration above.

Aluminum on Farms

Aluminum paint, which because of its high radial heat reflectivity gives dual service as a long wearing surface preserver and a temperature reducer, has long been used widely on farm property. Among the newer developments are portable aluminum chicken coops, non-rusting aluminum fencing and screen wire.

For the dairy, such aluminum items as milk pails, separator parts, waterers, milk vats, ice trays and milk tanks are now being made.

Household Hints

Lamb chops taste better if they are dipped in lemon juice before broiling.

Mattresses should be turned from top to bottom one week and side to side the next to prevent sagging.

For boring small holes in plate glass or ordinary window pane, a triangular saw file makes a good drill. Apply the file with light pressure and dip in water from time to time.

Never starch linens that are to be stored, since starch tends to make the fabric crack. Wrap in blue paper to prevent yellowing.

Keep a pair of clean gloves near your supply of hosiery during the winter, and don them before putting on hose. It will save many snags caused from hands that are roughened by cold weather.

Take your outmoded gauntlet or your elaborately trimmed glove and cut it down to a wrist-length shorty—this season's favorite.

Windows will gleam if washed with water containing a little witch hazel.

Squeaky floors can be made noiseless by sifting talcum powder between the boards.

Benefits to Our Readers

THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. It benefits employees, because the advertiser must be more fair and just than the employer who has no obligation to the public. These benefits of advertising are quite apart from the obvious benefits which advertising confers—the lower prices, the higher quality, the better service that go with advertised goods and firms.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

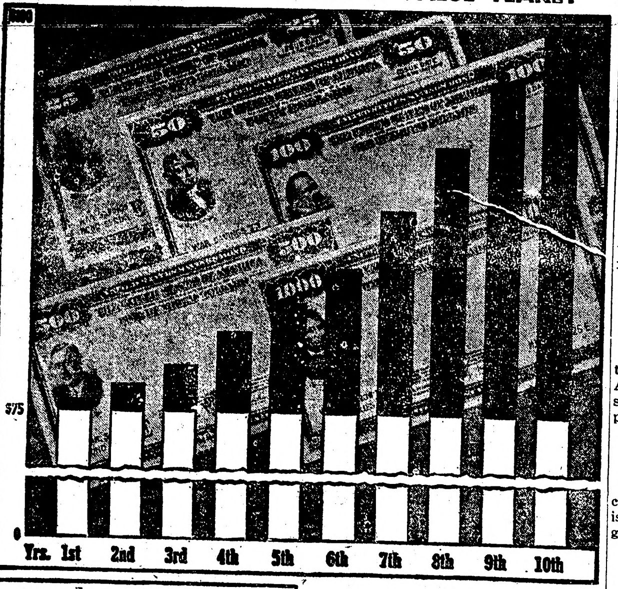
HOW WAR BONDS GROW IN VALUE YEARLY



Yrs.	Increase In Value	Total Value	% of Worth the Yr. Before
1	$ 5.00	$ 755	.67%
2	10.00	765	1.32
3	15.00	.780	1.96
4	20.00	800	2.56
5	20.00	820	2.50
6	20.00	840	2.44
7	40.00	880	4.76
8	40.00	920	4.55
9	40.00	960	4.35
10	40.00	1,000	4.17

IT'S SURPRISING—how War Bonds grow in value each year. If held until maturity they earn 33⅓ per cent and they have a yearly added value. The chart tells its own story for a $100 series E Bond. The scale to the left shows how a $1,000 Series E Bond grows. The chart shows that the increase in value is greatest in the later years of the bond's life. Note how the rate of interest goes up in the second three years of the bond's life. Study the increase in the $1,000 bond. Holders of bonds the last few years, considering the above, would literally be throwing money away to cash them prior to maturity. The New York Stock Exchange in the more than 150 years of its existence has never recommended other bonds than those of the United States.

Rail Quiz

Consideration by Congress of a bill to repeal the Land Grant Act has prompted many to ask, "What is a land grant railway?"

In 1850-1871 the federal government ceded about 130,000,000 acres of land to railways — to encourage construction in undeveloped territory, attract settlers, increase taxable wealth, and enhance the value of and promote sale of government-owned land remote from markets. A land grant railway is one which received such grants. This aid was given to less than 10 per cent of the nation's present rail mileage.

Present law requires transportation by land grant railways of federal military personnel and property at one-half the rates available to commercial shippers. Non-land grant railways by agreement with the government meet these reduced rates.

One result is a commercially disruptive rate situation affecting suppliers of military goods. The lower land grant rates favor the firm so located that land grant rates apply to its shipments and against a competing concern so located that land grant rates do not apply, thus requiring payment of higher established commercial rates.

Original value of the granted land has, in the intervening years, been repaid to the government many times over through land grant rates.

Great Northern is not a land grant railway but meets the land grant rates of other lines in its territory. Only such grants ever acquired by Great Northern on its entire system embraced some Minnesota lands belonging to predecessor companies Great Northern later purchased.

BLAZING THE TRAIL with LAND O'LAKES
LAND O LAKES
PIONEERS FOR 25 YEARS

POOL SHIPPING OF BUTTER

Saves Local Creameries Thousands of Dollars

1921 Minnesota Cooperative Creameries Association, later to be called Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., started pool shipping of butter to eastern markets. Previously each local creamery had been incurring needless costs by shipping butter in less than carload lots.

Before the end of the first year, member creameries reported substantial economies. One creamery saved $1,163 on shipments of 181,000 pounds of butter in a six-week period.

Freight savings in the first year exceeded $215,000 . . . on a volume of butter insignificant when compared to 1945.

Thus in its first year Land O'Lakes began its trail-blazing, marking a path that later was followed by many other butter marketing organizations.

It is because of its pioneering in many fields that Land O'Lakes has benefited dairy farmers and continues to lead in the field of securing top returns for dairy products. Why not investigate?

Research

A salesman representing a firm of efficiency experts managed, several years ago, to gain admission to the office of a small manufacturer, one who employed fewer than 200 people. The solicitor made a sale. He induced his prospect to hire the services of the system fixers who, he promised, would show the owner how to save a great deal more of his factory's annual earnings.

After contracting for this rather high-priced advice, the owner of the business was impatient for results. He could hardly wait for the first "expert" to come and prune out needless expenses. Less work and more profit on the same volume always seems attractive. Finally came a polished man of 40 wearing spectacles with conspicuous rims on a chisel-shaped nose.

He Liked Action

The owner of the plant and his hired adviser walked solemnly together through offices and shops. They were returning to the main office when the expert's eye fell upon an idle man—an old man, sitting at a desk looking out a window. As soon as they were out of ear-shot, the expert exclaimed: "That old fuddy-duddy is a net loss. Discharge him! He is just sitting there dreaming."

"Do you suppose he is dreaming?" inquired the owner of the factory. "Day-dreaming, to be sure," replied the expert. "Well, that's just fine," said the owner. "Now we won't be needing your help. Every so often that old chap has a daydream, and the cheapest one he ever had brought this firm half a million dollars of new business. Don't disturb him as you go out."

Ideas Have Life

Creative work has its peculiarities. It takes place inside people's heads, and superficial critics don't look that deep. First comes the germ of an idea; then careful analysis. Since no one person can know all about anything, research is necessary. Research is costly too, because it must be carried on by men who have special knowledge and special skills.

Inventions don't go into production direct from the dream stage. Manufacturing profits begin when multiplied copies of an invention start coming off the assembly line, but mass production permits no guesswork. The dream is necessary but numberless laboratory tests and exhaustive practical experiments must pave every invention's road to market. Many a good idea has died unworked for lack of research—too costly.

Increase the Yield

In America are many factories—geese able to lay golden eggs, such as employment, prosperity and progress. The fertile 14-carat gander in the flock is Research. Without this motivating influence industry may start its post-war program and pursue a well-charted course, efficiently amputating cost after cost until there's nothing left to cut off, but it's the road to ruin.

Not many weeks ago I read a scathing criticism of American business. In it the author hoisted a red flag in warning against capitalism. He pointed to hundreds of thousands of dollars spent annually in industrial research by a mere handful of wealthy corporations. I have only this to say: I hope they spent all he said and more, because the brightest spot in the outlook is research.

Early to bed'n early to rise—
Get ahead of the other guys.

Investiture Ceremony Held

In connection with the Brotherhood meeting at the Nazareth Lutheran Church Tuesday evening the local Boy Scout Troop was given its charter and the committee and scoutmaster duly took over their duties. The meeting was opened with the newly elected president of the brotherhood, Mr. Walter Larson in charge. After the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers" the visiting Boy Scouts from troops 59 and 60 of Thief River Falls and the local troop marched in with the American Flag after whioh Mr. Larson gave a few words of welcome. Mr. Fricker then responded in behalf of the Scout Committee and presented the members of the committee namely: L. M. Larson, Sam Lorentson, John Ness, Harry Engen Alf Movick and Pastor Urness.

Pastor Urness led the invocation and the following from Thief River Falls Dr. Keisle, Russel E. Olson and Ed Haug took charge of the investiture including the induotion of the committee and scoutmaster Hartley Peterson. Mr. Peterson led the candle light ceremony in which each local scout lit a candle and then recited one of the scout laws. The charter was then presented by Mr. Fricker, scout committe chairman. The meeting closed with a few appropriate remarks by Pastor Urness and short closing prayer.

Lunch was served by Marvin Sandberg and Fredrick Voth.

John Myran of Ogema, Sask., Canada came here to visit with relatives and friends. He is a brother of Mrs. John Sorum. He had not been here for 33 years and remarked he could see a lot of changes. When he was a boy he stayed a lot at the John Sorum home on their homestead east of Holt. He said that was only 55 years ago. He took a homestead in Canada 40 years ago and still runs the farm.

About 35 relatives and friends gathered at home of Mr. and Mrs Ray Sagstuen last Thursday evening to help Mrs. Sagstuen celebrate her birthday.

Milk Plant Opens Monday

The new whole milk plant at the Farmers Cooperative Creamery here will open for business next Monday, January 14. The creamery is considering a plan to sell their butterfat in cream to Land O' Lakes, Inc., according to Walter Lasson, manager. Selling the butterfat on this basis would mean about three to four cents more per pound to the producer, Mr. Larson states.

Under the proposed plan only enough butter would be churned for local consumption and the balance of the cream sold as 40 per cent butterfat. But this cream must come in here to the creamery in whole milk and be separated at the creamery in order to be in a uniform state, pasteurized and cooled before it can be shipped. This cream will be sold to Land O' Lakes and will be transported to Thief River Falls from where it will go to Minneapolis in carload lots. Most of this cream will then be shipped to southern states as the restrictions on dairy products in eastern states does not qualify it for marketing there. At Minneapolis it will be packed in large cans and frozen before reshipped south in refrigerated cars whith the cans being entirely covered with tons of crushed ice. The reason for this method of marketing butterfat is that there is no ceiling price on cream as there is on butter. The difference in the price for butterfat to the producer in whole milk sold this was as compared to that separated at home and sold in cream to the creamery should be encouraging and, the farmers should all be willing to go in on the proposition.

The local creamery had installed last summer a new and complete set of the best type of machinery for this whole milk separation business and will sell the skimed milk to the large new milk drying plant at Roseau. This huge plant constructed there during the past summer opened up for business late in 1945.

Louis and Raymond Sagstuen aud Walter Moberg attended to business at Fargo yesterday.

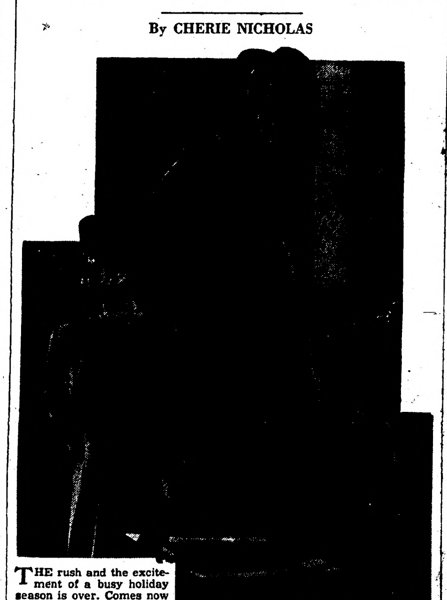
Easy-to-Make Gowns Are Styled For Smart Wear in Midseason

By CHERIE NICHOLAS



THE rush and the excitement of a busy holiday season is over. Comes now the quiet after a storm when women will have opportunity to take inventory of their wardrobes. It's time to see what's needed in way of one or more smart new gowns that will accent the midseason style program with outstanding chic and charm.

If you find you need something you'll find that it will be thrifty and bring you no-end satisfaction to make your own between-season dresses. Maybe you are an expert at sewing. However, if you are an ambitious beginner you will get along fine by just taking your sewing problems to your local sewing center. You will be surprised and delighted at the wonderful facilities and helpful instruction you will receive in the art. In a few lessons your eye will be trained to fine points of cut, fit and finish, also to keen discernment in matter of selecting patterns and fabric. It's nothing less than fascinating to learn of the wonders that the modern sewing machine performs in way of short cuts to smart dressmaker tricks through almost miracle-working attachments.

Any one of the modish gowns pictured will inject new "pep" into your midseason wardrobe. And what a grand and glorious feeling it will give you to have made it yourself! In choosing your patterns keep in mind as a guiding star that soft styling and easy silhouettes strike high-fashion keynote for smartest midwinter clothes. Keep in mind, too, that no styling detail is of greater importance than are sleeves. In fact, it might well be said that a dress or a blouse or a coat is no smarter than its sleeves. It's the deep armhole sleeves that are creating the big sensation this season, especially the new wedged sleeves, such as style the gowns pictures.

Classic and new details are combined in the wedged sleeve frock of beige gabardine as shown centered in the trio. This stunning model takes its "casual" cue from such tailored accessories as its wide leather belt, shoulder-strap bag and square-brimmed sailor. This is a type of basic dress that can lead a double life just by deft accessory changes. Hip-slurring, curved slot pockets and high-riding inverted center front pleat are good fashion aids to stress below-hip flattery.

For truly dramatic accessory changes the model shown to the left presents an unbeatable basic dress that's collarless. Its wedged sleeves of contrasting color fan out in simple mandarin lines, and its minimized waistline is accented by a shapely curving stitched belt of self fabric. The skirt front interest is heightened by inverted pleats that are stitched down to well below the waistline.

Another midseason sure success project is a two-piece wedge-sleeve dress that dramatizes the new rounded look in easy-to-wear lines, after the manner of the smart model pictured to the right. Rapsberry spun rayon is used for the bow-tied blouse, and black rayon for its curved waistband and full-gathered skirt. The rounded raglan shoulders are contrived to form a diagonal bodice yoke that wings out into deep armhole sleeves. With the aid of dolman shoulder pads such as are featured at local sewing centers, in a variety of colors and sizes for dresses, coats and suits one can more easily achieve perfected rounded shoulder and deep armhole lines.

Among other style details played up in last-minute midwinter fashions, the idea of drawstring belts makes wide appeal, for you are assured of a perfect fit, in that the waistline may be adjusted to any size.

Felt Suit Hat

This dashing felt hat in beige is perfect to wear with your tailored clothes, especially with the suit you are wearing under your fur coat during the cold midwinter months. Later on it will top your unfurred cloth coat or your classic wool frock with infinite chic. The high crown has interesting detail in its soft draped manipulation. The two handsome quills in natural tones are placed at exactly right angle to flatter.

All Plastic Sandals Latest in Footwear

An up-to-date version of Cinderella's slippers has been designed and they surely will enchant the modern Prince Charming. These intriguing and novel sandals are of crystal-clear lucite, and they are here for party-goers as well as for women who like to relax luxuriously at home. This amazing new footwear comes with colorful ribbon lacings, run through slots to form criss-crossings and ankle ties. Square-toed soles are cut in a single piece. The firmly fastened hollow heel is 2½ inches high. Colors are also available, including translucent black, red, green and blue. Ribbons range from multi-color stripes to solid colors in royal blue, green, red, gold, black or white. In addition to its beauty, the plastic has the practical value of being lightweight and virtually unbreakable.

High Colors Competing With Subtle Neutrals

You will see high color in the new wool jerseys, which are being neatly tailored in resort toppers and suits, which of course assures their style prestige in the spring fashion picture. Vivid coral is on the new color list, and tangerine, royal blue and a lovely cornflower blue as well as chalk blue, also striking green tones and startling new reds and bright copper shades. Just as important, however, are the subtle neutrals stressing soft grays and light beige, such as putty or string beige.

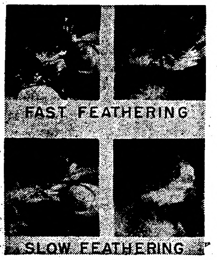
Fast Feathering Is Desirable in Poultry

Superior Broilers Are Rapid Developers

Early development of feathers by a chicken is a good indication that it will make a well-feathered and otherwise desirable broiler or fryer. This is the conclusion reached by research workers of the U. S. department of agriculture, after three years of scientific studies.

Prospects for superior market quality are still better if the chicken gains weight rapidly between the ages of 3 and 6 weeks and has a fairly broad breast at the end of that period.

These characteristics were found to be inherited. A poultryman, therefore, can improve his breeding stock, for the production of broilers and fryers, by selecting those chickens that feather and develop rapidly during the first few weeks of life. Differences among birds are not so readily apparent at a later date.



Selection for fast feathering can readily be made when the chicks are about a day old by noting those that have the longest feather sheaths or partially developed quills.

Agriculture In the News

Cranberries

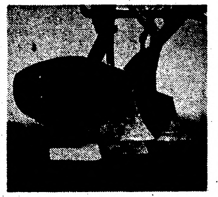
Originally called craneberries, cranberries were found growing wild in the marshes by the Pilgrims in 1620. Containing 13 important minerals and vitamins they are highly prized as a food article.

During late years they found their place in the industrial field. Cranberry wax added to other waxes will raise the melting point of those waxes.

Cranberries

Ursolic acid from the wax of cranberry skins has important therapeutic applications. The oil from the seeds is used in shampoos. Cranberry meal has become valued as a filler for plastics.

Improved Machinery New Plow



New type plow adjustable for deep plowing will find many uses.

A new plow designed by Oliver corporation, Chicago, has additional bases set a few inches below and behind, as well as to one side of the upper bases. The latter are adjusted to normal depth for conventional plowing, while the lower bases, by widening and deepening the cut, crumble the plowpan, or hard undersoil, hitherto left untouched, mixing it slightly with the lower portion of the top soil.

New Poultry Disease

A new disease, known as "Newcastle disease," is said to be prevalent in many parts of the world, causing severe losses in poultry. It has made its appearance in the United States. Veterinary association authorities say that the symptoms include sudden deaths, droopy appearance, ruffled feathers, coughing and sneezing, and sometimes nervous disorders such as curled toes or wing paralysis. So far death loss in the U. S. has been low.

Mass Collision

The greatest mass collision of ships in history occurred off Newfoundland on May 27, 1945, says Collier's. A westbound convoy of 76 Allied vessels was steaming slowly through a dense fog when one of them struck an iceberg, discovered eight others near by and gave the alarm. Instantly, the entire convoy swerved sharply with the result that 22 of the ships collided with one another in the following 10 minutes. Yet none sank and no lives were lost.

Incidentally, it happened on the last day vessels were required to sail the Atlantic in convoy.

To Get Better Cough Syrup, Mix It at Home
So Easy! No Cooking. Real Saving.
To get quick relief from coughs due to colds, you should make sure by mixing your own cough syrup at home. It's no trouble at all, and you know it's pure and good. It needs no cooking, and it's so easy to make that a child could do it.
From your druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add enough plain syrup to fill up the pint. To make syrup, stir two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired. The full pint thus made should last a family a long time, and gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.
And for quick results, you've never seen its superior. It seems to take hold instantly, loosening the phlegm, soothing the irritated membranes, and helping to clear the air passages.
Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.—Adv.

Rail Quiz

When did the first through railway train cross the American continent?

The first railway train ever operated from the Atlantic to the Pacific was the Trans-Continental Excursion sponsored by the Boston Board of Trade in May, 1870, one year after the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroads were opened. The trip from Boston to San Francisco consumed eight days, and was made in Pullman "hotel cars," then the newest thing in railroading. A daily newspaper, the "Trans-Continental," was published en route.

PLANT FOOD MAKERS HELP FARMERS MEET BIG '45 CROP GOALS

CHICAGO—Every American farm acre will have to do a bigger crop producing job in 194., if world needs for food, fiber and oils are to be met, according to a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"More millions of people throughout the world will depend upon the products of American soil this year than ever before," the statement points out.

"Proper use of fertilizers will contribute more to getting this production than anything else the farmer can do.

"The War Food Administration estimates that 20 to 23 per cent of the total crop production in 1944 was due to the use of fertilizer. It would take 50 million acres of land to enable the United States to produce the extra amounts of food that have been added to our national output by the use of plant food.

"In meeting the enormous wartime demands for plant food, the fertilizer industry has established a remarkable record. No other industry—aircraft, shipbuilding or agriculture itself—has worked harder to deliver the goods in the right quantity and on time. In the face of labor shortages, transportation difficulties and some scarcities of materials, the fertilizer industry has worked day and night to produce the sorely needed plant food for farmers.

"Farmers who themselves have been hampered by shortages of help and equipment can appreciate the problems manufacturers have faced in trying to overcome their difficulties and produce the much-needed plant food.

"In actual tonnage, most producers have been turning out more fertilizer than ever before in history. They have demonstrated by their wartime contribution, that they are ready to meet the conditions which peacetime agriculture will bring. A great soil rebuilding job lies ahead, to replace fertility used up to meet the unprecedented wartime demands for foods, fats and fibers. The fertilizer industry is prepared to do its part in providing all the plant food required for this vast postwar improvement and replenishment job."

Entrance—Union Stockyards, Chicago

Since 1865 American stockraisers have been taking their animals to the Union Stockyards at Chicago, maintaining an institution that helped to make America great.

In Hitler's Europe the farmers are producing too, but their product goes to Nazi Germany to feed the soldiers who are shooting thousands of prisoners who object to this form of tyranny.

AS AMERICAN as Wheatcakes

You may call them wheat cakes or flapjacks, pancakes or griddle cakes but . . . North, South, East or West . . . the same good dish is eaten with relish by every American. For Americans like to eat and drink as they like to live . . . with hearty and wholesome enjoyment. That's why . . . at neighborhood taverns, at home, at the club or on streamlined trains . . . you'll so often hear the welcome words, "How about a glass of beer?"

To every American . . . banker, truck driver, farmer, mechanic, office worker . . . a glass of beer writes a pleasant period to any hard day's work. HOW WAR BONDS GROW IN VALUE YEARLY

Yrs.	Increase In Value	Total Value	% of Worth the Yr. Before
1	$ 5.00	$ 755	.67%
2	10.00	765	1.32
3	15.00	780	1.96
4	20.00	800	2.56
5	20.00	820	2.50
6	20.00	840	2.44
7	40.00	880	4.76
8	40.00	920	4.55
9	40.00	960	4.35
10	40.00	1,000	4.17

IT'S SURPRISING—how War Bonds grow in value each year. If held until maturity they earn 33⅓ per cent and they have a yearly added value. The chart tells its own story for a $100 series E Bond. The scale to the left shows how a $1,000 Series E Bond grows. The chart shows that the increase in value is greatest in the later years of the bond's life. Note how the rate of interest goes up in the second three years of the bond's life. Study the increase in the $1,000 bond. Holders of bonds the last few years, considering the above, would literally be throwing money away to cash them prior to maturity. The New York Stock Exchange in the more than 150 years of its existence has never recommended other bonds than those of the United States.

Many Sign Up Here For R. E. A. On Tuesday

Several farmers met here on Tuesday and signed up for the REA. Paul Englestad of Thief River Falls was here to assist with the signing up and making out farm location for the lines. This electric power line is going to be built this coming summer and when that is done the farmers have another large scale project in mind that they want to get going in the community—a large and complete telephone system. It may be that they will have one of the major companies come in here and set up a new and modern telephone system and telephone building in Holt.

Leslie E. Grange of Warren, commissioner from the first district, was elected chairman of the Marshall County Board of Commissioners at the opening of the annual session at Warren last week.

Named as vice-chairman of the board was John Rapacz. Argyle, commissioner from the third district.

The board devoted much of its time to routine checking of balances in the county treasurer's office and to the selecting of jury lists from which the jurors for the spring term of court will be drawn.

At the session the Warren Sheaf was designated as the official newspaper for county publications during 1946. The financial statement, proceedings, and delinquent tax list and other official publications and notices willbe published in the Sheaf. The Stephen Messenger was designated as the newpaper in which the second publication of the financial statement will be published. Certain publications will also be circulated in all news. papers published within the county. Legal rates will be charged for the publications.

Chairman Grange also announced the following committee appointments:

Building—Grange, Rapacz and Roy Edman.

Health—Edman, Rapacz and Dr. C. H. Holmstrom.

Stationery and Printing—John A. S. Hoff and V. F. Kruta.

Ditches—Kruta, Edman and Hoff.

Roads—Rapacz, Edman and Kruta.

Bridges—Edman and Kruta.

Rail Quiz

Why was 4 feet 8½ inches adopted as the standard gauge?

Ancient Roman chariots were built with a clearance of about 4 feet 8½ inches between the wheels. This was the width between wheels of the early European coaches and carts. Early English tramways, operated with horse power, were built to accommodate cars of this width, and the first English locomotives were built of this gauge. Some of the first railroads in the United States imported locomotives from England, and these locomotives were of the English gauge. The track was made to fit the English locomotives. Of 487 railroads in the United States in 1871, 307 were of the English gauge and it was adopted as standard to enable free interchange of freight and passenger equipment.

Oil and Mold

Apostles of government ownership of business agree sometimes that private management can do better with little things. When it comes to filling prescriptions, mending shoes or making clothespins, they admit, private operators may be more efficient. Not so with the big stuff, they argue; coal, iron, oil, railroads are different. These just beg for bureaucratic bossing.

Of course big industries are more interesting to politicians because they employ large numbers of people and affect the daily lives of millions more. The fact remains however, that government can and does make mistakes in the operation of big industries. Moreover, appropriate encouragement from government in relatively small enterprises has been known to result in much good.

Significant Decisions

Since government enterprises tend ultimately to become monopolistic, mistakes in them can be far more fateful than private blunders. Our government made two important decisions in 1942 which illustrate the case perfectly. One, to take a speculative flyer in Arctic oil, has cost American taxpayers 300 million "good-bye" dollars already. The other decision had to do with penicillin.

Penicillin is a drug, a mold extract that most people know less about than they do about gasoline. Some perfectly astounding cures are being worked with it, including cure of meningitis. It was discovered by an English scientist, Sir Alexander Fleming, in 1929 but production was tedious, slow and costly and consequently few sufferers were helped by it for 13 years.

In Mass Production

By 1942, our first war year, some American capitalists had taken a hand with marked success. The product was costing $20 a bottle then, and the average patient required three bottles. Government authorities realized that war would create a need for it so they guaranteed a large market and provided capital for mass production. History will record the splendid results.

With the government's big purchase of this successful item, volume production started. Now there are 20 factories. The largest cost more than 3½ million dollars but penicillin is costing less than $1 a bottle, $3 per treatment. Many lives have been saved and more will be. Mankind will be healthier and happier. Government encouragement of this business proved wise and beneficial.

Smell of the Yukon

How different was the Canol oil venture. The Army drilled wells on the Mackenzie river, built a 27-million-dollar refinery at White Horse and tied into Fairbanks, Alaska, with 1,000 miles of pipeline. Nothing was gained. Gasoline from the white elephant plant at White Horse costs 26c a gallon. Oil companies can ship a better product there from the states for 18c. The venture has been abandoned.

The Canol experiment failed. Very apparent obstacles made the operation too costly. Known sources of supply are better and 300 million dollars of taxpayers' money is gone. Government's support of one beneficial drug can't justify its management of big business. What official, spending public money, is cautious and thorough like a private investor with his own money? Never has government management achieved the efficiency of American private management.

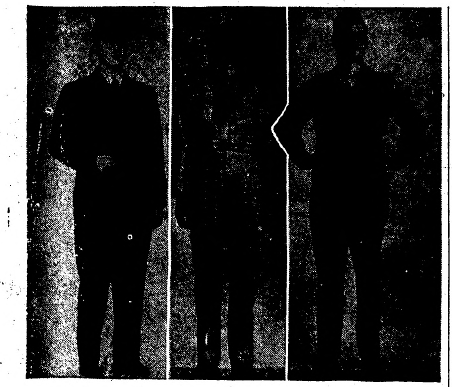
"COME IN, THE WATER'S FINE" . . . Hardy members of the Polar Bear club took their annual first of the year dip in the icy water of Lake Michigan at Milwaukee and agreed that the water was fine. But they failed to convince the spectators on the snow-capped shore. The temperature was 16 degrees above.

ARTIFICIAL HELPING LIMBS PUT TO WORK . . . Of course the artificial hand worn by this veteran (left), Lawrence Dilworth, is not to be compared with the one he lost. But he can use tools with it. Vincent Yannone, right, also knew the horror inspired by the word "disability." He now wonders why he ever let it scare him. He has pulled up his trousers to show his artificial leg. Both vets are among a group now employed in a North Bergen, N. J., manufacturing plant. These men now spell "disability"—a-b-i-l-i-t-y.



GOBS DON NEW UNIFORMS . . . Bell bottom trousers, suit of navy blue, the traditional uniform worn by sea-faring men since the 14th century, are soon to fade into oblivion. Left to right; blue, white and gray, with shirts to match. The blue and white are dress uniforms, while the gray is primarily the working uniform. White trousers may be won with the blue battle jacket in warm weather. The sailors will keep their "pea coat." The new uniforms will be given a three-months test.

HERE COMES THE BRIDE . . . Hushed whispers, accompanied by varied expressions, came from onlookers when they glimpsed the bride, Mollie Wyndham-Quin and her groom, Hon. Robert Cecil, after ceremony at Westminster abbey.

KYLE MILKS ON BROADWAY . . . Miss San Antonio, the milkmaid, is Kyle MacDonnell. She demonstrates how New York looked at Times Square when it was farmland, by milking a cow in the "hub of the world." The photo was taken in front of a New York theatre during the opening of a movie built around San Antonio, Texas. Miss MacDonnell admits that she would rather use a milking machine, but decided to humor natives of New York City and demonstrate the old hand method.

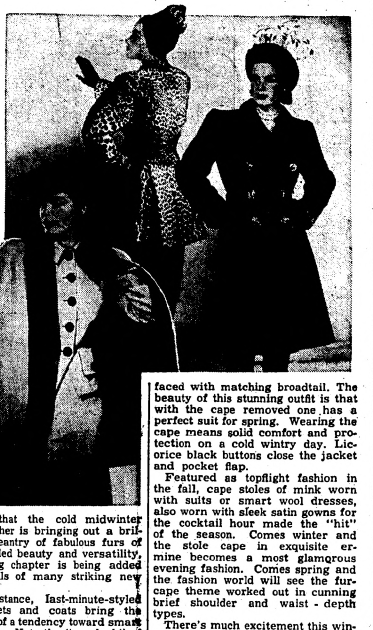
Midwinter Fur Modes Register Strikingly Novel Style Trends

By CHERIE NICHOLAS



NOW that the cold midwinter weather is bringing out a brilliant pageantry of fabulous furs of unparalleled beauty and versatility, a thrilling chapter is being added which tells of many striking new trends.

For instance, last-minute-styled fur jackets and coats bring the message of a tendency toward smart fitted lines. Note the "new look" of the leopard jacket achieved by its snug fit through the torso. These fitted lines make news, big news! Its flaring longer-in-back-peplum also interprets a definitely new trend. The notched collar and rounded revers are important style details. The full easy sleeves fit close at the wrist above a flare cuff.

The distinguished-looking Alaska seal model to the right is made like a fitted officer's coat. It has the characteristic lapels, collar and belt at the back to hold in fullness. The silver buttons that adorn this handsome coat bear a significant message. The unusual styling of this coat, also the leopard jacket goes to show that new and thrilling things are being done in furcraft design this season.

Black broadtail plays an important role in the distinguished looking three-piece costume shown to the left. This very elegant ensemble is tailored of soft wool in the lovely white wine tone that we hear about so much these days. The big news is its three-quarter length cape, which is lined throughout with black American broadtail. The brim of the tip-tilted Breton sailor is also faced with matching broadtail. The beauty of this stunning outfit is that with the cape removed one has a perfect suit for spring. Wearing the cape means solid comfort and protection on a cold wintry day. Licorice black buttons close the jacket and pocket flap.

Featured as topflight fashion in the fall, cape stoles of mink worn with suits or smart wool dresses, also worn with sleek satin gowns for the cocktail hour made the "hit" of the season. Comes winter and the stole cape in exquisite ermine becomes a most glamorous evening fashion. Comes spring and the fashion world will see the fur-cape theme worked out in cunning brief shoulder and waist - depth types.

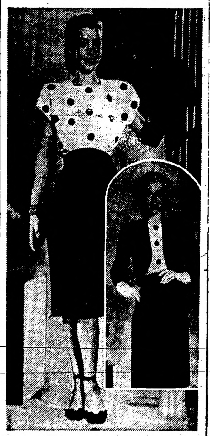
There's much excitement this winter over the fascinating "little" furs which are playing a most glamorous role in the evening mode, as well as being the smartest ever worn with the unfurred suit or coat. It is in such items as hat and bag ensembles, neckpieces, headbands and belts to match, wide detachable cuffs that form a muff and countless other fantasies that furcraft goes to a new high in artistry and ingenious design.

While fur jackets and capes for spring will include many types, the newest of the new will trend to very brief effects, some in cunning bolero styles. The bell hop jacket in lightweight gray furs is youthful and smart as can be.

Outstanding in the present grand and glorious panorama of winter fur fashions are chic hats carried out in every mood, from simplest little berets and turbans to most dramatic types, some with skyscraper crowns, others with wide brims. However, it is the jewel-embroidered fur hats that are creating the big sensation. With their color and sparkle they are not only most flattering to the wearer but they add a gay and bright note to the midwinter costume itself.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Plays Dual Role



Here's a magic costume that one moment appears as a charming short length dinner dress and the next moment, with the jacket, it becomes a perfect cocktail suit. It's the little jacket that does the trick. When the jacket is worn several of the large polka dots of green sequins on the white blouse line up as buttons (see inset). A costume like this designed for many-purpose wear is the type best dressed women select to carry through midseason into spring. Advance news coming in heralds the importance of boleros and other brief jackets for spring.

Buttons Again Take Fashion Spotlight

Resort and advance spring fashions bring the message of buttons, buttons and more buttons, used not only in a functional way but in a unique and decorative manner as well. One of the style tricks that buttons perform is that of going single file around deep armholes where the sleeves are seamed into the dress. Newer yet is the wide wing sleeve that buttons on instead of being seamed on. In this way the sleeves can be removed, leaving the buttons which thus become purely ornamental on a jumper-like dress. Another unique stunt is that of outlining pockets, yokes, brief shoulder capes, necklines and so on, with buttons. For sports fashions and casuals the buttons are that simple they add a tailored look to the garment. This is true also of the large plastic buttons that dramatize so many of the new spring toppers. However, on the dressier modes jewel-like buttons and the new plastic flower buttons are scattered about in most designful and versatile ways.

Versatile Boleros Are Coming Out for Spring

Designers are that enthusiastic over boleros in the new spring mode they are making a feature of them, both in bolero suits and dresses and as separates to wear with this skirt and that. The new boleros are very versatile including very interesting novelties. One noted style creator favors bright colors such as peacock blue or geranium pink for boleros that team with skirt and blouse in charming color-contrast schemes. And then there is the bolero in bust-length, which often is richly gold-embroidered, and the very new-looking bolero with balloon or lantern sleeves. Bolero suits for town wear are smartly tailored in navy or the chic neutral grays and beige tones.

These delicious, new ALL-BRAN muffins made with chopped dates will have a big appeal for the "sweet toothers" in your family! They're so moist. And they're so tender—so good. That's because KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is milled extra-fine for golden softness.

2 cups Kellogg's ALL-BRAN
½ cup molasses
1½ cups milk
1 egg
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped dates

Add KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN to molasses and milk and allow to soak for 15 minutes. Beat egg and add to first mixture. Add sifted dry ingredients and fruit. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 15 light, luscious muffins.

Good Nutrition, too!
ALL-BRAN is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat—contains a concentration of the protective food elements found in the whole grain. One-half cup provides over ⅓ your daily minimum need for iron. Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily!

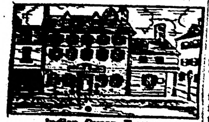
"Indian Queen," Philadelphia Inn, Center For Revolutionary Leaders

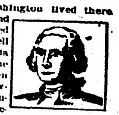


Indian Queen Tavern

ON June 26, 1776, the members of Pennsylvania's important Committee of Safety left Carpenters' Hall in Philadelphia to celebrate the adjournment of a seven-day conference with a dinner at Indian Queen Tavern. Increasing the militia strength was one of the principal points discussed.

The air was charged with expectancy of an early Declaration of Independence, and the toast responded to by all of the Committeemen, including Benjamin Franklin and Dr. Benjamin Rush, famed physician, was "to the free and independent States of America."

Indian Queen Tavern, which has since given way to a business building, was for years a rival of the City Tavern as Philadelphia's most important meeting place of Revolutionary times. During the occupation of Philadelphia, it served as headquarters of British General William Howe.



Washington

George Washington lived there for a time and it is chronicled that his farewell to Philadelphia was made at the Indian Queen Tavern following the inauguration of his successor, John Adams, as President, on March 4, 1797.

Robert Morris, who helped finance the Revolution, and John Adams and Thomas Jefferson were other Indian Queen residents at various times.

Living Dull Without Lenses

Without lenses living would be very dull and knowledge would not be much higher than it was in the Dark ages, says the Better Vision institute. Without lenses there would be no camera, movies, microscopes, telescopes, or spectacles.

Cleaning Silver

Cotton flannel cloths are economical and very satisfactory for cleaning and polishing silver. Keep several on hand. Wash them often in hot soap suds.

Contraceptive Literature

The federal law of 1873 classified contraceptive literature and instruments with pornographic literature and obscene devices, and prohibited their importation and their transportation by mail or (in interstate commerce) by common carriers.

Crude Oil

The amount of crude oil available in this country is estimated for January 1, 1939, as 17,348,000,000 barrels, the highest in the history of the country.

CASH AWARD WON BY LOCAL TRAPPER

Skillful Handling of Weasel Pelt Earns Award for Oscar Berg in Sears 17th National Fur Show

* * *

Read How You, Too, May Win an Award as High as $1,000.00 Cash

Proving again that "better pelt handling pays," this local trapper got an extra $5.00 in cash—one of the Daily Awards in Sears 17th National Fur Show—and, besides, a chance to share in the big major awards!

What this trapper did, you too can do—whether or not you sell your furs through Sears Raw Fur Marketing Service. For Sears Fur Show offers, this season, a total of 942 cash awards, including the First Award of $1,000.00 for the best handled pelt of all.

942 Awards—$7,590 Cash

Yes, a total of 942 cash awards for fur shippers—942 opportunities to share in $7,590.00 in cash.

MAJOR CASH AWARDS: There are ten major cash awards, ranging from $50.00 to $1,000.00.

SECTIONAL CASH AWARDS: There are sectional awards, too—for complete shipments of five or more pelts—one award of $250.00; eleven of $50.00 each.

DAILY CASH AWARDS: Finally, there are 918 daily cash awards of $5.00 each, for pelts received during the Fur Show.

Pays You 3 Ways

First, every award is in addition to the cash Sears get you for your pelts.

Second, Sears can be depended on to obtain for you top prices.

Third, even if you don't win an award, careful handling enhances the value of your furs.

This third feature is the real reason for Sears 17th National Raw Fur Show with 942 Cash awards, totaling $7,590.00.

By encouraging careful pelt handling, Sears believe the annual value of America's raw furs can be increased by millions of dollars. And that the income of every trapper can be given a big boost.

"Miss 16th National" smiles as she exhibits some of the pelts shown during the judging at Sears 16th National Fur Show.

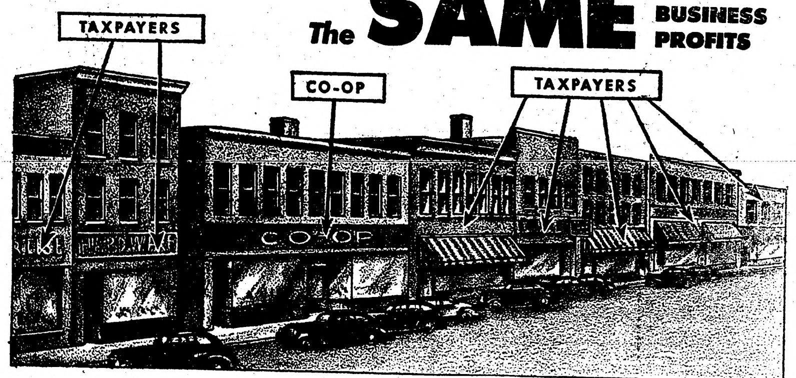
Get In—It's Easy

Every fur you ship to Sears, during the term of the Fur Show, is automatically considered for awards.

Moreover, only the handling of the pelts counts; not the kind of fur, not its value.

So this season, why not try for some big extra money? Remember, everybody has an equal chance. You have everything to gain—nothing to lose.

When your furs are ready, ship them to Sears, Roebuck and Co., Raw Fur Marketing Service at the nearest of these points: Chicago, Philadelphia, Memphis, Dallas, Kansas City or Seattle. Thousands of trappers have earned awards. YOU CAN, too!



The SAME TOWN BUSINESS PROFITS

. . . but NOT the same taxes!

Doesn't seem fair does it? Nevertheless, in many Minnesota towns, there are certain businesses, like others in most ways, but with one important difference. They pay no Federal Income Taxes on their earnings! Why can they retain what we have to pay?

Federal Income Taxes support the government. They pay for services which every business shares equally. Shouldn't every business then, contribute equally in the form of taxes?

Of course they should! Every fair-minded American will agree. Yet these favored businesses are now eagerly taking advantage of their special privilege to grow in number and size at an alarming rate . . . in many cases crowding out tax-paying firms.

What are these businesses? Well, there are those owned by the government, cooperatives, mutual organizations and others. During these last years when most businesses have been turning over a large share of their profits to the government, these organizations have gone merrily on their way, using their sizeable profits for their own purposes, to expand in every direction.

Of course, all the plants purchased and operated by such firms become tax exempt. And the taxes they used to pay are shifted to the shoulders of the rest of us . . . farmers, merchants and manufacturers.

The situation is so threatening and so obviously unfair, that we have formed the Minnesota Small Business Association in an effort to put all business on the same tax-paying basis.

If you want to know how this problem of tax inequality affects you, and what we intend to do about it, send a post card with your name and address to Wm. C. Blethen, Chairman, 230 South Front Street, Mankato, Minnesota.

New Drainage Board Appointed

Marhall county will not have a representetive on the board of directors of the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy District, appointed on January 10 by Judge Oscar R. Knutson of Warren at an adjourned hearing at Thief River Falls.

Because of dissension in various parts of Eastern Marshall county, the Marshall county board of commissioners did not submit a recommendation to the court at the hearing, and as a result, Judge Knutson selected the five-man board from the remaining five counties in the district.

Appointed were Earl Wagner of Gonvick, Clearwater county and Olaf E. Olstad, Grygla, Beltrami county for two year terms; William J. Kirkwood, Crookston, Polk county; Ole O. Melby, Oklee Red Lake county and John L. Radneiki, Trail, Pennington county, for terms of four years.

In a memorandum attached to the order of appointment, Judge Knutson stated:

"In appointing this Board of Directors, I have felt that I should be guided by the recommendations of the County Boards of the various counties included within the district. There are six counties mainly interested in the district. Under the law only five directors can be appointed. Obviously a director could not be appointed from each conuty involved. In all of the counties, excepting Marshall, the County Boards have made recommendations that have been of much assistance to me. In Marshall county considerable dissension exists between various parts of the county that are included in the district. As a result it seems the County Board has not felt it adviceable to make any recommendations. Members appointed on this board are not to represent the county from which they come. They are directors for the district and should at all times keep in mind the welfare of the entire district, not only the welfare of the county in which they live.

As the terms of the office of these directors expire it would seem only fair that successors be appointed from those counties which are now omitted if there is any advantage to be gained by having a director appointed from any particular county. If the directors acts for the benefit of the whole district, as he should, it should not make much differance what county they live in. If they attempt to act only as representatives of the county from which they come, they should not be reappointed in the future. It is to be hoped that the situation now existing in Marhall County will disappear by the time another appointment is made so that a recommendation can be forthcoming from the County Board".——Warren Sheaf.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Larson and family, Linda, Edna and Theo. Gusa, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gusa, Opal and Russell Sanoden were entertained at the M. Sandberg home last Wednesday evening.

Dorothy Hanson returned to Concordia College at Moorhead on Tuesday after spending the week end at her home here.

Produce

The family (not the state) is the social and economic unit in the United States. In this respect our country stands almost alone. France went collectivist in the autumn election. England went collectivist last August. Russia has been collectivist since shortly after World War I. Germany and Japan are no longer powers. America is the one powerful stronghold of liberty for the individual.

Old-world politicians glibly predict that Uncle Sam will be next to follow Russia's example, but they don't know America. Income per person here is twice that of any other country. Even before the recent war, industrial wages in America were twice as high as in England; four times as high as in Russia. Our national income was bigger than that of any six other countries —you pick 'em.

A Relative Matter

In its early stages, communism always is perfumed with a savor of freedom — freedom from something. Britain has more liberty than France today; France more than Russia. Even the Russians may feel better in a delirium of paternalism than butchered by repeated revolutions, but that's not saying much. A convalescent can be better than an invalid but still not be envied by a well man.

England used to have free, private enterprise but the government tinkered with it until it was no longer free. Taxes squeezed corporation profits until the owners could not keep their plants modern. As a result, volume could not grow and wages could not rise. The unhappy workers finally gave the nation a staggering swig of Russia's political vodka and elected a state-ownership parliament.

An Invalid Republic

France, the world's habitual battle ground since Caesar, had another problem. Her small business men and farmers (many of them, at least) preferred open competition but the country's capitalists were bankrupt by years of German occupation. To get going after the war, the French submitted to government, the only power with authority, to assemble the needed capital and set up credit to do business.

No such difficulties face the American people. Our factories are still financed, can yet keep modern. Our land has harbored no pirate army. This nation has little to fear but cheap labor; not here, of course, but abroad. Collectivism means cheap labor — wages uniform and low. Such countries can imitate American products, make them poorly and sell them cheaply right in America if we permit.

Forget the Tariff

This same set of facts has been presented by people plugging for a high protective tariff but that's only a crutch. The modern, 16-cylinder method for beating cheap-labor competition is to produce. Americas skilled workers using America's costly machinery can turn out any manufactured product, in better quality and at a lower cost than is possible in a cheap-labor setup.

There is a collectivist theory that manufacturers will make too much profit for the good of society unless their workers slow down production. It is not true. No friend of Labor will put any obstruction in the way of maximum production because it is the road over which men must march to better wages and higher living standards. It is also this nation's escape from collectivism which brings slavery.

Red River Valley Winter Shows

The Northwest School Farmers Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows, Crookston, will again operate in all departments February 4-8, 1946. After a curtailment of activities during war years, the Winter Shows Board of Managers is planning for a record show and meeting for the Victory year.

Day and evening meeting have been planned and speakers have been engaged. The sequence of events of Winter Shows week will follow the pattern of the pre-war years. Monday, February 4, the opening day, will be devoted to interstate livestock and crops judging contests for subcollegiate teams and district general and dairy judging contests for high schools. Tuesday, February 5, has been designated as Governor's Day with the Honorable Edward J. Thye, Governor of Minnesota, as the guest of the Winter Shows and sharing the evening speaking program with John Brandt, president of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., Minneapolis. Garden clubs of the district and crop men of the Red River Valley and 4-H clubs of the area will hold meetings on February 5. Women's meetings will be held on Feb. 6, 7 and 8, with programs on foods, health and clothing featuring the three days.

Livestock men will have judging of livestock classes Feb. 5 and 6 with their speaking program on Feb. 6. Livestock sales will feature the program for Feb. 7 and 8. Potato growers of the Red River Valley will meet on Feb. 7.

Congressman Walter Judd will be the evening speaker on Feb. 6, and a speaker will be secured to speak on peacetime uses of atomic energy for the last evening program scheduled for Feb. 7.

Speakers who are outstanding authorities in their fields have have been secured to speak on he programs during the week. A full program of music has also been arranged to augment the speaking program.

Cordurella Is an Ideal Fabric For School Wear These Cold Days

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

NOW that the holiday season is over, mother's thoughts turn to taking up the matter of household sewing to be done. First in mind is that little daughter needs school, play and party dresses which are both "comfy" and pretty-pretty at the same time. And she knows the finished garments will be just that, for she has decided to make them of cordurella, the soft modern pinwale version of the corduroy ever beloved by both mother and daughter.

It's evident that mother's initial shopping tour in the new year will lead straight to the fabric section where she will buy so many yards of cordurella in this color and so many in that. Then to the pattern counter to choose the latest in jumper, party and play clothes. Or perhaps mother will decide to buy the little garments ready-made. In either event the result will be just such cunning styles as are here pictured.

Designers of little folks fashions are using this year many of the details that distinguish college-girl and big-sister clothes, much to the delight of the youngsters. For example, the popular and practical jumper dress such as you see pictured herewith to the right has become as important a "success" fashion for little girls as it is with their elders. The jumper dress stands out preeminently as about the most practical style for youngsters that mothers could choose. The cordurella of which it is made is a favorite because of its style-with-stamina qualities. It's so easy to launder, too. Nice for balmy days with a cunning blouse, and worn with a sweater top in cold bleak weather it's a perfect answer to the "keep warm" problem. Buttons all the way down the front.

Typical of the gay trimmings that dress up classic styles is the shoulder-strap type centered in the group. It has bands of bright colored braid to set off the dark tone of the cordurella. A long-sleeved blouse which buttons inside the cuff for easy handling is just like mother's favorite mode. If a remnant of cordurella be left over in the same, or even a different color a wise move would be to stitch up a wee bolero to wear with this dress, which would multiply its usefulness.

A winsome dressy version is seen in the party dress of cordurella shown to the left. This little charmer is gaily trimmed with colorful embroidery on the tiny bodice. Crisp white ruching tucked into the square neckline is another reason why this dainty little frock will endear itself to the little girl who wears it.

Beloved among the party frocks shown in new collections, a favorite is a cute princess style with dainty lace collar and tiny puff sleeves. This model comes in heavenly pink or celestial blue cordurella, guaranteed to make any little beloved daughter look like an angel child. Deeper blues are used for the older sizes, such as delft blue, dark green and bright red.

A little pinafore with full skirt and jumper top with straps over the shoulders, something that mother can run up in a jiffy on the machine, will prove a very practical addition to a child's wardrobe. Then there's the smart little cardigan jacket or bolero suits that are so very attractive. You can make them or you can buy them.

In order to conserve the limited yardage available just now, cordurella is sometimes combined with other fabrics. The jodphur suit so smart for either brother or sister, is sometimes made up of gabardine for the pants topped with a cordurella jacket. Long overalls for tiny tots are of cordurella with jacket to match in Dutch blue styled with a front of gabardine.

More Scarf Strategy

This clever shoulderette is created from a very beautiful scarf. It is a large square with a huge cabbage rose on a background wallpaper print done in black and white. The focal point of interest in this lovely topper for dress-up occasions is the realistic rose. The shoulderette is achieved in a jiffy. Merely knot the ends of the square to form armholes and turn the border back for added sleeve and collar interests.

Wool Jersey Hoods To Keep You Cozy

Gay little flatterers are the charming hoods of wool jersey that are seen everywhere these wintry days. It seems that wool jersey has everything that goes to make up the perfect hood. It's a success from the "keep warm" standpoint, and the way designers are letting imagination have full sway in way of picturesque effects is something to admire. Although other materials are also used for the now-so-popular hoods, when it comes to actual count it's the hood of colorful wool jersey that outnumbers them all. It adds to "the picture" that many of these fanciful hoods are trimmed with glittering sequins. Very charming too is the jersey hood that is yarn-embroidered in gay flowers. It adds to their practicality that many of the jersey hoods have scarf ends to throw about neck and shoulders.

Simplicity Is Keynote of 1946 Graduation Dresses

Graduation dresses for the most part are very simple this season. White jersey, crepe and sheer white wools are leading fabrics. Two pretty dresses for mid-winter graduates include a short dress of winter-white rayon jersey. It has a low round neck and is styled with a wide corselet effect which accents the little waist. This style is also pretty in white wool jersey. The other dress is for the older graduate and is a bit more sophisticated. This model has a full floor-length skirt of stiffened net with a perfectly plain fitted bodice top with cap sleeves done in white satin.

POLITICAL APPEAL TO ALL PEOPLE EVERYWHERE

DURING THE EARLY SPRING of 1936 I was a frequent visitor at western headquarters of the Republican party in Chicago. Time after time I listened to discussions between party leaders as to the wording of planks in a proposed party platform. Those leaders, as are those of both parties, were intent on building a platform the planks of which could be interpreted to mean one thing to some people and something else to others.

After listening to those discussions I proposed a complete party platform to be expressed in seven words: "Maintain the American system of free enterprise."

It could mean only one thing, I was told. There was no opportunity to fit it to the vote getting needs among different sections, or to different classes. Such a definite policy could never produce the votes needed for success in a national election.

Some days later I proposed the same thing in Democratic headquarters in New York. It met with the disapproval of both the Jeffersonian and the New Deal elements of Democracy, and for much the same reasons as were given at Chicago.

The results achieved by the Republican members of the senate and house in drafting a declaration of policies reminded me of those incidents. They sought, as do leaders of both parties, a declaration of principles that could be interpreted one way in the Dakotas, another way in California or Massachusetts, and still other ways in other sections. The result, nothing definite to which to tie.

Leaders of both parties are so fearful of individual and sectional political proclivities that they sacrifice their appeal to a majority, in an effort to appeal to both a majority and a minority. On both sides weasel words are the tools of the vote seeker.

NOT ALL WAR CASUALTIES WERE ON BATTLE FRONTS

BEFORE THE START of the war, so far as American participation was concerned, I knew a young man, in reality but a boy of a bit under 17. He was a newspaper carrier, with one of the three best routes in his small city. He had secured that route through the diligence and care with which he had served subscribers on a less desirable one. From the better route he had a weekly income of about $7.

That boy was proud of his job; pleased at his ability to earn $7 a week; looked forward, through the years, to the possibility of being circulation manager of the paper.

Then came the war, and the demand for workers in the war plants in the section in which he lived. With thousands of others he secured a war plant job. He was quickly taught to do one thing on an assembly line. He did not become a capable mechanic. He was but a worker. Within a month he was receiving $45 a week as an assembly line employee.

As a worker in a war plant he avoided selective service with the armed forces. With the shortening of regular hours, and overtime for some of those that had been regular, and through the granting of higher pay demands, he reached a weekly earning of $65 a week.

Then the war ended, and that young man, still less than 21, was out of a job. He is back in the home town again, loafing out the days on a park bench. That is not because he cannot find a job, but because he now refuses to work for anything less than $65 a week.

It will take cold and hunger and poverty to change that attitude, if anything can do so. If it does not change that boy will be but one of the many thousands of derelicts war work has left in its wake.

War produced more casualties than those of the battle fronts. That boy was one.

ARE WE, because of the selfishness, greed or stubbornness of the leaders of organized labor, or industrial management, or both, to miss the postwar prosperity boat? Their insane arguments could be settled if there was a desire to do so on both sides. If they keep it up, instead of that meeting the demand for commodities that means prosperity, we will have another depression. The real sufferers are those who have no part in the unwarranted conflict. They did not call the tune.

Three Ages of Man

Shakespeare divided the ages of man into seven, but Moritz Rosenthal recognizes only three. Speaking from the shady side of 75, the great pianist observed:

"A man is young if a lady can make him happy or unhappy. He comes to middle age when she can make him happy, but can no longer make him unhappy. He is old when a lady can make him neither happy nor unhappy."

1945 Personal Property Tax List

Marshall County, Minnesota

Personal Property Taxes become delinquent on March 1. Those having Personal Property Taxes of more than $10 can divide their tax into two equal installments, making the first payment before March 1 and the last payment before July 1 without penalty or interest. The rate of penalty and interest is eight per cent.

P. E. KVIKSTAD,
County Treasurer.

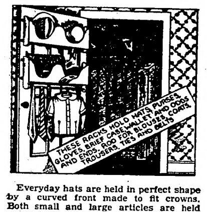
Space-Saver Racks For Closet Doors

WHY wish for more and bigger closets if the ones you have are not organized so that all the space is used? Handy racks on the door add readily accessible space for things used every day leaving inside shelves for storage.



THESE RACKS HOLD HATS, PURSES, GLOVES, BRIEF CASE, WALLET AND ODDS AND ENDS. ROD FOR BLOUSES, COATS, TROUSERS, TIES AND BELTS

Everyday hats are held in perfect shape by a curved front made to fit crowns. Both small and large articles are held conveniently in the lower rack which also has a hanger rod. These racks are also useful for children's togs and toys. They are easy to cut out of scraps of plywood with an ordinary compass saw from the dime store.

Kidneys Must Work Well-
For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Try Making Cough Syrup at Home. Quick Relief

Saves Big Dollars. No Cooking.

No matter what you usually use for coughs due to colds, you'll be more than surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and give it a trial. You'll wonder why you never used it before. It certainly does the work in a hurry.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.

Get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint—a family supply—and gives you about four times as much for your money. It tastes fine, and never spoils. Children love it.

And for quick action, you've never seen its superior. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a famous reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.—Adv.

"Indian Queen," Philadelphia Inn, Center For Revolutionary Leaders

ON June 20, 1776, the members of Pennsylvania's important Committee of Safety left Carpenters' Hall in Philadelphia to celebrate the adjournment of a seven-day conference with a dinner at Indian Queen Tavern. Increasing the militia strength was one of the principal points discussed.

Indian Queen Tavern

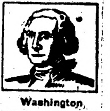
The air was charged with expectancy of an early Declaration of Independence, and the toast responded to by all of the Committeemen, including Benjamin Franklin and Dr. Benjamin Rush, famed physician, was "to the free and independent States of America."

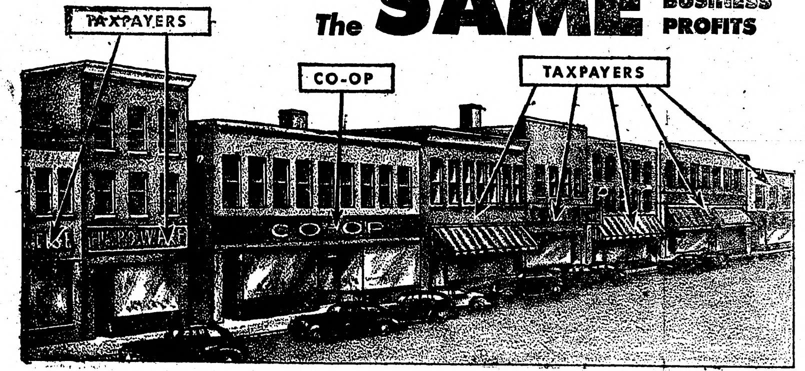
Indian Queen Tavern, which has since given way to a business building, was for years a rival of the City Tavern as Philadelphia's most important meeting place of Revolutionary times. During the occupation of Philadelphia, it served as headquarters of British General William Howe.



Washington

George Washington lived there for a time and it is chronicled that his farewell to Philadelphia was made at the Indian Queen Tavern following the inauguration of his successor, John Adams, as President, on March 4, 1797.

Robert Morris, who helped finance the Revolution, and John Adams and Thomas Jefferson were other Indian Queen residents at various times.



The SAME TOWN BUSINESS PROFITS

. . . but NOT the same taxes!

Doesn't seem fair does it? Nevertheless, in many Minnesota towns, there are certain businesses, like others in most ways, but with one important difference. They pay no Federal Income Taxes on their earnings! Why can they retain what we have to pay?

Federal Income Taxes support the government. They pay for services which every business shares equally. Shouldn't every business, then, contribute equally in the form of taxes?

Of course they should! Every fair-minded American will agree. Yet these favored businesses are now eagerly taking advantage of their special privilege to grow in number and size at an alarming rate . . . in many cases crowding out tax-paying firms.

What are these businesses? Well, there are those owned by the government, cooperatives, mutual organizations and others. During these last years when most businesses have been turning over a large share of their profits to the government, these organizations have gone merrily on their way, using their sizeable profits for their own purposes, to expand in every direction.

Of course, all the plants purchased and operated by such firms become tax exempt. And the taxes they used to pay are shifted to the shoulders of the rest of us . . . farmers, merchants and manufacturers.

The situation is so threatening and so obviously unfair, that we have formed the Minnesota Small Business Association in an effort to put all business on the same tax-paying basis.

If you want to know how this problem of tax inequality affects you, and what we intend to do about it, send a post card with your name and address to Wm. C. Biethen, Chairman, 230 South Front Street, Mankato, Minnesota.

Scourge Of Enemy In War, Radar Works For Safer World

U. S. Signal Corps Photograph

Here against the rugged background of Southern Italy, a radar silently probes the sky for errant units of the Luftwaffe. Known to the War Department as an "early warning" radar, this equipment helped us to blunt the violence of the enemy's air attack at the very peak of its power early in the war. Thousands of these radars have been manufactured by the Western Electric Company.

Like a seeing-eye dog guiding his blind master through a maze of traffic, the sixth sense of radar will reduce travel hazards for man in the peacetime world. By putting a deadly finger on enemy ships, planes and submarines, radar hastened the end of the war. This same uncanny power to see the invisible promises to make peacetime air and sea travel entirely foolproof, regardless of night or weather.

Safety for ships and planes is one immediate application for this new pathfinder. Innumerable other uses are sure to flower from the knowledge born of thousands of manhours devoted to radar research during the war. In the amazingly rapid development of radar, the Bell Telephone System assumed the role of "the Nation's largest single source of radars during the war."

Up to June 30, 1945, Western Electric, the manufacturing branch of the Bell System, had supplied to the Government more than 52,900 radar systems of 64 different types, valued at more than $800,000,000, according to Mr. Walter S. Gifford president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. With the aid of hundreds of sub-contractors to which it provided specifications and details of manufacturing procedure, Western Electric has supplied more radars—all of them of Bell Laboratories design—than any other manufacturer.

Bell Laboratories has had a larger group of scientists and engineers than any other industrial organization working throughout the war in advancing the radar science and in designing new radars for the army and navy. The laboratories led the way also in volume of radar designs and of designs for new and essential components. In all, the laboratories scientists and engineers have designed some 100 different radars for use by the Army, Navy and Marine Corps in all fields of application.

The Bell Laboratories and Western Electric together have had substantially full responsibility for development and production of radars for Navy ship gunfire control. All large guns of the U. S. Navy are pointed by radars designed and produced by the two organizations.

Radar systems designed and made by the Bell System research and manufacturing team have been standard for B-29's in the Pacific for navigation, target location and high altitude bombing. In addition, the Bell System developed and produced low altitude radar bombsights used extensively by the Army and Navy in attacking enemy shipping.

Western Electric Company's yearly output of radars reached a record high of 22,000 in 1944. These units, together with components, spare parts and test equipment, were furnished at a value of $340,000,000—an amount equal to almost a million dollars for each day of the year. This record was greatly exceeded during the first six months of 1945, when Western Electric turned out 19,800 radars.

Because of urgent requirements of the Armed Forces the Bell Laboratories in 1944 was at work on 81 different types of radar systems and Western Electric produced 44 different types, of which 20 were new in production that year.

The brains that developed and produced radar so effectively for war are now at work for peace.

Early Minnesota Pioneer Died

The last immediate member of Minnesota's famour Sibley family, Alfred Brush Sibley, 79 year old, died January 19, at his home in Boston, Mass.

Mr. Sibley was born and raised in St. Paul. About 55 year ago he married Miss Annie Thompson of Quincy, Ill., and moved to Helena, Montana where they resided until moving to Boston some 15 years ago.

Mr. Sibley was the youngest son of General Heney Hastings Sibley, first governor of the State of Minnesota. General Sibley was born in Detroit, Mich. Feb. 20, 1811. He became a partner in the American fur company, and in 1834, during one of his trips, reached the mouth of the Minnesota River. The next year he built there at Mendota, the first stone house in what is now the State of Minnesota, and lived in it until he moved to St. Paul in 1862. When Wisconsin was admitted into the Union, its western boundary was fixed at the St. Croix River, leaving the area west to the Mississippi River without a goverment. Mr. Sibley was chosen to represent this district in Congress, and secured the passage of an act creating the Territory of Minnesota.

In just a few more years, 1949, Minnesota will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the founding of that territory in the big wilderness, which was destined to become one of the greatest states in the union.

In addition to his many achievements, General Sibley acted as delegate to Congress from Minnesota, 1849-53; was president of the Democratic branch of the convention that in 1857, framed the state constitution; was first governor of the state, 1858-60; was a regent of the State University, 1851-60 and 1869-91 and was president of the Minnesota Historical Society from 1879 until his death on February 18, 1891.

The Minnesota Historical Society, oldest institution in the state was chartered by the first territorial legislature in 1849. Older than the state itself, the society has from its inception, among other things, collected and preserved for future historians and students of Minnesota history, a vast storehouse of Minnesota newspapers. Governor Alexander Ramsey, in an address to an early legislature advocated the preservation of these "day-books of history".

The newpaper publisher who so many times is referred to as the "historian of his own community", has been responsible for the society's outstanding collection of Minnesota newspapers.

The Holt Weekly News has donated 1,805 copies of the News since it was started in Holt about 36 years ago. These are all bound in a nice book for each year at the Historical Society's newpaper room. Should you ever have the occasion when in St. Paul, go to the Minnesota Historical Building near the State Capitol and ask to see this gigantic collection of Minnesota newspapers.

LOOKING AHEAD

by GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

Creative Spark

Invention is declining in the United States. Between 1930 and 1943 patent applications went down about half at the Patent Office in Washington. To be very technical, the drop was 54% per 100,000 of the country's population. If the total number of patehts applied for annually had varied a great deal in former years, this would not be so surprising, but it had not.

From 1900 to 1930 our number of patents increased each year, about like the population grew. Many people played at being inventors. Some original gadget to make living easier could be found in process of development at nearly any wayside wagon shop. Many a housewife cherished what she hoped was a secret recipe. Boys and girls dreamed of wealth from something they might "think up."

All to the Good

Only few of these formulas or mechanical devices ever reached the Patent Office, but the youngsters who worked with them gained valuable knowledge. And out of this wave of creative energy came useful things. Patent applications reached an all-time high between 1925 and 1930, and (population considered) patents actually granted broke a 50-year record, only a few months later.

Invention is the spark of creative thought. It was during America's era of invention that the people of the United States rose up industrially and climbed to the top of the world, in wealth, in education, in health and in living standards. Inventions increase employment, boost wages and shorten working hours. Inventions create infinitely more jobs than they destroy.

Historical Sketch

F. O. Richey of Cleveland, Ohio, one of the nation's distinguished patent attorneys, informed me recently that the history of invention divides naturally into four periods: (1) Before the 17th Century when there were no patent laws and few inventions; (2) The 17th and 18th Centuries with poor patent laws poorly administered; (3) From early in the 19th Century to 1933, and (4) since.

America's era of invention covered more than a century back of 1933, a period with Ben Franklin at one end and Thomas Edison at the other, in which Chief Justice John Marshall stood out for fair use of the patent system. Those were the years when inventions and their scientific development were profitable to men of intellect—schools of engineering and chemistry flourished.

Spoil of Hostility

The Latin who called Necessity the mother of Invention was wrong. Necessity makes people improvise; Invention springs from love of achievement and hope of reward for good ideas. Among Europeans, the Swiss have the most freedom and lead in inventions. The Chinese, having no hope of reward, invent little. In America, our Patent Office safeguarded the reward in the 19th Century.

In the last dozen years, however, the U. S. patent system has been the target of much verbal attack. Holders of patents are pointed at as if they had stolen something. Moreover the rewards, that come (by nature suddenly) to inventors, are twisted from them by taxation. What is the result? Inventors are not inventing. Must America's creative spark be quenched, or may her inventors be rewarded?

Red River Valley Winter Shows

The Northwest School Farmers Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows, Crookston, will again operate in all departments February 4-8, 1946. After a curtailment of activities during war years, the Winter Shows Board of Managers is planning for a record show and meeting for the Victory year.

Day and evening meeting have been planned and speakers have been engaged. The sequence of events of Winter Shows week will follow the pattern of the pre-war years. Monday, February 4, the opening day, will be devoted to interstate livestock and crops judging contests for subcollegiate teams and district general and dairy judging contests for high schools. Tuesday, February 5, has been designated as Governor's Day with the Honorable Edward J. Thye, Governor of Minnesota, as the guest of the Winter Shows and sharing the evening speaking program with John Brandt, president of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., Minneapolis. Garden clubs of the district and crop men of the Red River Valley and 4-H clubs of the area will hold meetings on February 5. Women's meetings will be held on Feb. 6, 7 and 8, with programs on foods, health and clothing featuring the three days.

Livestock men will have judging of livestock classes Feb. 5 and 6 with their speaking program on Feb. 6. Livestock sales will feature the program for Feb. 7 and 8. Potato growers of the Red River Valley will meet on Feb. 7.

Congressman Walter Judd will be the evening speaker on Feb. 6, and a speaker will be secured to speak on peacetime uses of atomic energy for the last evening program scheduled for Feb. 7.

Speakers who are outstanding authorities in their fields have have been secured to speak on he programs during the week. A full program of music has also been arranged to augment the speaking program.

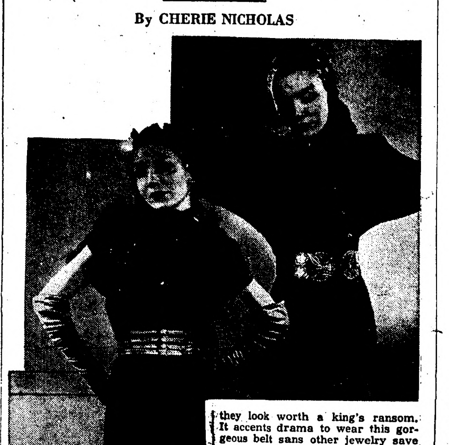
Wear a Glamorous Belt to Accent Your Chic Midwinter Black Frock

By CHERIE NICHOLAS



BELTS are playing a most spectacular role in the midwinter fashion picture. Not only is the idea of dramatizing a simple costume with a resplendent belt going over big in current fashions, but advance spring styles herald the importance of intriguing belts worn with skirt and bodice or blouse costumes.

At the immediate moment fashion-wise women are wearing chic black frocks of sophisticated simplicity to which daring and dramatic emphasis is being given via gorgeous belts after the manner shown in the illustration. To the left four exquisite narrow gold belts worn as a wide girdle give a dazzling note to a modish full-skirted black frock. The slender midriff effect here achieved highlights many of the newest silhouettes this season.

The stunning dress to the right goes winged and wide above the waistline, keeping the midriff whittled down with a glamorous corselet belt. The artful curves of this belt achieve a willowy waistline reminiscent of the laced corset era. The belt by Criterion is of black suede, stylized with a designful floral motif in gold and silver.

To browse around among the belt displays is as exciting as an Alice-in-Wonderland adventure. One of the outstanding numbers in a noted collection is an eye-thrilling belt done in colorful felt, emblazoned with artfully worked gold braid and glittering sequins. It's a beauty to include in your wardrobe of belts. You will find that it never fails to bring the simplest frock up to a new high in glamour.

Some of the dress-up belts are that richly bejeweled and embroidered they look worth a king's ransom. It accents drama to wear this gorgeous belt sans other jewelry save perhaps a handsome bracelet.

The existing craze for beautiful and versatile belts that are handworked should be an inspiration to those who have a knack of making pretty costume accents for themselves to perform a little belt magic of their own. In designing your belt, keep in mind that the trend is toward wider types that savor of fitted corselet or midriff effects. You can fashion a smart belt of material matching the dress with which it is worn, or you can buy a wide ribbon or suede belt and embroider it yourself with sequins and jewels. A triangle or leaf design at each side of the belt buckle would be very effective. Very lovely too is the belt of dress fabric or suede or ribbon, if you prefer, that is appliqued with handmade flowers made of silk or multi-colored ribbons.

One is tempted to acquire a collection of belts this season since they are smartly worn with every type costume, from play outfits and chic sportswear to the most formal evening clothes. Start your wardrobe of belts with a sportsy leather number that is attractively studded with metal nailheads and perhaps a few colorful stones. A series of plastic-coated yarn have just been brought out that may be washed. These come in several designs, one of which is hand-knotted so as to form scallops about the edge. It has a drawstring fastening.

Hand-crocheted belts are shown in wide-band effect with interesting applique of tiny flowers and leaves, also hand-crocheted of bright colored yarns. It's worthwhile including a gypsy tie-girdle or scarf of black or colorful satin, the wide ends of which are embroidered with sequins.

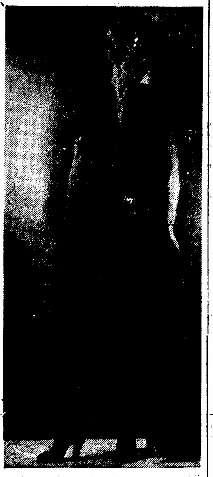
New Ballet Length



Most beautiful cotton laces are being designed and manufactured that are as fragile and sheer as the best of fine laces. This charming dance dress is made of exquisitely filmy black cotton lace over pink marquisette. Note its new ballet length which is gaining importance in the evening mode. The low criss-cross of black crepe on the bodice and cap shoulders is a most eye-appealing and sophisticated touch. Quantities of these lovely fine and sheer cotton laces will be seen this summer made up in enchanting dance frocks. New lines, too, will add delicate charm to these filmy creations. You will look captivating in your lovely lace, as you pirouette under the stars.

Classic Jackets Are Longer for Spring

The big news about the spring suits is that their jackets are longer. That is, speaking of the classic types. However, in direct contrast to the long effects are the very brief bolero and basque jackets which are being designed for the young element. Checks, bright wools and newsiest of all, wool jersey, are leading materials for the spring suit. As to coats, the topper it is triumphing anew in the fashion picture. The three-quarter length tunic coat is also a topflight fashion. Very new looking is the full length great coat that is fashioned after the manner of the officer coat. It's news that metal buttons are seen on some of the newer coat styles. Smart resort shops have wide call for toppers in pastel wools that are enriched either with deep cuffs in light furs or they are bordered with fur in a lightsome mood. Ornamental buttons are lavishly used on both coats and suits this season.

A Preview of Beach Wear Comes From Winter Resorts

News from the southland resorts brings a foreword of what you will be wearing on the beach this summer.

Most of the bathing suits, for instance, are two-piece affairs with bare midriffs.

There is a charming model in bright yellow with a white braid trim and another in white pique with huge stylized red and blue pansies. Cream-colored jersey forms an artfully draped suit with black binding and flattering shirring on trunks and bra top.

To top the suits you'll like the new beach robes, such as the one in deep turquoise cotton with an unusual cape top and a gracefully flared skirt.

There's quite a choice of good-looking play clothes, too, many of them of the two-piece variety, like the full little midriff skirt and top of gray, blue, green or tan. Or the sunback dress with matching bolero in luscious pastel colors. It looks like you will have an easy time getting a tan this summer.

Seek 200,000 Criminals In Greatest Man Hunt

To aid in the apprehension of more than 200,000 war criminals who are still at large, an international warrant, bearing their description, has been issued for each one by the Allied War Crimes commission in Paris, and 5,000 copies of each document have been circulated among Allied authorities, says Collier's.

Sooner or later, these wanted persons will be forced to identify themselves and thus be caught in this net which has been tightly drawn around the world in the greatest man hunt of all times.

Household Hints

Soak such things as greasy overalls in a good soap solution and thereby make it easier for the washer to do its job.

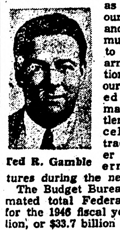
VICTORY LOAN BONDS PROVE SOUND ECONOMY

By TED R. GAMBLE
National Director, War Finance Division, U. S. Treasury

The Victory Loan, now under way, is the crucial test of our war finance program. We must not only raise the $11 billion required by the Treasury but we must do it in such a manner as to avoid the danger of inflation and to make secure the Peace for which over a quarter of a million of our men have given their lives. That is why we are asking for $4 billion from individuals, $2 billion of it from the sale of Series E bonds.



Ted R. Gamble

Why is this money needed? Briefly, the reasons may be summarized as follows: to bring our veterans home and give them their mustering-out pay, to maintain our armies of occupation, to take care of our sick and wounded veterans, to make prompt settlement of our cancelled war contracts, and for other necessary government expenditures during the next few months.

The Budget Bureau recently estimated total Federal Expenditures for the 1946 fiscal year at $66.4 billion, or $33.7 billion below 1945. Receipts were estimated at $36 billion, but these may be reduced somewhat by the new tax bill. This leaves a deficit of $30.4 billion, which must be met by Treasury borrowing. It is in order to help meet this deficit that the Treasury decided on the Victory Loan, the last big public drive for funds.

As we enter this Victory Loan, I'd like to review briefly the accomplishments of our war financing program. From May 1, 1941, when the program started, to October 1, 1945, we raised the huge sum of $207 billion. Furthermore, we raised this money through a plan of voluntary savings at the lowest interest cost of any nation engaged in the war, and at the lowest selling expense ever recorded.

In the first seven war loan drives, we set total quotas of $95 billion for all investors, and sold $135,749,000,000 in war loan bonds. Every loan was oversubscribed. Billions more were sold in the interim periods between drives. We have sold these bonds to more than 85,000,000 Americans. By the time this loan is over, we will have sold one billion individual pieces of the popular Series E bonds alone.

Where did this money come from? Our figures show that individuals provided the Treasury with $49 billion net out of the $98 billion in new funds that has become available to them since May 1, 1941—and most of the remainder went into cash savings or commercial bank accounts. Insurance companies and savings banks invested all of the $22 billion in new funds that they received. State and local governments invested $5 billion of the $6 billion available. Private corporations had $39 billion of new funds from current surpluses and we obtained $28 billions of it. Most of the remainder was needed by them for expanded wartime operations. Federal agencies and trust funds invested all of their $17 billion of new funds in government securities.

In short, up to the end of the Seventh War Loan, non-bank investors provided the government with $121 billion net of the $207 billion it had to borrow since May 1, 1941, the balance of $85 billion being absorbed by commercial Federal Reserve banks, most of it in open market purchases. Except for the investment of a limited portion of their savings deposits, we have not permitted the banks to subscribe directly to war loan securities in the last five war bond drives, nor in the current Victory Loan.

One of the most significant achievements of our program is the widespread distribution of the public debt. Millions of people who never before saved a penny in their lives, now own savings bonds. It is estimated that three-quarters of the Series E bonds sold to individuals were acquired by persons earning $5000 a year or less. Today, individuals hold almost one-fourth of the total Federal debt outstanding. An even larger proportion of the interest paid out on this debt will go to individuals. Obviously, this will have a tremendous impact on postwar purchasing power.

Investing in Victory Bonds will build a second economy for the future. We cannot afford to slump back into indifference and selfishness if we are to keep faith with those who have paid most dearly so that we could live in a free and peaceful world. We can and should buy Victory Bonds to the limit of our ability if for no other reason than to express our gratitude to our fighting men. They have done their job, and have done it well. It is up to us to finish ours, so that they may come back to the kind of an America they dreamed about—a land of opportunity with full employment, full production and high income. The Victory Loan is our opportunity to express again our faith in America.

Send In Subsidy Statements

Farmers, upon having received their October, November and December butterfat statements or other evidence for the sale of whole milk or cream should present them for payment at the Marshall County ACA office at Warren or mail the evidence to such office emmediately, stated C. N. Kranz, chairman of the Marshall County A. C. A.

The deadline for presenting such evidence is February 28, 1946; but farmers are warned, that due to the rush in completing other work pertaining to the AAA program, some applications may not be able to be processed, before the deadline, if not presented until the last fow days, stated Mr. Kranz.

The payments applicable for for the October, November and December period are 17c per pound for butterfat and 60c per cwt. for whole milk.

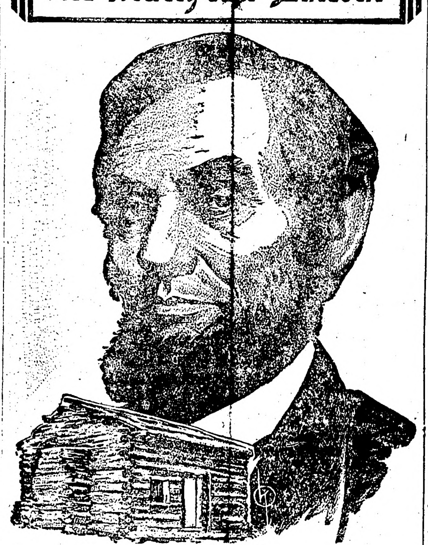
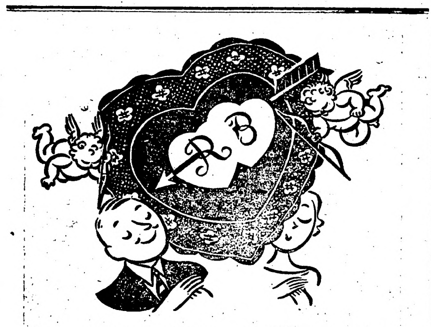
The Martyred Lincoln



ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Across the years, Lincoln's great soul marches on to inspire all Americans.



"WON'T YOU BE MY - - - - ?"

TWO hearts, one dart—they have come down the ages to say Won't-You-Be-My-Valentine and to remind us that in an age which bristles with dollar-signs and flaunts sophistication, Romance is not dead.

Then why not give a Valentine party with all of the fol-de-rols which are supposed to be old-fashioned and which your guests will gloat over? Herald the event with a lacey valentine. If your shops are too modern to carry them, make the invitations by pasting paper lace on the edge of a red cardboard heart with two hearts and a dart drawn in the center. Place your initials in one heart and the initial of your guest in the other heart, and write underneath.

Guess Who Is Inviting You
To a Valentine Supper

For a contest game, give the guests bows and arrows to shoot at a heart target. The winner should be presented with a heart-shaped box filled with heart-shaped nut cookies, and each loser who failed to hit the target might be consoled by being allowed to kiss one person for each arrow that went astray.

A Supper That's a "Honey"

Set the Valentine supper table with a lace cloth, red candles and a red heart-shaped box of candy at each place. And here is the supper menu with tested recipes:

Chicken and Ham Shortcake
Cranberry Jelly cut in Heart Shapes
Grapefruit Cream Sherbet with Cherry Garnish
Cocoanut Kisses Coffee
Fairy Gingerbread

Chicken and Ham Shortcake: Make a white sauce of two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk and the contents of two 6-ounce cans of evaporated milk. Add one slightly-beaten egg yolk. Then add the contents of one 12-ounce can of chicken which has been diced, one cup of diced cold boiled ham and two tablespoons diced pimiento. Add two tablespoons cooking sherry and season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve between and on top of split, hot baking powder biscuits which have been buttered. This serves eight persons.

Grapefruit Cream Sherbet: Soften one tablespoon gelatin in two tablespoons of cold water. Dissolve in grapefruit juice from a No. 2 can which has been brought to boiling. Add one and one-third cups sugar. Dissolve and cool. Add three tablespoons lemon juice and one well-beaten egg. Pour the cold fruit juice mixture slowly into one cup cream and freeze at once in refrigerator trays or in an ice-cream freezer. Stir often if you use the refrigerator. Serve garnished with chopped cherries. This serves eight persons.

Sanoden-Wittkowski Wedding

Miss Opal Sanoden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sanoden and Mr. William Wittkowski Jr., of Carlisle, Iowa, were united in marriage at a candle light service Thursday afternoon, Jan. 31st at 5:30 in the Nazareth Lutheran church. Rev. E. O. Urness read the double ring ceremony.

The bride was attired in a gown of bridal satin fashioned with full skirt extending to a train with a fingertip veil caught with a beaded tiara. Her bridal bouquet of pure white was calla lilies. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride is a graduate of the Thief River Falls High School and also Bemidji State Teachers' College. She has been employed for the past 3½ years at Los Angeles California.

The groom a graduate of Des Moines high school has been serving with the U. S. Merchant Marines for the past three years.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Boyum of Greenbush. The bridesmaid, a school mate and close friend of the bride, wore a floor length gown of net over pink silk and carried a corsage of mixed flowers. She also wore a necklace of pearls a gift from the bride.

Bonita Borchert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Borchert, was flower girl. She wore a floor length gown of pale green.

Merle Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson carried the rings on a white pillow.

Mrs Julius Borchert, sister of the bride, played the wedding march. Other nuptial music was furnished by Miss Sylvia Borchert of Thief River Falls who sang "My World" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Russel Sanoden and Ray Gusa acted at ushers.

A reception was given at the bride's home with 50 guests present.

The serving table was decorated with pink candles and a large wedding cake trimmed with pink roses and topped with miniature figures of bride and groom.

Immediately after the reception the newlyweds left for a short honeymoon after which the groom will attend Drake University at Des Moisne, Iowa, where they will make their home.

Several out of town guests were in attendance including the groom's mother.

Blizzard Struck Here Tuesday

One of the worst blizzards to hit this part of the country since the March 15th storm in 1941. struck here with a fury early Tuesday evening. Within a very short time after the storm broke lose visibility was reduced to almost zero. Storm warnings had been broadcast all day from Fargo so that motorist should be on guard against being caught out on the highwas.

The high wind and drifting new snow kept up until nearly noon on Wednesday. Most of the roads were piled high with drifts. The state and county plows cleared the main roads on Wednesday.

Praticaly all communications were disrupted. No train was able to get here Wednesday due to the snow blockade at Fargo.

TACK SNAP FASTENER TAPE TO TABLE; THEN SEW OTHER SIDE OF TAPE TO SKIRT TOP

HOW to cut a flared dressing table skirt without fullness at the top, is something worth knowing. You may be making a smartly tailored affair of white pique with pink bindings and buttons, like the one shown here; or an under lining for a full skirt of transparent material.

The diagram shows how to make a pattern for half of the skirt. The center front may be placed on a fold of the goods in cutting if there is no front opening. Cut the paper by the dimensions in the diagram. Mark point A in 14-inches from the upper left corner. Measure up from the lower right corner a distance equaling the length of the skirt from A to the left edge of the paper and mark point C. Connect these points with lines drawn, as shown.

Long Distance Swimmer Has Gone 15,000 Miles

The greatest distance swimmer of all time is Pedro Candioti of Santa Fe, Argentina, who has been staging marathon swims since 1922, the most important being his annual attempt, never yet successful, to swim the 205 miles of the Parana river between Rosario and Buenos Aires, says Collier's.

During this period, he spent approximately 3,500 hours in the water and swam about 15,000 miles, a distance equivalent to five crossings of the Atlantic between New York and Southampton.

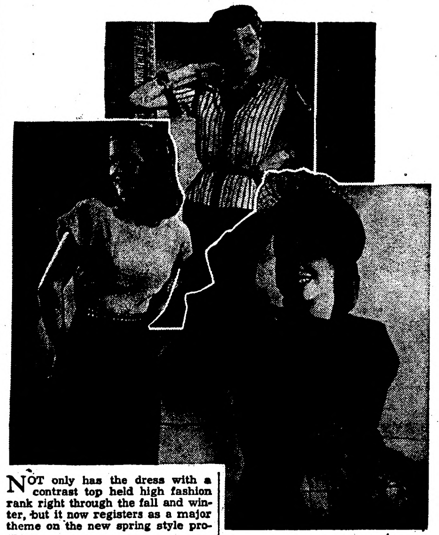
Dress With a Contrasting Top Offers Endless Possibilities

By CHERIE NICHOLAS



NOT only has the dress with a contrast top held high fashion rank right through the fall and winter, but it now registers as a major theme on the new spring style program.

The idea of a two-piece costume that tops a skirt with a contrast blouse or bodice offers endless possibilities in way of versatile interpretation. It is ever so practical too in that it is easier to get a few yards of this material or that, in these days of limited yardage distribution, than it is to buy a whole dress length in a single fabric. Then too, there's thrift in the dress made up of a skirt with interchangeable tops.

The field of the contrast top is of such wide scope it enters into every phase of fashion from formal gowns, dressy afternoon types, simple daytime dresses to play clothes, and this year in early showings the suit that tops a dark or light skirt with a bright jacket is displayed as a fashion-first for spring. If you like something different in way of a suit, choose a smart model that tops a black or navy skirt with a jacket tailored in soft pink or ice-blue wool. The suit that teams a dark brown skirt with a jacket in a vivid copper-colored wool would be a perfect selection for spring.

The contrast idea is most happily carried out in the costumes pictured. The striped-top rayon dress centered in the illustration is ever so wearable and good looking for daytime occasions. Black with chartreuse is the color combination. The whole effect is co-ordinated with the use of black front facings, cuffs and belt. Girls who can sew are enthusiastic over the dressy blouses they make of crisp taffeta in bright or pastel plaids and stripes. These have a ruffle peplum with the ruffle repeated in the sleeves.

To the left is a one-piece dress-up version of the college girl's sweater and skirt that gives the impression of a two-piece. The sweater top of rayon-and-wool boucle on a lovely pastel is joined to the black rayon skirt with a wide belt effect that sparkles with nailheads. A choice color range is offered in this dress such as ice blue or soft blush pink. It comes in a tea-rose and turquoise also, with black skirt or in two shades of fuchsia with black. In buying pretty dresses like these, or the materials to make them, it is well to cultivate the habit of checking up informative labels for facts about color-fastness, shrinkage and dependable wearing qualities. You will find lasting satisfaction in fabrics that are guaranteed.

Clever fingers can easily fashion a wool remnant in color or in black into a smart wrist-length jumper-style jacket such as the model shown to the right. Designed to be worn over a dark sweater or blouse, this jumper-jacket which is a new-this-season item, will prove a friend indeed when there is chill in the air on a cool spring day. Sleek shoulder seams supplemented with inverted waistline tucks effect a smart fit. For the sole note three "licorice twist" buttons are used, giving a finished professional look to the jacket. Note that this lady studs the same buttons on her bracelet handbag as a closing detail that conceals the hook and eye. These handsome button originales also come in gold or silver. They make elegant earrings, and three sewed across a black velvet ribbon choker complete a most flattering jewelry-like ensemble.

Color contrast is seen all through the new print dresses and suits. Black band and border trimmings on color-bright prints are played up in endless way in the new showings. Destined to be one of the big success fashions for spring and summer is the perfectly charming two-piece (it also comes in one-piece versions) dress has a black jersey or crepe bodice-like top, the skirt being styled dirndl fashion of a gorgeous print.

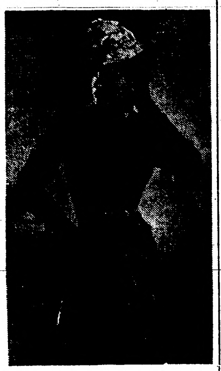
Bejeweled Black



Your returning hero will like the way you look in this quality-kind black rayon crepe dress, sparkling with jeweled accents. There is something about romantic black that always creates an aura of elegance and charm. Note the nicely fitted sleeves and the modishly draped skirt. A dress of this type is the mainstay of one's wardrobe the entire year round. The distinguishing quality of this good-looking black dress that goes everywhere with aplomb is that it maintains the slim figure-flattering silhouette.

Pleats, Flares, Bows Give Accent to Hips

Hips are in fashion! We will have to reorganize our former ideas about slenderizing hips, for definitely a new angle in this season's silhouette is the accenting of hips. This is done in ingenious and varied ways. Dresses are coming in with fullness at each side achieved with pleats, flares, shirrings, inset panels with pleats in tiers, and so on. Then too, designers are doing clever things with pockets, bows, tunics and even panniers are seen on afternoon dresses and evening formals. Sometimes a little crinoline is used to accent hips. However, in most instances the fullness and pleats are introduced so skilfully as to preserve a slender look. In the smart form-fitting princess gowns a single huge bow at one hip gives a smart look. It is obvious that hips are inevitable with the smaller waistlines, and the new silhouettes are charmingly picturesque.

Designers' Skill Focuses On Sleeves in Spring Wear

Virtually every model in the new spring collection dramatizes the sleeves of suits, jackets, dresses and coats. All the skill, imagination, whimsy, tricks of cut and fine seaming, buttons, beads, sequins, embroidery, tucks, ruffles, color slashings and insets, goes into the sleeves. What is left makes the slimmest of skirts and the snuggest of bodices and jackets, thus focusing attention on the sleeves.

Some are shining with buttons that hold decorative flaps, others have caps of plain material over the shoulder to accent the long beaded and embroidered sleeves.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

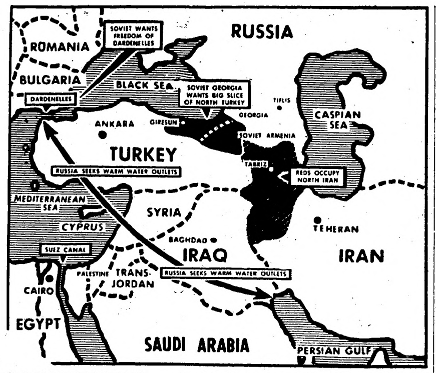
STRIKES ALSO HIT JAPAN . . . While the United States is blanketed with strikes in many industries, natives of Japan decided to follow suit. Shown above is strike held by thousands of municipal workers in which they emphasized their demands for at least three times their present wage and for better living conditions. They stormed the Tokyo city hall, where they are shown making their demands. Strikers claim that the inflation has made it impossible for them to live on present wage scales.



WHAT RUSSIA WANTS . . . Among the major problems that will cause headaches for the United Nations assembly is the easing of Russo-Turkish relations. The map above shows what Russia wants from Turkey. It also shows what the situation is in Iran. Many observers of international chess-playing believe that Russia's biggest want at the moment is freedom of the Dardanelles and access to warm water outlets. Russia has wanted such outlets for centuries and believes that she is now, as a member of UNO, entitled to have these demands met in full.

Mix This Cough Syrup at Home. Quick Relief
Easily Mixed. Needs No Cooking.
Here's an old home mixture your parents probably used. But, once tried, you'll always use it, because it gives such quick, pleasing relief for coughs due to colds.
And it's so easily mixed. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.
Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a long time.
You can feel this simple home mixture take right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes irritation, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you get restful sleep.
Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.—Adv.

LOOKING AHEAD

Pilot Plant

Higgins Industries, Inc., New Orleans shipbuilders, shut down three big plants and began early in November to "farm out" forty million dollars worth of post-war business. In a tilt between two powerful labor unions, Andrew J. Higgins cast himself in the role of a bystander. His story was that industrial disputes had made it practically impossible for him to operate at a profit.

I am not taking up a cudgel for Higgins or either of the labor organizations. The squabble has not been settled yet and some new factors may be introduced. The detail of the news that interests me most is Mr. Higgins' offer to sell his plants to the unions. His proposition may have been seasoned with irony, but I am perfectly serious. I think it is a splendid idea.

All the Essentials

Just think: here stand three modern plants; new ones. They shelter acres of desirable ground with water frontage. They have installed power, transmission lines, assembly equipment and tools. Such buildings can be adapted conveniently to the manufacture of many different items on a volume production scale. Labor is abundant and more workers are arriving daily.

Working capital is no longer a problem to working people. The unions have fabulous wealth, not even nicked by taxation. Senator Edward V. Robertson of Wyoming recently named a dozen unions whose treasuries, he said, contained more than 160 million dollars all told. With men, money and machinery, the idea is feasible. One of these idle plants might be kept busy subcontracting Higgins' unfilled orders.

Union's Big Chance

By going in business on their own account, unions have much to gain. For example: Nearly all labor organizations uphold principles upon which they disagree with orthodox business executives. The details include plant organization, retirement plans, vacations and medical service besides wages and hours. Who will argue that these plans do not deserve to be tried experimentally?

Most industrial leaders of today are self-made men. Many of them skated on thin ice occasionally in the early heats of their business race. They had principles and they had courage and they took chances. Their venturesome spirits were supported by faith in their principles. Why should not some trade union take over a desirable plant somewhere and demonstrate its theories?

History to be Made

Quite a few labor leaders advocate new economic principles. They insist that their plans can not fail if faithfully pursued. Now, for once in a thousand years, come chances to prove the value of these new principles to an eager world. It can be tried independent of conventional sources of capital. Almost any union has more cash reserve now than most big corporations had when they started.

If neither of the Gulf Coast plants is suitable, one of the eight being offered by the RFC at Chicago might be better. Any place, where working men develop a new system better than the old, will be hallowed ground. Certainly America stands at the crossroads industrially. Every patriotic citizen hopes we choose the right course. Will the unions now [illegible] their wealth on their [illegible]

Local Sportsmen Organize

Local sportsmen here organized a sportsmens club here last Thursday evening. In spite of the cold weather twenty-six fellows showed up at the meeting which was held at the school house.

Wm. Carlson, state game warden from Thief Lake and Arvid Carlson of Middle River were to assist with the work of getting the local organization set. The 26 sportsmen who were in for the meeting signed up for membership and 74 more are invited to make the club a hundred strong.

Lawrence Lubits was elected president; Sam Lorentson, vice-president; Alton Carlson, Secretary and George Fricker, as the Treasurer. A set of by-laws were drawn up and written into the records.

The regular meetings will be held on the third Friday of each month except this month when it will be the fourth Friday, Feb. 22.

Final Rites Held For Nils Ness

Funeral services were conducted from the Nazareth Lutheran church last Thursday afternoon for Nils N. Ness, early pioneer of Holt who passed away at his home here on Saturday, Feb. 2 after a lingering illness. Pastor Urness officiated and the Carlson Funeral Service had charge of the arrangements. Included in the services were two solos sung by Marvin Sandberg "Come ye disconlate" and "The Old Rugged Cross". Mrs. Marvin Sandberg served as organist. Pastor Urness also sang a solo in Norwegian "Bedre kan jeg ikke fare".

He was 64 years, 5 moths and 29 days old. He was born in Bagnadelen, Valders, Norway, August 4, 1881. He was baptized in Bagnadalen church and was confirmed in the Ness church in [illegible].

On March 15, 1902 he was united in marriage to Elizabeth Ellingson of Bagnadalen. They came to Holt from Norway in 1904 and settled on a farm, being residents here ever since.

He is survived by his wife and four daughters, Mrs. Edmund Ueland, Holt; Mrs. Rangval Olson, Thief River Falss; Mrs. Oscar Reierson, Holt and Mrs. Arnold Silverness, Newfolden; four sons, Johnne, Clarence, Einer and Orville all of Holt. There are ten grandchildren.

Three sisters, Mrs. Karina Anderson, Rhinelander. Wisconsin, Mrs. Thea Anderson in Sweden and Mrs. Anna Myron of Thief River Falls. Four brothers Andraw of Long Beach, California; Danial of Thief River Falls and Knute and Gilbert of Holt; one half sister, Mrs. Bertha Knutson of Sexsmith, Aberta, Canada.

His parents, one sister and one half sister preceded him in death.

Pallbearers were: Lars Ring, Ingval Fesholm, Oliver Nohre, Frank Hienz, Willie Larson and Carsten Sagstuen.

There was a beautiful floral offerring and cash memoriams were given to charitable purposes and to the Nazareth church building fund.

Interment was made in the Holt cemetery.

Mr and Mrs. Walter Larson and family, Mrs. Inga Backlund and Mrs. C. L. Sandberg visited at the John Gullingsrud home in Thief River Falls Sunday evening and with Mrs. L. Wegge who makes her home there.

Miss Fern Sagstuen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carsten Sagstuen, left by bus on Wednesday for Los Angeles, California after spening the past few months at her home here.

Fine Boy Scout Displays

Some very fine displays of Boy Scout medals and and also medals won by former local scouts who were in the Armed Service as well as other items pertaining to scouting are on exhibit at the business places in town. Take a look at these fine displays.

Holt now has a new and coming troop. Troop 112 here had four Eagle scouts at one time and right now three of them are at home here - all ex-servicemen. They are Howard Lorentson, Russel Sanoden and Milton Hanson. Much to the grief of these men as well as to other scouts parents and others, their buddy, Rueben Ness, had to give his life in this war in the Phillipine Islands last February.

Celebrated Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Larson of St. Hilaire celebrated their 25th wedding anniversay at an open house on Sunday. The following program was given:

The honored couple served an open house Swedish Smorgaasbord to the gathering and were presented with cash purse as a rememberance of the day.

Mrs. Lillegaard played the wedding march at their wedding twenty-five years ago and Mrs. Anderson sang the same solo then as she sang Sunday.

Those from here who attended the anniveraray were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sandberg and Delores, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gusa, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson and family, Mrs. Inga Backlund and Mrr. C. L. Sandberg. Mr. Larson is a brother of Mrs. Sandberg.

Gilbert Sanoden was on the sick list last week. Wednesday this week he suffered a partial stroke and had to be rushed to the St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls.

This community was withot mail and trains here on Wednesday and Thursday last week due to the Feb. 5th blizzard. The Great Northern snowplow cleared this line late Thursday.

Life Of Thorval Severson

Funeral services held here on Saturday afternoon from the Free Mission church for Thorval Severson, early pioneer of this community, who passed away on Sunday morning, February 3rd at Thief River Falls at the age 81 years 1 month and 9 days.

Rev. Thv. Myhrer of Newfolden officiated.

He was born in Valders, Norway, December 24th, 1864. He came from Norway to Yellow Medecine County, Minnesota in 1865 and eight years later moved up to Fordville, North Dakota where he lived until 1904 when he moved to Holt and in 1943 he moved to Thief River Falls where he made his home since.

He was married in 1864 at Fordville, N. D., to Helga Bang who passed away in 1900 and in 1903 he was married at Fordville to Augusta Johnson who passed away in 1918.

He leaves to mourn his passing, three daughters, Mrs. Elvina A. Anderson, Thief River Falls, Mrs. Amanda Burnaugh, Chicago, and Mrs. Edna Einer, Minneapolis, and five sons, Herbert of Chicago, Alvin and Clifford, Oakland, California, and S 1-c Thorval Severson Jr. with the U. S. Navy stationed now at Oakland and Elmer of Holt, one brother, Otto Severson, Portland Oregon and seventeen grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Besides his two wives, three sons and two daughters preceedee him in death.

Interment was made in the Holt cemetary.

SWEET CREAM BRINGS "SWEET" RETURNS

Quality Improvement of Butter Returns Extra Dollars to Producers and Plants

1922 Before the end of its first year Land O' Lakes Creameries was encouraging dairy farmers and their cooperative creameries to standardize the quality of their butter—and to standardize on butter that would score "extras."

At that time, very little creamery butter could score "extras" . . . yet even then there was a price differential on the New York butter market in favor of sweet cream butter.

To pave the way for quality improvement, steps were taken immediately to see that dairy farmers got a premium price for sweet cream. Standards for the churning of sweet cream butter were set in April, 1922.

Month by month the percentage of sweet cream butter marketed by Land O'Lakes grew. And month by month it became obvious to dairymen and their creamery managers that the production of sweet cream butter paid dividends.

Land O'Lakes led in stressing quality improvement. The trail blazed by Land O'Lakes was soon taken by others. But the pioneer was—and still is—Land O'Lakes. Land O'Lakes quality field service is still the best example of a marketing organization helping producers secure extra returns through quality. Why not investigate ALL the advantages of marketing through Land O'Lakes?

To Save Money, Mix Your Cough Relief at Home

So Easy! No Cooking. Quick Relief.

Even if you're not interested in saving good money, you surely want a really effective relief for coughs due to colds. So try mixing it yourself, in your kitchen, and be ready for a surprise.

It's so easy to mix, a child could do it. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Then fill up with your syrup. This makes a pint—about four times as much for your money. It tastes good—children really like it. It lasts a family a long time, and never spoils.

But what you'll like most is the way it takes right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes irritation, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness, and let's you sleep. You'll say you've never seen its superior.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Try it, and if you're not really delighted, your money will be refunded. —Adv.

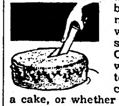
Entertaining Easily

Wartime brought back a simplicity of entertaining which will last for some time. We learned that an elaborate meal need not be served for a gathering to be successful. In fact, the simplest of food well prepared and nicely served will bring cheers from any crowd.

A salad with tiny sandwiches served with tea is ample refreshment for an afternoon meeting of the club. A mouth-watering coffee cake with coffee is ideal for an evening get-together. Chocolate milk and sandwiches or a casserole is perfect fare for the children's party.

With sugar still among the scarce items, it's a good idea to conserve on this precious foodstuff whenever possible. Judicious use of sugar substitutes will pull you through many a scarce period, and salads and sandwiches served with beverages will take care of the other times.



When selecting a recipe, check over the amount of sugar required before starting to mix so that you will not be caught short - handed. Consider also whether it is wise to use, say two cups of sugar for a cake, or whether a cake with half or less of that amount couldn't do just as well. It often will.

Many cookies and dessert sauces can be made just as sweet without sugar. These little economies will save sugar for the times when you really need it.

Here are two versatile salads which can easily meet entertaining needs. Both can be served with thin strips of sandwiches to act as a main dish.

Molded Main Dish Salad.

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup tomato juice
1 small can salmon, flaked
2 diced, hard-cooked eggs
⅓ cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Salad greens

Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat tomato juice to boiling. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill until partially congealed. Flake salmon; add. Add remaining ingredients. Place in individual ring molds or one 8½-inch mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on bed of lettuce greens and serve with french dressing or mayonnaise.

Frozen Fruit Salad.
(Serves 8)

1 cup cottage cheese
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup pineapple, finely diced
1 cup cherries, pitted
1 cup peaches, sliced or diced
2 oranges, diced
8 marshmallows, quartered
1 cup whipping cream
½ cup mayonnaise

Combine cheese, salt, fruits and marshmallows, tossing together lightly with a fork. Chill. Whip cream until stiff and combine lightly with mayonnaise. Fold in cheese mixture. Place in freezing tray for three to four hours; or, pack in equal parts of ice and salt for four hours. Serve on crisp lettuce and garnish with additional whipped cream blended with mayonnaise.

Sandwich Fillings

1. Combine 2 cups ground ham, 5 tablespoons mayonnaise, 5 tablespoons prepared mustard and use on whole wheat or rye bread.

2. Mash 3 ounces of cream cheese with 1 tablespoon worcestershire sauce and 2 tablespoons finely cut chives. Use with rounds of whole wheat or white bread.

3. Combine chopped hard-cooked eggs with minced celery, onion juice, chopped sweet pickle and mayonnaise to moisten. This is good on any type of bread.

4. Combine cottage cheese with chopped dates and preserved ginger and spread on white bread.

5. Mix cottage cheese with chipped, crisp bacon and add salad dressing to moisten.

A fruited coffee cake is always delightful because it has flavor and is appealing to look at. Here is the quick type which uses an easy method with a choice of fruit.

Fruited Coffee Cake.

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup sugar
⅓ cup fat
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
8 apricot halves or
4 peach halves or pineapple slices

Sift flour once, measure. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Cut fat into dry ingredients until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Combine egg with milk. Add to dry ingredients. Stir only until mixed. Pour into a greased 8-inch square pan. Leave apricots whole and cut peaches or pineapple in half. Arrange fruit over top of dough. Mix 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, and 1 tablespoon fat together. Sprinkle this mixture over the top. Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven for 30 minutes.

If you want to serve a light dessert for an afternoon club meeting or evening snack, it can be made entirely without sugar. Orange juice and prunes offer a flavorsome combination.

Frozen Orange Prune Whip.
(Serves 8)

1 egg white
½ cup extra-sweet corn syrup, golden type
½ cup prune pulp
1 cup cream, stiffly beaten
½ cup orange juice
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Beat egg white stiff. Gradually beat in syrup. Add prune pulp (made by rubbing cooked prunes through a sieve, or by chopping fine), folding it in thoroughly. Chill cream until very cold, then whip until stiff. Add orange juice, grated rind and lemon juice to cream. Combine prune and cream mixtures and freeze in refrigerator tray until firm.

Lynn Says:

Keep well-groomed: Art gum or wall paper cleaner may be used on light-colored felt hats and kid gloves for cleaning.

Light - colored furs may be cleaned and much improved in appearance by rubbing well with corn meal or flour. Shake out thoroughly and then brush well.

To prevent blisters from new shoes, cover irritated surface or place where shoe is most likely to rub with a small piece of adhesive tape.

To mend woolen garments, ravel a thread from the cloth itself and use for darning.

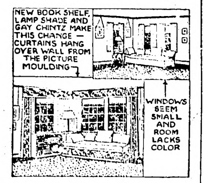
Creating a Modern Air in Living Room

HOUSES of glass are realities today and, if you want to give any house a modern air, try to make the windows seem important. One way is to frame them in a group by covering the wall and leaving the glass exposed.



NEW BOOK SHELF LAMP SHADE AND GAY CHINTZ MAKE THIS CHANGE — CURTAINS HANG OVER WALL FROM THE PICTURE MOULDING
WINDOWS SEEM SMALL AND ROOM LACKS COLOR

An inexpensive chintz with grey-green ground and a flower pattern is used for draperies and to trim the couch cover of heavier gray-green cotton material which is also used for the cushions. The glass curtains are hung on rods suspended from the picture moulding with picture wire and hooks. The side drapes are unlined but the valance is made over buckram. Both are tacked to pine strips and are hung with picture hooks. One end of the book shelves is closed in to make a head for the couch. The outside is painted grey-green and the inside dark green. The parchment lamp shade has green bindings.

1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk
¾ cup Kellogg's ALL-BRAN
1 cup sifted flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Blend peanut butter and sugar thoroughly; stir in egg, milk and KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 10 tender, tasty muffins.

Good Nutrition, too!
ALL-BRAN is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat—contains a concentration of the protective food elements found in the whole grain. One-half cup provides over ⅓ your daily minimum need for iron. Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily!

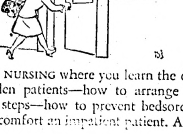
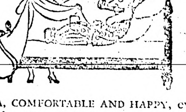
RED CROSS HOME NURSING

WHAT'S YOUR BEDSIDE MANNER?

THIS IS GRANDPA, CROSS AND GROUCHY, confined to bed with chronic arthritis. His arms are cold so you bundle heavy blankets around his shoulders and then wonder why he complains, "The pain in my joints is worse." His feet are cold so you tuck a hot water bottle, filled to the top with scalding water, next to them and his thanks is, "Are you trying to burn me to death?" So in desperation you turn to . . . .



RED CROSS HOME NURSING where you learn the easy way to care for bedridden patients—how to arrange equipment to save yourself steps—how to prevent bedsores—how to bathe, feed, and comfort an impatient patient. And now . . .



THIS IS GRANDPA, COMFORTABLE AND HAPPY, even though he is still in bed with arthritis. A lightweight bed jacket gives him warmth without weight. A hot water bottle wrapped in towels keeps his feet warm. And he puffs contentedly on his pipe with your full approval because you understand that clinging to a favorite habit is more important to Grandpa's happiness than a clean, but empty, ashtray.

If there is no home nursing course offered at present in your community, ask your Red Cross chapter how you may help organize one.

Send In Sub [illegible]

Farmers, upon having [illegible] their October, November [illegible] December butterfat statements or other evidence for the sale of whole milk or cream [illegible] present them for payment at the Marshall County AAA office at Warren or mail the evidence to such office emmediately, stated C. N. Kranz, chairman of the Marshall County A. C. A.

The deadline for presenting such evidence is February 28, 1946; but farmers are warned, that due to the rush in completing other work pertaining to the AAA program, some applications may not be able to be processed, before the deadline, if not presented until the last fow days, stated Mr. Kranz.

The payments applicable for for the October, November and December period are 17c per pound for butterfat and 60c per cwt. for whole milk.

Fair Play

Unequal advantages in any kind of contest spoil the sport for most Americans. A sense of fairness is deeply rooted in our people. Sometimes a champion athlete is not a popular favorite because the fans suspect some mysterious advantage that makes him invincible. Actually exposing crookedness in a professional team is all it takes to bankrupt the club, because fairness is cardinal.

Practically all forms of competition take on the features of a game in this country; business and politics are no exceptions. It has been said that "all's fair in love and war," but it might be said another way: When emotions overcome reason, people forget to be fair. The contestant who gets all worked up regrets it because his public turns against him if he is unfair.

Popular Decision

The public has taken a hand occasionally in the bout between these heavy-weight contestants, Capital and Labor. Until very recently, Labor was the popular favorite, and the choice was sane. The laborer has been "the man on the bottom" in many lands for countless years and sympathy for the under dog is a human trait. But this generation of Americans has seen the tables turn.

Labor in the United States is not the under dog—far from it. Every mature person, who has given the subject any thought at all, knows that Capital is no match for Labor in this country now. Labor has a club that management can't use; the strike. What is even more, management has no weapon that will approximately match it in force and violence, and has no defense from it.

Times Are Changed

There was a time when an employer could fire a competent workman for voting wrong. A straw boss once could dismiss a female subordinate for resenting his overtures. Intelligent persons were let out for expressing general discontent over long hours, low wages and unwholesome surroundings. It was disgraceful. It was also a long time ago. It was not fair. The public resented it and it stopped.

People still remember those days. Nobody cares much now if employers have to hire whom the union says hire, pay what the union says pay, and blow the whistle by the union official's watch. But there is something that the public does care about, namely strikes. When a home owner's family shivers in a cold house for want of fuel he is anxious to buy, he finds out why.

Unfairness Shows.

In finding out why, people discover Labor's unequal advantage. John Q. Public might not frown on a strike over wages or hours, but he gets plenty huffy doing without necessities while somebody retaliates a grievance—or while men sit idle, trying to force a point that might better be settled peaceably, settled with both shifts working and business going on as usual.

Strikes are violent and unfair and the public dislikes them. Destructive as arson, they hurt many people instead of one. I am a lifelong friend of Labor, and I predict that the strike will be outlawed by popular indignation. The lockout and the blacklist were so outlawed. Peaceful ways to settle industrial disputes exist now. Unless they are used voluntarily, we can look for the public to create some compulsory method.

Rail Quiz

Why was 4 feet 8½ inches adopted as the standard gauge?

Ancient Roman chariots were built with a clearance of about 4 feet 8½ inches between the wheels. This was the width between wheels of the early European coaches and carts. Early English tramways, operated with horse power, were built to accommodate cars of this width, and the first English locomotives were built of this gauge. Some of the first railroads in the United States imported locomotives from England, and these locomotives were of the English gauge. The track was made to fit the English locomotives. Of 487 railroads in the United States in 1871, 307 were of the English gauge and it was adopted as standard to enable free interchange of freight and passenger equipment.

Drawing for the Blind

The Braille technique of writing for the blind by means of a raised dot system is extended to the representation of line drawings in Braille books.

Rail Quiz

Is it true that railway trains in the West were sometimes impeded by wild buffaloes?

Trains crossing the Western plains in pioneer days were frequently delayed by "thundering herds of buffaloes."

In the 1870's, P. T. Barnum's circus train, traveling to Denver over the Kansas Pacific Railroad, encountered huge herds of wild buffaloes, and it was sometimes necessary to stop the train to let them pass.

FOR YOUR PATIENCE DURING FEBRUARY 5th STORM WE THANK YOU SINCERELY

The storm broke with a suddenness that is characteristic of our worst blizzards. In a matter of a few hours the area was once again gripped by a storm quite equeal in severity to those memorable ones of November, 1940, and March, 1941.

Telephone and telegraph lines were broken, highways were blocked, trains were halted, busses stopped. The storm was indeed terrific and damage was widespread.

Through it all, this Company utilized every man and every piece of equipment available, to retain service, or restore it where broken. Our linemen worked without rest, throuh long and bitter hours, to reach and repair lines, struggling not alone against weather but with snow-blocked roads and broken communications as well. To them great credit is due for heroic work under the most severe conditions.

We realize that this storm brought hardships and difficulties to many. For your patience and understanding during this trying period, we express to you our most sincere appreciation.

AAA Program for 1946

The 1946 AAA program should go farther than any previous program in meeting the serious soil building needs of this county. it was stated today by Chas Kranz, Chairman of the Marshall county Agricultural Conservation Committee, as farm plan sign-up meetings were being arranged for the county.

Enlarging on the statement, Chairman Kranz points out that there will be no farm allowance to limit the amount of conservation assistance any farmer can earn under the 1946 program. Explaining further, Mr. Kranz said this means no matter what a particular practice costs, the county committee is in a position to approve it as part of a farm plan, if the practice is in line with conservation practices needed on that farm. To qualify for payment, however, all practices must receive advance approval by the county committee.

Although there is $280,000.00 to split among Marshall County farmers eligible for participation in the program in 1946, farmers will be asked to pay a larger percentage of the cost of carrying out conservation practices in order that AAA assistanee can be extended to more farms.

County and Community AAA committeemen have the responsibility of getting as much conservation as possible for every dollar spent, and committeemen will approve practices based on the conservation needs of the individual farm rather than on farm allowance basis of previous years.

Principal emphasis under the 1946 program in Marshall county will be based on:

Fertilizers, Green Manure Crops, Weed Eradication on cropland, Protecting Summer Fallow; Field Stripcropping not on the contour, Construction or enlargement of open farm drainage ditches, Excavation of ditches for tile drainage.

Reseeding pastures, Harvesting hayseed, Tree planting and Maintaining a stand of trees in a windbreak.

The dates and locations of farm sign-up meetings will be announced soon, and at that time farmers will meet with community committeemen and apply for AAA assistance on their farms.

Egg Processing Plant Started

The Thief River Falls branch of Land O' Lakes creameries this week embarked on a new field of activity in the recently constructed plant on the Soo Line right-of-way at the south end of the old millyard in that city.

Stuart McCloud, manager of the Thief River branch stated that the project calls for the cracking and processing of over 1,000,000 pounds of eggs and that this and pending contracts is expected to require a staff of about 25 women and seven men until next August, when the movement of turkeys will again get under way.

The process to be utilized calls for the candling of the eggs, after which they are taken from the shell, packed in five-gallon cans, heated and sterilized, and then frozen, being shipped in this condition. Bakeries supply the main market for the product, Mr. McCleod stated.

Dr. Lynde of Thief River Falls was called to the Ludvig Sagsuen home to attend to the illness of Mrs. Sagstuen early Tuesday morning.

FERTILIZER'S USE IS INCREASED ON FARMS IN MINNESOTA

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Minnesota farmers have increased the tonnage of fertilizer used on their land by 46 per cent since 1934, according to a statement issued here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Consumption of commercial plant food on Minnesota farms totaled 13,445 tons in 1939," says the statement, "compared with 9,165 tons in 1934."

"This increase indicates that Minnesota farmers appreciate the place fertilizer must occupy in modern farming conditions. Minnesota soils are becoming older. They have been tilled continuously for nearly a century. The reserve of virgin fertility stored in them during the thousands of years of soil formation which preceded the advent of farming is becoming rapidly exhausted.

Fertilizer helps produce bumper corn crop.

This means that replacement of vital fertilizing elements removed by growing crops is necessary if profitable crop yields are to be obtained. Higher yields must be produced if farm products are to compete successfully on the market with products grown on more highly fertilized soils.

"The increasing use of fertilizer also indicates that farmers have found them profitable. Surveys have indicated that every dollar spent for fertilizer results in an average increased value of crops amounting to about three and a half dollars."

The Weather

The weather the past week has been mixed. Thursday was stormy. Friday was real cold. Saturday, Sunday and Monday were fair with rising temperature. Tuesday was nice and Wednesday and Thursday the sun shone and it warmed up for a spring thaw which is welcome.

Ness Sold The Holt Cafe

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Ness closed a deal this week with Myron Johnson in which Myron became the owner of the Holt Cafe. Mr. Ness has owned the Holt Cafe for the past twenty years taking it over from O. E. Sovde in 1926. Mr. Johnson took possession on Tuesday.

Eddy Henning Bought A Farm

Eddy Henning closed a deal on Saturday with his father, John Henning, in which he became owner of the old farmstead at Thief Lake. John Henning sold out there last fall and moved to Thief River Falls after having spent over 50 years on the place. Eddy has been running the Dew Drop Inn until recently when he sold out.

Donovan Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Peterson had his collar bone broken while playing with an older boy at the school on Thursday last week when he accidently was bumped and hit the ground. Mr. Peterson took him to Thief River Falls on Friday and had the break set and Denny is back to school wearing a protector harness until it heals.

4-H Club Meets Feb 26

The 4-H Club will hold its monthly meeting on Tuesday evening, February 26 at the school house.

A special invitation is extended to parents and others interested in the club work. Moving pictures and demonstrations have been planned for this meeting.

Do Not Shoot Rare Birds

During the present winter we in Minnesota are experiencing an unusual abundance of the striking big white snowy owl coming south into the state from its artic home. A shortage of the mouse-like lemming usually accounts for their southward movement. The Bird Protection Committee of the Minnesota Ornithologists' Union is anxious to point out that articles are continually appearing in newspapers about a youngster here or a Mr. So and So there shooting one of these big white owls, and nowhere in the articles appear any statements about this being an infraction of our game laws. During the recent session of the legislature numerous conservation groups throughout the state approved and supported the inclusion in the new game and fish code of the clause protecting all hawks and owls in Minnesota with the exception of the great horned owl, the goshawk, sharp-shinned hawk and the Cooper's hawk. This clause is now law in this state and it is now the task of these groups to acquaint the people of the state with the fact that protection has been extended to these birds.

Only a few days ago a beautiful specimen of the very rare golden eagle was picked up along a highway near Minneapolis—a specimen shot through the body with a rifle, undoubtedly the work of some casual shooter out for a little target practice. It never enters the mind of such shooters that many people are much interested in seeinng such an unusual sight as a big golden eagle near the Twin Cities. More and more people are becoming interested in the birdlife of Minnesota, and to this growing group the hawks and owls are as interesting as pheasants and ducks.

Carefully compiled scientific reports on the food habits of these birds prove they are very largely beneficial.

The snowy owl is one of the most strikingly beautiful of all our birds, and still dozens are shot because they are so large and beautiful. Protect them.

Woman's World

Men's Discarded Suits Provide Material for Jackets, Skirts

By Etta Haley

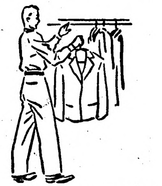
EVERY home has a clothes closet with a down-and-out suit that is not quite worn enough to throw out or a dress that has passed out of fashion. Every "rag bag" has a piece of material in it which, properly treated, would solve the problem of trimming a dress or making a smart hat or bag.

On the other side of the picture, there is no such thing as the woman or her daughter who has a large enough clothes budget to buy all the wearables which their hearts desire. However, armed with a pin and needle, sewing machine, perhaps, a dyeing dish, and a little ingenuity, every woman can make rapid strides toward creating the wardrobe she wants.

In many homes right now, there are a number of men's suits which are not suitable for wear just as they are. Big brother, who has been in the service, finds he has put on both inches and pounds and his old clothes do not fit. Or, dad wants something new and snappy in a suit, and decides the old blue serge suit will not do for another season. This suit, then, is fair game for remodeling.

Clean It First.

Before any actual cutting and sewing can be started, the garment should be washed or cleaned depending on the fabric. Woolens may be washed in warm, soapy suds and then dried in a warm place. If you fear shrinkage, dry cleaning is always safe. Then the seams should be carefully ripped, either with a small scissors or a razor. They may also be unravelled, but in any case, care should be taken to prevent pulling threads in the fabric or small holes which might make it unusable. Careful pressing is also important. If the suit is cleaned at home, it should be laid on the ironing board as smoothly as possible, then covered with a damp cloth—cheese cloth or muslin will do—and pressed with a fairly warm iron.



If You Have a Worn-Out Man's Suit . . .

This preparation might seem like unnecessary work, but it will preserve the lines of the material and will simplify recutting. The material will also be in long pieces and will be easier to piece together.

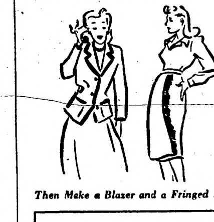
A boy's or man's suit can be clearly fashioned into a blazer jacket for daughter, and the pants may be used for a wrap-around skirt for mother or daughter. The jacket will probably need few alterations. In some cases it will be necesaary to rip it apart to cut down for size, but this is easily done.

Contrasting Trimming.

Now, here's how the jacket is finished into a blazer. A tape of contrasting color is selected for trimming. This is piped around the collar and down the front. If there are pockets, these may also be trimmed with the tape.

What about the color? If the suit is navy, brown or black, don't fuss; just use a bright colored trim. If it is any other color, take it out with color remover, and dye it navy, brown, dark or kelly green, or bright red.

The trousers, when ripped, can be pieced together for a nice, trim skirt. This may be gored or plain in the back, and it will have an opening in the front to the side. The end of the skirt that will be wrapped on top is fringed by the simple process of unraveling an inch of the material. The skirt, of course, is set on a waistband which is an inch to an inch and a half in width. The wrapping may be secured with inside fasteners, or a giant safety, if daughter is going to use the skirt.



Then Make a Blazer and a Fringed Skirt.

Dark Skirts Versatile.

The dark color of men's suits will be particularly adaptable to skirts, for a dark skirt can be worn with almost any colored blouse. If you want to dye it, remove the color first, and concentrate on dark colors such as dark red, green or navy when re-dyeing. The deep colors such as those you find in clan plaids are favorites for a skirt of this type.

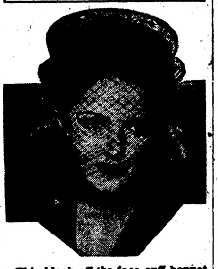
Vests are very popular for women this year. They may be worn with dresses, skirts or slacks. If the suit has a vest, it can be made smaller by ripping it apart, and then cutting down to fit. The vests from tweed suits need no re-dyeing as they will go beautifully with both skirts and slacks.

Darning the Garment.

In patching, cut on the straight of the goods. Sew the patch on so crosswise yarns meet the crosswise yarns in the garment, and its lengthwise yarns meet lengthwise yarns. Patch a faded garment with a faded piece from a hem or a pocket so that it will match the material.

Yarns are well adapted to mending woolen material, especially small holes, tears and worn spots. If possible, use yarn unraveled from the same cloth the garment was made from, or raveled from the inside of a straight-cut seam or hem.

Cuff Bonnet



This black off-the-face cuff bonnet is worn by Martha Vickers who is featured in "The Big Sleep." The hat has gold lace across the cuff and colored jewels are set in the lace. The black veil, laced with felt cords, ties in bows at the back.

Patching Pointers

Shrink new fabrics before using them to patch old garments. If this is not done, the patch may shrink and pucker later.

Careful steam pressing makes patches seem less noticeable. If ironing on woolen patches, cover with a damp cloth before ironing to prevent shine.

When you are buying material for a dress buy a half yard extra and make a wrap-around turban for yourself. This will give you a hat to match the dress.

Keep a small whisk broom handy for brushing clothes thoroughly before and after wearing. A small stiff brush is excellent for suede bags and shoes, felt hats or suede gloves.

The legs from an old pair of pajamas are excellent for an ironing board cover. Cut off the pajama leg and slip it over the board. Cover with the second leg and sew them at the ends.

Jumpers can be made from any simple dress and are an excellent wardrobe pepper-upper. To convert them, just rip out the sleeves, reshape the armseye and neck and finish the seams. Jumpers may be tailored or dressy, depending upon the blouse you wear most becomingly, and they are worn summer and winter.

Split seams in gloves are mended in the way they were originally stitched—whip or running stitch. On lapped seams, sewed close by machine, if there is not enough room for a seam, make blanket stitches along the edges of the ripped seam to strengthen it. Draw the edges together by overhanding through the blanket stitches. Conceal all thread ends inside glove.

Fashion Notes

Broad shoulders, deep armholes and set-in waistband give that much desired slim look in a soft gray plaid suit.

The latest idea in costume jewelry is to have some idea behind it. Crossed swords decorating a black suede bag have been seen, and a simple pin depicting a sheaf of wheat may adorn a black or navy dress.

Wide, round collars of pink or white pique make nice frosting for a simple, dark basic dress.

Pink print jackets are smart with solid black skirts for dress-up wear. This makes a nice ensemble for town wear.

Swirled print blouses are increasingly popular with the bolero type suit. The blouse usually girdles at the waist and ties in a bow.

Farm Topics

Ammonium Nitrate or Nitrogen for Hay

Proper Application to Increase Tonnage Urged

Farmers can increase their hay production from three-quarters to one and one-half tons per acre by applying ammonium nitrate or other nitrogen fertilizers as a top dressing in April or early May, according to Prof. C. J. Chapman of the soils department of the University of Wisconsin.

Professor Chapman recommended the use of 150 to 200 pounds per acre of ammonium nitrate on timothy and other grassland meadows.

In addition to increased yield, the fertilizer treatment improves the protein content and feeding value of the hay, he added. Professor Chapman declared that ammonium nitrate is excellent as a treatment for grassland pastures, since it greatly increases milk production and provides a week's earlier grazing.

The value of ammonium nitrate and other nitrogenous fertilizers as a top dressing for pastures and hay fields was demonstrated.

This Raleigh county, West Virginia, farm has proven value of fertilizers to the hay fields.

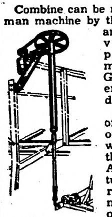
Most of the treatments were at the rate of 200 pounds per acre, with a few at 150 pounds and one at 400 pounds. The average profit for all the demonstrations, over and above the cost of the fertilizer was $16.82 per acre.

Professor Chapman pointed out, however, that the continuous use, year after year of ammonium nitrate or any other straight nitrogen fertilizer will eventually result in the depletion of the available reserves of lime, phosphate and potash in the soil.

"It is therefore recommended," he said, "that the mineral reserves of the soil be maintained through the application of lime, phosphate and potash fertilizers, together with the systematic use of stable manure.

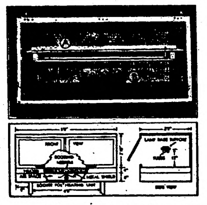
Improved Machinery
Harvester Control

Combine can be made into a one-man machine by the installation of an electric harvester control placed on the market by the Gleaner Harvester corporation, Independence, Mo.



The moving part of the lift consists of a lead screw which is turned by the electric motor. As this screw turns in either direction, a large nut follows it up or down, thus raising or lowering the harvester unit.

Fluorescent Hotbeds



A hotbed in which plants may be started in the basement, barn or any other building has been developed by Dr. V. T. Stoutemeyer and Albert W. Close of the USDA.

The diagram (a) is the fixture and reflector holding two 40-watt fluorescent lamps, and (b) the trays or flats in which seedling plants are grown.

'1080' Super Rough-On Rats Becomes Available

The DDT of the rat world, the new chemical rat-killer, has recently been released from wartime duty. This product, "1080" was developed by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service and the Wildlife Research laboratory. The poison is sodium fluoroacetate. It has been proven to be the most deadly stuff ever tried out on rats. But it will also kill any other animal. It is now available for release.

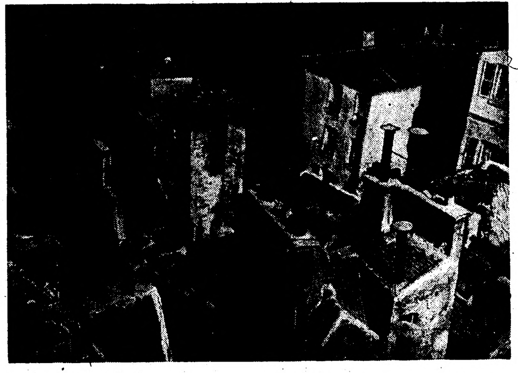
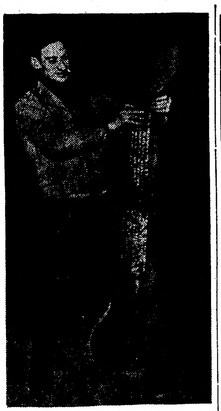
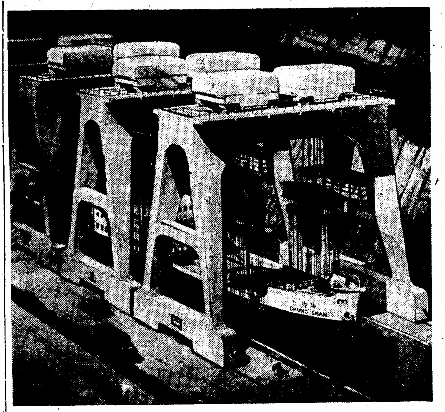
WINTER IN FLORIDA OR NEW HAMPSHIRE . . . Regardless of the weather, the younger generation finds plenty of amusement and body-building activities. At North Conway, N. H., the Eastern Slope Ski school, give more than 24,000 ski lessons annually to youngsters who contribute $2 annually and write a school composition on skiing. At a cabana club pool in Miami, Mary Jane Coucci, New York, goes overboard, while Kent Merkle, Washington, and Mary Jane's sister, Shirley, watch in their "doughnuts."



PARIS . . . Look out your window in a modern Paris hotel and this is what you will see. Houses of crazy architecture and multitudinous chimney pots. George Alexander, Los Angeles, was so much in love with Paris that he reproduced it and brought it home in miniature. Entire streets and blocks of the picturesque quarters of the French capital are included in his collection. He fled Paris in 1936 without his "baby" which, by underground routes, finally caught up with him in Los Angeles.



HANDY WRENCH . . . Weighing 265 pounds, this wrench has been declared surplus by the U. S. army at the Lordstown (Ohio) ordnance plant. Ed Dolan of Warren, standing by the wrench, is six feet tall. Civilians may purchase such gadgets as these—to fix their watches.



MORE POWER TO THE DRAGON . . . China is to pump new life into the old dragon by building the biggest concrete dam, irrigation project and power plant ever known. Yangtze gorge project, with co-operation of the U. S. bureau of reclamation, builder of Boulder and Grand Coulee dams, is drafting overall plans. The mechanical lock facilities are shown above. They are capable of hoisting a loaded vessel of several thousand tons displacement capacity. John Lucian Savage is consulting engineer.

LOS ANGELES UNION STOCK YARDS

Household Hints

Twelve used jar rings sewed together will make you a handy sink mat. Or, if you crochet around them, then join them together, you'll have pretty table mats.

Even an old funnel can be glamorous. Paint it to match your kitchen color scheme and hang it on the wall as a holder for a ball of twine.

To remove old glue from furniture easily and quickly, wash it off with hot vinegar. Let wood dry thoroughly before applying fresh glue.

To restore the gloss of dark furs, rub lightly with a brush which has been dipped in brilliantine.

No squeaks if you make oiling your sewing machine a habit. To oil a sewing machine properly, put the oil on every place where one part rubs against or turns within another.

Septic tanks require some attention every three or four years, but the work is lessened if you are located on sloping ground. This will permit a sludge drain that can be agitated through the use of an ordinary garden hose.

Ever Try Making Cough Syrup In Your Kitchen?
Quick Relief. No Cooking. Easy!
If you've never tried mixing your own cough medicine, you've missed a lot. It's no trouble—needs no cooking—and gives you about four times as much cough syrup for your money. You'll say it beats anything you ever tried for coughs due to colds. And here's how it's done:—
Make a plain syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until it is dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.
Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from your druggist. Put this into a pint bottle and fill up with your syrup. This makes a pint—a family supply. Tastes fine and never spoils. Children love it.
And as for results, you've never seen anything better. It goes right to work on the cough, loosening the phlegm, soothing the irritation, and helping clear the air passages. You will like it for its results, and not merely for the money it saves.
Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.—Adv.

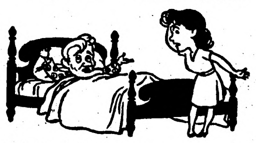
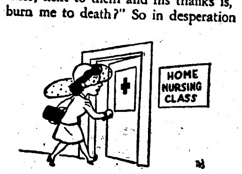
RED CROSS HOME NURSING

WHAT'S YOUR BEDSIDE MANNER?



THIS IS GRANDPA, CROSS AND GROUCHY, confined to bed with chronic arthritis. His arms are cold so you bundle heavy blankets around his shoulders and then wonder why he complains, "The pain in my joints is worse." His feet are cold so you tuck a hot water bottle, filled to the top with scalding water, next to them and his thanks is, "Are you trying to burn me to death?" So in desperation you turn to . . .



RED CROSS HOME NURSING where you learn the easy way to care for bedridden patients—how to arrange equipment to save yourself steps—how to prevent bedsores—how to bathe, feed, and comfort an impatient patient. And now . . .

THIS IS GRANDPA, COMFORTABLE AND HAPPY, even though he is still in bed with arthritis. A lightweight bed jacket gives him warmth without weight. A hot water bottle wrapped in towels keeps his feet warm. And he puffs contentedly on his pipe with your full approval because you understand that clinging to a favorite habit is more important to Grandpa's happiness than a clean, but empty, ashtray.

If there is no home nursing course offered at present in your community, ask your Red Cross chapter how you may help organize one.

Visitors at the Art Sorter home Sunday were, Henry, Christine, Eleanor, Irene and Joseph Bukowski.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingval Johnson visited at the Bernard Maijala home Sunday.

Many roads here drifted full again during theweek end.

Gilbert Sanoden returned home from St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls on Monday. He is feeling much better.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson and family visited at the John Lager home at Thief River Falls Sunday evening.

Rail Quiz

How many locomotives do the nation's railways have?

Class I railroads in the United States had 43,300 locomotives in service at the beginning of 1945. This compares with 42,731 a year earlier and 41,721 in 1940.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Who May Think?

Stopped by a traffic signal while driving in a narrow, busy street a few days ago, my ear caught a familiar, musical note. Just beyond the sidewalk, through a big, open door, a blacksmith was shaping shoes for a farmer's heavy team. Horns behind me suggested moving along before I had finished looking, but it was an inspiration to watch this workman, so skillful and energetic.

Moving-picture blacksmiths are elderly gentlemen with droopy mustaches, but not this man. He was about 30, clean shaven and active. The tempo of his hammer was lively. The hopeful picture he unwittingly posed of post-war America has come to mind several times since. More recently I have been listening to men discuss post-war plans that involved moulding public opinion.

Fabricating Sentiment

"Knowledge is Power." The words are supposed to have flowed from the pen of Francis Bacon about 300 years ago, but I think Bacon lifted this choice bit of wisdom from Solomon: Proverbs 24-5. It has stood the test of time. Popular sentiment can be moulded. No informed person will deny it. Hitler did it. National leaders do it all the time, consciously or unconsciously, for better or for worse.

For eleven years in China I watched selfish local war lords exercise their power over a patient, toiling peasantry. It could be done easily where the great mass of the people were unlearned, as in China, where 80% could neither read nor write. Unlearned masses sometimes rebel, but they usually fail because the energy they exert is not power; only ill-directed force.

Common Sense of Most

For 156 years the United States has prospered and grown as a republic. This is superior to a democracy in that it provides for the safety and protection of minorities. A democracy places the minority at the mercy of the majority, sometimes just as heartlessly as a dictatorship. That is why minorities have retained freedom in America; why each individual is still free to think for himself.

It is impossible to get a corner on a nation's ideas. Every man and woman has a brain and there is only one way to keep them from utilizing these assets to enrich themselves and the whole race, namely, keep 'em ignorant. The American way is the other way: schooling is free; libraries are everywhere; press and radio prosper keeping people informed. Our people have knowledge and our nation has power.

An Offensive Figure

A country, whose leaders want the benefit of the best thinking of the whole nation, is on its way up. A nation that confines its thinking and planning to boards and bureaus is on its way down. Central planners reason thus: "The blacksmith has a head on him, but so does his hammer. Why bother about either? We will do the thinking and the planning."

Germany planned for the whole of her people, but her wages were only half as high as American wages in 1939. Russia does governmental planning for all of her people. Wages there were about one-sixth of American wages in 1939. I am for keeping our Republic, for drawing on the intelligence of our entire population and for keeping a well and correctly informed public. "Knowledge is Power."

FOR YOUR PATIENCE DURING FEBRUARY 5th STORM WE THANK YOU SINCERELY

The storm broke with a suddenness that is characteristic of our worst blizzards. In a matter of a few hours the area was once again gripped by a storm quite equeal in severity to those memorable ones of November, 1940, and March, 1941.

Telephone and telegraph lines were broken, highways were blocked, trains were halted, busses stopped. The storm was indeed terrific and damage was widespread.

Through it all, this Company utilized every man and every piece of equipment available, to retain service, or restore it where broken. Our linemen worked without rest, throuh long and bitter hours, to reach and repair lines, struggling not alone against weather but with snow-blocked roads and broken communications as well. To them great credit is due for heroic work under the most severe conditions.

We realize that this storm brought hardships and difficulties to many. For your patience and understanding during this trying period, we express to you our most sincere appreciation.

Holt Boy Scout News

The local scout troop observed "Scout Week" Feb. 8-14 in a fine way considering we have recently started this activity again. Some of the troop committee members together with Scoutmaster Harley Peterson attended the Court of Honor held in Thief River Falls and a few of the scouts were also there and ~~marched with the other scouts.~~ The local scouts also took part in the services at the Nazareth church on Sunday, Feb. 17.

The local committee met for reular meeting Wednesday night (3rd Wednesday each month) and assigned different men to serve on merit badge committee.

Last Friday evening the Scout troop served lunch to the crowd at the schoolhouse after a program presented by the local sportsmen's club.

The Otter Tail Power Company hi-line crew was here for several days the past week putting new poles and making some changes in the power system in the west end of town.

Henry Nohre was a vistor at Crookston on Wednesday.

Recognition

Gratitude has been defined bitterly as a lively anticipation of future favors. Gratitude is a great deal more than that, but it's a fact that people do much more, also much better, when they know their efforts are appreciated. Genuine appreciation goes unexpressed sometimes, but people who don't express their gratitude are sure to miss some desirable future favors.

Unselfish things people do for their country, for their home community, family or church, are not rightly done for praise. In fact, people who do noble things with glory as the primary aim quite often miss the target. Shouts of hurrah for a hero help other people more than they help him. The effect is to inspire everybody to greater public service.

The Danville Idea

Danville, Ill., cashes in on this powerful influence. The Commercial-News, a Danville daily newspaper, keeps the idea alive. Every Monday morning the paper carries a story about some citizen who has performed a noteworthy public service. He is designated the "Man of the Week," and the article tells why. It tells what the man did and other interesting things about him.

Selections are always on a basis of public service, not personal achievement. Some ambitious young underwriter who sells his first-million-dollar insurance policy is not necessarily a Man of the Week, although he probably feels pretty successful. Danville's Man of the Week must have done something big for Danville and, like as not, received no commission on it.

A One-Man Program

The weekly selection, the biographical sketch of some good citizen every Monday, the repeated reminder of what a fine thing it is to be unselfish and thoughtful, keeps Danville's wide awake citizens "on their toes." They never let a good man down. The newspaper learns of praiseworthy achievements because somebody always writes to the editor and tells him.

The articles are written by a modest scribe who signs his name Bob Poisall no title after it. Incidentally, Bob picks the Man of the Week every time. He does it without help or advice from staff or board. Usually he selects a man of Danville, Vermilion County, but there is no rule. If the town's benefactor lives somewhere else he's not barred.

An Annual Banquet

Every year Mr. Poisall plans and organizes a dinner with all trimmings and invites his 52 selected men to eat with him. The Man of the Week Banquet has become quite an institution in Danville since April, 1940. There are not always just 52 men present. Once in a while Bob has a hard time deciding which of two good men to choose and ends by naming both of them.

The moral to this story is so perfectly obvious that I am going to surprise you and not mention it. Once I attended Bob's banquet—a completely American function. I met 52 good men and true, most of whom were still surprised that what they did should be considered great. Maybe every town can't have one but it's a constructive project for any community where there is a man who has the knack.

Sportsmen Had Good Show

The local sportsmens club which was organized here only recently staged a "Parade of Models" show in connection with their first regular meeting held on Friday evening at the school house. The school auditorium was filled to overflowing and there were about twenty-five people who came late that did not get seats. This was Ladies Night and the boys put on their best in show business for entertainment. You would never have known some of the boys if you had not seen them before, as they came out on stage in flashy gowns and swanky hairdoos.

There were nifty songs and peppy music in connection and those who attended this fun festival came away laughing as they were going home.

The club which started out here with only 27 members had 86 more sign up at this gathering swelling the total to 113 in all. Several of these members are women and more will join later and have their organization in connection with the club.

Holt Boy Scout Troop 112 sold lunch on a pay - what - you - like basis and they took in $35.00.

The next meeting of the club will be Friday, March 22.

Celebrates 88th Birthday

P. B. Malberg, pioneer farmer of Excel township celebrated his 88th birthday on Sunday, Feb. 24th. He came to Excel in Oct. 1881 and filed on the piece of land which he is still living after 65 long years. He has a nice 520 acre farm with a good home on it but, does not crop all the land as some of it has a wealth of good concrete and road gravel deposits on it. A few years ago he sold a ten-acre plot to the State of Minnesota which produced thousands of yards of choice gravel. On one 80-acre piece of his land he estimates that he has about 300,000 yards of concrete gravel of the finest kind and about 375,000 yards of good road gravel besides a lot of stripping and dirt that too can be used.

Olaf Simonson, his son-in-law, is farming this big place southwest of Steiner. Mr. Malberg also has one of the finest orchards in this part of the state.

The News extends congratulations to the old pioneer.

Fruit Coffee Cake Livens Party Table

Fruit coffee cake waves a magic wand over the party table when friends drop in of an afternoon, writes the Country Cooking Editor of Capper's Farmer.

"Made of ordinary quick-bread dough, it's glamorized with raisins, nuts and spices," she writes.

"Serve it at any meal for the family's delight. A thin icing puts it in the dessert class at lunch or dinner."

Fruit Coffee Cake.

½ c. raisins
½ c. water
1 tsp. lemon juice
Ground cloves
Ground cinnamon
⅓ c. shortening
1 tbsp. flour
1 egg
¼ c. milk
1¾ c. flour
2 tsp. baking powder
¾ c. sugar

Combine seedless raisins and water. Bring to a boil and cook for two minutes. Gradually add 1 tbsp. flour to mixture, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add lemon juice and a dash of cloves and cinnamon. Cool. Combine raisin mixture, lightly beaten egg and milk. Sift all-purpose flour, baking powder and sugar together. Work in shortening so particles are approximately the size of a small pea. Pour liquid mixture into middle of dry ingredients; stir two together just enough to mix well. Spoon into greased tube pan. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375° F.) for 25 minutes.

PLAN MODERN ELECTRICAL LIVING FOR 1946

Yes Indeed!
OLD Houses Can Be REWIRED Adequately

Homes, homes, and MORE homes are needed. Not every one can be built right now, but RIGHT NOW you can determine that YOUR home is to provide Better Living.

In your plans, include a modernized labor-saving electric kitchen, a health-building sunbath (wired sunshine), simplified laundry, and comfort and convenience built into every room.

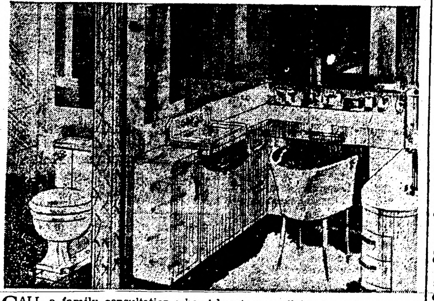
Plan a Bathroom to Please Entire Family



CALL a family consultation when you're planning that new bathroom is the advice given farm folks in an article in nationally circulated Capper's Farmer. Then you'll not be forever after wishing the fixtures had been installed some other way. Juggle space and fixtures on paper, then when the final decision is reached, the work of installing the bathroom may go ahead without confusion.

If the family is large, you'll need more than one bathroom. Or if there can be only one, it should be planned to accommodate more than a single person at a time. Simple partitions, like those used in the bathroom pictured above, will do the trick. The lavatory and toilet are separated from the tub. Further convenience is provided by the extra stool in the tub compartment.

Between adjoining bathrooms a partition bath may have a stool and lavatory available to each room and a tub compartment connection with both. If there are several children to get ready for school at once, have two lavatories in the bathroom. Better still, put one of the lavatories with a stool downstairs. Make a complete second bathroom by adding a prefabricated shower cabinet.

A bathroom ought to be pretty as well as utilitarian, the Capper's Farmer article points out. That will be easy enough with the good-looking fixtures now being manufactured. Porcelain enamel will be made in almost any shade your artistic heart desires. You'll also have a wide variety of wall finishes to choose from—plastic-finished wallboard, wallpaper, tile, tile board, paint, wall linoleum, structural glass. Linoleum and tile are the most popular floor coverings. All these are available in many colors and designs.

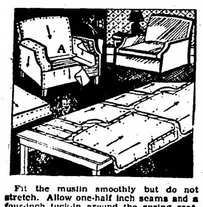
Here's a Simple Way To Make Slip Covers

THERE are a number of ways to make slip covers. This sketch shows the method of making a pattern from unbleached muslin, or an old sheet, if you do not have the confidence to fit the fabric right on the chair.



Fit the muslin smoothly but do not stretch. Allow one-half inch seams and a four-inch tuck-in around the spring seat, as at A. Cut as at B. Mark each piece with an arrow to show which way the grain of the goods should run. The larger sketch shows the pattern pinned on the slip cover fabric ready for cutting. These slip cover directions are from SEWING BOOK 3, which contains 31 other useful ideas for the home with illustrated directions. Booklets are 15 cents each. Address your request to:

A Dated Velvet Wrap Can Easily Be Converted into a Brunch Coat

By Ertta Haley

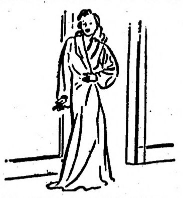
ONE of the most surprising results which home sewing produces is the new wardrobe. Ideas plus work plus old clothes can achieve not only one brand new dress or suit, but often a complete set of clothes for a whole season.

Just as sewing circles have been popular in the past, so can "remodeling bees" be just as popular now. There's at least one dress, wrap or piece of material in every home which would welcome remodeling to become a smart, clever addition to your wardrobe for spring or summer.

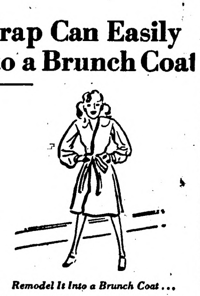
Velvet evening wraps, for example, are completely dated. They have been replaced by short wraps of all materials, except velvet. The long wraps which are popular even yet are made up in bright-colored woolens or similar materials, thus putting velvet wraps to the farthest corner of the closet.

Velvet, however, is being shown in the smart "brunch" coats—those short robes which are so handy to have when you want to slip into something comfortable, and yet be well groomed. A brunch coat, in other words, is a short kimona, and made up in velvet, they can be just about the smartest thing you have in wearables.

To make a velvet evening wrap into a brunch coat, have the wrap cleaned first. Velvet should be dry-cleaned, rather than washed, to protect the color and finish of the material. Then rip the wrap apart completely, removing the lining, too, as it will be easier to cut and sew.



If You Have a Dated Velvet Wrap . . .



Remodel It Into a Brunch Coat . . .

If you are handy you can cut out a pattern at home. Keep in mind the lines of the evening wrap, and use them as such if they are practical. It's smart to plan a wide, flaring skirt to carry out the luxuriousness of the ensemble.

Three-quarter length sleeves are smart, and these may have cuffs, if you like. Or, if the wrap has enough material, you might make long, full sleeves, gathered at the wrist.

Many of the brunch coats have no collar, and this treatment may be used, provided you pad the shoulders and work in detail around the top part of the coat. If you prefer a collar, a Peter Pan type is very dainty; or, a V collar coming down to the waist will carry out the flowing lines of the brunch coat.

Quilting the Coat.

If the velvet material is not quilted, it may be left plain or quilted after the coat is put together. This is easily done with an inexpensive quilting foot attachment for the sewing machine. It is important to remember always to stitch in the same direction to prevent a pucker. Stitching is started from the bottom of the coat and sleeve, each time, and worked to the top.

When you are ready to stitch across the material, start at the bust-line. Remember the grain of the goods is your best guide to the stitch. Always select a thread which matches the material.

Problem of the Lining.

Many evening wraps have not been worn sufficiently to ruin the lining. In that case, press the lining carefully after it has been ripped from the wrap, and cut it to fit the brunch coat.

If the lining material is still in good condition, but too drab for a snappy brunch coat, then remove the color and re-dye it in a shade either darker or brighter than the velvet itself, or a contrasting shade.

Wide belts are highly favored for brunch coats for their slenderizing effect on the waist line. The belt, of course, can be made from the material left over when the wrap was shortened into the coat, and it too may carry the contrasting lining that the rest of the coat has.

Long, flowing belts are best because they can be tied easily, and they will add long, vertical lines to the garment. It will also give you an opportunity to sport the contrasting color of the lining even though the brunch coat is wrapped around and kept closed.

Patching Pointers

A partially worn garment can be brightened with new collar and cuffs, belt or pockets of contrasting material, plaid or print.

Torn seams may easily be mended if there is enough material from scraps or facings. Make the inset seem as though it were a part of the original pattern of the dress or skirt.

If you are altering a worn garment that is frayed or torn around the waist, try making small tucks which will conceal those parts. The tucks will serve to nip in the waist and add much to the pretty detail of the clothing.

When the fabric beneath a button tears, repair the torn section with a patch before sewing on the button. The patch can be double-stitched, that is, sewed on both sides of the material, because it will not show.

Old sheets can be made into eye-catching bib and tuckers for young fry. Or, they may be used for bonnets, pinafores and blouses. Dye them, if it's color you want, and be generous with the ruffled edging or ric rac for trimming.

To keep clothes looking neat and trim, go over the neckbands with a cleaning fluid after each wearing. It's extravagant to clean a whole dress just because the neckband is soiled, and this simple process will save many cleaning bills.

In pressing pleats, use as cool an iron as possible — excessive heat weakens fabrics. Wrinkles in pile fabrics such as velvet may sometimes be removed by hanging in steam over the bathtub. Small spots may be steamed over the tea kettle.

To make small repairs on a slip, use a double underarm patch. Cut two identical shield-shaped patches. Turn seam allowance around all edges of both patches and baste. Baste one patch in place on the right side, and the other patch directly underneath it, on the wrong side. Machine-stitch all around the patch. For extra strength, use a double row of machine patching.

Collarless Cardigan

Blonde Veronica Lake models a collarless cardigan suit of black casha, bound in black braid. The suit has a self belt and buttons covered with the same material. The outfit is topped with a black jersey fisherman's cap.

Fashion Notes

Cap sleeves are still popular for that "bare" look, and will be wonderfully cool as soon as the warm weather turns in.

For spring and summer, you'll want big, bright colorful prints, and sleek cool white in a wrinkleproof fabric. All daytime clothes are fairly simply tailored, but for dress-up gowns you can have all the gayety you want.

Plaid and plain prints in a coat dress style will please the mature woman because they give smart lines to the figure and are easy to keep neat as a band-box.

Back-to-romance feeling is illustrated by the choice of cotton fabrics, cotton lace and eyelet trims being popular along with plaid and checked ginghams, balloon cloth and chambray.

Farm Topics

Soil Proven Cause Of Cattle Disease

Cobalt, Iodine, Copper Deficiencies Found

Recent investigations conducted by the American Veterinary Medical association has pointed a way to better health among farm animals. Many livestock diseases have been traced directly to the soil of fields and pastures.

A wasting-away condition found in many localities has been traced to a deficiency of the earthy element called "cobalt." In every case, this condition was remedied when top dressing of superphosphate, containing less than a tin-cupful per ton, was applied to the land.

Carnation Ormsby Madcap Fayne could never have established her record on a pasture deficient in proper elements.

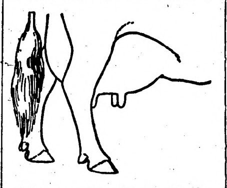
Lack of iodine in the soil and water often causes prenatal goiter and stillbirth in all species of animals, as well as poor hatchability of eggs.

Sway-back has been traced to a lack of copper in the soil. As little as two tablespoonfuls of copper salt mixed with each hundred pounds of salt lick will do away with the sway-back trouble.

Deficiencies of manganese, of phosphorus, zinc and calcium may also be responsible for mysterious losses among flocks and herds which are apparently given good care and feeding. A suggested remedy is a soil survey followed by the addition of the missing element in the manure or fertilizer applied to the soil.

Selection Prevents Broken Down Udders

While there is no known cure for a cow with a broken down udder, they can usually be prevented by proper breeding selection. Weak udders are inherited. Some strains have them more than others. In selecting foundation stock breeders should choose only cows whose udders are so well attached that there is little likelihood that they will break down for several years. There is aways a danger of break down caused by severe injury.



When selecting dairy cattle for breeding, special attention must be paid to udders.

At the first suggestion of an oversized udder, calf heifers should be fed lightly on grain, substituting bran or other laxative feeds for most of the carbohydrate feeds, such as corn and barley.

Other beneficial steps are milking before freshening, as soon as the udder gets large, and three times a day milking of the heavy producers for several weeks after freshening.

Popcorn Promises Real Return in Many Areas

The American appetite for popcorn is expected to continue strong for some years to come. While the profit from popcorn is not fabulous, the growing of the crop is "very little extra trouble."

It is possible to secure contracts for the raising of popcorn for seed purposes. North Carolina farmers report that they have been receiving from 10 to 12 cents a pound for their popcorn.

U. S. Pays Nearly Half Billion in War Pensions

Besides the $312,000,000 in pensions which the United States government now pays annually to the 587,000 veterans and dependents of veterans of the First World war, it still pays $155,000,000 each year to some 225,000 pensioners of the Mexican war, Civil war and Spanish-American war.

Household Hints

A little salt in the bottom of the skillet will keep the fat from popping.

Clean the underside of rugs frequently, for dirt works through, and insects are likely to hide underneath.

Cat-stitch seams on baby's sleeping garments and underwear to hold them flat. Helps prevent needless irritation to his sensitive skin.

If salt fish are soaked and cooked in milk they become much sweeter than when soaked in water.

Should the loud ticking of a clock in the sick room bother the patient, place a glass bowl over the timepiece.

Shoes that are stiff after being worn in the rain will become quite pliable if vaseline is well rubbed in with a soft rag.

For cleaning tiles in the bathroom and kitchen, use a soft cloth moistened with kerosene.

Paint wooden knitting needles and crochet hooks with a coat of colorless nail polish the minute they begin to get rough or scratchy. Smooths them off. Make sure polish is thoroughly dry and hard before putting needles to use again.

Screw a hook into the end of your broom handle. You'll find it handy for reaching objects on high shelves, also the window shade pull that springs to the top. And naturally you hang the broom up by its hook in order to preserve the bristles.

No More Constipation Now —They Eat Famous Cereal

Constipated? Harsh laxatives got you feeling down? Then read this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"I was troubled with constipation for years—until I started eating an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day. Never have any trouble now. Told my father-in-law about it. Now he takes ALL-BRAN and has the same results as I do. He is 82 years young." N. Mawson, 16 Beverly Street, Methuen, Mass.

If your trouble is constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet, you may never have to take another laxative—if you eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day and drink plenty of water. Try it for ten days. If not completely satisfied, send the empty carton to Kellogg's of Battle Creek and get double your money back. ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It's one of nature's finest sources of gentle-acting bulk, which helps promote normal laxation! It's a wholesome cereal made from the vital outer layers of wheat. Eat ALL-BRAN every day either as a cereal or in muffins.

Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

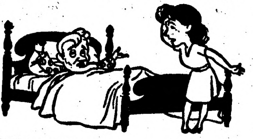
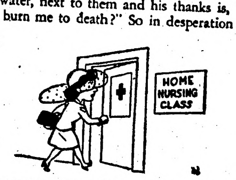
RED CROSS HOME NURSING

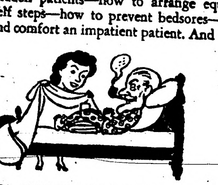
WHAT'S YOUR BEDSIDE MANNER?



THIS IS GRANDPA, CROSS AND GROUCHY, confined to bed with chronic arthritis. His arms are cold so you bundle heavy blankets around his shoulders and then wonder why he complains, "The pain in my joints is worse." His feet are cold so you tuck a hot water bottle, filled to the top with scalding water, next to them and his thanks is, "Are you trying to burn me to death?" So in desperation you turn to . . .



RED CROSS HOME NURSING where you learn the easy way to care for bedridden patients—how to arrange equipment to save yourself steps—how to prevent bedsores—how to bathe, feed, and comfort an impatient patient. And now . . .



THIS IS GRANDPA, COMFORTABLE AND HAPPY, even though he is still in bed with arthritis. A lightweight bed jacket gives him warmth without weight. A hot water bottle wrapped in towels keeps his feet warm. And he puffs contentedly on his pipe with your full approval because you understand that clinging to a favorite habit is more important to Grandpa's happiness than a clean, but empty, ashtray.

If there is no home nursing course offered at present in your community, ask your Red Cross chapter how you may help organize one.

What was "Death Valley Scotty's" famous train ride?

Walter Scott, better known as "Death Valley Scotty," a Californian of legendary riches, at Los Angeles in 1905 wanted a special train to take him to Chicago faster than any human had made the trip before. He was told the 2,265-mile trip could be made in 46 hours and would cost $5,500. His history-making "Coyote Special" left Los Angeles the next day and reached Chicago in 44 hours and 54 minutes to beat the previous record by 13 hours. The remarkable trip caused a sensation and added a colorful chapter to railway history.

Creamery Shipping Whole Milk

The local creamery is now taking milk every day of the week including Sunday. This is due to the fact that they do not separate the whole milk now but send it to Roseau after it has been tested and cooled. There they now dry whole milk and package it for shipping. When the project was fiirst started here they shipped the fresh crerm to Minneapolis where it was processed aad shipped to the southern states in refrigirator cars. Only the skim milk was dryed at Roseau. The creamery here now operates two milk routes daily in here.

The Farmers Union Local

Many here are asking what happened to the Farmsrf Union Local that was organized here about two years ago. As far as we know there still is a local here but is now inactive. This local could be revived and made one of the best going locals in the county if all took an active interest in it and helged make it a going institution. There are lots of good speakers to get and much material for both educational and entertainment programs to be had if we go after it. Let us all have r real getogether on on this and have some member of the state organization or the county setup come here and explain once more what benefits you all could derive from a good Farmers Union Local.

AS AMERICAN as a Housewarming

It is a far cry from the log cabin of the early pioneer to the streamlined home of the modern American. But one tradition remains the same . . . the housewarming that celebrates its completion. For the typical American puts a high value upon his home . . . and likes nothing better than to welcome guests within its walls.

American hospitality is often symbolized by these words . . . "Will you have a glass of beer?" . . . for a cool glass of foam-topped beer is a pleasant accent to mellow and familiar living. To every American . . . banker, truck driver, farmer, mechanic, office worker . . . a glass of beer writes a pleasant period to any hard day's work. The right to enjoy this sociable drink of moderation and good sense is part of our American Heritage. It fits right in to the greatest pattern of living in the world . . America.

Beer belongs . . . enjoy it

January Disasters Bring Quick Red Cross Action

Destructive floods and tornadoes beginning in early January were grim reminders that more Americans died in home-front accidents and disasters during World War II than as war casualties.

By mid-month the siege, brought on unseasonably early by warm weather and heavy rains, had claimed 54 dead and upwards of 150 hospitalized, records indicate. Thousands of families in rural areas of 11 midwestern and southern states were affected.

Red Cross chapter workers who last year helped their communities through 260 disasters have again worked 'round the clock. Assisting them have been doctors, nurses, and others rushed by the Red Cross to stricken areas. Surveys for the refurnishing, rebuilding, and repairing of damaged or destroyed homes, barns, and other buildings began immediately. Rehabilitation will be completed in March. Undoubtedly new disasters will strike during the spring months and will keep the organization working at top speed in this humanitarian parade which never ends.

In providing food, clothing, shelter, medical and nursing care, varying problems confront the Red Cross, particularly in rural sections.

In flooded Mississippi valley areas, Red Cross has obtained a priority release of house trailers to supplement tents used in sheltering farmers rescued from flooded areas. When evacuation of farm families and livestock has been necessary, coast guard and navy boats have assisted. Recent coal shortages in disaster areas were relieved when Red Cross action resulted in diversion of fuel to critical sections.

An hour after surveys have been completed, the Red Cross has obtained priority release of lumber and other building materials. Included has been screen wire to help prevent the spread of disease in malaria affected areas.

In floods and hurricanes, local Red Cross disaster units, through advance weather bureau advisories, have warned residents in time for safe evacuation; in remote sections, they have effected rescues. In all disasters, tornadoes, fires, floods, hurricanes, train wrecks, they have quickly sought out injured, given first aid, and arranged hospital care. Hundreds of thousands of homeless have been sheltered, clothed, and fed.

In Paterson, New Jersey, a new chapter disaster chairman successfully tackled problems of the worst flood in that city's history. Two days after a Red Cross disaster conference in Montgomery, Alabama, a tornado ripped through the city. Outstanding care given the injured wrote a bright page in the year's disaster history.

In states where polio outbreaks occurred, Red Cross chapter volunteers hurriedly improvised hospital articles. In Salt Lake City, Disaster Service supplied face masks, children's nightgowns, hospital shirts, surgical gowns for nurses, blankets, and sheets. When flannelette could not be found for hot packs, Red Cross supplied 1,000 diapers for the purpose.

But whether disaster or any of many other Red Cross services, all are available to people in rural communities no less than in large cities. Home nursing, farm accident prevention, assistance to families of men in uniform and to veterans—these services continue year-in, year-out. During March the Red Cross is appealing for $100,000,000. It needs every bit of that amount to meet obligations to the armed forces and civilian population.

"We all have a share in the American Red Cross," said Basil O'Connor, Red Cross Chairman, when announcing the appeal. "Let's all maintain that share by contributing generously to the 1946 Fund Campaign and keeping our Red Cross society the strongest in the world."

New York's Paupers

New York City buries weekly an average of 200 bodies of paupers, unknowns and still-born babies in its potter's field on Hart's island, says Collier's. As about 65 of them a year are later sought by relatives or friends for reburial in a private cemetery, the city maintains a descriptive record of all bodies and a numbering system so they can be readily located and exhumed.

They are buried in large trenches, each of which contains the coffins of 200 adults or 6,000 infants.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Pert, Pretty Pinafores May Be Remodelled from Old Shirts

By Ertta Haley

OUR little boys have always worn make-overs from Daddy's shirts, but have you ever thought of using these shirts for dressing up daughter? The beautiful fabrics and interesting weaves of men's shirts make excellent material for sprightly little pinafores and blouses.

Most of you mothers know the high cost of those frilly blouses for sister to wear with her jumpers. Or you know how quickly she grows out of pinafores. Yet the cost of converting Dad's old shirt into one of these items is frequently only the price of a spool or two of thread to match.

If the shirts are worn or torn around the armholes, this need be no problem in making the pinafore, because this material is not necessary. Only the back and front of the shirt need be in good condition. Worn sleeves will not spoil the plans at hand.

Cutting the Pinafore.

The back of the shirt is used for the front part of the pinafore, as this takes the greatest amount of solid material. Since the pinafore is open in the back, the front part of the shirt may be used for that. To get the most material from a shirt, wash it carefully, then press and rip, being careful not to tear any of the fabric.

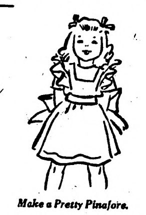
If You Have a Man's Shirt . . .

If the sleeves are in fairly usable condition, cut tie-strings from them, and perhaps a ruffle to substitute for sleeves and a pocket or two. A belt is desirable, too, and there should be a big, perky bow in the back to make the pinafore look crisp and dainty. If, however, the material is short, use a slim belt that ties in the front.

Trimming Is Important.

One of the little touches that makes a pinafore is, very often, the trimming. This may be as simple as ric rac around the sleeves or pockets; or a thin edging of lace around the neckline or bow.

The delicate shirt fabrics are best for the frilly, dressy pinafores. White shirts can be made gay with red touches of trimming, or navy blue or gray can be brightened with green, red or white.



Make a Pretty Pinafore.

For the more sturdy pinafores, use a minimum of trimming and depend upon tailoring and detail to put the pinafore across. A feather stitch around the pockets may be all that you will need, provided this is in an attractive, contrasting color thread.

Making a Blouse.

If your daughter is a little too tall for a pinafore made from Daddy's shirt, try a blouse. Blouses can be made short for the youngsters and there will be ample material in the shirt for such a project.

As in the case of the pinafore, the back of the shirt is used for the front, if the blouse is buttoned all the way down the back.

If, however, you are making a shirtwaist style, use the back of the shirt for the blouse and the two front pieces of the shirt cut down to make the front. Very often the tiny buttons on the shirt will go very well with the blouse.

The sleeves of the shirt will provide ample material for a little round collar and puffed sleeves. These may be trimmed with lace or crocheting, or even bright-colored piping.

Whenever you are working with this type of remodeling, it's best to keep ironing board and iron handy. Seams should be pressed often to make them easier to stitch. Basting takes time, too, but the more exact work resulting from it is a gratifying reward. Both of these precautions are essential in making small-sized blouses and pinafores.

Playtime Togs

A casual dress that is ideal for sports or casual outings is this one made of raw silk. Its new features are the cap sleeves, slash pockets and leather-lined belt. Rounded shoulders give freedom of movement.

Patching Pointers

For tears in children's play clothes, use a double-stitched patch for its durability.

If you have a perfect figure, settle on satin for your best dress. Its shiny surface reflects light in such a way as to point up your best qualities.

The good portions of a worn-out dress may be used to line a wearable jacket, for making a blouse or jerkin, or cutting off the bodice and making a separate skirt.

In darning fabrics with a distinct pattern, study the pattern carefully, and match as closely when darning. This is known as reweaving, and when carefully done, the darn can be almost invisible.

If a skirt is too short to hem, a facing may be placed in it. Stitch the facing, which should be of material fairly similar to the skirt, to the bottom. Press the seam before turning facing to wrong side, and baste. Turn up material and hem to place.

Before you wear a dress even once, protect the underarms from fading or wearing out with a pair of dress shields. Sew or pin them in, and remember, they must be washed frequently. Shields such as these will save cleaner's bills and often prevent the dress from becoming ruined.

A plain, drab dress can often be made wearable and even quite gay by an applique around the shoulder, on the pockets, around the belt or even to the side on the skirt. Choose a simple flower design and trace the outline on contrasting fabric or cut the design from a scrap of gay print. Or, use old, leftover yarn to embroider a bouquet.

You can completely disguise an unsightly tear or burn by covering it with a decorative patch. These patches are especially suitable for youngster's clothing, sports clothes and casual lingerie. Use an applique made of contrasting colored material from an illustration or a transfer pattern. Be sure that the design is large enough to cover the damaged place. Felt appliques are effective on many rayon fabrics; cotton prints are good against cotton; and silks may be used for silk or woolen material. Hem close to the edge, using a fine needle and matching thread.

Fashion Notes

If you are making a dark suit with a plaid trim, it's smart to have three-quarter dolman sleeves, cuffed in the plaid trim used for the rest of the ensemble.

Cape stole suits are popular in the checked fabrics for spring. A new note is added by pleating the jacket softly, and making the belt stand out by putting a silver buckle on it.

Interesting effects with scarves are popular. They may be worn just as a scarf, or planned as part of the dress, sleeves or skirt.

Plaid ginghams are going old-fasioned with bustle and backdrop treatments for afternoon and evening wear. Dust ruffles, big bow sashes and deep-rounded necklines from picturesque bygone days are back in fashion again.

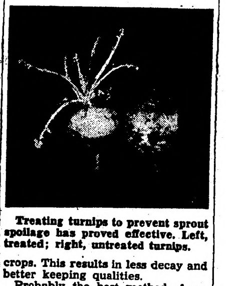
Retarding Sprout Growth in Storage

Loss With Root Crops Eliminated by Process

By Ora Smith
Cornell University

All who have stored any of the root crops such as beets, carrots, turnips and rutabagas know that two of the most important storage difficulties with these crops are sprouting and shriveling. The higher the humidity of the storage air, the lesser the amount of shriveling. However, if at high humidities the temperature also is much above 40 degrees F., the foot and top growth will be excessive, often resulting in decay of the stored product.

By a very simple procedure, it is now possible to prevent or greatly retard root and top growth of these root crops in storage. Methyl ester of alpha naphthalene acetic acid, which prevents or retards sprout growth in potatoes also will retard root and top growth in the root crops. This results in less decay and better keeping qualities.

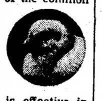


Treating turnips to prevent sprout spoilage has proved effective. Left, treated; right, untreated turnips.

Probably the best method of application of this chemical is to spread a small amount of it impregnated in shredded or confetted paper or in an inert dust in the container, bin, pile or pit where they are stored. The paper or dust containing the chemical should be distributed fairly evenly throughout the bin or pit of root crops at the rate of about 10 pounds of paper or 25 pounds of dust to each 100 bushels of root crop.

The use of this chemical should be of value especially for the home storage of root crops as well as to market gardener and truck grower who stores in outdoor pits and cellars, and also to the canners and dehydrators.

Effective Use of DDT In the Poultry House



While DDT offers little encouragement for the control of the common chicken mite, it has proven effective in the control of other insects that infest the poultry house.

When 3 per cent DDT is added to kerosene and painted on the roosts it is effective in controlling bed bugs. New Jersey station found the 3 per cent dust combination effective when applied to nests.

When sprayed over the roosts and droppings it has proven effective against maggots.

For the control of flies and mosquitoes, a 5 per cent solution should be used during the height of the season. At other times a 2½ per cent solution will prove satisfactory.

A 2 per cent suspension or dust with 5 per cent DDT powder will rid poultry of blue bugs.

Improved Machinery
Rototiller

Instead of turning the ground over as the plow does, the Rototiller churns and thoroughly crumbles the soil with steel claws which rotate rapidly in paddlewheel fashion. The depth of tillage is adjustable. This new rototiller is produced by Graham-Paige Motors at Willow Run, Mich.

Carrots Keep Better With Foliage Removed

Carrots placed in storage will keep considerably better if the tops are removed first, according to results ascertained at Cornell university. There are other advantages, saving in space and in shipping and handling cost when the carrots are marketed.

By removing the tops, the moisture is conserved for the roots. The saving in moisture is reported at about 40 per cent.

Household Hints

An old tennis racket makes a mighty good carpet beater.

Grease glass baking dishes before putting food in them to bake and they will be much easier to wash.

Wrap gold and silver evening bags and slippers in dark-colored cloth to prevent tarnish.

If you have a favorite piece of jewelry which cannot be worn because it discolors the skin, try this: After cleaning it, give the back a coat of colorless nail polish.

Do not throw away used wax jelly tumbler covers. Wash in cold water, dry them, and place in an empty tin can. When the can is filled, they should be melted together to form a cake and covered. Thus it will be kept fresh and as good as ever to be used for next season's jelly jars.

Before stuffing fowl wipe the inside thoroughly dry to prevent the stuffing from being soggy.

Immediate patching of worn spots may add years to the life of a roof if it is, on the whole, still in good condition. It is, however, usually poor economy to do a patchwork job on a roof that is well worn.

Put spices, seasonings, baking powder, cream of tartar and the like on a cookie sheet and keep on a shelf in the kitchen cabinet. When cooking or baking, take out the cookie sheet and make your choice.

To make a good wire splice, lay the ends side by side, pointing in opposite directions until the doubled portion is about two inches long. Grasp firmly right in the middle with the jaws of a pair of pliers. Wrap one free end firmly about the splice at the left, and the other in reverse about the splice at the right. The result is neat, easily taped, and won't pull apart. Such joints should be soldered, particularly if the wire is part of an electrical unit.

Beavers Erect Dam

State highway officials of Franklin, N. H., were forced to take action against beavers who erected a dam under a road in a reinforced concrete culvert. The officials planned to move the beavers after the dam is removed to a new site.

Guns and Such

Revolutions come from abuses of power, not from the normal use of it. I am not talking about wars in particular. All kinds of revolutionary developments fit themselves into much the same pattern. It would be hard to find a better illustration than the one presented by America's bewildering canon of statutes on the subject of firearms—their possession and use.

Guns are violent. They make men formidable. They add to the force of people who own and understand them. In some states, citizens walk unmolested in the street wearing side arms. In other states, any resident must buy a permit if he wants to keep his great-grandfather's "Revolutionary flintlock" at home in a glass case. The difference is no political whimsy.

Matter Of Abuse

It would take a big book to tell why guns are prohibited in some sections and winked at in others. If the whole story were told, however, it would add up to this: Wherever the right to own arms has been abused, an indignant public sentiment has welled up demanding laws against them, enacted and enforced. Without popular approval it is hard to enforce any law, wise or otherwise.

A few days ago I wrote a prediction that the American people some day would rise up and enact laws requiring compulsory arbitration of labor disputes. Since I penned those lines I have been in several states and talked with men who are close to the public pulse. Almost all of them share my fears as well as my slender hope that compulsory arbitration never comes.

Need Never Happen

Outlawing strikes, a threat plain to see, would be an unnecessary calamity. No detail of human freedom should be sacrificed to anything but public safety. Strikes, like guns, have their uses. If outlawed, all working people (not unions only) will suffer a setback; lose the gains of many toilsome years. If I might advise Labor, I would say, "Clean your gun and put it away." Don't make such action necessary.

Civilization has made progress at times by force of arms. Just so, a large group of people have made wholesome advances by force of the power to strike. Being disarmed would weaken them, and they are likely to be disarmed because the public is weary of violence. The war is over and peace has problems that can't be solved by rattling sabers or carrying banners in torch parades.

Hear Henry Wallace

Writing about pressure groups in his recent book, "60 Million Jobs," Secretary Wallace said: "Any one group can, for a time, get a larger share of the national income but it doesn't work when all try it at the same time. Sooner or later the pressure game will blow up in our faces. This is . . . practical arithmetic. Unless we learn it, our future is black indeed."

Elsewhere he wrote: "In labor-management cooperation lies the very hope of . . . jobs. With mutual understanding between labor and management, in the difficult years ahead, we stand our best chance of getting good wages for labor, good prices for the farmer, stable profits for business men and a higher standard of living for those who need it most." Henry Wallace is a friend of Labor, but he foresees danger.

Russel Sanodon and Douglas Swenside spent Sunday and Monday visiting at Concordia College in Moorhead. Both are former students there.

Johnson-Yonke Wedding

Ann Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Johnson of Lancaster, and Willard Yonke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Yonke of Thief River Falls, exchanged wedding vows Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the parsonage of the Lutheran church at Holt, Rev. E. O. Urness officiating using the single ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lubitz, the former a cousin of the groom attended the couple.

The bride chose a two piece white woolen dress for her wedding with a corsage of jonquils and roses. Her attendant chose a two brown flowered dress with a corsage of jonquils.

Rev. Urness sang "Crown with Thy Benediction" and "O, Perfect Love" accompanied by his daughter Grace.

Following the wedding ceremony supper was served to the Bridal party at the Rex Cafe in Thief River Falls.

A reception was held at the grooms parents for 20 relatives and friend of the couple Sunday afternoon.

The groom is assistant at the Holt creamery. He was discharged from the army in November, 1944.

Mrs. Garsten Sagsten was taken ill last week and Saturday evening had to be rushed to the St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls.

The Jeppru Brother loaded out a carload of pulpwood here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Larson visited at the Alfred Larron home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertil Ness, Mrs. Ole Lunke and Mrs. Art Conklin visited at the Henry Ferguson home at Warren and also with Mrs. M. J. Sorum on Friday.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been spring like. It has thawed some nearly every day day and the snow piles have been reduced considerably. Another summer season will soon be here.

1946 Farm Program Explained

County AAA meetings held in Warren recently in spite of bad roads and inclement weather were well attended. 110 out of 117 community committeemen were present.

Mr. Selvin Erickson, farmer fieldman for this district, explained the 1946 program to the committeemen.

1. Production goals and price support.
2. Soil building.
3. 1946 farm plans.

Mr. Knute Swenson explained the crop insurance program. Our County Agent, Mr. Frank Ferbes stressed the need of building up of our soil after the years of all out production during the war.

Mr. Geo. Kruen of the food distribution branch of the Production and Marketing Administration explained the various programs of food distribution and the school lunch program.

Meetings will be held in the near future in the various communities to explain the 1946 program to the farmers. After the completion of these meetings a series of signup meeting for 1946 will be held, dates of these meeting will be announced later.

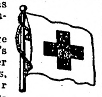
American Red Cross Aids Wounded and Able-bodied

Not long ago to a Red Cross field director with an outfit on maneuvers flashed a message that the mother of a man in his unit was critically ill, and the man was needed at home immediately.



With this message from the soldier's Red Cross chapter verifying the illness, the field director called on the commanding officer who arranged an emergency furlough. While a courier sped up the line to fetch the soldier, the Red Cross man was busy arranging transportation.

Within a few hours the boy was at the Red Cross field office where furlough papers and a ticket awaited him. The field director drove him to the airport, and the boy arrived home in time—not to see his mother die, but to save her life with a blood transfusion.

Today, six months after V-J Day, some 17,000 Red Cross workers are still with the GIs at home and abroad. Hundreds of clubs and rest homes overseas are in operation where men meet on leave, get home-cooked food, and that prime American favorite—doughnuts and coffee. Music and entertainment, books, magazines, and home-town newspapers, lounge and writing rooms—all are popular. For men staying overnight there are comfortable beds, clean sheets, and hot showers.

More important than Red Cross services to the able-bodied are those for the wounded and ill. In army and navy hospitals the country over, professional and volunteer Red Cross workers serve in many ways.

To the hospitalized a financial or family problem may prey upon the mind and dull the will to recovery. Under guidance of Red Cross medical social workers many a problem is dissolved, and difficult obstacles are smoothed, while programs directed by trained recreation workers help patients forget their troubles. Red Cross volunteers supplement these workers with every conceivable service.

For example, there was the blinded soldier whose face was horribly scarred, who was expecting a visit from his wife and five-year-old daughter. It would be the first meeting in two years, he told the Red Cross girl who was teaching him rummy with Braille cards.

"My little girl knows I'm blind and she's planning how she'll do things for me," he said.

But what she did not know, what had been kept from him so that it might not retard his readjustment, was the way he was scarred and disfigured.

The Red Cross girl caught her breath. "That's fine," she said. "I'll meet them at the train."

Her heart sank upon seeing the tiny girl. It would be a job to prepare her for the shock, to make sure she did not let her father suspect there was anything wrong.

Gently she told the child about her daddy's face, how it would get better, how much he loved her, and that she mustn't be afraid. Then, with a prayer in her heart, she led mother and child to the blinded soldier.

The crucial moment had come. Now, upon the actions of a little girl, the future of this family would depend. For a moment the tot stood in the doorway, looking at her father across the room. Then, without hesitation, came the patter of little feet, and she threw her arms around her father's neck. "Daddy," she cried, "Daddy, it's me—we're so glad to have you back!"

A simple service, yes. But it determined the happiness of three people. Without the understanding heart, and the many who daily give of their minds and souls, the adjustment of thousands of servicemen might be seriously retarded.

The American Red Cross needs $100,000,000 to carry on during the next fiscal year. That sum is small when stacked against the heartaches stilled, suffering eased, misery relieved, new hope infused—day in, day out—because of Red Cross ministrations.

Because farm families have a big stake in the Red Cross they consistently support the organization. The Red Cross is confident that families in agricultural areas, the backbone of the nation, will generously support the 1946 Fund Campaign.

Postwar Millionaires

So tremendous was the industrial development in this country for two decades after the Civil war that it produced several hundred millionaires, says Collier's.

Between 1890 and 1910, more than 500 daughters of such millionaires were married to titled Europeans. As the majority of the husbands were poor, the ultimate cost of these international unions to the families of the girls has been estimated at 220 million dollars.

Unused Dresses Will Make Attractive Blouses, Jumpers

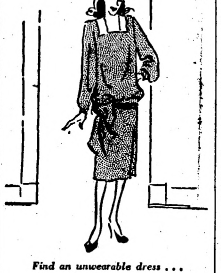
By Ertta Haley

AS YOU thumb through your closets preparatory to spring cleaning, you'll probably come across at least two dresses that are sadly worn and unwearable. With the clothing shortage and also the expense of buying new clothing, you would do well to consider the prospect of remodeling this clothing into something distinctly attractive and new looking.

One garment that has plenty of calls for wearing is the jumper. When it's tailored, the jumper is ideal for business wear or sports. If it's made of velvet or another of the more decorative materials, the jumper makes an attractive date dress.

Before any remodeling is attempted, the dress should be cleaned or washed thoroughly and ripped apart completely. Take care while ripping so that no threads in the material are pulled, and material so made useless. If you want to change the color of the dress, remove the old dye first. If, of course, you are dyeing it a darker color, the original shade does not have to be removed.

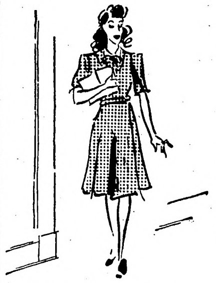
For the classic jumper, trim off the sleeves and cut the armholes, making them fairly large. If you are uncertain as to the exact shape you desire, consult a pattern. Trim down the neckline, too, into a square or round shape.



Find an unwearable dress . . .

If the original skirt is flared, this may be retained in the jumper, but it will add a note of smartness to make wide, deep pockets out of the sleeves. In some tailored materials, these pockets take on new interest if they are stitched in contrasting thread.

In some jumpers, a capped sleeve treatment is used. This is easily done simply by recutting the sleeve, leaving enough material to fold under for finishing; or, the sleeves may be ripped out and the capped effect achieved through the use of wide bands of grosgrain or faille ribbon. This is done after the dress is redyed.



And make a chic jumper from it.

At the beginning of this article I spoke about the possibility of your finding two dresses in the closet. Thus far, only one of the dresses has been mentioned. The other dress might well be made into a blouse to go with the jumper so that you will have a complete costume.

Select Jumper Blouse In Contrasting Color

The blouse for the jumper should be contrasting in color to the jumper, itself, or it may blend with that garment. With so many new prints out this season, a worn print, provided it looks well with the solid color you have used in the jumper, would be highly desirable.

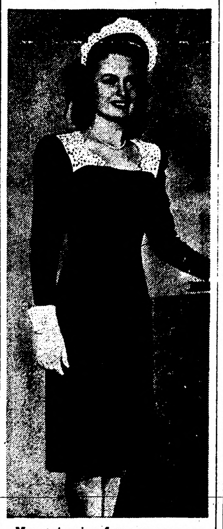
If, however, the jumper is of a rather conservative dark shade, the blouse can be a solid bright color that blends with the jumper. Bright red goes beautifully with navy blue, or cerise is a lovely foil for aqua.

You'll find ample material in most worn dresses for a blouse of almost any style and design. The most popular type for jumper wear is the blouse that ties in a bow at the neck, or one that has a neat collar treatment and buttons down the front. The sleeves may be long or short depending upon your taste and the material available.

If the dress is tailored, it may not be necessary to rip the complete garment. Sometimes the bodice of the dress just needs trimming from the skirt and finishing to make the complete blouse.

If you do want to make a brand new blouse, rip the dress and start as you would with new material. Recut the sleeves and make them long or short. Add a new collar if the dress has one that is too fussy, and do bear in mind the type of jumper when you are making the blouse.

Ayes for Eyelets



Men returning from overseas expect to find their girls wearing pretty but not high style things. Deep, white eyelet embroidery set in the wide yolk of a black dress is flattering to the face. Note the eyelet motif carried out in the hat.

Mending Pointers

Men's worn-out shirt cuffs may be cut off and turned. Soft collars can sometimes be purchased at a notions counter, or, they may be taken off other shirts that are not usable.

Never stop stocking runs temporarily with nail polish as this frequently damages the thread of the hose permanently. Reinforce weak spots by darning carefully before the holes appear. This is especially true for hose that tends to wear in the heels or toes or on top of the stocking.

Patch slips that wear out underneath the armholes. If the straps are worn, replacements may be purchased and sewed on easily.

Heavy linen thread is recommended for button sewing. Buttons will stay on better if they are sewed with a thread shank that permits the iron point to get closer to them without snapping off the button.

Hooks and eyes are best sewn with double thread and an over and over stitch through holes. Sew over hook near top to hold it down. The straight metal bar or thread bar worked with a blanket stitch is placed on the seam line. The curved eye extends slightly beyond edge of the opening.

To mend a diagonal tear, darn with small running stitches parallel to lengthwise thread but in the direction of the tear. Over these stitches work another set of right angles to the first.

Spring Fashion Notes

If baby brother wants a sailor outfit like big brother, select one in a fabric that repels grime and dirt so as to keep him neat longer.

For after-work, you'll want to concentrate on checked gingham short slacks and jersey blouses. Casual dresses include corded chambray, striped and checked ginghams, waffle pique in shirtwaist and button-front styles.

The angular outline in shoulders is disappearing and the rounded effect is coming back strong. Hips, too, are emphasized with draped shirrings.

Buttoned bands on square necklines and peplums go to make up smart, cool dresses for the summer and spring. Choose a dark background and trim in bright or pastel colors.

Nylon Takes on Many Forms in Manufacturing

Nylon is not the name of one material, but that of a family of dozens of synthetic chemical substances which are made into hundreds of different kinds of articles, says Collier's.

Besides being produced in fiber form for knitting and weaving, they are also made in single filaments for use as brush bristles and window-screen netting, as well as in plastic form for molding into tubing, dishes and telephone parts.

Sober Thought

Authority and alcohol influence the deeds of mortal man in ways that are strikingly similar. Apparently they both call for more from the very first taste. Too much of either goes to people's heads in a manner that is highly unbecoming. Both have a tendency to retard productive activity and both are enemies of straight thinking. No wonder despots so often are called power-drunk.

Not long ago I heard a story about a drunk man with a new car. It probably was not true but it was thought provoking. In an effort to back out of his home garage, so the story goes, he pushed over a neighbor's fence and sank nails in three tires. Using an axe to disengage the debris he bashed in a fender until it pressed against his only remaining tire that held air.

Wanted More Power

Unable to make the maimed car run, the inebriate got under it with a wrench and flattened the gasoline line so the engine could get almost no fuel; also emptied the brake fluid on the ground. Finally he lost his temper and assaulted the body with a pick until it was no longer a closed car. After that he orated loudly and eloquently on the mistakes of the engineer who designed it.

How like this story is the history of our country for the last decade. Instead of doing things to improve productive activity, men of authority viewed everything successful with suspicion and orated on its faults. Well established principles of good business were disregarded. Radical ideas were used, like holding land out of production to raise farm prices.

Work With An Axe

Shortening crops raised prices, to be sure, but it made men idle, as well as land. The landowners got compensation from the national treasury for crops they did not raise and idle workers stood in line for dole. To meet the resulting heavy expenses, corporation taxes grew so heavy that they discouraged investments, further retarding productive activity.

With jobs scarce and poorly paid, people on government relief rolls fared better than many who persisted in trying to earn an honest living by honorable work. This automatically discouraged thrift and efficiency. It retarded the accumulation of personal wealth and hindered the starting of new, individual owned enterprises. People with odds against them discourage easily.

Drunk On Power

The case was more readily diagnosed than remedied. Economic tinkerers in places of authority got a taste of power and drank of it too deeply. Then they quit thinking straight. Each new raid on the nation's economic strength called for a bigger one to hide it. Gradually thrifty people were being beggared by alms and American business bankrupt by taxes.

The only honorable way out of any kind of intoxication is to sober up. Destructive strategy will buy food and clothing for nobody. Letting land lie idle is not farming. Scared money builds no factories and makes no jobs. The most helpful thing our government can do this year is work to this end: Devise the right taxes for the most jobs. This will automatically cure the "gimmies."

Leskinen-Johnson Wedding

Miss Helen H. Leskinen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matti Leskinen of Middle River, and Myron L. Johnson, son of Mrs. O. B. Johnson of Holt, were united in marriage at the Finnish Lutheran Church at Middle River on Sunday, March 17, at 4:00 P. M. Rev. E. O. Urness of Holt, performed the single ring ceremony in the presence of close friends and relatives.

The bride chose for her attire a white gown of taffeta and marquisette with a sweetheart neckline. Her double finger-tip veil was edged in lace and had a beaded tiara. Her jewelry consisted of a heart-shaped locket, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of gladiolus. She was given in marriage by her father Matti Leskinen. As attendant, the bride chose a close friend, Miss Irene Johhson of Middle River. She wore a gown of blue marquisette over taffeta, blue elbow-length gloves, and carried a colonial bouquet of tulips and gladiolus. The groom was attended by his brother Murnett Johnson. Both wore blue suits with white carnations.

Before the ceremonies, Miss Joyce Peterson, niece of the groom, sang "I Love You Truly" accompanied by Miss Delores Sandberg of Holt, who alro played "Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus". After the ceremonies Miss Peterson sang "O Perfect Love". She wore a gown of green taffeta. Miss Sandberg wore a yellow net over taffeta gown. Both wore corsages of white carnations. Lighted tapers decorated the altar.

Mrs. Leskinen and Mrs. Johnson, mothers of the bride and groom, wore black dresses of crepe with black accessories. Both wore corsages of yellow jonquils.

A reception was held at the bride's home immediately after thewedding. A three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom flanked by lighted tapers decorated the table. Waitresses were Mrs. Selmer Sorter and Mrs. Orlin Ness, sisters of the bride. Also in the evening, about 40 neighbors and friends of the Middle River community gathered at the Matti Leskinen home to surprise the newlyweds with a reception. After the reception the couple left for a week's honeymoon. For travel the bride chose a suit of brown check with brown accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the Middle River High School and the Aaker's Business College of Grand Forks. She was employed by Oscar Schenkey as bookkeeper. The groom was recently discharged after three years in service in the U. S. Army. The couple will make their home in Holt where the groom is engaged in restaurant business.

Guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Matti Leskined and family, Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Sorter and family, of Middle River, Mrs. O. B. Johnson and Murnett, Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Ness, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Peterson and Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Simple Desk Unit To Match Shelves

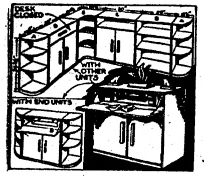
THIS unit furniture for your dream house is so simple that the amateur can make it with the simplest hand tools. Patterns with actual-size cutting guides and detailed directions are available for the units in this group.



The desk is shown closed at D between an end unit, A, and a corner unit, C. The E unit is made with the same pattern as the desk and is the same in every way except that the drop front and stationery compartments are omitted. The use of nails or screws with modern glue makes it possible to construct these sturdy pieces with joinings that require no special tools.

• • •

Units A and B are made with pattern 270; the corner unit with 271; the desk with 272. Patterns are 15c each or all three patterns for 35c when mailed to one address. Send requests for patterns direct to:

Well, Can't a Young Lady Have Dreams?

She was pretty and ambitious and had studied the matrimonial problem to a nicety.

"Yes, I suppose I shall marry eventually," she said, "but the only kind of masculine nuisance that will suit me must be tall and dark with classical features. He must be brave, yet gentle. He must be strong — a lion among men, but a knight among women."

That evening a bow-legged, lath-framed, chinless youth, wearing flannel bags and smoking a cigarette that smelt worse than a burning boot, rattled on the back door and the girl knocked four tumblers and a cut glass dish off the sideboard in her haste to let him in.

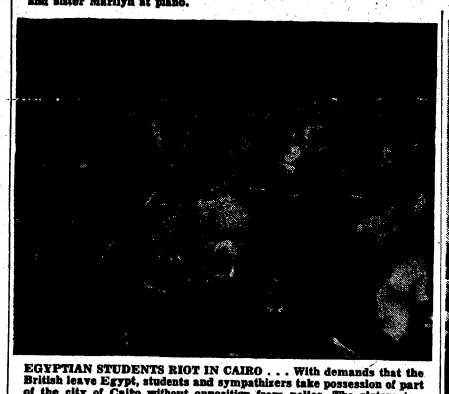
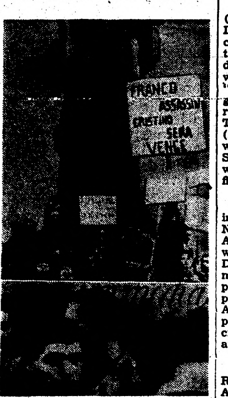
FAMOUS FIGHTING FAMILY REUNITED . . . The famous fighting family of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ostler, Chelsea, Mass., are together for the first time since Pearl Harbor, with the exception of the oldest son, Pfc. Charles, 32, who was killed in action in Italy. The group around their father and mother includes twins, Roland and Robert, twins Richard and Lawrence, George, Donald, Arthur, Howard, Leon and sister Marilyn at piano.



EGYPTIAN STUDENTS RIOT IN CAIRO . . . With demands that the British leave Egypt, students and sympathizers take possession of part of the city of Cairo without opposition from police. The rioters terrorized the capital, many fires were started and considerable damage resulted. Similar riots later broke out in Alexandria, site of a great British naval base. While the riots did not have government backing, little effort was made to prevent or control the demonstrations against the British government.



PARIS OBJECTS . . . Against Franco executions of 10 anti-Fascists. This mass demonstration was held in Paris demanding an immediate break with France.

THIRTY MILLIONS IN GOLD THEIR GOAL . . . Irwin A. Williamson, famed explorer, is shown, left, with Capt. Edward Eriksen, as they planned expedition to recover a reputed $30,000,000 in gold from the cursed Spanish galleon "Santa Rosa," which has been on the sea's bottom since 1768. Williamson discovered location in 1941 and brought up the ship's bell. Location is somewhere off the coast of Cuba.

Innocent Bystander

The Cinemagicians: Paved with guffaws, "Road to Utopia" has Bing and Bob performing their whackrobatics. . . . "Sunbonnet Sue" packs the nostalgic charm of a family album—playing a heartful of Gus Edwards' lilts. . . . "Open City" (which was produced in Italy) is a slam bang-up tribute to the intrepid Italian Undergrounders. . . . "The Sailor Takes a Wife" is a fluffy little romantic fable with Robert Walker and June Allyson whipping up the froth. . . . "Six Gun Man" is a stenciled plot, repetitious as hiccups. . . . Advance reports say that "Journey Together," an importation from Britain by Terrence Ratigan, will be a big click. . . . "Phantom Express" co-stars a yawn and a snore.

The Radio: The newest man-wife combo on the air is Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson of Akron, Ohio, and these parts. Via Station WLIB once weekly. . . . Billy Halop's emoting on CBS' "Aftermath" is a welcome addition. He recently returned from the wars. . . . "Duffy's Tavern" is cooked up by only 11 gag-writers. . . . "Dead End" was loaded with earthy lingo. But the roughest word in the Theatre Guild's version on the networks was "jerk."

Bigtown Newsreel: Honorable John Coffee of the House of Representatives week-ending from the Capitol at the Pierre. . . . Anita Colby, the model's model. . . . Ann Sothern, the star, paying an unexpected visit to the 52nd street joynts and delighting the proprietors of same. . . . Don DeFore (the orchestra leader in the film, "Stork Club") in town to rehearse with "Judy O'Connor," which opens in Apr. . . . Claudette Colbert, whose husband is a specialist on hay-fever and allergies, but she suffers and suffers and suffers all year 'round. . . . Martha Raye carrying her beautiful baby from the St. Moritz to a waiting cab and the choo-choo to Chi.

Sallies in Our Alley: Jackie Green, the Embassy Club clown, was in a Broadway restaurant and asked a waiter the price of dinner. "We have two dinners—one for $2 and another for $5," was the reply. . . . "What do I get extra on the $5 dinner?" asked Green. . . . "Prestige," was the snapper. . . . Harvey Stone says Sinatra has muscles now — from carrying all that money to all those banks. . . . Latin Quarter boss Lou Walters asked an actor if he knew what an atheist was. . . . "Sure," was the retort, "someone who don't believe in Looey B. Mayer!"

Novelette: When Harry Tugend (who wrote the film "Wake Up and Live") was an unknown writer, he courted Jean Barkow. . . . At the time she was Billy Rose's Girl Friday. . . . "Why do you go around with a nobody?" Rose asked her. "Hook up with a success or some guy likely to be one!" . . . Jean disregarded the counsel and married Tugend. . . . They've been living (happily ever after) in Movietown, where Tugend is now Paramount Studio's executive producer. . . . He will soon produce Paramount's film, "The Life of Billy Rose."

Three months ago the U. S. Army in Germany discovered the lists of Nazi sympathizers in the U. S. A. Army officials promised the lists would be made public. The State Dep't promised the lists would be made public. A Cong. Committee promised the lists would be made public. . . . And what happened? Absolutely nothing! After all those promises — the lists are still a secret. And even the reason the lists are being hushed up—is a secret.

Quotation Marksmanship: K. Roos: Shall we split a kiss? . . . Anon: Rudeness is the reply we cannot think of. . . . J. M. Barrie: I am not young enough to know everything. . . . Virginia Faulkner: The decoration was not so much period as exclamation point. . . . Stefan Zweig: The lark whirred upward like a skyrocket of delight. . . . Chris Morley: The extraordinary insect obligato of Summer nights. . . . H. V. Morton: Conversation as formal as a minuet. . . . C. E. Coe: As naked as a peeled banana. . . . O. W. Holmes: Sin has many tools, but a lie is a handle which fits them all. . . . Sax Rohmer: A smile 30 years her junior. . . . Heywood Broun: The ability to make love frivolously is the chief characteristic which distinguishes the human beings from the beasts. . . . Gelett Burgess: A secret as fascinating as a loose tooth.

Times Square Ticker: Observers report Sec'y of State Byrnes waited (unrecognized) in the Waldorf barber shop until Frank Costello wised up the manager and got him priority. . . . Van Johnson will dine at a 52nd Street spot which barred him five years ago when he was merely an autograph collector. . . . G. B. Shaw told Gabriel Pascal that Irv Hoffman's caricature of him is the best of thousands he has seen. . . . Ned Sparks reports that he would like to get back to Movietown and do a picture.

Kidneys Must Work Well-
For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.
Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Recipe for a New Spring Suit: First, Take a Dated Formal—

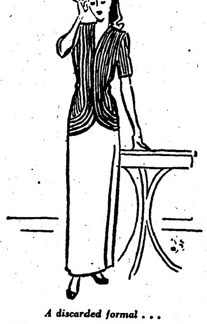
By Ertta Haley

THERE is no such thing as the young teen-ager who has all the clothes she wants. When some new gadget, trinket or fad takes the school by storm, girls freqently feel out of the swing of things if they can't have them. On the other hand, clothes budgets for the high school girl are frequently limited, and it's impossible to buy everything.

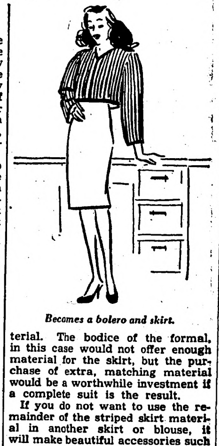
In cases like this, the girls who can sew, or whose mothers are handy with the needle are truly born under a lucky star. There are always dresses in the wardrobe that are dated, rather than worn, but with skillful recutting and sewing they can be transformed into new and lovely things.

One of the items in a young girl's wardrobe which easily acquires a dated look, but does not lose its value as a good piece of material, is a formal. Formals are worn a few times, and then they lose their usefulness as such. But what a wealth of good material for sewing!

Not only one but several articles can be made from dated formals. The bodice can be recut and sewed as the top of a suit, and the skirt especially if it is full, offers ample material for the skirt of a suit, and even an extra blouse or skirt.



A discarded formal . . .



Becomes a bolero and skirt.

Striped effects are popular this season for both boleros and jackets. The formal with a striped top can easily be utilized for this providing it is ripped apart completely and every scrap of material given thorough use.

If the skirt of the formal is striped rather than the top, then it can be used for the jacket or bolero, with perhaps a peplum of the same material. The bodice of the formal, in this case would not offer enough material for the skirt, but the purchase of extra, matching material would be a worthwhile investment if a complete suit is the result.

If you do not want to use the remainder of the striped skirt material in another skirt or blouse, it will make beautiful accessories such as a hat or gloves. The accessories will then pick up their cue from the costume itself and add a smart, finishing touch to the outfit.

Should you be making a bolero as topping for the skirt, then try the rounded shoulder effect. Pads can be purchased or made from muslin in a large enough size to give the desired rounded effect. They should be fitted carefully to the wearer.

For making the pads, you will find that featherbone in two or three ply makes an ideal support for these pads. They are easy to stitch to position with a long machine stitch.

Making a Circular Skirt For the Suit

The main thing to remember in making a circular skirt is to let the garment hang on a garment hanger overnight. This is done to let the fabric sag—if it will—and let you make adjustments before you really turn the hem and stitch it. This may be done after the garment is on its way toward finishing. When you are ready to sew the hem, take the garment off the hanger and try it on with the shoes you plan to wear.

The hem is then marked with a skirt-marker just as you would for any other type of skirt. Now the dress is removed. Lay the skirt on the table, folded at center-front and center-back lines and measure evenly all the way across the skirt. Mark with chalk for length. Trim a little off at the sides because of the sagging bias seams and then measure the depth you want them finished in. A circular skirt requires a narrower hem than does a lengthwise skirt. Turn the raw edge under a generous one-half inch and clean-stitch it. Use a long stitch to draw up the fullness of the hem with a bobbin thread. When the hem is basted and the lower edge pressed, try the skirt on again for fit. Then slip-stitch the hem into position, doing this with the skirt spread out on a table so the hem will lie perfectly in position. Long slip stitches are best—and be careful so that they do not show through.

Precision Stripes

Impeccably hand-tailored but with distinctive dressmaker detail is this precision striped jacket. In navy and red striped worsted, this suit is indicative of the trend in fashion being shown this spring.

Sewing for Youngsters

You'll find these tips worthwhile when sewing for youngsters just past the bib and tucker stage:

1. Choosing materials for children should center on the following points: washability, wearability, ease of making, warmth or protection, and attractiveness.

2. The length of skirts, trousers and sleeves are important. Children's clothing should look smart if you want them to be happy and win appreciation from their playmates.

3. Good buttons and fasteners, good binding or trimming material such as ric rac are essential if the child is to get in and out of his clothing easily, and make the clothing easy to launder.

4. Little folks like good fitting clothes. Making up a muslin pattern takes little time and saves ripping and tedious pinning that make youngsters fidgety.

5. Make sewing easy for yourself by doing all the cutting at one time. Then the sewing can all be done at a sitting. You can concentrate better when your work is well organized.

Spring Fashion Notes

Boleros are going to be more important than ever, and so are belts, wide ones, slim ones and colorful belts. Peplums are in to stay, too.

Skirts are longer for street wear, shorter for dancing, these ideas taking their cue from ballet styles. Speaking of ballet, you will notice that bathing and beach apparel have been much influenced by this classic form of the dance, too.

Tunic suits are being seen more and more frequently in this trend of longer jackets.

If you have a large build, wear garments with broken lines to make you look smaller.

If you're young and long for coquettish accessories, select a plaid taffeta bag and hat. Drawstring bags that swing freely are high in favor.

"The State is warming up. At North Jay a house that was built by mistake so the keyhole in the front door lines up with the prevailing winter winds has sometimes taken in as much as 37 bushels of snow through the keyhole in a single storm. It's been five years now since any storm has blown in more than 18 bushels. No storm this winter has blown in more than 15."—John Gould of Lisbon Falls, Maine, in the New York Times.

Boyhood's Greatest Thrill

Buffalo Bill was born 100 years ago. We feel sorry for kids to whom he is a remote figure. What a thriller the Buffalo Bill Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders was to the small fry of yesterday! It came every year back home, and one of our earliest memories is seeing Buffalo Bill in the flesh, riding down Whalley avenue in an open buggy, at the head of the Injuns, cowboys and buffalo hunters. The show was held in Westville, just back of the Nick Hubinger mansion. Once, lacking money to get in, we climbed a tree to see the show and we almost imagine we got riddled by stray bullets in the hold-up of the Deadwood stage.

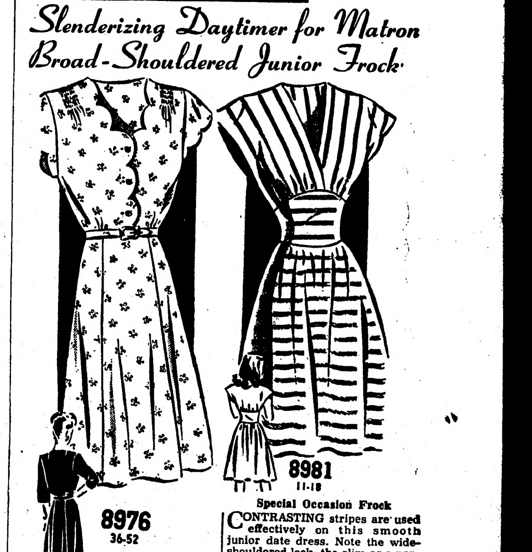
Slenderizing Daytimer for Matron Broad-Shouldered Junior Frock



Matron's Frock

A SIMPLE daytime frock especially nice for the slightly larger figure. Flattering neckline, front closing and cap sleeves are edged in dainty scallops—shoulder gathers give a feminine touch. You'll like it in a pretty all-over floral print, or soft solid tones.

• • •

Pattern No. 8976 comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38, cap sleeve, requires 4 yards of 35-inch material.

Special Occasion Frock

CONTRASTING stripes are used effectively on this smooth junior date dress. Note the wide-shouldered look, the slim-as-a-pencil waistline. Easy to make for the teen-age sewer.

Household Hints

To keep uncooked meat in a refrigerator, place it in a dry dish with a loose-fitting lid; cooked meat should be covered tightly to prevent drying.

When boiling rice, add a teaspoon of lemon juice to a quart of water. It will make the rice white and the grains will be separated when it is boiled.

The easiest way to season a plain hot vegetable in addition to salt and pepper is to add meat drippings or melted fat. Add just before serving.

On hand-knit or crocheted gloves, leave three or four inches of yarn on the inside of each finger. Catch this lightly in place on the wrong side. When gloves begin to show wear, thread end can be used for mending.

Rail Quiz

Why is James J. Hill often referred to as the "father of the livestock industry" in Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota and other states in which his early lines ran?

Early in and throughout his career as the "Empire Builder," the founder of the Great Northern Railway furthered diversification in agriculture. He encouraged livestock raising and brought into the territory much good stock for herd building. His first importation from Europe for this purpose was made in 1882.

MARKET TOGETHER!

1923 Within two years after a few Minnesota cooperative creameries banded together to pool their shipments and to standardize their quality, more than 300 individual plants were members of the cooperative marketing organization later to be known as Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc.

With millions of pounds of dairy products to sell, the advantage of controlling their own selling organization was apparent to the dairymen of Land O'Lakes.

Representatives were placed in the principal buying markets, and later a Land O'Lakes sales manager was employed. Soon a specific, far-reaching plan for butter marketing was set up.

Land O'Lakes continues to be the pace-setter—showing the way to others—and bringing each year more prosperity and security to dairy farmers. Land O'Lakes today pays top prices—then sells the products through the producer's own selling organization —25 years of pioneering is the reason!

The Weather

The weather the past week has been just beautiful. We have had dry warm days so far.

Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Hovrud arrived here last week from Seattl, Wash., to spend a few weeks attending to business and visiting with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Burtness.

Alfred Simonsod arrived here last week from Oakland, Calif., for a visit with relatives.

A very large crowd attended the Theo. Nygaard sale last week. The cows there sold in pairs at $170.00 and$180.00 each. Another sale at, which the Marshall County State Bank here was clerk, was the Mrs. Harry Cook sale at Middle River on Monday. There nearly everything hit high and the cows sold for $155.00 to $177.50 each. The machinery went exceptionally high.

Given Surprise Sunday

Rev. Urness and family were pleasantly surprised at Silver Creek Church last Sunday afternoon at the clase of the services. The fellowship was arranged especially for Mrs. Urness and the time also happened to be the first anniversary of the pastor's installation in this parish,

On behalf of the group present Mr. Chris Nelson gave a few remarks and presented a purse of money given by members and friends of the congregation. Lunch including ice cream was served to all und a table decorated for the honor guests and older members of the congregation was also used.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

All to Gain

Strikes in the automobile industry since V-J Day have cost the nation half a billion dollars in purchasing power already this year . . . and none of the big threatened strikes have occurred: This is the substance of a statement made to the press late in October by George Romney of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, in a position to speak for the whole industry.

In his supporting statements, Mr. Romney quoted figures which he is able to get in advance of any other news source. He declared that, on account of strikes in the plants of suppliers and makers of automobile parts, 350,000 fewer cars will be sold this year. Anybody old enough to drive a car knows this means 350 million dollars less money spent for cars this year.

Everybody Hurt

Cars on the road are a symbol of money in circulation; people going places and spending. Hotels, health resorts, oil stations and motor maintenance shops are having business turned away from them by disputes. Prosperity follows the production of things useful and desirable for people who buy. Probably no useful thing enjoys a greater popular demand today than the automobile.

The strike, during the progress of America's worst war, actually retarded military production. Our generals said it hindered the delivery of machines and munitions to help America's fighting men win battles. And now it is interfering with the chances of those same men for getting steady jobs at good pay after they have finished winning the war. This is the road to economic ruin.

Let Wages Advance

Speedy recovery is more important to the American people now than any money consideration or any point of pride being contended. I am a man of relatively small earning and I believe I can speak for millions of Americans who don't care how high wages go so long as they don't upset national economy. Moreover my faith in working men makes me believe they want no wage scale that will destroy jobs.

Ever since the automobile business grew out of its awkward age, it has operated on sound American principles: (1) Large investments in equipment, (2) more output per worker on account of the investment, (3) lower prices per car because of the big output, (4) more sales because of the low prices, (5) bigger profits because of the volume sales, and (6) higher wages made possible by more profits.

Minutes Matter Now

The demand for automobiles is such today that car production per worker might exceed all records and still not satisfy the public appetite for new rolling stock. Until production rates dwarf all previous records, there is no visible limit to the earning power of a skilled automobile worker. But there is the rub! An enemy intervenes. The strike has thrown a brake on production.

A war-impoverished world is looking to the United States to win a hard game. Uncle Sam has passed the ball to Detroit, and it is down—on the second yard line. Investments, yes; production, no! The opposition's squabble-play can defeat us. America has everything it takes to win but teamwork. Why not produce now to meet the needs of a desperate public, with the disputes to be settled later?

Helmer Larson Passed Away

Funeral services were conducted at the Emmanuel church at Ringbo on Tuesday afternoon for Helmer Larson, former Holt resident, with Rev. J. I. Nystuen of Greenbush officiating.

Helmer Larson, son of Matt and Emma Larson was born on Oct. 22, 1889. He made his home with his parents on their farm near Holt up to 1909, when he went to International Falls, Minn., where he worked in the Saw Mills as foreman for about 20 years, and later in the Paper Mill. During his years at International Falls, besides working in the mills he bought and built houses and then sold or rented them out. He was one of those hard working Minnesota natives.

He was married at International Falls, and due to a nervous condition his wife was taken to the State Hospital at Willmar, Minn., where she passed away on Tuesday, March 19, 1946. Mr. Larson had been down there for the funeral service and had stopped over to visit his mother and sisters at Thief River Falls, when he became ill with an heart attack and passed away at the home of his mother on Saturday morning, March 23, at the age of 56 years, five months and one day.

He is survived by a seven-year old son, Joseph Larson, who is staying at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Larson of Holt, his mother, Mrs. Emma Larson, Thief River Falls; three sisters, Mrs. James (Selma) Manoles, Valley City, N. D. Mrs. Allen (Lidia) Olson and Miss Amanda Larson, Thief River Falls. Four brothers, Albert of Internotional Falls; Emanuel of Fargo; Willie of Holt; and Leonard of Tacoma, Wash.
He was preceded in death by his wife, father and one brother.

Interment was made in the Emmanuel church yard at Rigbo. Pallbearers were Herb Johnson, Eddy Davidson, Hilmer Davidson, Elling Waagedahl, Pete Sorter and Alf Movick.

Friends and relatives from here and Thief River Falls gave Mrs. Louis Wegge a birthday party at the Dennis Wegge home at Thief River Falls last Tuesday.

Mrs. Oliver Grondahl will take over Ma's Eat Shop here next month. The Beito family will move back to Strathcona where Mrs. Beito has purchased a hotel and restaurant.

Put On Fertilizer Pasture Now

Spreading manure before the growth begins in the spring is one of the best and most effctive means of obtaining top returns from old permanent pastures, according to county agent F. W. Forbes.

Manure should be applied at a rate a rate of 6 to 8 tons or loads per acre. According to Paul M. Burson, extension soils specialist at University Farm, such an application may be expected to increase yields from 1.0 to 1.5 tons per acre, lengthen the pasture seasons and increase the protein content of the pasture grasses.

Pasture grasses are heavy users of plant nutrients, especially nitrogen, Burson points out. Well-rotted manure is high in both nitrogen and potash. Sod-bound permanent pastures are low in nitrogen and this lack of nitrogen often is the reason for poor growth, poor quality, and a short pasture season.

Not only will manure add fertility to the soil but it will also control livestock grazing and give the grasses a chance to make recovery growth. Animals will not graze freshly manured pasture.

Since the manure supply on most farms is not adequate to meet all needs, it is a good idea to stretch the limited supply by a system of manuring the rotation, Burson says. By manuring one third or one fourth of the pasture each year, it is possible to establish a three or four year manuring rotation on permanent pastures.

Mrs. Geo. Fricker left last for Chisholm to visit her parents.

Tailored Slacks and Vests Are Easily Made from Men's Suits

By Ertta Haley

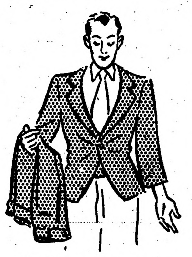
IF YOU can persuade your son or husband to part with that old shiny suit, you will have the makings of a nice slack suit right in hand. So often suits may become ill-fitting for the men folk. Sleeves may be too short, trouser legs not quite long enough. In some cases, the vest loses all use because it is too tight to wear.

With expert cutting and fitting, many of these old suits can be successfully remodeled into a smart slack suit for the teen-aged girl.

If there is a great deal of fitting to be done, it would be best to buy a pattern to assure accurate cutting. If you are expert at cutting and fitting, make up a pattern of your own. If there is little fitting to be done, rip the trousers out completely and trim them as necessary.

In woolen fabrics it is essential to allow a generous half inch for seams on all edges beyond the stitching lines. Mark the paper patterns to indicate the sections to be cut from lining fabric and mark to show the lengthwise thread.

In making the slacks or trousers, it is especially important to have them hang properly. By no means should they be too tight, as this will not only give a poor appearance, but it will cause the fabric to pull apart easily.



Remodel a man's old suit . . .

Lay the pattern on the fabric correctly, making sure that both are on a smooth surface. The machine will need some adjusting too, before you attack the sewing problem. Men's suits are made of thicker material than you ordinarily use for sewing and the stitches will have to be adjusted to the weight of the fabric. When you stitch over three or four thicknesses, try the stitch on scraps before actually beginning.

Tailoring the slacks is a real challenge as it requires a different technique from the sewing on ordinary fabrics. Be generous with pins and bastings. It's hard to rip out stitches on material of this type, and it's a good idea to be right before you put those finishing stitches in the slacks. The slacks will have to be machine-stitched at all points, and the stitches should be as short as is practical.

If the seams on the inside of the slacks are made as neatly as possible, the garment will hang well and look well. Work on a flat surface and press each seam before it joins another. The seams should come together without stretching or pulling.

I can't stress pressing too highly when working with wool. All the seams need constant pressing to assure good fit and workmanship, and the final finishing touch to the slacks should be a complete pressing.

Cutting and Making The Vest From a Suit

If you are making a vest for a girl's slack suit from a man's suit vest, it will be necessary to cut the vest apart at shoulder and underarm seams. Then fit the front and back vest to the figure. The second button from the bottom should come to the waistline.

The seams are then pinned directly on top of the shoulders so that the waistline is in the above position. The vest will extend away from the figure at the front armhole. Draw this excess down to the underarm seam and make a dart into the underarm seam.

Shoulder seams should be marked after taking the vest off the figure, and also the side seams on the front vest. This is done with basting. Underarm darts both in the vest and lining should be marked. Pin both fronts together. Cut off at the shoulder and sides allowing generously (about an inch) for seams.

The darts in the vest and lining should be stitched separately. Slash darts in the vest and press open.

Turn under one-half inch on vest and lining at shoulders and underarm seams, ripping back outside the stitching when necessary. Baste the edges together and press. Stitch close to the edge on the machine.

A knitted back for this type of vest does not take much work and will make a very attractive outfit for the girl. If desired, a calot can also be made for the slack and vest suit, in the same color as the knitted back.

Posy Pretty

A beguilingly simple dress in pastel striped cotton is this one with a tight bodice, cap sleeves and full skirt. Embroidered posies go around the hem and cut petals enhance the neckline.

How to Reclaim Wool

When hand-knit wool sweaters are no longer usable, the wool from them can be easily reclaimed if the garment is washed and dried thoroughly. Do not try to unravel a sweater which is knit too closely. Use the following method for ripping hand-knit sweaters.

1. Wind the strands of wool around a board, making sure that the end is always visible. Continue until you have a long enough piece, and then break off the wool.
2. Tie the starting and finishing ends together on the board. At four equal distances apart, tie a white thread around the wool strands on the board, and then remove the wool from the board. Repeat these steps until the sweater is completely unraveled.
3. Dip the skein of wool into warm water until thoroughly soaked and then squeeze excess water out carefully. Tie a weight to the bottom of the wet skein to remove kinks, and then hang skein to dry. Do not expose to sun; dry in any airy place. When dry, wind into balls. It is then ready for knitting.

Spring Fashion Notes

Mother and daughter outfits have long been popular, but now we are also beginning to see matching suits for the younger and older brother.

With skirts full and sleeves inflated right now, waists, of course, look smaller and smaller. Tiny midriffs are played up, some of them even being laced like a real corset. Waistlines are dipping lower over rounded hips.

Stove-pipe hats with narrow brims are seen more and more in the news. These usually carry some intricate detail like a gold strand for trimming.

In some striped materials, very much resembling men's suit material, you'll find jackets slightly cutaway and flared. Wear these with frothy, veiled hats for the last word in fashion.

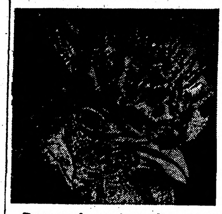
Farm Topics

Treat Frozen Combs Early to Stop Loss

Fertility Decreased If Males Are Victims

While prevention of frozen combs in the poultry flock is always the best cure, once this condition has been brought about every effort should be made to reduce its ill effects.

When roosters' combs are badly frozen their ability to fertilize eggs is either greatly decreased, or in some cases entirely lost. At any rate, until the comb is completely healed, high fertility cannot be expected.



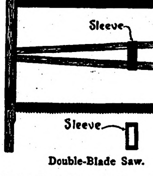
Rose comb roosters often prove more likely to suffer with frozen combs than single comb fowls.

A more rapid recovery may be brought about if the frozen parts are amputated. Sharp scissors, razor or sharp snips may be used. The cut should be made in the unfrozen portion. To prevent bleeding, apply an astringent such as tincture of ferric chloride. It is usually necessary to remove the wattles as well as the comb.

Frozen combs and wattles can be prevented by dubbing the cockerels in the summer when from 6 to 12 weeks of age, when loss will be negligible.

Before placing a cockerel or rooster in the breeding pen, it should be first ascertained that his comb and wattles were not frozen the previous winter, or that he has completely recovered. In many cases, it may be a wise move to market all males with frozen combs and wattles.

Double-Blade Saw



Double-Blade Saw.

Two buck-saw blades are desirable on the farm, with one fine and one coarse blade. The combined tightener consists of two straight bars mortised loosely and bolted in the frame at one end, while at the other end they are movable in a groove on the inside of the frame.

Benefit of Artificial Insemination of Bees

Artificial insemination is not new. It has stood the test and is being successfully applied in animal husbandry. Its use with bees was delayed until recent work by the federal experiment stations pointed the way to artificial insemination to improve honey yield.

The advantages will be possible to improve stock to a high degree. The practice will not immediately be practiced by bee raisers but will be limited to experiment stations and specialists who are now in a position to furnish improved honeybee stock by this method of breeding. The necessity for increased bee population may be aided by this method. It is also important that farmers time their spraying so as not to kill off large numbers of bees, as has been the case in the past.

Use High Frequency in Sterilization of Eggs

By sterilizing the egg, killing the germ, better keeping quality is secured from market eggs when subjected to high frequency. The principle is somewhere between radio and diathermy.

Certain bacteria on the shell are also destroyed and the white of the egg is slightly stiffened, so that when broken in the frying pan the yolk stands out above it, producing a better cooking egg.

Radios in India

America now has 950 radio stations and 60,000,000 receiving sets, but India with three times our population has only 9 stations and 200,000 sets, reports Collier's. Chief obstacles in India are that its people speak 225 languages or dialects and that their average family income is $20 a year.

Even a recent attempt to bring music, through free community sets, to the 300,000,000 individuals who live in 700,000 Indian villages resulted in the installation of less than 15,000 of these receivers, as only that number of villages have electric service.

DON'T BE A SLAVE TO CONSTIPATION

Do As Millions Do—Eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN For Lasting Relief

Constipated? Using harsh laxative drugs? Millions have solved the problem of constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet. They eat a daily dish of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, and drink plenty of water for regular elimination! If you have this trouble and will follow this simple precaution, you may never have to take a laxative for the rest of your life!

ALL-BRAN'S not a purgative. Provides gentle bulk to aid normal, natural elimination. It's a great, naturally regulating food.

Even Richer in Nutrition Than Whole Wheat

Because it's made from the vital outer layers of wheat, in which whole-wheat protective food elements are concentrated. One ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN provides more than 1/3 your daily iron need—to help make good, red blood. Calcium and phosphorus—to help build bones and teeth. Whole-grain vitamins — to help guard against deficiencies. Protein—to help build body tissue essential for growth.

Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

A SUPERINTENDENT of schools visited a night-school for Negro adults. He was called upon to congratulate an old Negress. She had enrolled at the start of the course with a single, avowed intent—to learn to write her name. She had succeeded, and the course was at an end, and she was leaving.

The next year the superintendent visited the same school. The old woman had enrolled again. "Why?" he asked her.

"Ah's goin' to learn to write mah name." she said.

"But you learned that last year."

Rail Quiz

What is ballast?

Ballast is material such as gravel, crushed rock and cinders, placed on the roadbed to drain water away from the ties, to spread the load over softer subgrade and provide an even bearing for the ties, to hold ties more firmly in place and to check the growth of grass and weeds. Ballasting improves drainage, lessens dust, reduces weeding and maintenance problems, adds to stability of the road, and makes a smoother riding track.

The Region has it on good authorithy that a deal is in progress for the purchase of the Ed McGuire summer resort at Wheeler's Point by Sam Reierson of Leeds, North Dakota. Mr. Reirson has been in Baudette for several days, and it is understood that the deal for the purchase of the summer resort is all but completed. Mr. Reierson has been operating his own creamery for the past 13 years. He, Mrs. Reierson and their two sons have spent several days at the resort looking it over and in Baudette making the deal. The property consits of a big two story main lodge and several nice cottages.—Baudette Region.

LOOKING AHEAD

Waiting?

A farmer friend of mine, accompanied by small son, took his well-used truck and drove over the river to the county seat on a recent wet Saturday. He did the week's shopping, treated the boy to a "western" and started home; but no! The road was under rising water on both sides of the bridge. Returning to town he engaged a night's lodging and tried to telephone home.

Service on his party line had grown steadily worse since Pearl Harbor, especially on rainy days. Now the instrument at his ear crackled like cold breakfast food and the ringing signal suggested Central America. He feared the worst. Strangers menaced him, wanting something—the telephone maybe. At last the operator cut in with her impersonal "Waiting?" — and the farmer exploded.

Congressmen Likewise

Most people have had such experiences. They seem to overtake us easily when we're waiting for advice from home. Congressmen in Washington know the feeling well, I am told. They, most of all public servants, want to hear from home. They don't consider themselves rulers, merely units out of far-away communities, hand-picked to represent their neighbors who elected them.

Most of our legislators are competent and eloquent; handle their work well, but they want to be faithful representatives. Not pretending to know all the answers, they try earnestly to get word from the electorate. Pressure groups menace them, wanting something — their votes maybe. Their deliberations are belittled by frantic executives saying "Waiting? What's the delay?"

What's Your Pleasure?

What do you think about paying $25 a week for 26 weeks to Tom, Dick and Harry? Do you favor America's helping the Russians build bigger and better atomic bombs? How do you feel on the subject of compulsory military training? Do you believe Congress should guarantee government jobs for all unemployed? Your representative would really like to know your wishes in these matters.

Hon. Carter Manasco and a score more congressmen recently listened to testimony for more than 30 days on the question of guaranteed jobs. They invited every citizen with an idea on the subject to come and testify and especially urged many to appear. They were most liberal with time for preparation and time to testify. The House Committee on Executive Expenditures deserved much credit and took plenty of panning for that cautious job.

Genuine Cooperation

It was just a year ago now that sixty citizens of Batesville, Ark., met voluntarily to study a piece of proposed legislation about to be considered by the House committee of which their Washington representative was a member. They deliberated thoughtfully, reached a conclusion and mailed Hon. Wilbur D. Mills a brief statement of their wishes and a list of their names.

I wish the back-home friends of every congressman in Washington would hold such a meeting soon on one or more vital national issues. It would twist the lever from the hand of pressure groups. It would clear the atmosphere along the Potomac. It would strengthen the morale of Congress, which is the individual citizen's only citadel from oppression.

Scouts Win At Jamboree

The Holt Boy Scout Troop No. 112, Geo. Fricker, Chairman of the troop committee, Hartley Peterson, Scoutmaster, Murnet Johnson and Leonard Ness, assistant scoutmasters. attended a Scout Jamboree at Crookston on Friday and Saturday. The Holt boys received first awards in signaling in which they had a perfect score and second in knot tieing contest. Three of the troop boys passed their test in swimming. They are George Fricker, Jr., Vernon Engen and Roy Johnson.

The entire troop was at the Jamboree as follows: Willis Skjerping, Harold Ness, Kieth Movick, Dale Olson, Emery Horien, Donald Larson, Vernon Engen, George Fricker, Jr., and Roy Johnson. Holt again has an up and coming scout troop. The News joins the community in extending congratulations upon their achievements.

A new bus line has been started between Bemidji and Baudette and from there on east to International Falls. This gives the traveling public a chance to see that scenic part of northern Minnesota as well as a long needed service in linking up with all three of these county seats.

Mrs. John Ness and Mrs. H O. Hanson were among those who attended the workers conference of the Thief River Falls Circuit Women's Missionary Federation. The meeting was held at the I. R. Geving home. at Thief River Falls, Saturday. Mrs. Ness and Mrs. Hanson are Box Work Secretary and Vice President, respectively, of the organization.

Filed For Clerk of Court

Edwin K. Rokke, an employee of the Amungaard Implement Company branch at Warren, announced his filing last week for the office of Clerk of District Court for Marshall County.

Mr. Rokke who has been a resident of Warren for the past ten years. is forty years of age, married, and has three children. The first three years of his residence at Warren he worked as bookkeeper and teller at Peoples State Bank. Since then for the past seven years he has been employed by the Amundgaard Implement Company, his duties consisting of office and sales work.

Mr. Rokke was born and raised on a farm near Newfolden and attended the grade and high school there and at Strandquist. In 1930 he completed a bookkeeping course at Aaker's Business College.

Previous to coming to Warren he worked one year in the First National Bank, Northwood, N. D., and for three years with the Grand Forks Supply Corp., at Grand Forks, N. D.

Had Big Signup Meeting

Farmers of Holt, East Valley, Agdar and Excel townships were in Holt Wednesday in connection with the 1946 farm plan sign-up meeting. The food production goals for Marshall County were explained in instructions in the forenoon and afternoon to acquaint the farmers with the approved practices for the county. The deadline for sign-up is set for May 15 this year.

Shortage of Farm Labor Unknown to Big Harvey Family

Western Maryland claims one of America's biggest farming families and points to Mr. and Mrs. Earl K. Harvey Sr., and their 11 children, 9 boys and 2 girls. While others complained about a farm labor shortage the past few years, the Harveys went right on producing record crops on their 180-acre farm.

The eldest of the children is Marshall Harvey, now 25, who served in the army. As a lad he helped form a 4-H club and is now "assistant supervisor."

Next is Lucile, 23, who was active in the 4-H club until she reached the age limit of 21. She is now married, but still helps to hoe the Harvey potatoes.

Then there is Calvin, who graduated from the 4-H club when he reached the age of 21 last January. Selective service classified him 2-C, giving him an agricultural worker's deferment. He and his father supervise the 180-acre farm, the 35 cattle, and the 45 tons of shelled peas the land produced last summer.

Potatoes for Fanny Mae.

The next in this pastoral family is Fanny Mae, 20. Potatoes are her forte. Recently the University of Maryland experimental station, cooperating with the United States department of agriculture, developed a new potato in Garrett county. At elaborate ceremonies here, it was christened the "Potomac," and Fanny Mae did the christening.

Then comes Freddie, 17. Besides being president of the "Harvey 4-H club" at nearby North Glade, where the farm is located, he is president of the Future Farmers of America chapter at Oakland high school.

"But this is not because of numbers alone," he pointed out.

Then there is Earl Jr., 16, also an exuberant agriculturist, 4-H member, and student at Oakland high school.

Next comes Robert, 14. Robert bought a 4-H club calf, nursed it along, took it to the Pittsburgh live stock show with Joseph Steger, assistant county agent, recently, and came away with fourth prize. He was competing with boys and girls from Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

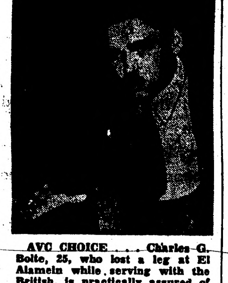
Ernest, the "4-H Baby."

Then there is Guy, 13. Not to be outdone by Robert, Guy also raised a calf and took it to the Pittsburgh show. It weighed 870 pounds, captured sixth place in the lightweight class, and was bought on the spot at 26 cents a pound. Guy figured he cleared "about $90" on the transaction, while Robert made $119 profit.

Then there is Ernest. Ernest is 10, which is just old enough for him to be called the "4-H baby." He is studying agriculture and the whys and wherefores of cattle during school hours, like Freddie, Earl Jr., Robert and Guy, and before them Marshall, Calvin, Lucile and Fanny Mae.

And then there is Arthur, who is eight. Arthur definitely leans toward potatoes. He took it very hard when much of the Harvey crop froze in the ground last year.

And then the bottom rung of this farming ladder is Douglas. Douglas is three and has yet to prove himself, but it was indicated that he is a natural pea-sheller. An apprentice by birth, he expects to grow by example and observation.



AVC CHOICE . . . Charles G. Bolte, 25, who lost a leg at El Alamein while serving with the British, is practically assured of being named president of the American Veterans' committee, an organization of World War II veterans, when the first convention is held in Des Moines in June.

Soil Conservation Continuance Urged By Federal Agency

WASHINGTON. — The fertility of American land declined seriously during the war, according to the agricultural adjustment agency, which is urging farmers to return to "conservation type" farming. Millions of acres of land were overcropped and over-grazed during the war to meet unprecedented demands for food products.

"Off We Go" AVIATION NOTES

WORLD AVIATION FAIR

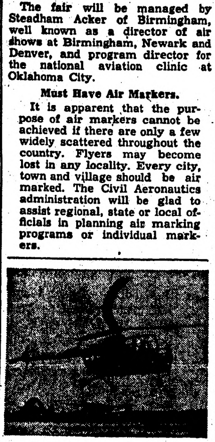
The first postwar international aircraft trade exposition and flight demonstration will be held at Offutt field, Fort Crook, near Omaha, from July 21 to 28 and will be known as the World's Fair of Aviation.

Preliminary plans are based on an attendance of 250,000 persons and the expectation that at least 2,000 light planes will be flown to Omaha for the event. Both the AAF and the navy will participate in the flight events. Special performance exhibitions will include both military and civil aircraft.

The fair will be managed by Steadham Acker of Birmingham, well known as a director of air shows at Birmingham, Newark and Denver, and program director for the national aviation clinic at Oklahoma City.

Must Have Air Markers.

It is apparent that the purpose of air markers cannot be achieved if there are only a few widely scattered throughout the country. Flyers may become lost in any locality. Every city, town and village should be air marked. The Civil Aeronautics administration will be glad to assist regional, state or local officials in planning air marking programs or individual markers.



WHATISIT . . . The first aircraft to receive an army number in 1946 was the XR-9B, a new helicopter, which is undergoing flight tests at Wright field, Ohio.

A commercial helicopter, capable of carrying 10 passengers and baggage in short-haul service, may be ready by next fall.

COYOTE HUNTING

"Ted Hagele and Al Binder were hosts to Minnesota hunters who came in to hunt coyotes by plane. Included in the party were Marcellus King, Donald Rugg and Carl Elam of Austin, Minn.; Allen Goetzinger of Hollandale, Minn., and Carl Benhoff of Gettysburg. In the first hour and a half, the sportsmen bagged three coyotes." — Pioneer, Bowdle, S. D. They used a Piper cub.

A Safe Crash Landing.

Through the cool headedness of Sam Sornborger of Arcadia, Calif., in crash-landing a plane, he and his brother Jeff, who was taking his first plane ride, are well and happy. After cruising around for 15 minutes in a plane rented from the Rosemead airport, the engine suddenly went dead. Sam, who had more than 2,000 hours as pilot during the war, coolly maneuvered his plane to a smooth landing place in a wash. Which proves again that flying takes a cool head.

OLD VETERANS RETIRE

Back in 1930, Boeing built a number of 247-Ds for United Air Lines. These were the first of the two - engine low - winged transport planes. Later Pennsylvania Central used these planes, and in time they were taken over for their sturdy characteristics by the CAA as a laboratory and freight plane in Alaska. It was of interest recently when announcement came that one of these 15-year-old veterans was retired! Some of us thought they'd fly on forever

Reversible Raincoats Make Smart Suits for Street Wear

By Ertta Haley

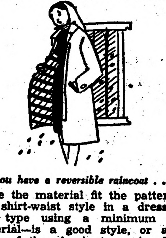
REVERSIBLE raincoats have been in style just long enough for the older ones to wear out and become shabby looking. However, in most cases, it is just the gabardine side which is worn and spotted, while the tweed or solid colored inside is almost as good as new.

Your first job in remodeling this type of coat is to inspect it carefully for worn spots. If it is too badly worn out along the sleeves or shoulders and will require too much cutting away, then don't try to stretch enough material out of it to make a dress or suit for yourself. It can be used to much better advantage for daughter who wears a smaller size.

Since these raincoats have had the hardest of wear, your cleaning job will have to be tops. This can be done at home with a good dry cleaner and thorough pressing, or it can be done professionally. Take particular care to see that all spots are removed before you start working.

When you finally take scissors in hand, remove the gabardine or outside first. Then remove the collar, pocket flaps and front closing from both sides. Press the remainder of the material, open carefully, and separate the coat at the waist.

After you have decided on a definite style, the material is easy to lay out and pin on the pattern. Sometimes this takes a bit of fitting, but don't be discouraged, as with a little moving about you can make the material fit the pattern.

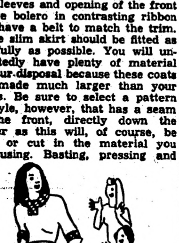


If you have a reversible raincoat . . .

A shirt-waist style in a dress—this type using a minimum of material—is a good style, or another of the classic types is also an excellent choice, both from the point of view of material and type of wear desired from this fabric. Another little detail which you will want is slashed pockets bound with a contrasting colored tape or ribbon and closed as they are on ready-made dresses.

A bolero type, too, is easily made from this type of material. This is a particularly smart choice if the top part will not make a well-fitted bodice to a dress, and too, the dress will need no collar and the sleeves can be made three-quarter length. A smart touch is to trim the sleeves and opening of the front of the bolero in contrasting ribbon and have a belt to match the trim.

The slim skirt should be fitted as carefully as possible. You will undoubtedly have plenty of material at your disposal because these coats are made much larger than your skirts. Be sure to select a pattern or style, however, that has a seam in the front, directly down the center as this will, of course, be open or cut in the material you are using. Basting, pressing and sewing, however, will enable you to make a neat closing of the material in front.



Make it into a smart dress.

Wool Garments Need Care in Tailoring

Since a dress is much smaller than the original coat, you will have plenty of material for generous seam allowances. Even if the pattern calls for narrow seam allowances, make them wider. Work on a flat surface and press each seam before it joins another.

All woolen garments should be machine stitched at all points. The stitch — well, it should be as short as is practical for the fabric, and you are the best judge of that. Over-casting, whipping and slip-stitching are commonly used in tailoring.

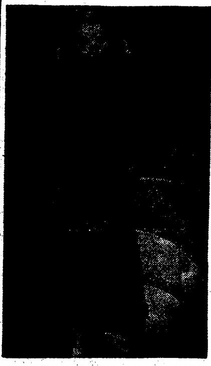
You'll find bastings all-important when working with a woolen garment. The seams should not be stretched or the stitching will seem tight and ill-fitting. Consider the price of wool as compared with some of the cottons and rayons, even though you are working on reclaimed material, and you will want to work with it carefully. The results will well repay your efforts. A well-tailored garment even though made at home can look as though it were handled by an expert tailor.

Another small pointer which is well to remember when working with wool, is to hang the garment when you are not working on it, and also to keep the skirt or bodice hung while the other is being worked on.

To cover the pocket openings as suggested previously, cut strips of lining fabric 1¾ inches wide and the length of the opening plus 1 inch. Press or baste ½ inch seams around all edges of the strip. Baste the right side of the openings, keeping fabric smooth. Stitch strips on edges. Press with a damp cloth. These strips will be hidden by the pockets. If the material is a smooth, dark fabric a band of contrasting ribbon would be very becoming.

As finishing touches to the garment, a complete pressing job is in order. Use a damp muslin cloth and do take your time. Here, more than on any other material, pressing is the secret to successful tailoring.

Strictly Streamlined



Martha Vickers, now appearing in a Warner Brothers picture, "The Big Sleep," is wearing a black wool jersey blouse with a striped taffeta collar and cuffs to match the peacock blue and black striped taffeta skirt.

Adjusting to Make Clothes Fit Well

Home sewing gives you a wonderful opportunity for making things fit. Slight alterations on ill-fitting garments spell the difference between good and bad grooming.

For lengthening a dress, a folded band of contrasting material may be added to the dirndl type of skirt. The band, when finished should be about 5 inches wide for a youngster's garment and 7 inches wide for the adult.

A concealed piecing at the top of a skirt can also serve to lengthen a skirt. Use a bolero for concealing purposes.

If the sleeves of a dress are out-of-date, rip them out and remake them. The current trend in the cap sleeve makes it possible to have new sleeves even if there is only a small amount of material.

Proper sleeve padding is important. Ready-made pads may be purchased reasonably, or they may be made from the same material as the garment. Baste them in and fit before actually attaching them.

For bagginess at the back of the skirt of a dress, take out the back waistline seam and side seams of the skirt. Raise the back of the skirt just enough to bring the side seams into line. Re-fit side seams and even the hemline.

Spring Fashion Notes

If you're dressing for business, then you'll want one of the new soft woolen bolero suits or dressmaker suits that make one look so exceedingly smart. Choose your colors carefully and select accessories with an eye to color.

If you are choosing a striped coat, look for loose sleeves (that help you wear suits underneath so easily) and slit pockets.

In the market for a spring coat? They're featherweight, and made of very fine woolens. Big checks and plaids are common in the shortie coat; soft shades in the other types. Deep pockets are an important feature as are wide, shiny belts which accentuate the waist.

Three - quarter - length coats are still very much in the picture, and cool but dressy.

Flame Cultivation Passes Farm Tests

Suitable for Hard-Stemmed Field Crops

Flame cultivation of farm crops has been proven sound at Cornell university and Mississippi State college. Tests made with sugar cane and with cotton have proved this method suitable for hard-stemmed row crops. Tests are still being conducted on other crops.

The flame cultivator consists of an ignition system burning diesel or tractor fuel, with burner heads mounted behind tractors so that two flames hit the rows from opposite sides.

At Mississippi it was found that any plant which is sufficiently tall for its leaves to escape contact with the flame has to be removed by hand. Johnson grass and "pig weeds" are resistant to repeated flaming when the leaves are not struck, while some plants succumb when the stems are repeatedly flamed.

Flaming versus hoeing showed no difference in the values obtained on seed cotton, lint and spinning. Seed showed a higher significant difference for free fatty acid and significant difference for grade in favor of flaming. Under this system it is now possible to produce cotton without hand labor by cross-plowing, flame cultivation and machine picking. Other farm crops promise to fall under this mechanical method of operation.

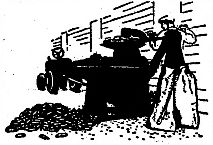
Swine Tuberculosis Spread by Chickens

Tuberculosis in swine increased 10 per cent last year, according to the American Veterinary Medical association. One hog in every 14 slaughtered, showed tuberculosis lesions. Such meat, when inspected, must be cvondemned. This represents a heavy financial loss to the swine raising industry.

Tuberculosis in swine is not spread from animal to animal, unless the udder of the sow is infected. The control and eradication of the disease in swine depend on eradicating tuberculosis in cattle and poultry.

As old-aged flocks of chickens are the chief spreaders or tuberculosis to swine, farmers should keep poultry out of hog lots, and dispose of the older birds each year.

Improved Machinery
Corn Sheller



This corn sheller, product of International Harvester, has a capacity of 100 to 150 bushels of husked corn per hour. It can be operated by any one-plow tractor engine or motor with capacity of 5 to 10 h.p.

It is constructed to shell corn for sale to elevators or to meet the immediate feeding requirements. Elevator and cob stackers may be attached. The corn travels downward in line of feed. A feature is a one-piece cylinder.

DDT Has an Important Rival in Velsicol 1068

A compound of chlorinated hydrocarbon, product of the University of Illinois insect experiments, is said to be three to four times as toxic to houseflies as DDT and twice as toxic to potato-beetle larvae and to pea and spirea aphids. It is about equal to DDT in its effect on mosquitoes. Other new competitors of DDT include the British insecticide Gammexane and TDE, tetrachloro-diphenyl-ethane.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

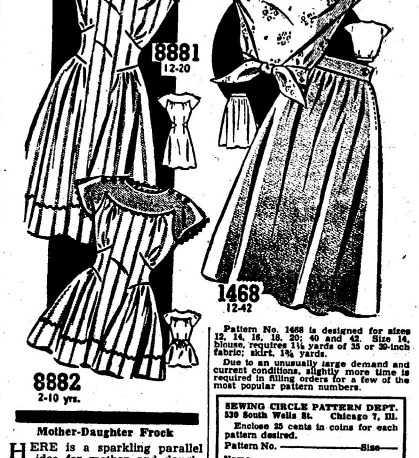
Yoke Frock for Mother-Daughter A Simple Twosome for Spring



Mother-Daughter Frock

HERE is a sparkling parallel idea for mother and daughter—pretty round yoked frocks with cool cap sleeves, snugly fitting waist and full cut skirt. Use a brightly striped or flowered fabric for the lower part of the dress and make the yoke of a contrasting shade. Grown-up and growing up charmers.

• • •

Pattern 8881 is for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14, upper dress, 2⅝ yards of 35 or 39-inch material; contrasting yoke and sleeves, ¾ yard; 6 yards ric rac.

Pattern No. 8882 comes in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. Size 4, lower dress, 1⅜ yards of 35 or 39-inch material; contrasting yoke and sleeves, ⅝ yard.

Smart Twopiecer

SO SIMPLE to make you'll want several versions of this smart two piece style. The wrap-around blouse is cut all in one piece—has a youthful neckline and the briefest of sleeves. Has dirndl skirt.

Pattern No. 1468 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 14, blouse, requires 1⅛ yards of 35 or 39-inch fabric; skirt, 1¾ yards.

Due to an unusually large demand and current conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers.

New Cuts Give Diamonds More Fire and Brilliance

For nearly 300 years, European and American gem craftsmen have cut 98 per cent of their diamonds in the "brilliant" form, convinced that its 58-facet design reflected a greater amount of light than any larger or smaller number of surfaces, says Collier's.

Recently, however, three New York firms created and patented new designs of their own—the King Cut with 86 facets, the Multi-Facet Cut with 98 and the Magna-Facet Cut with 102—all three of which give a diamond much more fire and brilliance.

When was Standard Time adopted?

At noon November 18, 1883, more than 50 different "times" were abolished in the United States and railway clocks and watches all were set to Standard Time, or four standards of time (Eastern, Central, Mountain and Pacific, each one hour apart). Standard Time soon became general and later was adopted in other countries. It was sponsored and put into effect by the General Time Convention of Railway Managers, which later became the American Railway Association and then the Association of American Railroads.

Fruit Coffee Cake Livens Party Table

Fruit coffee cake waves a magic wand over the party table when friends drop in of an afternoon, writes the Country Cooking Editor of Capper's Farmer.

"Made of ordinary quick-bread dough, it's glamorized with raisins, nuts and spices," she writes.

"Serve it at any meal for the family's delight. A thin icing puts it in the dessert class at lunch or dinner."

Fruit Coffee Cake.

½ c. raisins
½ c. water
1 tsp. lemon juice
Ground cloves
Ground cinnamon
⅓ c. shortening
1 tbsp. flour
1 egg
¾ c. milk
1¾ c. flour
2 tsp. baking powder
¾ c. sugar

Combine seedless raisins and water. Bring to a boil and cook for two minutes. Gradually add 1 tbsp. flour to mixture, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add lemon juice and a dash of cloves and cinnamon. Cool. Combine raisin mixture, lightly beaten egg and milk. Sift all-purpose flour, baking powder and sugar together. Work in shortening so particles are approximately the size of a small pea. Pour liquid mixture into middle of dry ingredients; stir two together just enough to mix well. Spoon into greased tube pan. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375° F.) for 25 minutes.

High Average

This is the season for taking stock. America has concluded a global war. Perhaps it is not quite fair to say the Americans won it, but, at least, they put a stop to it, which was the important thing. Conquering heroes are coming home by shiploads and replacements are going forth to stand guard over the peace they have bought so bravely at such fearful cost.

Success in battle consists of getting there first with the most. This proverb has been attributed to more than one military hero but it probably originated with that picturesque cavalry general of the Civil War, Nathan B. Forrest. At any rate, it is still true. This war was old when America got in it, but each individual conquest proved the old formula sound.

A War of Machines

Mechanical devices, in infinite variety and uncomputed tons, put an end to the conflict. They were made in America. Moreover the ships and cars and planes that took them to far-flung points of need were likewise made in America. If any other nation of people had been able to do it, they would have done it before Pearl Harbor. Only America had what it took.

But what is this rare and magic quality? The answer is easy: It is average greatness. An outstanding genius here and there does not make a competent race. Such men are useful but they are not the people. A young man to whom I handed a diploma in June, 1943, reported proudly in August that he had been one of 6,500 obscure chemists who helped develop the atomic bomb.

The Home Front

Where, but in America, is it possible to find 6,500 obscure chemists? Chemists of his skill and training are worthy of distinction in some countries, but in America they engage in volume production. They work on what amount to assembly lines. And the result brings a war-weary world a breath of relief from starvation and suffering and sorrow.

The exceptional "average greatness" found in America is the rare quality which must not be sacrificed. If we keep it, this country need never come under the heel of a foreign enemy or a home-grown despot. But if we keep it our people must know what it is and how it is obtained. Without further ado, average greatness is a product of the kind of liberty America enjoys.

Our No. 1 Resource

The average American soldier is not a great general but he possesses generalship, a human trait apart from rank. From youth he has known his right to own anything he could get honestly, his right to hold any office to which he could be elected, his right to compete. Where competition is not open, learning is lavished on the few and mediocrity paralyzes progress.

I have said this before, but it will bear repeating: The much maligned American system has made this nation great, prosperous, enlightened and resourceful, able to do big jobs in a hurry, get there first with the most and turn defeat into victory. Economic independence and personal self-reliance are pillars of education. America's most valuable resource is resourcefulness.

Had Bible Camp Board Meeting

Pastor Urness attended a Bible Camp Board Meeting at Roseau last Monday. There were 14 in attendance and a lot of details was taken care in connection with Lake of the Woods Bible Camp. There will be two weeks of camp this year - June 24 to July 7th each week being different as far as program is concerned.

After the meeting Mrs. T. C. Hanson served lunch to all at the parsonage.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been on the rough order with cold and cloudy damp days some hard freezes at night. The farmers say that the condition of the ground is so wet and soggy that it will be about another two weeks before field work will be on in full blast.

Olaf Hefterstad of Crookston spent o few days here with his cousin, Melvin Leiran.

Are You Looking For A Home?

Looking for a home? Marshall county needs 400 couples and single men for good jobs on its highly mechanized farms, says county agent Forbes. The labor situation in many parts of Minnesota this year is even more critical than it was during the war, and wages now compare favorable with those in industry.

The prospective job seeker can practically pick his own county, says Forbes. There is a shortage of farm labor throught most of the Red River Valley. Job seekers who would like to move to move to another county or another section of the state can obtain information at the local county Agents Office.

Anyone interested in a good farm job and a good home should see county agent Forbes at his office in Warren.

Geo. Fricke returned Tuesday from the Twin Cities where had spent several days attending to business matters.

AS AMERICAN as 'The Neighborhood Bridge Club'
Because Americans are a social people, the bridge club is a neighborhood institution. When the cards are cut and the game begins, a glass of beer has a way of appearing on the table along with the score pad and pencil. Somehow . . . moderate, refreshing beer seems to add the final touch of sociability and pleasure to all those friendly occasions when good neighbors get together.
To every American . . . banker, truck driver, farmer, mechanic, office worker . . . a glass of beer writes a pleasant period to any hard day's work. The right to enjoy this sociable drink of moderation and good sense is part of our American heritage. It fits right into the greatest pattern of living in the world . . . America.

Initiative

The son of a drainage engineer, who had done a great deal of supervisory work with and for his father, was inducted into the United States Army during the war. Before he had grown familiar with discipline he found himself digging a ditch to divert surface water from camp. His instructions had been verbal and reasonably plain but were not precise in every detail.

The youth had some knowledge of soil drainage and a real interest in it, so he set about to distinguish himself with good workmanship. When he was nearly half finished, his sergeant appeared, ruddy with indignation. Firmly the sergeant denounced the breach of discipline, going beyond orders. The recruit was confused and made a second mistake, speaking in his own defense.

Central Planning

"But, Sergeant, I thought . . ."

"Oh, you thought!" scornfully echoed his superior. "What right have you got to think? Are you drawing a thinking man's pay?"

Such is regimentation! The young man was not in school, where superior work yields superior grades. He was not in business, where better work means better pay. He was in the army.

This is not a criticism of military discipline or army efficiency. I am no military expert. I use this story to illustrate how regimentation kills initiative. By the very nature of its workings, it is destructive of progress in peaceful pursuits. In despot-ruled countries, things happen to all thinking civilians very much like what the young recruit experienced.

Competition a Remedy

In lands where authority is completely centralized, strict obedience to orders is the matter of gravest importance to private individuals. However wise and kind the dictator, when power-hungry henchmen reach into what we Americans call private business (as invariably they do) progress is paralyzed. Farmers and all other workers learn from unhappy experience to do as they are told, period.

Admittedly, parallel things happen occasionally in private enterprise but competition corrects them. Sometimes owners of businesses become indifferent, live apart from their interests and try to run live industries by dictum, as if methods they worked out years ago were eternally right. These cases develop their own cure quickly. Every office and every shop of such a proprietor becomes a hatchery of potential competitors.

Efficiency Rewarded

American business in general is operated with an aim to get maximum yield per hour of work. Executives and supervisors exist for no other purpose. More yield per hour means better wages for workers, more profit for management and lower prices for buyers who consume what is produced. The newest recruit on any job can get paid for an idea that improves production.

America is famous as the best place on earth to live. Many people know it who don't know why, but here's why: In America, ideas count. No matter who originates them, they have value. Anybody with an idea is free to use it and, if it's good, we all benefit. Thus, Americans live better than people under centrally planned systems where only the few think who are officially appointed to think.

Signal Corp has just been discharged from service and he, and his family came from Washington, D. C.

Reuben Larson Was Killed

The people of this community were saddened on Monday when Willie Larson announced that he had received a telegram from the War Department that his nephew Pfc. Reuben Larson, son of the late Ludvig Larson, had been killed in Germany late last week. He was a truck driver there with the occupation forces and the telegram stated that he died from scull fracture and a crushed chest. He was about 20 years old and had been in service since July 1945.

He leaves to mourn his death his uncle and aunt, Mr and Mrs. Wille Larson of Holt with whom he had made his home for many years, a brother, Clifford who is also staying there, a sister, Marrion whos is staying with his grandmother. Mrs. Emma Larson and his mother, Mrs. Rux all of Thief River Falls and several uncles and aunts.

He was the third soldier from Holt to be killed in service. The others were Lawrence Folden who was killed in France and Reubin Ness who was killed on Luzon in the Phillipine Islands.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

Happy Days for Sluggish Folks

WHEN CONSTIPATION makes you feel punk as the dickens, brings on stomach upset, sour taste, gassy discomfort, take Dr. Caldwell's famous medicine to quickly pull the trigger on lazy "innards", and help you feel bright and chipper again.

DR. CALDWELL'S is the wonderful senna laxative contained in good old Syrup Pepsin to make it so easy to take.

MANY DOCTORS use pepsin preparations in prescriptions to make the medicine more palatable and agreeable to take. So be sure your laxative is contained in Syrup Pepsin.

INSIST ON DR. CALDWELL'S—the favorite of millions for 50 years, and feel that wholesome relief from constipation. Even finicky children love it.

How to Fight the Menace of FIRE

A Wet Towel and a Flashlight may save your life!—says the National Safety Council

1 Call the fire department at first opportunity! Fire is always dangerous—especially at night. Most fires do occur at night! If you smell smoke, reach for your "Eveready" flashlight. Feel doors before opening them. If a door is hot, don't open it!

2 Wet a towel or cloth; cover your face and arms. Close doors behind you to reduce drafts that may fan the flames. If the heat is severe, remember that heat rises—crawl! If trapped on an upper floor, make a rope of bedclothes. As a last resort only, throw out a mattress and jump down onto it.

3 To avoid danger, you have to see it—so keep your flashlight with you until you're safe! Watch for collapsing ceilings . . . But the best way to avoid fire is to prevent it! Your flashlight gives a much better light than matches or a candle, and it's much safer too!

4 To help prevent fire or fight it—or for any flashlight need—rely on "Eveready" Batteries. Ask your dealer for them by name. The days when you had to accept "second choice" batteries—or none—are past. "Eveready" Batteries have no equal—that's why they're the biggest-selling flashlight batteries in the world!

Smart Cottons Now Available For Youngster's Easter Clothes

By Ertta Haley

MOTHERS who have been economizing on their children's clothes budget will be happy to learn that gay cottons are again becoming available. That will be good news for Suzie, too, who can have more dresses without spending any more on clothing provided mother can sew.

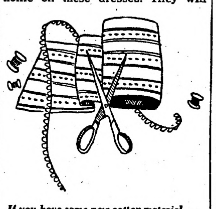
Youngsters' clothing is so easy to make, and so gratifying, too, because the sewing goes so much more quickly than for an adult. An average homemaker, if she sets aside one whole day for sewing, can actually turn out two dresses for daughter without rushing.

In looking over the patterns for the younger set, you'll notice how much "high style" is being shown. Youngsters, today, look just as smart and nice as their well-dressed mothers and big sisters and brothers.

We no longer make the same style of dress for them year after year. Nor do we make the dresses or coats "just a wee bit" longer because the youngster will soon grow into them. Child experts say that good fitting clothes contribute just as much to children's morale and behavior as they do for grown-ups.

You who sew at home will be able to give the exquisite details of tailoring that these garments for youngsters should have. Hand-stitching at the front, in pockets and collars will add greatly to the attractiveness of the outfit.

As for the availability in cottons, plaid gingham and striped chambray lead the style parade. These are lovely made up in square-necked dresses and insert belts for little girl's dresses. Eyelet embroidery detail, too, is very much at home on these dresses. They will stand up through many, many launderings.



If you have some new cotton material . . .

If you are making a dress-up dress for young daughter for Easter, you will undoubtedly use one that is ruffled. In making ruffles, remember to cut all but the shaped ones either on the true bias or crosswise. The more sheer the fabric, the more full the ruffle must be. It takes one and one-half times the length for skimpy ruffles and three times as much for billowy ruffles.

To make the ruffles as pretty as possible, use a little shirring in making them. The shirring, of course, should be evenly spaced, and this can be marked with pins, notches or chalk. Put the marks together after the shirring threads are drawn up and fastened. In most patterns, you'll find that fullness is usually indicated. More ruffling is needed for limp fabrics, less for bulky ones.

How to Manage Fitting And Sewing Easily

Modern mothers are as considerate of their youngsters as possible in the matter of fitting. If the youngster is anxious to get outdoors to play, don't keep her indoors while you pin and fit. Make a basic muslin pattern to follow as a guide and save your energies.

Another big help is to do your cutting all at one time, and the sewing or machine work at another sitting. You can even cut several dresses from the same pattern at one time, and don't worry about monotony in style. There's a good deal of variety in fabrics, so you don't need to worry about their being look-alikes.

Make your daughter a dress.

Graceful Tunic

The tunic suit is a perfect choice for this season because it gives graceful, soft lines. The one above is made in grey Miron gabardine, carefully fitted and tailored. The hat is a springlike number by Lilly Dache.

Before you actually begin sewing, it's a very wise idea to try the stitch on your fabric. You may want to regulate the stitch or change the tension depending upon how the fabric behaves.

Shoulder seams are stitched first and collars before sleeves. When you put the sleeve in, it is often possible to stitch the underarm at the same time. Sleeves are best stitched on twice: once on the same seam line and the next time a scant quarter of an inch outside this first stitching. Always stitch the armhole lightly as there is some give in the stitching line. As someone once expressed it, just ease the sleeve in as tucks are out of place in sleeve-armhole sewing.

In making a washable garment, it is important to bear in mind that the garment must be durable and last throughout many launderings. Guard against raveled edges.

Simple lace or edging — here again, something that will bear up under laundering — makes the youngsters' dresses look exceedingly becoming. Decorative stitching on cuffs, collars, plaits and pockets will do much for the garment. Gathers are easily made with the gathering foot, and buttonholes need be no problem if you have that particular attachment for your machine.

I can't emphasize too highly the importance of keeping your iron and ironing board out while sewing. You can save a lot of basting by pressing seams before sewing them, and the garment will be much better appearing if it is pressed frequently while you sew.

Pressing Pointers

Before using a pressing cloth, be sure that it is washed to remove all sizing. A muslin cloth is excellent, provided that it does not leave lint on the garment. A sponge kept in a small dish of water is also a big help.

Always test the temperature of the iron on a scrap of fabric before using it on the garment itself. There are so many different kinds of material on the market now, it is difficult to tell just how they react to heat.

Keep the iron moving constantly while pressing to prevent marking the fabric.

Press all seams up from the bottom or in towards the center of the garment. Darts on light fabrics are pressed to one side, either upwards or towards the center. On heavier fabrics, slash darts and press them open.

Spring Fashion Notes

Belts on coats are proving exceedingly interesting. Nailhead trims make them appear more glamorous, and coin-trimmed leather belts also accent some of them.

For coats that are worn over dresses, the trend is a soft, full silhouette. The skirts, you will find are more full, but waistlines are sharply accentuated by vertical tucks and insets.

This season hats are really hats, and there's a lot to them. There are large picture hats, small hats with lots of flowers that welcome spring, and hairline hats that show your bright, pretty face. A smart note is to have a contrasting colored veil for your bonnet.

Flange sleeves, slit pockets and unusual bottoms complete the picture.

Date-Bran Muffins, good as cake!
(Take no sugar, no shortening!)

These delicious, new ALL-BRAN muffins made with chopped dates will have a big appeal for the "sweet toothers" in your family! They're so moist. And they're so tender—so good. That's because KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is milled extra-fine for golden softness.

2 cups Kellogg's ALL-BRAN
⅓ cup molasses
1⅓ cups milk
1 egg
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped dates

Add KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN to molasses and milk and allow to soak for 15 minutes. Beat egg and add to first mixture. Add sifted dry ingredients and fruit. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 15 light, luscious muffins.

Good Nutrition, too!
ALL-BRAN is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat—contains a concentration of the protective food elements found in the whole grain. One-half cup provides over ⅓ your daily minimum need for iron. Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily!

The Best Time To Cut Pulpwood

Plan now to cut and peel as much pulpwood as possible during the season when the sap is up and trees peel easily. Peeled pulpwood prices are substantially above those paid for rough wood.

There are many other advantages to peeling. The cut and peeled log dries out quickly and loses up to half its weight. The smooth, lighter pulpwood sticks are easier to load and handle; you can haul more pulpwood per trip; save time, labor, gasoline and tires.

I read recently that the United States government was ahead $6,000,000 a day on railway operation in World War II compared with World War I. What does this mean?

When the federal government took over and operated the nation's railways in the last war, resulting deficits cost the taxpayers $2,000,000 daily. The railways in 1945 are paying federal taxes at the rate of more than $4,000,000 a day—in addition to their state and local taxes."

Arrested Fishermen Monday

Four Fisherman were arrested on Mud Lake Wildlife Game Refuge here Monday evening. Some were from Greenbush and some from Middle River.

Mr. Vogen, manager of the refuge, states that this practice must stop as the Federal Law grants no one the right to fish on the refuge. The parties picked up, were fishing at the north control dam of the Thief River where it makes a swing into the refuge at the northwest corner of the old Mud Lake.

When Your Back Hurts -
And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

Pretty Bedroom Accessories Can Be Made of Old Curtains

By Ertta Haley

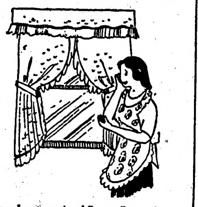
WHETHER you share your bedroom with another member of the family or enjoy its privacy, you want to make it the most attractive and cozy room in the house. Bedrooms and dressing rooms can truly reflect their owner's personality, and in fact, they offer more opportunity to show your skill with the needle than the other rooms.

Pink and blue are the old standbys in color schemes for the bedroom, but the trend now is to introduce just a little bit of sophistication even when these colors are used. Instead of pink, you may want to use a melon shade and add touches of chartreuse or lime as a color complement. If your choice is blue, then perhaps a deep blue with touches of deep, bright red would make the most of the room.

After your color scheme is decided, then is the time to look into available materials to see what can be made or remodeled to make the room as pretty or smart as your heart desires. If no new materials are available, then take a trip to the attic to see what you can discover. The chances are ten to one there will be a discarded set of frothy curtains or a faded pair of drapes or an old tablecloth that can readily be converted into something extremely practical.

If you are fortunate enough to have a dressing table in your room, then bear in mind that it is the focal point of the room. In making the skirt for it, remember that good draping and a full skirt are the keys to its being truly successful.

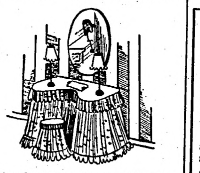
The style of the dressing table skirt depends upon your own individual taste. If you go in for tailored things, then you will dispense with that fluffy, frosted look and concentrate on draping and detail, smart color and accessories. If you like the room to be as feminine as possible, plan a skirt that is made fluffy with a sheer or starchy material and use wide ribbon for bows and draping at the top.



If you have a pair of "weary" curtains . . .

But what can be converted into a dressing table skirt, you ask? If the skirt is a two-piece affair—a sheer fabric on top, and an opaque material for the under skirt, your choice would naturally be discarded curtains of some sheer material. The under skirt can be almost anything you happen to have—an old damask tablecloth, cotton sheeting, bedspread or drapery. Even the full skirt of an old sheer evening gown can successfully be reconverted into a frilly overskirt.

Your best choice for a tailored dressing table skirt is any old drapery material which you will probably dye to suit the color scheme of the room. Some of the old tablecloths or old formals have a lovely heavy material which also might be utilized. For this type of skirt you will not need as much material as for the very feminine, but you do have enough for deep plaits or tucks so the finished skirt does not look skimpy.



Fashion them into a dressing table skirt.

Fit Material to Table Before Cutting

Before you begin working on the material, see that it is carefully laundered and pressed or dry cleaned. Patterns are not a great deal of help since the sizes of the tables vary a great deal. It will be best for you to actually fit the material to the table itself. The material should go all the way around and open in front, with enough overlapping in front, of course, to prevent the skirt from gaping.

As you pin the material to the table, allow for tucks and pin them in, using a rule or measuring tape to see that they are evenly spaced. For the feminine dressing table skirt, allow generously for the flounce at the bottom. This, of course, may be done after the skirt is cut, but do see to it that you have enough material to go all the way around.

For ease in making the skirt, and also as a help in laundering or cleaning, the two-piece skirt is made in four parts. Both skirts will fit around half the table coming together in the middle at the front. If the table is placed solidly against a wall, the skirt need not go all the way around the back.

Probably your only purchase for the skirt will be ribbon for the trim. Don't dash out to the store as soon as you get the idea for making it. Take your measurements first, and use strips of paper for fitting and tying in bows if you want to be perfectly accurate.

In the tailored type of skirt, you may want to do some dyeing. Sturdy cotton or cotton and rayon draperies will dye fairly easily. This should be done before cutting. Sheer curtains are best left their original white, but the under skirt which is of opaque material will be pretty in a light pastel tint, if you want to introduce just a little color.

Nice but Neat

The ever popular bolero suit appears in a Nettie Rosenstein version with a double-breasted box bolero over a brown crepe top dress of light blue wool. The straw hat with the perky veil is in keeping with the neatness of the suit.

Patching Pointers

Every woman has her share of mending to do whether she likes it or hates to approach the task. Doing it on a regular routine will take some of the drudgery out of and assure the family of their clothes always being ready to wear.

A darning basket or kit is a necessity and should be kept separate from sewing materials. All different types of thread are essential and also a quantity of buttons. Make a habit of putting loose buttons directly in the mending kit so as to have the right ones on hand.

Snaps and hooks and eyes are also essential. Other "musts" are a pair of small, sharp-pointed scissors, a darning egg, darning and sewing needles; darning thread, tape and a small razor.

A darning stitch which is most often used for mending is like a weaving stitch. It substitutes for the material and therefore the thread should be as much like the material as possible.

In mending dainty, fragile garments, use fine thread and small stitches. Lace should always be mended by dainty overhand stitches.

Spring Fashion Notes

Shoulders in both suits and coats are very wide and full but soft. Sleeves, too, carry out the fullness. In many of the coats you will find wrist length sleeves with buttons just as on dresses or blouses.

Your favorite choice of materials for this season are first, thin rayon crepes; second, soft satins; third, sheer and not so sheer cottons.

Greatcoats are more feminine and graceful than in years before. They boast a soft quality, but frou frou is absent.

Radiant colors in stripes, polka dots and solids are all first choice for the younger fashions now. Graceful skirts play up the youthful figure, giving it a sense of free movement and grace and minimizing the waist.

PAUL HENREID, who plays a curate in Warner Bros.' "Devotion," was puzzled by a group of eight nice looking gentlemen who visited the set where he was working. They edged up as close as possible, and paid rapt attention when he did a scene with Olivia de Havilland. Afterward he learned that they were clergymen, and were interested in the Henreid technique displayed in making a parish call. Incidentally, after getting her man in 30 straight pictures since 1935, Olivia gets turned down by Victor Francen in this one. However, she marries Henreid — and she says her infatuation for Francen was just a school-girl crush anyway, so it doesn't count.

Louise Allbritton, who co-starred with William Eythe in "For Always" on a recent "This Is My Best" airing over CBS, did it under difficulties. She'd been badly unnerved by an auto wreck on her way to the studio. She wasn't hurt, but she was upset and excited. Yet you'd never have suspected it. She didn't even look nervous, and she didn't fluff a line of her complicated dialogue.

Robert Montgomery, who costars with Miss Garson in "A Woman of My Own," is going to delight all of us who liked him so much in "Night Must Fall" by making another mystery story by the same author, Raymond Chandler. This one is "Lady in the Lake."

Columbia Broadcasting System is certainly covering the news with the organization behind "Robert Trout with the News till Now" (6:45-7:00 p. m., EST). It includes 36 Columbia news experts located in 17 of the world's liveliest news centers. Something new will be introduced by a staff of experts who will "research" the news; they'll build authentic backgrounds against which the news can be projected, give documentation to the stories. Trained reporters will help prepare the scripts.

Patti Clayton's made history — she's zoomed to popularity via a singing commercial! She's the original "Chiquita Banana" girl, and people everywhere used to listen to her voice telling them not to put bananas in the refrigerator, even though they hated bananas. Now Patti has her own program, "Waitin' for Clayton," on CBS at 6:15 p. m., EST, thanks largely to the tons of fan mail she received.

In "Little Giant," their new Universal picture, Abbott and Costello break their 16-year-old entertainment formula. They perform as individuals, not as a team, and for the first time since 1930 they're following a script, studying lines and written directions — formerly they improvised their dialogue and invented the accompanying action. And they're not including any of their comic routines.

A special group of page boys has been assigned to the 6th floor studios at NBC in New York, to handle the exuberant bobby-soxers who swarm in the wake of their new idol, Robert Merrill. The 27-year-old baritone has been creating a sensation at the Metropolitan Opera House.

In the movie, "Doll Face," which stars Perry Como, he's called upon to sell his barber shop to finance his show business aspirations. The screen writers were just delving into history — Perry once ran his own barber shop, in Cannonsburg, Pa. And he sold it so that he could get money to take a whack at singing professionally.

ODDS AND ENDS—Ray Milland was en route to a gas station for a job one day 13 years ago when William Meiklejohn, Paramount talent chief, signed him to a screen contract. . . . Robert Young grew a trim mustache in three and one-half weeks for his role in Hal Wallis' "The Searching Wind." . . . David O. Selznick says his multi-million dollar production, "Duel in the Sun," will run for two hours and thirty-five minutes. . . . Before the "Queen for a Day" group even reached Denver, 25,000 requests for tickets had been received at the radio station carrying the broadcast . . . Probably all from women hoping to be queen for a day.

Household Hints

Raspberry bushes must be pruned every year if they are to be long-lived and productive. Without pruning, the bushes become choked with deadwood and a super-abundance of new canes, so that the fruit canes are weakened greatly.

To remove perspiration marks from white silk mix some bicarbonate of soda to a stiff paste with cold water. Spread thickly on the parts and leave for an hour or so before washing. This will also remove light scorch marks.

Do not paint or paper walls immediately after they have been plastered. Let them stand from eight to 10 weeks—even longer in damp weather.

A lemon heated before squeezing will produce a lot more juice than if it is squeezed cold.

To hammer a nail in the wall without cracking the plaster, dip the nail in hot water first.

Avoid running lamp cords under your rugs. They wear ridges into the fabric, besides being unsafe.

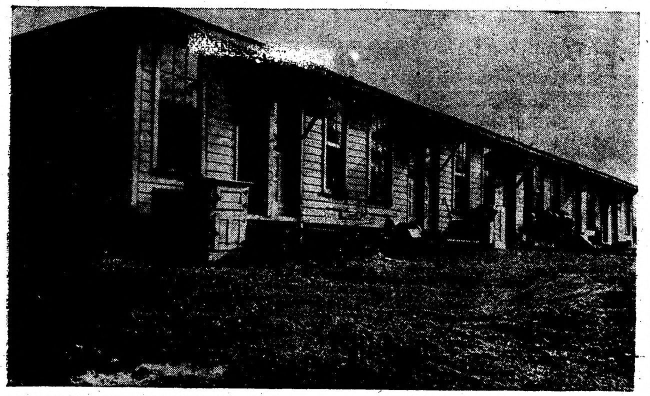
HEAVY TOLL FROM TIDAL WAVE IN PACIFIC . . . Claiming at least three hundred lives and untold millions of dollars worth of damage, map shows how the tidal wave started in sea somewhere off Dutch Harbor, Alaska, to race over Pacific at 300 miles an hour and hit Hawaiian Islands and west coast of North America. Sudden drop of ocean floor is believed to have started mammoth hills of water rolling.



HIGH COST OF LIVING IN A CHICKEN HOUSE . . . A few weeks ago this was a chicken coop on the farm of Herbert Studebaker, Waterloo, Iowa. Today it is converted into eight one-room kitchenette apartments, with a utility room for use of all tenants. There were more takers at $52.50 a room per month than the Studebakers could handle on their poultry farm. More revenue from renting than raising chickens!

Man-Made Moonlight Illuminates Austin, Texas

Austin, Texas, is believed to be the only city in the world that is illuminated by "artificial moonlight as well as by street lights."

For many years, it has been floodlighted by the soft blue glow of mercury-vapor lamps installed in clusters atop 29 iron towers which are 14 stories in height and located so that their light is shed over eight square miles of the city.

How many of these can you answer?

TRUE or false?

1 One kilowatt-hour of electricity will do as much work as 13 men working for one hour. True or false.

TRUE. The average home uses about 85 kilo-watt hours a month — equal to 13 men each working 85 hours. If you paid for these men at even 50c an hour, the cost would be $552.50.

2 Your electric rate is the same today, or higher, than it was 20 years ago. True or false.

FALSE. Electric rates today are only about one-half of what they were 20 years ago. Actually, because of modern "step" rates, many people today are getting 3 and even 4 times as much electricity for the same money as they did in 1926. Your electric bill may be about the same, but you are getting much more electricity for your money.

BLAZING THE TRAIL with LAND O LAKES
LAND O LAKES
PIONEERS FOR 25 YEARS

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

In "Land O'Lakes" There Have Been Two Decades of Dairy Prosperity

1924 In this year, millions of pounds of sweet cream butter were pouring from the cooperative creameries of the Northwest into the nation's consuming centers . . . but there was yet no name by which this desirable product could be identified.

In 1924 a name-finding contest was held. More than 100,000 names were submitted. It took weeks just to classify the thousands of names, and the committee of judges was forced to meet again and again to decide the winner.

"Land O'Lakes," symbolic of the lake and forest country in which these marvelous dairy procucts are made, was the name selected. Soon the name of the organization was changed from "Minnesota Cooperative Creameries Association" to "Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc."

Once more Land O'Lakes set the pattern that eventually became industry-wide—and, as it became so universal, returned to dairy farmers extra returns for their efforts. It has been pioneering over a period of 25 years that today enables Land O'Lakes to pay top prices for butter—then ship it to established markets at premium prices—meaning finer quality for consumers—more returns to producers. Investigate all the advantages of marketing through Land O'Lakes.

Kidneys Must Work Well-
For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Men's Shirts Convert Nicely Into Dressy or Work Aprons

By Ertta Haley

MEN'S shirts are scarce these days, and you may wonder at the wisdom of "making something out of them" in this case. But, when a shirt is so worn that it can no longer be used by the man of the family, it is welcome material for aprons, which are so useful and essential.

Shirts become worn around the collar and sleeves, also under the armholes and cuffs. After these have been turned and worn again, there's nothing much that can be done with them. In this case, you'll feel well justified and economical if you sew up an apron from them.

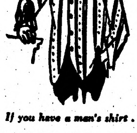
Before getting into the actual cutting and sewing, let me point out that not all shirts will make good aprons. The materials which you can and should use for aprons are percale, broadcloth and poplin. Those shirts of rayon are much better if converted into blouses for small fry.

The above-mentioned materials which are suitable for aprons possess these qualities—they are easy to handle, they tear, crease, hem, gather, stitch and press easily. You will also want a fabric that launders easily and one that starches nicely. Do both washing and starching before you cut the fabric.

If there is a goodly amount of material in the salvaged shirt, an apron with a bib may be made. This type of apron is especially practical if you want one for working around the kitchen or laundry.

Cut Apron on Correct Grain of Material

Cutting the apron on the correct grain of the material is very important in the appearance of the finished article. If necessary make basting stitches of the fabric both lengthwise and crosswise as a help in laying out the pattern. If you are utilizing the back of the shirt for the front of the apron, fold this in half when cutting. The front of the shirt may be used for side pieces of the apron.

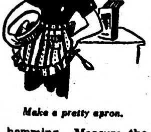


If you have a man's shirt . . .

If you are a tall person, allow for sufficient length both in the front of the apron and the neck bands. Whenever possible cut the apron lengthwise. Snip tiny notches (as you see on regular patterns) where seams are to meet.

In some types of aprons where you want one particularly well fitted, you'll want darts at both sides. Make these deep or shallow, depending upon the amount of material you have or the amount of fitness you want in the apron.

The back edges of the apron are finished with narrow hems, whereas at the bottom of the apron as wide a hem as is practical is used. Even though this article is "just" an apron, learn to turn it properly when hemming. Measure the turn every inch or so, and baste before sewing.



Make a pretty apron.

If you want pockets, finish the hem on them before attempting to place them on the apron itself. After the hem is in turn the sides in, basting them, and then they will be easy to place on the apron itself. All fancy pockets should be turned and basted carefully, as they attract attention and will either make or mar the appearance unless they are properly finished. Since the pockets will usually have a lot of wear in such an article as the apron, it will be absolutely necessary to double stitch the pockets at the top and prevent tearing if they catch. Pull thread ends through to the wrong side and tie.

Panel Interest

Print and plain combine in a coat dress from Eta's spring collection. Black sleeves and skirt panels accent the black and white of the cable print.

Making the neck strap illustrates a principle of sewing which you will use often in other types of sewing such as belts, bands, double ties and trims. Piece the strap together to make it long enough. Fold the right side in. Bring two raw edges together and stitch, making a scant one-quarter inch seam. Close only one end, leaving the other open. Clip raw edges every three or four inches.

Press the seam open its full length as this will insure an even edge when the strap is turned. Now, place the end of an orange stick at the closed end against the stitched end and with your fingers crowd the strap down on the stick to turn it right side out. Clip stitched end off and press strap with seam to one edge. The bib hem must be creased and hemmed before the neck strap is sewed onto the apron.

Make Dress-Up Aprons With Ruffle or Shirring

Women who want to look pretty in the kitchen as well as when dressed to go out will use ruffles on their aprons. If the sleeve of the garment is not to be used for pockets and such, this material can easily be cut into ruffles.

If two pieces of material are joined for the ruffle, try to use selvages and stitch a three-eighths inch seam. Hem the ruffle, using a very narrow hem.

If you are making a one-piece apron for dress-up, you will want hip tucks on each side, or cluster tucks on each side of the apron. These tucks help to take up fullness and fit the apron to the body. Three cluster tucks will do very nicely for the average apron, and the thread of the fabric should be used to guide you in stitching straight.

Your Sewing Machine

Well-finished clothes depend on proper use of the sewing machine. Here are some minor difficulties which can be corrected easily.

If your machine skips stitches, one of the following may be responsible: needle improperly set in bar; needle too short or too long; needle bent or blunt; needle too fine for the thread you are using.

Puckers in the material may be caused by tight tension, a blunt needle, too long a stitch on fine material, or a fabric which is too light to carry over the feed. In the latter case, use a newspaper or tissue under the fabric.

If your bobbin or shuttle thread tends to break, look to one of the following for the reason: incorrect threading of the bobbin; tight lower tension; bobbin wound too tightly or unevenly; bobbin wound too full.

Spring Fashion Notes

Black Swiss eyelet is used with black crepe, navy eyelet may be trimmed with a wide band of navy satin, or the hat may carry the decorative effect desired.

Pink is a favorite color as is black with touches of pink in the veiling or flowers. If you like white and wear the sailor type of hat well, you'll be in high style.

No particular silhouette is notice-

Most hats are livened with bunches of the most natural looking spring flowers. Yellow daisies, roses, peonies, violets and assorted flowers are seen.

Cool, summery looking dresses are important for daytime wear. They all stress slim, trim lines and many dresses have a high neck, while others are cut quite low.

HAVE you ever wondered how it happened that so many movie stars were accomplished musicians? Some are, of course. But—well, at Warner Bros. there's a music school which teaches stars to "finger," but not to play. Recording artists, off stage, supply the music. Errol Flynn learned to look like a guitar player for "San Antonio"; Victor Francen fakes a piano solo for "The Beast with Five Fingers." And John Garfield turns concert violinist for "Humoresque." Of course many a star has seemed to sing while someone else really did it.

When Jane Withers was suggested for the dramatic leading lady's role in "Danger Street," Producers Pine and Thomas said, "But she's too small isn't she?" Then in came Jane, who's 20 now, and stands 5 feet 7 in her stocking feet. She was taller than the producers, a grown-up glamour girl. Then they began worrying for fear Robert Lowery, the leading man, would be too short.

Twelve of Hollywood's biggest, brawniest men appear in "Angel on My Shoulder," starring Paul Muni and Claude Rains. They're all more than 6 feet, 4½ inches tall, weigh more than 250 pounds — and have photogenic muscles. And — Paul Muni fights them!

If the Hollywood bowl doesn't have a conflicting date, it will be the scene of the finals for Sammy Kaye's, "So You Want to Lead a Band" contest in June. Winners will be slected from the south, east, midwest and west, and given transportation free.

It seems certain that Mary Martin will return to pictures before very long — though you never can be too sure about those things. She's appearing now on the stage in New York in "Lute Song," but is scheduled to report to Paramount in Hollywood in June, to begin work in the picture version of the Barrie play, "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire." It'll be produced by Charles Brackett, producer of "The Lost Weekend."

Angela Lansbury's appearance opposite George Sanders in United Artists' "Bel Ami, or History of a Scoundrel" is interesting, because Metro's been building her up to stardom, and that studio rarely lends a top player to another company. But the role in the Loew-Lewin production promises to do so much for her that Metro let her do it. Thus the trio that made "The Picture of Dorian Gray" is reunited; Lewin wrote and directed that one, Sands and Miss Lansbury played the top roles. That title will be cut down, of course.

When Joan Crawford returned to the set of "Humoresque" after having won the Academy award for her "Mildred Pierce," the cast gave her a live Oscar — they'd swathed Oscar Leavant in cellophane and stationed him at her dressing room door.

Agnes Moorhead's new radio program, "Calamity Jane," is likely to rate high in those popularity surveys. Of course, everyone has heard her in "Suspense." Now replacing the "Beulah" series Sundays on CBS, "Calamity Jane" offers a new story situation each week.

Martha Vickers of "The Time, the Place and the Girl," doesn't put all her hobbies in one basket. Two evenings a week she studies ballet, her spare time weekends are spent learning to fly, and for relaxation she plays an almost professional game of pool.

Although $1,500,000 has been spent since 1906 in attempts to locate the buried meteorite that is supposed to have produced Arizona's famous Meteor Crater, the operations have brought forth no conclusive evidence as to what actually caused this centuries-old hole which is 570 feet deep and 2.4 miles in circumference.

Household Hints

For snow-whiteness—add a slice of lemon to the water in which cauliflower is boiled.

Keep a coarse comb in the laundry to straighten and untangle washed fringes.

Place a well equipped shoe shine kit where your family will see it and be tempted to use it to prolong the life of their shoes.

A good sprinkling space for dampening clothes can be made by placing a discarded piece of oilcloth over the ironing board.

Mend your curtains after laundering them instead of before. After curtains are washed, ironed, and hung in place, you can see where the mend will come and can arrange curtains to hide it.

Add a little borax when making starch to give a gloss to articles when ironed. After starch is made, stir in a little cold water to prevent formation of "scum" on top.

If a turkish towel has been cut—not torn— mend it with a bit of net. Place the net, bring the edges of the cut together, and machine stitch back and forth across until no hole remains. Makes a neat job and prolongs the life of the towel.

How many of these can you answer?

TRUE or false?

1 One kilowatt-hour of electricity will do as much work as 13 men working for one hour. True or false.

TRUE. The average home uses about 85 kilo-watt hours a month — equal to 13 men each working 85 hours. If you paid for these men at even 50c an hour, the cost would be $552.50.

2 Your electric rate is the same today, or higher, than it was 20 years ago. True or false.

FALSE. Electric rates today are only about one-half of what they were 20 years ago. Actually, because of modern "step" rates, many people today are getting 3 and even 4 times as much electricity for the same money as they did in 1926. Your electric bill may be about the same, but you are getting much more electricity for your money.

BLAZING THE TRAIL WITH LAND O'LAKES
LAND O LAKES
1921

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

In "Land O'Lakes" There Have Been Two Decades of Dairy Prosperity

1924 In this year, millions of pounds of sweet cream butter were pouring from the cooperative creameries of the Northwest into the nation's consuming centers . . . but there was yet no name by which this desirable product could be identified.

In 1924 a name-finding contest was held. More than 100,000 names were submitted. It took weeks just to classify the thousands of names, and the committee of judges was forced to meet again and again to decide the winner.

"Land O'Lakes," symbolic of the lake and forest country in which these marvelous dairy products are made, was the name selected. Soon the name of the organization was changed from "Minnesota Cooperative Creameries Association" to "Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc."

Once more Land O'Lakes set the pattern that eventually became industry-wide—and, as it became so universal, returned to dairy farmers extra returns for their efforts. It has been pioneering over a period of 25 years that today enables Land O'Lakes to pay top prices for butter—then ship it to established markets at premium prices—meaning finer quality for consumers—more returns to producers. Investigate all the advantages of marketing through Land O'Lakes.

Niemela-Ness Wedding

At a double ring ceremong at the Newfolden parsonage, Wednesday, April 24 at 7:45 P. M. Mildred C. Niemela, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Niemela of Middle River, became the bride of Orville Ness, son of Mrs. Nils Ness. Their attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ness brother and sister-in-law of the groom.

The bride wore a street length dress of aqua blue and the brides maids wore a rose colored suit. The young happy couple will make their home southwest of town where the groom is engaged in farming.

CLEAN-UP NOTICE

You are all hereby notified by Order of the Village Council and the State Board of Health that you must begin at once to give your premises a general clean-up. All rubbish must be removed, yards raked, privies disinfected and cleaned out, or new holes dug, privies made fly-proof and repaired, anti-rat measures instituted, and all nuisance and unsightly things removed. Paint up and clean up and make our little Village as attractive as possible.

General inspection by health officers will be made the latter part of May. Help us to find things all cleaned up at that time. 49-50

Order Plant Food Early and Take Immediate Delivery, Farmers Urged

Plenty of vitally needed fertilizer will be available for spring planting operations if farmers act promptly.

CHICAGO — Farmers were urged to add another step to their "Order Fertilizer Early" program as a means of assuring adequate supplies for spring planting time.

That step is "Take Immediate Delivery" in the weeks ahead and store the plant food until seeding operations, says a statement by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The need for taking delivery as soon as possible is urgent," the statement points out. "The transportation problem in both rail and truck facilities is still serious. Plant food manufacturers continue to be faced with scarcities of essential materials and a need for experienced help.

"The business of producing, shipping and delivering plant food cannot any longer be packed into a last-minute rush. The fertilizer must be shipped from the factory to the farm steadily during the winter months if all demands are to be met.

"That is why 'Take Immediate Delivery' is so important at present. If manufacturers can make the plant food now and get it out of their plants, farmers everywhere will be assured of obtaining their essential supplies and having them on hand for the all important crop season in the spring."

The statement points out that vast quantities of fertilizer will be needed to meet 1946 crop production goals and to help rebuild the soil's productivity for the future.

Aerial Game Census Results

Results of Minnsota's first aerial census of big game, covering an area of more than 700 square miles in flights over game refuges and state parks, were released last week by Mr. Frank Blair, supervisor of division of game and fish.

The plane flights covered the Northwest Angle, part of the Red Lake game refuge, Carlos Auery refuge and Itasca and St. Croix State Parks. The work was under the immediate supervision of biologists in the Pittman-Robertson unit of the Bureau of Game.

The moose population in the Northwest Angle was estimated at 42 in accordance with the number actually seen and known ground conditions, which is considerably less than the estimates of those who have urged the game and fish division to open a season in this area. The Department of Conservation has refused to open the Angle to moose hunting because of insufficient information concerning the status of the animals in that area. it is now apparant, Blair states, that such action was justified because of the small population.

The flights over 494 square miles of the Red Lake refuge gave a count of 260 moose and 71 elk. This flight area was chosen because of the known high concentration of elk. Most of the Minnesota elk herd is to be found in or near this area. The elk herd has been estimated to total about 300.

Moose were seen in various sections of the refuge and on the basis of the actual count in the flight area, a moose population of 1872 would be found in the Red Lake Game Preserve district of 3,558 square miles.

Deer were yarded in the cedar swamps and only a partial count could be made from the air, but including additional ground investigations, the deer population indicates an abundance in most of the Red Lake Game refuge.

The aerial flights over the state parks and Carlos Avery Refuge were made in late winter some under poor flying or counting conditions. Estimates of deer population in these areas were made on the basis of actual count and evidences of deer tracks and beds. The population of Carlos Avery refuge is placed at 200, that of Itasca park at 30, and of St. Croix park at 417.

A considerable number of deer were seen in the areas immediatly surrounding the parks and it is probable the deer have moved into the parks since the censuses were taken and the counts now would be higher.

Hunting was permitted in all but two square miles of Itasca Park last fall, and 1862 deer were taked by hunters. One third of St. Croix park, about 11,000 acres, was opened for hunting and 1314 deer killed.

Cpl. Roy Johnson returned home recently from Camp Hood, Texas where he was discharged from the Army.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Evanson returned home last Monday, having spent the winter with relatives at Springfield, Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swan and Betty and Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Rose of Thief River Falls were Sunday dinner guests at the Herb Johnson home.

Life Of Mrs. Katrine Miller

Funeral services were conducted here last Thursday afternoon from the Nazareth Lutheran church for Mrs. Ana Katrine Miller who passed away at Anderson, Indiana on Friday, April 19. Rev. E. O. Urness officiated. She was 81 years old.

Ana Katrine Andersen was born in Denmark July 8, 1863. She was baptized and confirmed in the Danish church at Aarhus, Denmark. She was married to Marius Miller. To this union 11 children were born of whom 9 are left to mourn her death.

They are Caroline Lappley of Milwaukee; Andrew Miller also of Milwaukee; Hanne Lorentson of Holt; Alma Stamm, Corwallis, Ore.: Martha Bull, Portland, Ore; Marvin Miller, Phoenix, Ariz; Iven Miller, Thief River Falls; Thorwald Miller, Estacada, Ore; Liden Miller, Red Lake Falls.

Eighteen grandchildren and one great granddcrild. Two sisters and two brothers survive.

Her husband and two sons preceded her in death.

Interment was made in the family plot at St. Hilaire.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our appreciation to our neighbors and friends for their help and sympathy following the death of our mother. Especially do we wish to thank Rev. Urness for his words of comfort, Russel Sanoden for the songs, Mrs. Marvin Sandberg for the music and the ladies that served lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lorentson and Miller family.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Reierson and boys, Clayton and Norman Olson, and Mr. and Mrs. Ole Ellingson of Warren visited at the Mrs. Nils Ness home Sunday.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Woman's World

Boost Blouse Supply By Making New Ones from Old Dresses

By Ertta Haley

NO WOMAN ever has enough blouses, the most economical item in the wardrobe. If you have a skirt with a choice of two, three or even four blouses, you can always be sure of going about well dressed without giving the impression that you are always wearing the same clothes or operating on a limited wardrobe.

Most blouses require two yards or less of material, and they may be made from all sorts of material. In fact, the sky is the limit as far as fabrics for blouses are concerned. Many a woman with outmoded dresses or evening gowns can put together several blouses and give the impression of a brand new wardrobe.

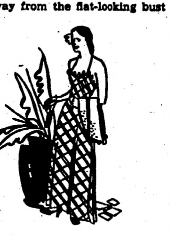
Taffeta evening gowns make particularly attractive blouses. Since taffeta blouses are now popular, those outmoded gowns should now be taken out, overhauled, cut and made into something as usable and pretty as a blouse to give you an alternate for that new spring suit.

Any style may be chosen for taffeta blouses are seen in draped and tailored styles. They are cool and feel well under a wool suit. They are dressy enough even when you remove the jacket to your suit.

Fitting is as important in a blouse as in a well-tailored suit. Take a look at some of the handsome, expensive blouses in the stores and you will see what I mean. Notice that there are at least four tucks at the waist of the blouse, two on each side in both back and in front. In some styles you will find even more tucks to give that "nipped" at the waist look, and prevent too much fullness under the skirt.

Details are Important In Making Blouse

Another important detail which we are beginning to see more often in blouses is the deep dart right underneath the arm. This is used to get away from the flat-looking bust and to give more attractive, fitted lines to the garment. Even if the pattern which you happen to be using does not show these darts, fit them into the garment after the shoulder seams are sewed and you are ready to fit these side seams. Then baste them in, press, and try on. You will see how much they do for the figure.



If you have a taffeta evening gown . . .

Darts are used plentifully on the blouse, as are gathers. In making the blouse, gather at the shoulders first, using very tiny stitches so that the gathering will be even. If the blouse has a yoke and an action back, make sure that the blouse is gathered, as at the shoulders, and basted carefully in place before sewing.

Another detail which is important in the blouse is the shoulders. A tiny basting stitch is run around the upper part of the sleeve, and this is used for making the small gathers which enable you to ease in the sleeve when you are ready to stitch it into place on the blouse. Most of the fullness is allowed on the top of the shoulders and the back. Make sure that no gathers are allowed underneath the arm, as this will make the blouse uncomfortable to wear.

Make a crisp blouse.

Many types of shoulder pads are now available which will also aid in giving good lines to the blouse. The more expensive pads seem to cup the shoulder rather than pad it, and they are not so weighty as the stuffed ones. They may be used in several blouses.

Another type of pad now being made is attached to a net vest. This is designed to be worn underneath the blouse, and of course, it eliminates sewing pads in each blouse.

Still another solution to the pad problem is to use the taffeta itself. The pads, which need not be stuffed, since the material is stiff, will also match the blouse perfectly.

If you are fond of cuffs on the blouse, taffeta makes beautiful pleated cuffs. The pleats should be placed evenly and pressed and basted in place before sewing. Pay particular attention to the line or print of the material. Piping may also be used if you are fortunate in finding some that matches or contrasts perfectly with the material you have on hand.

If you are making long sleeves on the blouse, you will want at least two darts at the elbow to allow for freedom of movement. Sometimes patterns will call for only one dart, but it has been found best to make two small rather than one deep dart. The finished garment will also look much better.

It is always wise in making darts of this type to come to a sharp point. You can best guide your sewing if you will baste first. Always tie the threads on the inside—and do tie them firmly so that the dart does not come open later. It's much easier to sew them right the first time than to try to repair them later when they are sewed on the garment and you no longer have a flat working surface.

Black Wool Crepe

A smart black wool crepe dress with a matching hood is modeled by Martha Vickers, now appearing in Warner Brothers' "The Big Sleep." The hand-crocheted peplum is of black chenille.

Home Sewing Hints

Just a word about patterns for those of you who do a lot of home sewing. If the tape measure around the bust reads 42, please buy a pattern in that size, not in a 38. The size of the individual is much better concealed in a correctly fitted garment, than one which is too small.

If the pattern must be altered, it is much easier to alter one that is too large simply by taking tucks in the pattern. If too small, the pattern must be slit, and this is much more difficult to do than taking in tucks.

Avoid over-sewing if you want the garment to look nice. Use the type of finished edge most suitable to your material and make this as neat as possible.

Good table space, good light and a place for the ironing board are among the essentials needed for home sewing. If it is not possible to have a sewing room, have all these items conveniently on hand when you do sew.

Spring Fashion Notes

Gray is a most popular color for summer wear. Gray chambray trimmed with white eyelet is exceedingly popular.

Delightful cotton eyelet is perfect for cool, short, street-length dresses. These can be dressy and sophisticated and need not look as though they were borrowed from daughter.

You may be surprised that so

Scarf prints are worked into the bodice or scarf treatments in ingenious ways that bespeak a decided play of imagination. They are worn around the head like a little draped turban. Hoods are the plaything of designers who are creating scarflike affairs to wear in connection with new spring dresses.

MERLE OBERON has changed her appearance once in her movie career; when she shot to stardom as Anne Boleyn, with Charles Laughton also making his bow to American movie audiences as Henry the VIII, she had an exotic kind of beauty. Ensconced in Hollywood after the British picture had brought her fame, she changed her type, became just a very beautiful young woman. But she'd like to change it again, for at least one role; says she wants to be really homely, and play one of those heavy, dramatic roles that would bring her a new kind of fame. Maybe some day she'll get her wish. Meanwhile, her new picture is "Night in Paradise," for Universal, with Turhan Bey.

Lucille Ball, who plays a secretary in "The Dark Corner," doesn't have to fake the scenes in which she types. She used to be a stenographer — says she hated it so that she decided on the starvation-to-model route to stage and screen.

Bandleader Harry James has turned romantic actor; in 20th Century-Fox's "Do You Love Me?" he vies with Dick Haymes for the favor of Maureen O'Hara. He says his success will be entirely due to the coaching he gets at home from his wife, Betty Grable.

Those Goldwyn Girls who are touring the country are realists. Said one, "We're too short for show girls, we're not the cute type." Some of them feel that trying for dramatic roles is too hard — it means working hard with coaches, going to bed early every night, exercising, dieting, struggling. They figure being fashion models at $125 a week is a lot easier and more fun.

"The Theater Guild on the Air" is required listening for 200 students at Michigan State college; as a part of their course in radio education, they prepare short, critical reviews of the Sunday night productions, over ABC.

Radio programs have given away everything from live goats to small fortunes; now the sponsor of the Woody Herman show on ABC Friday nights will give the band to the winner of a contest. On June 21 the band will play in the winner's home, on the front porch or the auditorium of the local high school —if you win and want to give the band away you can still keep the thousand dollar additional prize.

Two Walt Disney cartoon characters are regular members of the "Amos 'n' Andy" program. They are Clarence Nash (Donald Duck) who does the theme whistle that opens and closes the program, and Jim Basquette, who is "Uncle Remus" in the new Disney series.

All that Whitey Ford asks of a new suit is that it looks old. Recently the NBC "Grand Ole Opry's" Duke of Paducah was lucky enough to get a new "radio suit," his first replacement in 14 years. It's an exact duplicate of his old tight-legged, pinch-backed, bay-window revealing green one, but allow's a little more leeway for the pounds he's put on as the years slipped by.

John Wayne, co-star of RKO's romantic comedy, "Without Reservations," is a charter member of a yacht club which stipulates that its members must have no yachts. It's the Emerald Bay Yacht Club, and the activities of its members are confined solely to writing each other insulting memos and devising imaginary minutes of meetings that should have been held but weren't.

'Twas Embarrassing Moment for the Lady

After having completed her spring housecleaning, a housewife found (as who doesn't) that she had a lot of junk which should be hauled away. But after several days seeking, she was unable to find a man to do the job. Then one morning as she was about to give up the idea, she saw a truck coming along the street heavily loaded with an assortment of articles.

Running to the curb, she hailed the driver, and when he pulled up to a stop, she told him she had a load of trash she would like to have him cart away.

Drawing himself up with all the dignity he possessed, the man replied: "Lady, I'll have you know I'm not hauling trash! We're moving!"

BLUE birds like a house in the sun. The nest space must be deep and they are particular about the size of the entrance. Robins want a roof but no front on their house, and they prefer shade. Wrens will like a tiny house under the eaves of your own dwelling.

Returning Binoculars

The job of returning all of the 8,000 binoculars which the navy borrowed from the public is unlikely to be finished before the summer of 1947, as each instrument is reconditioned, suitably engraved and a certificate of its war service prepared for its owner before it is sent back to him.

English Colleges Hold Bumping Boat Races

Differing from all other boat races are those held in England for a week each June by the crews of the 17 colleges at Cambridge and the 22 at Oxford, says Collier's. Instead of all shells racing abreast toward a goal, they are grouped in three divisions which race by themselves with their boats stretched out in a single line 150 feet apart, the position in line being determined by previous races.

The object of the contest, therefore, is to overcome and bump the boat ahead which entitles the bumping crew to move up one place until it eventually reaches the head of its division and is promoted into the next.

Rail Quiz

In what ten-year period was American railway expansion the greatest?

Railway expansion reached its peak in the 1880's. From 1880 to 1889, inclusive, 74,720 miles of new railway lines were opened. The largest number of miles completed in any year was 12,876 in 1887.

Rail Quiz

Are railway passenger cars being built now?

Yes. The government ban on using materials for this purpose, ordered at the time of Pearl Harbor, was lifted after V-E Day.

BLAZING THE TRAIL with LAND O'LAKES
LAND O LAKES
PIONEERS FOR 25 YEARS

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

In "Land O'Lakes" There Have Been Two Decades of Dairy Prosperity

1924 In this year, millions of pounds of sweet cream butter were pouring from the cooperative creameries of the Northwest into the nation's consuming centers . . . but there was yet no name by which this desirable product could be identified.

In 1924 a name-finding contest was held. More than 100,000 names were submitted. It took weeks just to classify the thousands of names, and the committee of judges was forced to meet again and again to decide the winner.

"Land O'Lakes," symbolic of the lake and forest country in which these marvelous dairy procucts are made, was the name selected. Soon the name of the organization was changed from "Minnesota Cooperative Creameries Association" to "Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc."

Once more Land O'Lakes set the pattern that eventually became industry-wide—and, as it became so universal, returned to dairy farmers extra returns for their efforts. It has been pioneering over a period of 25 years that today enables Land O'Lakes to pay top prices for butter—then ship it to established markets at premium prices—meaning finer quality for consumers—more returns to producers. Investigate all the advantages of marketing through Land O'Lakes.

LOOKING AHEAD

Shelter

Mussolini is dead, Hitler is still missing and Hirohito is taking orders from an American soldier, but mortal craving for power appears to have survived World War II. Any individual who can find something that a great many people need, and figure out a way to keep them from getting it, has put himself in a "key position" able to make a lot of people suffer.

One thing people need acutely right now is shelter. Shortages of building materials and the scarcity of skilled workmen have combined to make housing about the rarest commodity in common use. It is an every-day necessity, too. People have to have a place to live and they will pay whatever it costs to get in out of the weather, or they will take whatever shelter they can afford.

Humming and Hawing

Comes now proposed legislation to protect home buyers and home builders from inflation, by governmental controls. Administration of rulings always brings delay, and more delay. Now we need housing, and more housing. Natural, competitive safeguards will provide better protection against inflation than rulings, as certainly as sturdy walls will keep out more cold than red tape.

The strategy is to fix ceiling prices on residential property, new and old, to allocate building materials and regulate the transfer of new real estate. Allocating materials means giving somebody a right to say who can build and who can't. A crafty "co-ordinator" with such authority could soon have a great many fellow citizens doing his bidding. America needs a V-B Day on bureaus.

Guessing at Prices

Ceiling prices on old residential property is an absurd idea. There is nobody in my state able to umpire the transfer of old homes in my town, much less yours. Such laws are only made to break. A legal ceiling on new-home prices might be easy to express in a mathematical curve but its results would be bad. It would tend to cheapen construction and encourage jerry-building.

Clamping down on the sale of vacant lots would surely be wrong in point of expedience. It would kill much precious time. Service men are coming home now, not after next year. They want places to live, no later than they can get wife and baby out of the in-laws' spare room. They are entitled to a home and ought to have it as fast as their local builder can meet their needs.

Pocketbook Care

I don't want to see today's new home makers (least of all service men) pay three prices for houses, but natural competition among builders would prevent it if they could get materials. Paying a premium for promptness in a time of emergency is a trivial matter compared to the "highway robbery" we are courting in shoddy houses, built cheaply to sell under a ceiling.

Government's moral obligations to home-seeking servicemen are three: (1) Help builders get good building materials quickly to make suitable, small homes, (2) Begin no public works to busy the building trades until the home need is relieved, (3) See that mortgage money is not carelessly thrown around. Bank loans ought to be easy on well-built houses and impossible on poor ones.

Fishing Season May 15

The second of three opening days for legal fishing in Minnesota comes Wednesday, May 15. On that day and for the following nine months, it will be legal to angle for pike, pickerel, muskies, crappies, sunfish, rock bass, catfish and white bass.

The grst opening day was May 1, when the season for trout and suckers in trout stream was opened; the third will be June 20 when the season on large and small mouthed bass will be opened.

With most of the war-time travil hindrances removed and with tens of thousands of returned servicemen ready to cash in on their dreams of Minnesota fishing, the State Game and Fish division officials expect the greatest fishing season in history.

First-day trout fishing in the northern sectors of Minnesota was reported as heavy. Resort owners revealed that many anglers caught their limits during the opening day.

The Weather

The weather the past week broke bad for the farmers. Rain set in on Friday and continued thru Monday. We had frost on Tuesday and yesterday. Another rain started yesterday which will delay the spring work.

The Farmers Cooperative creamery are now sporting a brand new Dodge truck on their milk routes here. Mr. Larson, manager, went to Minneapolis to get the truck a week ago and last week Walter Wegge built and mounted a new box on it for them.

Mrs. Albert Fredrickson and daughters Janice and Judy left on Sunday evening by Pullman train for Los Angeles to join Mr. Fredrickson who is employed there.

To elect two directors for a term of 3 years.

Directors whose term expire are: O.T. Ness and Geo. Fricker.

Dated this 10th day of May 1946.

L. M. Larson
51-2 District Clerk.

CLEAN-UP NOTICE

You are all hereby notified by Order of the Village Council and the State Board of Health that you must begin at once to give your premises a general clean-up. All rubbish must be removed, yards raked, privies disinfected and cleaned out, or new holes dug, privies made fly-proof and repaired, anti-rat measures instituted, and all nuisance and unsightly things removed. Paint up and clean up and make our little Village as attractive as possible.

General inspection by health officers will be made the latter part of May. Help us to find things all cleaned up at that time. 49-50

Verner Nelson Issues Statement

Candidate for Congress Exprseses Views on Paramount Issues Affecting District

The following statement was issued by Verner Nelson, formerly of Roseau, but now of Underwood Otter Tail County, Minn., candidate for nomination for Congress from the 9th district on the Democratic-Farmer-Labor ticket.

"As a veteran of the liberal been my contention that such candidate should truly represent the agricultural interests of the district, because this is an agricultural district. Not having asked for convention, nor committee indorsement, this statement is made to clarify my position and dispel rumors that may be circulating. My appeal is not along strictly partisan lines, but to all who realize that the "common folks" in all walks of life must make "common cause" along well defined lines, in order to protect their interests, and the future of their sons and daughters.

"The district convention voted 'no indorsement' and then instructed the Committee to have one or more candidates file for Congress. My interest in the qualifications of the man selected by the Committee to file, resulted in my interviewing this young man, since the 'selected' candidate was not interviewed, or present before the Committee, and a stranger to a majority of the Committee.

"The personal interview with the 'selected' candidate brought out (1) That he favored compulsory military training in peacetime (2) That he was inclined to believe co-operatives were not properly taxed, and, (3) That he was not well informed on other important national issues.

"My views are NOT in harmony with those of the young man in regard to compulsory military training, nor with his public statement calling for a large army. Neither are my views antagonistic to the co-operatives. Anyone who aspires as a candidate for Congress should know that business partnerships are taxed (Federal Income Tax) on the same basis as co-operatives.

'On the matter of Veterans' legislation, my views are in harmony with my opponent. But important as Veterans' Legislations is (and stalling on this important matter by Congress is a disgrace) my contention is that militarism is a direct threat to this country. My views on this has been strengthened by expressions from veterans who have returned home. The 'Caste System' of the army must be done away with. My three sons are all veterans of World War II.

"Corporate business has its place in our economy. So has private, and partnership business and cooperatives. To all of them, competition is necessary, as a balancing influence. Corporate business, however, is different from private, partnership and co-operative business, because of its tendency to eliminate competition. The laws of our nation recognize this fact and seek to lessen the danger of monopoly by anti-trust laws. Private and partnership business has proved itself lacking in furnishing adequate competition to corporate business. Co-operatives' however, have grown to a point where they are beginning to serve as competitors of corporate business. Corporate business would eliminate or hamstring this competition by means of the taxing power of the Federal government.

"The 'Cartels' of Germany eliminated competition in that country and then drove its own subjected people into war in an effort to eliminate competition from other nations in world commerce. Cartels are the result of corporate business having succeeded in eliminating its competitiors in its own nation, and its own sphere. It endangers the freedom and standards of the people where it exists, and is a direct threat to the peace of the world.

"Believing that these are issues that should come before the people in this political campaign in order that our Democracy may more properly function, and the rights and interests of the farmers, workers and small business become an issue in this campaign by having a candidate representing these views, I filed for Congress from the Ninth District."

Gusa-Larson Wedding

Miss Linda L. Gusa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gusa, became the bride of Mr. Lloyd P. Larson, son of Mrs. Inga Backlund, on Wednesday, April 24th at 4 p. m. at the Naxareth Lutheran Church at Holt. Rev. E. O. Urness officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with evergreen boughs and lighted candles on the alter.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, and was attired in a gown of white lace over satin falling into a long train. She wore a finger-tip veil, and carried a bouquet of gladiolus. Her only jewelry was a heart shaped locket, a gift of the groom.

Miss Edna Gusa, sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a white satin gown, and also carried a bouquet of gladiolus. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ray Gusa, sister of the groom, who wore a pink silk marquisette gown, and carried a colonial bouquet of carnations, and Miss Sylvia Sandberg, neice of the groom, who wore a blue satin gown, and also carried a colonial bouquet of carnations. Little Margie Mae Larson, neice of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a floor length gown of white silk net over satin, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

The groom was attended by his brother Mr' Irvin Larson, as best man. The ushers were Mr. Raymond Gusa and Mr. Theodore Gusa, brothers of the bride.

Mr. James Gusa, brother of the bride sang, "I Love You Truly" and Mr. Marvin Sandberg sang "The Lord's Prayer". Both were accompanied on the piana by Miss Delores Sandberg, neice of the groom, who wore a gown of yellow net over satin. Miss Sandberg played a fifteen minute prelude of organ music, and also the Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus and Mendelsohns Wedding March.

The brides mother wore a black crepe dress with white accessories, and wore a corsage of white and red carnations. The grooms mother wore a black sheer silk dress with white accessesories, and also wore a corsage of white and red carnations.

A reception was held in the church parlors, for about forty relatives and close friends of the couple. Miss Vernice Smith and Miss Dorothy Larson served as waitresses.

The couple left immediatly on a short wedding trip, after which they will make their home on the grooms farm near Holt.

The groom recently returned after serving over twenty-three months overseas with the U. S. Army.

Mrs. O. L. Johnson, Anna Moberg and Mrs. L. Sagstuen accompanied Mrs. Helga Leiran to Gatzke Monday to attend the funeral for Norman Lundsetter who passed away suddenly on Tuesday, April 30.

Scouts Were Up For Review

In connection with meeting of Boy Scout Troop 112 Wednesday evening last week the boys appeared before the scout committee for board of review for projects in connection with merit badges. The committee also met after the regular session and discussed plans for Scout Camp which will be at Pike Bay near Cass Lake June 17-22.

In connection with Luther League Sunday night at Nazareth church pictures will be shown relative to Lutheran World Action showing the great need at this time and what is done with funds collected. The goal for the next two years is 10 million dollars.

Next Sunday is traditionally the day set aside to honor our mothers. Our mothers are really cherished every day of our lives, most of the time unconsciously so, but the affection and love is always there. Remember your mother on Sunday, May 12.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Quilted Bedspread Makes Fine Jumper for a Teen-Aged Girl

By Ertta Haley

THOSE lovely quilted bedspreads of which we are so fond for dressing up our bedrooms begin to show wear after a few seasons. Perhaps it is a pity that the lovelier materials do not last longer, but do not despair. There's fine material in these bedspreads for quilted jumpers for the girl in her teens.

Quilted jumpers for the younger set are just the thing to wear for household duties. They keep the dress from getting soiled, and because of their loveliness, they often lend glamour to the menial tasks such as dusting or straightening up to which every girl must devote some of her time.

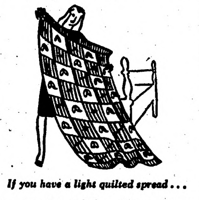
The principal function of these jumpers is to add a bit of color, gaiety and charm. For this reason, the loveliness of these old, worn-out bedspreads are truly ideal. See that the spread is well laundered and pressed before you begin working on it. In many cases, these spreads are just made of cotton, with little or no filler. If you are not certain of material laundering well, then have it dry-cleaned.

Patterns for jumpers are extremely simple to cut and easy to sew. They consist of a square neck, usually, perhaps a bit of ruffle over the shoulder, a nipped-in waist and seamless skirt.

By the way, if the bedspread has a white background with a print on it, you might like to dye it. Even though the background is an attractive pastel, the print will show through.

Essentials of Laying Pattern, Cutting

Before you attempt to cut the jumper from the material, make sure that the fabric is straightened out. Stretch and straighten the goods until both lengthwise and crosswise grains line up perfectly. Never pull so hard as to damage or tear the fabric. If necessary, press the fabric if you have a lot of cutting to do.



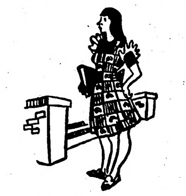
If you have a light quilted spread . . .

You will find chalk marks and tailor's tacks of inestimable value as a guide to sewing and fitting the pieces together. These should be made in contrasting color so they will be easy to find. Both sides should be marked in exactly the same way.

Before you start cutting, make sure that the pattern—whether it be a professional or a home-made one—fits. Then there will be no major alterations, once sewing and fitting are started.

It may be necessary to lay the pattern out several times before you can make it fit the material. This is especially true when you are making a garment out of old material, for then pattern layouts, which are made with new material in mind, will be of little help.

For the simple jumper which I have described, you will need only these parts: front bodice (made without sleeves); back bodice; back of skirt and front of skirt—two pieces, since no gored or seam effect is desirable on this quilted type of material and then the two or three-inch band which will circle the waist. If ruffles or capped effect over the shoulders is desired, this will add two more pieces to the pattern.



Make a jumper from it.

Sew the shoulders together first, then the side seams. Finish the skirt next, by stitching the side seams, then fit the skirt to the waist band and to the bodice, pin in place carefully, baste, and sew. The capped effect over the sleeves may be added after the jumper itself is finished.

In a quilted material of this type, it is best to make the garment three to five inches shorter than the dress. No large turned seam should be used, as this will make the hem too bulky. Rather, it is best to use a narrow binding at the skirt and turn a little of the quilting underneath (so the band will not show on the outside), press carefully, and then hem in place.

Sewing Heavy Fabric Needs Special Care

It's the wise woman who will test her sewing machine on the type of fabric she is using before she attempts to do any sewing on the garment itself. It may be that the needle is too light or too heavy. Special attention should be given to the thread—remember that the bobbin and the needle should have the same type of thread! And last, but not least, check the tension on the machine to make sure you are getting nice stitches without any forcing or pulling. In ideal sewing technique, the tension, stitch and thread work is in such accord that they seem to flow out of the machine without any restraint. Every stitch should be straight and perfect.

In learning how to stitch straight, mark pieces of paper with straight lines, squares and triangles. Take the thread out of the machine and the bobbin out of the machine and practice stitching on the marked lines. Turn the corners accurately and keep spaces even.

Pockets may be placed on the jumper if desired, provided the material used is not so heavy as to make the finished garment bulky-appearing or stitching too difficult. The hems at the tops of the pockets must be placed in first before the pockets are placed and sewed onto the garment.

Petticoat Ruffles

A dress of sophistication with a hint of romance is made of strawberry chambray with ruffles of eyelet by Joan Norton Irwin.

Stain Removal

One of the problems in the upkeep of clothing is the removal of stains. There is no single set of directions that can be given for success every time, because stains and fabrics vary greatly. Some of the general tips for stain removal, however, should be part and parcel of every woman's knowledge.

Stains should always be removed before they set in the fabric. Soap and water make an excellent solvent for many stains but will be harmful if the fabric will not stand water. Ammonia must be used cautiously as it may remove the color from certain fabrics.

Sheer fabrics like crepe and chiffon can stand but little sponging, so place an absorbent pad underneath them and pat the stain lightly with a solvent, following immediately with a dry cloth.

Lipstick, one of the commonest stains, should be removed by washing out, if possible. If the fabric is not washable try a white petroleum jelly and sponge with carbon tetrachloride, available at the drug store.

Spring Fashion Notes

Dresses of pure silk are very simple indeed, probably because of the price of the material for one thing; and the other, because the lovely designs of the fabric look best in simple classic form. Black crepes are decorated with lace inserts. Chiffon seems to be ready to return to the fabric world, and shantung is being used for dress suits.

Some hand crocheted gloves of White pique is another trimming that is giving that crisp touch to spring and summer ensembles.

Gray and black are two important shades for suits this spring. The jacket usually carries the stripe, the dolman sleeves and a lacy jabot or neckpiece add smart notes to the costume. Hats will pick up the different shades in the suit itself.

The trend in spring coats is to full

Come a week end—and into the car go the rods and reels, the ancient fishing hats and the cherished flies. We're heading where a quiet lake suns itself beside the trees—where a stream sings its way over shining rocks. America is going fishing.

Along with the gear, you'll quite often find the fisherman's favorite beer. Good living, out of doors, is bound to favor this most refreshing and moderate of drinks—healthy, hearty American beer.

To every American—banker, truck driver, farmer, mechanic office worker—a glass of beer writes a pleasant period to any hard day's work. The right to enjoy this sociable drink of moderation and good sense is part of our American heritage. It fits right into the greatest pattern of living in the world—America.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Mud-Daubers

Down here in the Mississippi Valley we are all acquainted with a species of wasps called mud-daubers. They are relatively harmless, build little adobe huts in high, protected spots and look out for their own interests. By instinct they are engineers and diplomats but, like so many insects, they know very little about modern industry. Some of their mistakes are costly.

An aristocratic family named Sceliphron Cementarius (common mud-daubers) got busy one summer and built a fort inside the vent pipe on top of a big steel tank of heating oil. The tank had been filled in the Spring for Fall marketing and stood quiet for months. Finally came an order for a barge load of heating oil and the plant owner started pumping it out of storage. Suddenly the big tank collapsed.

Too Much Authority

The oil man's motor-powered pump silently pulled out the liquid and built up vacuum inside the tank. Being in a position to plug up a vent-line and call down the forces of nature to destroy property and waste merchandise is too much authority for a mud-dauber. To be perfectly frank, the more I observe the workings of the OPA, the surer I am that such authority is too much for anybody.

Right now our governmental price fixers have the vent-line closed on some exceptionally tight structures and the pump has already started. "People who buy machines shall not pay more for them," says government, but (with government consent) people who manufacture machines must pay more, much more, for every hour of effective labor, and for every pound of processed material.

Strong for Service

I am in favor of workers getting high wages. The more take-home pay America's factory workers earn and get, the more food and feed stuff our farmers will sell. It means prosperity. Just the same, nature's laws are inexorable. If wages keep going up, somebody'd better uncork that price line or business is sure to collapse. Some firms already have folded up and more are in jeopardy.

America's big manufacturing concerns have some strength; of course they have. They need financial strength to navigate economic storms, race with competition and meet payrolls on schedule. The more strength they have the more useful they are. That oil man's tank had a great deal of strength too; was useful because it was strong, but it buckled because a mud-dauber asked it to hold a vacuum.

Sublime Vandalism

Big corporations have to be efficient. If they grow extravagant, a lot of small concerns with lower overhead stand ready to undersell them and take their trade. Accordingly, big firms must operate on thin margins of profit. Figuratively, they are tight. They can be "pumped down" by holding their prices and boosting their costs. Ford declares a $27 net loss on every new car sold at prices fixed by government.

Nearly everybody knows that America's advantage over foreign lands is based on mass production and volume sales, things we have that they don't have. We have nothing to gain and much to lose by wrecking big industries. Theodore Roosevelt said, "It . . . ought to be evident to everybody that business has to prosper before anybody can get any benefit from it."

Don't Shoot At Insulators

The merry days of spring are here, and no one enjoys them more perhaps than the boy, as he strides forth with rifle in hand to bag a gopher maybe, or even a squirrel. A little sharpshooting is one of the real joys of spring.

Many are the targets available as the hunter searches for objects, live or otherwise, to test his marksmanship. "A bull's-eye" brings a thrill. But a "bulls eye" can cause harm too, or bring danger, especially if the wrong kind of target is used. As for example, the insulators that support wires on Power lines.

For boys are sometimes tempted to use there insulators as targets without fully realizing the danger and damage involved. A broken insulator cannot only put out the lights in countless homes but is a real hazard too, particularly to those who must make repairs.

Every boy wants his fun, and everyone wants him to have it; but the boy with the keen eye mind doesn't shoot at insulators. It's dangerous, and it's not good sportsmanship.

Sportsmen Club Meet Tonite

The Holt Sportsmen Club will meet tonight. Loren Lord of Thief River Falls will be here with his bow and arrow and will put on an exhibition of shooting and also show pictures on hunting with bow and arrow. A. W. Carlson states that the members should hurry and get in their points for the club.

Visitors at the J. O. Johnson home the past week were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Johnson and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Loren Swenson of Duluth.

Dianna Mae, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Peterson, was baptised at the Nazareth Lutheran church services Sunday. Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sagstuen and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sagstuen. They all were dinner guests at the Ludvig Sagstuen home after the services. Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Johnson and Gloria were also guests.

Register For Bible Camp

Next week May 20th to 24th has been set aside as work week at Lake of the Woods Bible Camp and some may also want to do some fishing at the same time. Meals and lodging will be provided for those who come. Any man who can get away for a day or more please inform Pastor Urness.

May 20th is the deadling on the five reservations held for each parish for each week for Bible Camp. After that no reservations can be held but campers will be registered as their names (and $1.00) arrives.

So far reservations have been coming in mostly for the first week so it is hoped that some will switch to the second week of Bible Camp.

Remember - there is still room for either week - with the possibility that first week may be filled by May 20th. Those intending to go to camp see Pastor. The dates for camp are: June 24-30; July 1-7.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Peterson, who passed away one year ago yesterday May, 16.

One sad lonely year has passed,
Since our great sorrow fell,
The shock that we received that day
We still remember well
It was a bitter grief, a shock severe
To part with one we loved so dear
She left us in a hurried way
She said goodbye to none
But trust in God we'll meet some day.

Sadly missed by her children and grandchildren.

The American Legion of Newfolden has closed a deal with Harry Engen becoming the owner of the garage building Mr. Engen has here. It will be taken to Newfolden.

Carl Beck writes that he arrived in Oakland, Calif., last week, had no car trouble, but run into a lot of snow in Wyoming.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson visited at the Mrs. Annie Anderson home near St. Hilaire on Sunday.

Given Wedding Reception

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd P. Larson gave them a wedding reception at the Nazareth Lutheran church on Friday evening. A large crowd attended and a fine program was given. The young couple received many nice gifts. A delicious lunch was served. A table was set for the honor guests.

Bought Cities Service Station

Raymond Sagstuen who has been operating the Cities Service Station here the past year, last week closed a deal with Clarence Williams, of Thief River Falls, for the purchase of the station. Mr. Sagstuen has already commenced work of putting up a new addition 24x26 for washing and greasing cars and for a workshop. He will install a new hydranlic hoist and other equipment.

When Your Back Hurts -
And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

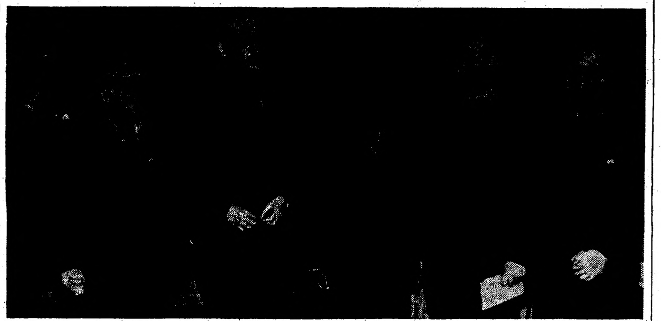
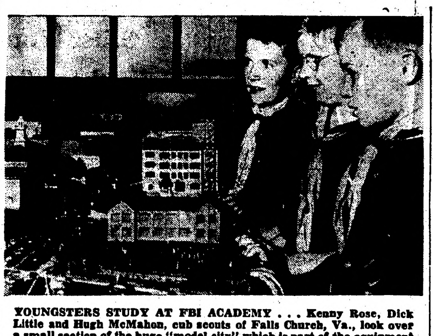
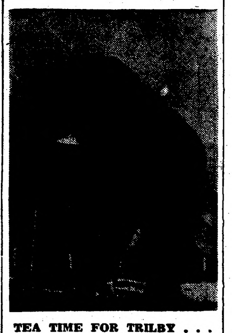
COMPLICATIONS FOR BIG FOUR . . . While the Big Four conference in Paris faces many difficult problems involving treaties and claims and boundaries, the Turkish situation presents future complications. In the dark areas shown are the three buffer states of the Near East and Middle East. Here the strategic and economic interests of Russia and the western powers meet. Control of the Dardanelles is a vital issue and Russia has sought to press claims on Turkey's eastern frontiers. Arrows on the map show how use of the straits cuts 3,000 miles from the supply line to Russia. At the opening sessions the Big Four sidestepped the troublesome Trieste and Italian colonial questions and began the consideration of the Italian-French frontier, the size of Italy's future armed strength and disposal of her surplus shipping. France's proposal to add internationalization of the Ruhr and detachment of the Rhineland from Germany to the agenda, added further complications. British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin caused another upset by insisting that Belgian, Dutch and Luxembourg representatives be permitted to sit in on such negotiations as spokesmen for nations which suffered heavily through German aggression.



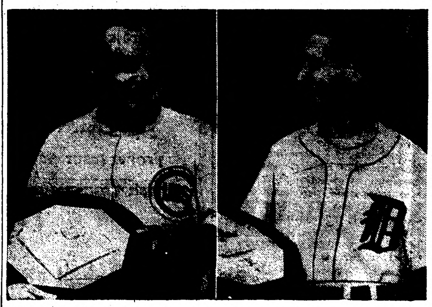
TO INVESTIGATE FRANCO'S GOVERNMENT . . . Committee of the U. N. security council which will investigate the charges that Generalissimo Franco's government in Spain is a menace to world peace and security. Left to right: Oscar Lange, Poland; Henri Bonnet, France; Pedro Velloso, Brazil; Paul Hasluck, Australia, and Hsushi Shu, China.



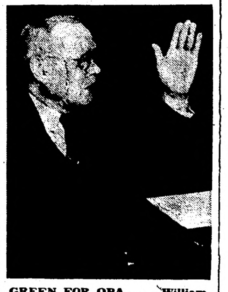
YOUNGSTERS STUDY AT FBI ACADEMY . . . Kenny Rose, Dick Little and Hugh McMahon, cub scouts of Falls Church, Va., look over a small section of the huge "model city" which is part of the equipment used by the FBI national academy in teaching traffic problems to special FBI and local police from all over the nation who come to learn modern police science. Thousands of youngsters visit the FBI monthly.



TEA TIME FOR TRILBY . . . Trilby, leader of the elephant herd of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus, shows his latest tea cup.



MOST VALUABLE . . . Baseball's most valuable players, Phil Cavarretta, Chicago Cubs, left, was chosen as the National league's most valuable player in 1945, and Hal Newhouser, Detroit, won the award for the most valuable player in American league. Both men show promise of being leading contenders for the high honor this season.



GREEN FOR OPA . . . William Green, president of the AFL, told the senate banking committee that those who opposed extension of the OPA were a "death lobby." He demanded it be continued intact.

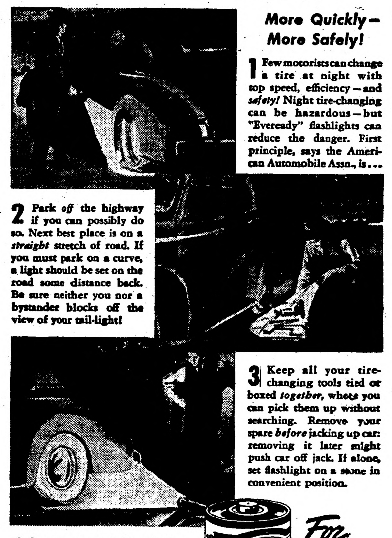
How to CHANGE A TIRE AT NIGHT...



More Quickly— More Safely!

1 Few motorists can change a tire at night with top speed, efficiency—and safety! Night tire-changing can be hazardous—but "Eveready" flashlights can reduce the danger. First principle, says the American Automobile Assn., is...

2 Park off the highway if you can possibly do so. Next best place is on a straight stretch of road. If you must park on a curve, a light should be set on the road some distance back. Be sure neither you nor a bystander blocks off the view of your tail-light!

3 Keep all your tire-changing tools tied or boxed together, where you can pick them up without searching. Remove your spare before jacking up car: removing it later might push car off jack. If alone, set flashlight on a stone in convenient position.

4 In your car or at home—wherever you need a flashlight—rely only on "Eveready" batteries. Ask for them by name. For "Eveready" batteries have no equals... that's why you'll find them in more flashlights than any other battery in the world!

Cottons Steal the Spotlight For Cool-as-a-Breeze Fashions

By Ertta Haley

KEEPING cool is the first consideration for summer clothes. The other consideration, which in the past has too often been neglected, is style or smartness.

Style is difficult to achieve in a summery dress because no matter how lovely, it can take on the appearance of a rumpled, dowdy thing within an hour after you've put it on, simply because the weather takes all the starch out of you and your dress.

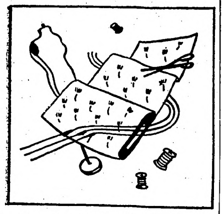
Because it is difficult to keep cool and at the same time look well-groomed, I'd suggest you concentrate on the simpler fashions for summer. Pleats are very nice, but they're hard to keep well-pressed when the temperature's soaring. Ruffles may look very nice on a blouse for a dressy suit, but they wilt easily when you're perspiring.

All this is said to suggest you consider the choice of a summer afternoon dress carefully. Look at the work of the country's best designers and you will always see simplicity the basic note, the guiding factor in a dress, suit or coat.

Another factor that has an important bearing on your style is the fabric you use. You would hardly consider a waffle weave for a ruffled effect, nor would you consider the cool but weighty mesh prints for lots of furbelows on a dress.

If you want to look cool and collected, then you'll choose your print and color with a lot of care. Unless you want to appear very gay, don't buy red unless it's relieved by plenty of white or neutral. Nor do I suggest you choose a very warm shade, like orange or yellow-orange.

Take your pick from the pale yellow tints or cool colors like green, blue and violet. Brown and black with touches of white or neutral are also very attractive. White is difficult to keep clean in some sections of the country, but it is cool to wear, and particularly nice for dress-up.



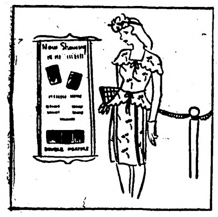
If you have dress-length material. . . .

Cut Your Pattern With Architect's Precision

Remember there's nothing hard about any part of sewing if you work as a professional. Naturally this will permit no slip-shod cutting or careless fitting.

If you are working very carefully and with fabric which is quite expensive, it may be best to cut and fit your pattern of inexpensive unbleached muslin. This can be run together on a machine with long stitches — just well enough to hold it through a good fitting, and then ripped and used as the pattern.

The easiest way of keeping the material from which you are cutting in a straight line and even fold is to tack it lightly on your working table. Clerks try to keep material straight when they cut it for you, but some fabrics are so slippery, this is impossible. It is better to take a little time to get it in line, "to lie straight" before cutting than to have a dress that does not set well.



Make a pretty afternoon frock.

The little notches on your pattern which are designed as tucks and darts are mighty important in making the garment fit you. The neckline may require more than one or two darts to make it fit snugly. The darts at the waistline may have to be a little smaller than shown in the pattern. Perhaps the underarm darts should be just a little deeper to give you good line. All of these little things can be determined by basting first, then fitting.

A recent bit of news suggested that we women were spreading across the hips much more since the war than our designers anticipated. And, they tell us, that does not apply only to the older women, but to the teen-aged youngsters as well.

Because the skirt fit is so important it's a good idea to baste the entire skirt in place before attempting any sewing. Slip the garment on, and if the seam allowance has been too generous, you can always let it out. If the garment is too snug, it may be necessary to place panels at the sides to give more room. At any rate, it's better to know just what the score is before you put in those hard-to-rip stitches.

Don't feel that just because you're sewing on cotton that you can afford to be careless. Whereas cotton used to be an inexpensive material before the war, it is anything but that now. A good piece of material deserves just as good treatment as you can give it.

Tailored Interest

The skirt of topaz brown with a flat-seamed center panel is teamed with a taffy gabardine jacket to make this a smart selection from Molly's collection. Notice the fine interest in detail and careful tailoring.

Care of Fabrics

For washing woolen garments use a neutral soap. Soaps with alkali have a harmful effect on woolen garments. Use as little friction as possible when washing, as it may ruin the fibers. Squeezing gently in lukewarm suds is the best method. Hang the garment where air circulates freely and is neither too hot nor cold.

These same precautions are necessary for washing silk. To prevent yellowing, hang silk in the shade.

Cotton and linen wash easily, although alkali cleaning agents should be used carefully. Sunshine tends to whiten both of these fabrics and they can withstand the higher temperatures fairly easy in washing.

Soft water and mild soap are the essentials for washing rayons. Two sudsings should be used if necessary. The fabric should not be rubbed or twisted. Ironing with just warm heat is very important.

Bemberg fabrics are handled like silk, wrapped in a towel and ironed with just a warm iron.

Spring Fashion Notes

Button interest is paramount for summer clothes. A simple cotton dress receives elegance from rich, frosty white buttons or jet black ones.

Black skirts with pink blouses make nice dress-up costumes, that are bound to be arresting. Don't forget black poplin or linen-like fabrics with white embroidered touches for dressy and smart suits.

Skirts of cocoa or blue chambray are nice business like affairs when teamed with yellow or pink blouses. Easy to keep looking neat, too.

You'll be seeing more frills and furbelows on women's clothing now that some Civilian Production administration controls have been rescinded. The main features restored by this are french cuffs, pocket flaps and all types of belts.

INSTEAD of merely substituting a rayon cord body for cotton cord in a previous tire design, Firestone especially engineered this tire to take full advantage of the extra strength of rayon. As a result, Firestone research has created a revolutionary new tire, tested and proved by millions of miles of service — a tire that's new in design, new in materials, new in performance — YET IT SELLS AT REGULAR PRICE. See this new Firestone De Luxe Champion Tire at your nearby Firestone Dealer Store or Firestone Store TODAY!

Rayon cord bodies in size 6.50 and larger, extra strong cotton cord bodies in smaller sizes until more Rayon is available.*

HERE'S WHY THE NEW FIRESTONE DELUXE CHAMPION STAYS SAFER LONGER

Rayon fibers are locked together by the Firestone Safti-Lock process, then Gum-Dipped and calendered with Vitamic Rubber. Safti-Sured Construction welds all parts of the tire into an inseparable unit for EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS.

The new Safti-Grip Tread has up to 60% more non-skid angles for EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING.

New, wider, flatter, silent Safti-Grip tread and large area in contact with the road mean slow, even wear. Precision balance and uniform flexing mean less internal heat. These features assure EXTRA MILEAGE.†

BLAZING THE TRAIL with LAND O'LAKES
LAND O LAKES

The Higher the Grade The Higher YOUR Price

Grading Standards Fought For By Land O'Lakes

One of the first undertakings of Land O'Lakes Creameries was to secure more butter which would merit the Federal Government's highest scores.

The next move was inspection and grading of butter by government graders, at Land O'Lakes' own concentration points. This was the first step in a plan to market all the 93-score butter of Land O'Lakes member creameries under a trade name that would stand for top quality.

Soon, most top-scoring butter carried not only the now-familiar Land O'Lakes Indian girl label, but the federal inspection certificate. To a quality-minded public, this became a double guarantee of Land O' Lakes sweet cream flavor.

Pioneering like this has given Land O'Lakes the soundest foundation for a continuing and expanding market for dairy products, and it has brought dairy farmers increasing prosperity and security in the form of top prices. Why not investigate all the advantages of marketing through Land O'Lakes?

Footprints on the Sands of Time

The past record of man or an institution is a reliable omen of the present or future. A long record of reliable, honest and sincere service, are factors that make up a past that can truly be pointed to with pride, there are "footprints" that lead to success.

The past record of this paper is our strongest recommendation.

We, today pass into another stretch of time, having started Volume No. 35 of the News and that we have so served our readers and advertisers that we may merit your continued support in this field of business.

Don't Shoot At Insulators

The merry days of spring are here, and no one enjoys them more perhaps than the boy, as he strides forth with rifle in hand to bag a gopher maybe, or even a squirrel. A little sharpshooting is one of the real joys of spring.

Many are the targets available as the hunter searches for objects, live or otherwise, to test his marksmanship. "A bull's-eye" brings a thrill. But a "bulls eye" can cause harm too, or bring danger, especially if the wrong kind of target is used. As for example, the insulators that support wires on Power lines.

For boys are sometimes tempted to use there insulators as targets without fully realizing the danger and damage involved. A broken insulator cannot only put out the lights in countless homes but is a real hazard too, particularly to those who must make repairs.

Every boy wants his fun, and everyone wants him to have it; but the boy with the keen eye mind doesn't shoot at insulators. It's dangerous, and it's not good sportsmanship.

Mrs. Ella Carlson was given a birthday party last Thursday when friends and relatives gathered in the afternoon and another group in the evening. Those from out of town included: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Surmo from St. Hilaire and Mrs. Hj. Peterson of Thief River Falls.

Alfred Larson returned Sunday from Denver, Colorado, where he has spent the winter in a warmer climate for his illness. He is now feeling fine.

Irvin Larson and family have rented the Elling Waagedahl farm complete and have moved there from their own farm.

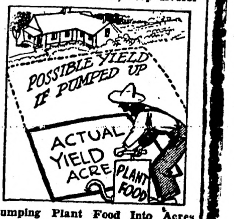
MINNESOTA FARMERS TAUGHT HOW TO ENLARGE CROP ACRE

CHICAGO. — Minnesota farmers can best safeguard their postwar future by buying additional crop producing power on the acreage they already own, instead of purchasing additional land at steadily mounting prices, according to a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"In the postwar period, just as in the years before the war, the advantage will lie with the farmer who is able to increase his per acre crop production and lower his costs," the statement points out. "He can accomplish this by building up the fertility of his soil by proper rotation, by the growing of legumes, by adequate fertilization, crop diversification and the use of other progressive farm management methods.



Pumping Plant Food Into Acres Makes Them Grow More.

"In days to come, the emphasis will be on the crop production from a given acreage rather than on how many acres a farmer is able to work. In such a situation the steady use of mixed fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash will be an enormously important factor. More bushels per acre can, and will mean more food per acre to help build healthier human beings and farm animals in the future.

"In postwar years as during the present emergency, the fertilizer industry will be the farmer's ally in making available necessary plant food to boost the quantity and improve the quality of his crop output."

Farmers Union Picnic Dates

At a meeting of the Marshall County Farmers Union Board picnic dates for the county were set. The picnic for the eastern part of the county will be held the third Sunday in June while the picnic for the western part of the county will be held the first Sunday in June at the Old Mill Site.

The Board passed four resolutions: 1. Asked extension of O. P. A. 2. Asked 30 cent payment on wheat be retroactive to September 1, 1945. 3. Asked passage of the Murray-Dingel bill and called for the appointment of a county nurse. 4. Went on record opposing compulsory military training.

The meeting of the Board was in Viking. Oskar Reimnitz, state board member was present

Capt. and Mrs. Joe Moline and son visited friends and relatives here Thursday. Mr. Moline recently returned from Europe having served in the Army there for 25 months, much of that time being spent in Norway. He expects a discharge from Army duties in about two months. They are at present living at Thief River Falls but will soon go to Superior Wisconsin.

Memorial Day Next Thursday

We cannot but halt a moment as we cross the threshold of the beautiful month of May, in silent honor of those who gave their all that we might prosper. "Their" day comes in May. A single day out of a year in length yet more hearts, and minds, and love will surrender on Decoration Day than on and other day of the year.

The torn hearts of the mothers who lost their sons and daughters on the battlefronts of the world, will rest easier as the Almighty casts his reflection over the world on Decoration Day. The graves of those boys and girls will again feel the tears of the loved ones left behind.

No honor is too great for those who laid down their lives in the wars of our nation since its birth. No flowers are beautiful enough to grace the graves of our "Soldiers".

It is our prayer, and the prayer of countless others in all parts of the world, that Decoration Day, this year will serve to tender the resting places of our great, and ease many heavy hearts.

The recently organized kittenball team of the Holt Sportsmens club played their first game here on the schoolgrounds on Sunday.

Household Hints

To keep draperies from wrinkling when storing them, fold lengthwise and hang over the horizontal bar of a coat hanger that has been padded with paper.

Storing woolens is important. First, be sure any article you store is clean and free from moths. Artificial light and sunlight weaken wool fabrics and fade colors, so store the garments in a dark place, preferably in a moth-proof bag. Store them also in a dry place as dampness invites mildew.

A soft cloth moistened with sour milk may be used to clean the keys of the piano. Wipe each key with a dry, clean cloth after the cleaning.

Cuffs and collars of shirts will require little or no extra rubbing, if soap is rubbed into the badly-soiled areas before the shirt is washed.

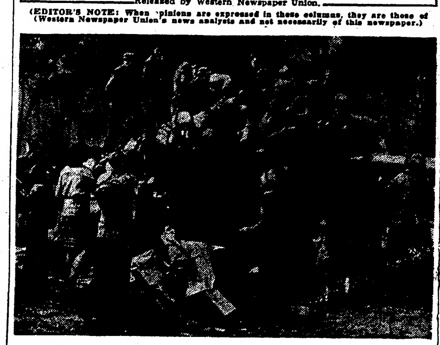
Costly Coal Strike Crimps U.S.; Plan Further Feed Reductions To Conserve Grain for Food

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Ill-fed and ill-clad, people in Italy clamber atop army truck as it arrives at dump and seek to salvage scraps of food, discarded clothing, cigarette butts and even cardboard boxes. Men, women and children climb up even before G.I.s can unload refuse.

COAL STRIKE:
Costly Walkout

Though John L. Lewis ordered his United Mine Workers back to the pits under a two-week truce to relieve the critically low supply of fuel, the 1946 coal strike promises to be long remembered as one of the most costly in history, with th necessity for curbing fuel consumption resulting in serious restrictions on public utilities, industry and transport.

Lewis acted as the widespread effects of the walkout on the nation's economy led Senator Eastland (Dem., Miss.) to rise to his feet in the upper chamber to tell his colleagues that as a result of limiting freight movements to essential commodities ". . . the shipment of embalming fluid has been embargoed and we can't bury the dead."

Most spectacular figure in the strike, of course, was the burly, beetle - browed Lewis, United Mine Worker chieftain, who held out for the operators' consideration of his proposal for a health and welfare fund. Holding fast in face of mounting public opposition and senatorial fury, Lewis received the backing of the American Federation of Labor, to which his UMW is affiliated.

John L.'s acceptance of a truce to discuss the No. 1 issue of a health and welfare fund came after dwindling fuel supplies had led the government to urge coal-burning utilities east of the Mississippi and in Iowa, Minnesota and Missouri to follow Chicago's example in reducing power consumption.

With industrial enterprises limited to 24 hours per week use of coal-burning power and stores and movies opened only several hours per day, Chicago, Ill., remained one of the hardest hit of all the municipalities. Reduction in passenger service and limiting of freight shipments to essential commodities, however, served to bring home the strike to all sections of the country.

CONGRESS:
Busy Solons

With the coal strike crippling the economy, U. S. senators moved to take up restrictive labor legislation in the face of public concern over the prolonged walkout even as they were engaged in heated debate over passage of the $3,750,000,000 loan to Great Britain.

Though Democratic Majority Leader Barkley sought to sidetrack consideration of labor measures while feeling over the coal strike flared at white heat, administration forces were compelled to surrender to congressional pressure for action. Ordinarily pro-labor, Senator Lucas (Dem., Ill.) led the fight for legislation which would give the President power to assure continued operation of essential industries in event of union disputes.

Passage of the $3,750,000,000 British loan was assured with the resounding defeat of amendments which would have limited the size of the advance, provided for expenditure of 90 per cent of the funds in the U. S., and extension of interest-free, unsecured loans to veterans. The solons also rejected the argument of Senator Johnson (Dem., Colo.) that since the bill contemplated the raising of money for the loan only the house, which directly represents the people through individual districts, had the constitutional power to originate such legislation.

Pressed by the labor and loan legislation, the senate voted for temporary extension of the draft until the decks are cleared for full consideration of the question.

POLAND:

While many citizens of Poland resent the Russian occupation of their country, the Polish peasants are realizing a life-long ambition to own their own land under the Soviet domination, Dr. C. S. Anderson, professor of agricultural education at the Pennsylvania State college, says. Large estates, many of them 2,000 acres or more, were taken from the wealthy landlords and now are being divided among the peasants.

GRAIN:
Seek Feed Cut

Following the increase in the price of corn, wheat, oats, barley and rye, government officials contemplated a reduction in the ceilings on heavy hogs and a cut in fall breeding as further steps in the conservation program designed to make more grain available for food.

While initiation of the new price program resulted in cancellation of the 30 cents per bushel bonus payment on corn, a similar premium, plus the higher price, was retained on wheat, which is most vitally needed for foreign relief. As a result of the price changes, corn was boosted 25 cents a bushel, wheat 15 cents, rye 10 cents, barley 9 cents and oats 5 cents.

With grain sales being made more profitable than livestock feeding, liquidation of hogs, cattle and poultry was expected to result in increased supplies in the immediate future but less meat later. Even with reduced livestock production growing out of the new price program and the other contemplated government measures, the total supply of meat, eggs and poultry will be above prewar levels, it was said.

Food Prospects

Though farm production remains high, heavy domestic demand and relief needs abroad will out-balance supply, the bureau of agricultural economics reported. Indicative of continued large output, farm income for 1946 is expected to approach last year's record of nearly 21 billion dollars.

The bureau provided this picture of the 1946 food situation:

- Livestock and meat production will continue close to the 1945 level but fall short of demand, with prices of animals pressing against ceilings.
- Dairy products will remain below demand throughout the year, with butter supplies short even during the flush season of milk production from May to August.
- Poultry and eggs will be in plentiful supply through most of the year, with scarcities developing in the last three months of 1946. Prices may be moderately lower.
- Fats and vegetable oils may not be in sufficient domestic supply because of large export requirements of lard, shortening and edible oils.

LEND-LEASE:
Make Returns

Over 10 Allied nations have returned approximately one-quarter billion dollars of lend-lease goods thus far and Turkey has become the first country to settle its lend-lease account in full, the foreign liquidation commission revealed.

Of the total returned by Belgium, Brazil, the British empire, China, Egypt, France, the Netherlands, Russia and Yugoslavia, $796,000 worth was reissued to foreign governments under the lend-lease program and $697,000 was sold as surplus.

The first country to settle its lend-lease obligations in full, Turkey agreed to pay the U. S. $4,500,000 within 30 days.

Corn Borer Hungry Pest

It cost the American farmer nearly $37,000,000 last year to feed the hungry mouths of the European corn borer, but because the estimates are considered conservative in view of the increased acreage and higher yields during the past few years, losses may be even higher.

Losses caused by the borer in 1944 were considered to be about $22,700,000.

BASEBALL:
Fight Pasquels

At first laughed off by the powerful major league magnates, the Mexican baseball league finally has been taken seriously with the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers seeking permanent court injunctions against the Pasquel brothers' solicitations of topnotch American performers to play south of the border.

Both the Yankees and Dodgers have received temporary injunctions against the gay grandees' attempts to get U. S. stars to break their American contracts for lucrative Mexican league offers. Granting of permanent restraining orders against Pasquel's agents in this country would seriously crimp their efforts to lure U. S. talent southward.

In going after the Pasquels, Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, sadly proclaimed: ". . . I consider the Pasquel league a temporary nuisance rather than a permanent threat. It is economically unsound. However, this year it could cause irreparable damage to a pennant contender. . . ."

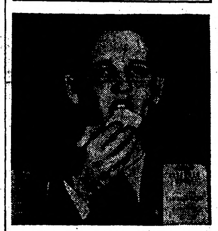
RAILROADS:
Want Higher Rates

Railroad spokesmen pressed for a 25 per cent freight rate increase to cover higher wages and operating costs in hearings before the Interstate Commerce commission in Washington, D. C., while shippers called for a thorough examination of the whole tariff structure before determination of permanent schedules.

Declaring wages have increased $1,300,000,000 since 1941 and the carriers will pay $500,000,000 more for supplies, materials and fuel, Dr. Julius H. Parmelee, railroad economist, averred that the operators will suffer a $345,000,000 deficit this year at present rates.

Meeting in Chicago, the National Industrial Traffic league, representing 300,000 shippers, cautioned that higher tariffs may be disastrous to individual industries or discriminatory against them. Asking the ICC to deny the carriers' petition for immediate raises, the organization declared any hearing should provide opportunity for a fair development and examination of facts to determine results.

Eats Meal From Dump



Seated in the house restaurant in Washington, D. C., Representative Norblad (Rep., Ore.) munched on canned meat and cranberry sauce and drank lemon juice which he said the navy had dumped as garbage in Astoria, Ore. While none of his colleagues or newsmen had the stomach to join him in his repast, Norblad said friends of his had also eaten the food without ill effects and some Astorians had done a brisk business selling some of the discarded fare to restaurants. On the spot, navy officials declared that the food had been thrown away after some personnel had contracted dysentery after eating it.

MURDER:
Town Agog

If traveling through Texarkana, Texas, one would have seen porch lights burning all night, twinkling bulbs hung out in back yards, watchdogs all over town, and the streets deserted. Further, one would have found residents ready to pull a deadly trigger with any false move.

All Texarkana was on the alert against the phantom killer who had slain two couples at night and killed one and wounded another of a pair. Four of the victims were young couples and the two others were elderly married people who had been fired upon through the window of their farm home. All were shot in the head.

While the authorities told Texarkanans to keep their guns at their side and shoot to kill if assaulted, the famed Texas rangers, state highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies, city policemen and the FBI threw out a dragnet for the murderer. They were joined by thousands of amateur detectives in the search.

U. S. TREASURY:

With receipts for the first nine months of this year already $33,148,000,000, the treasury department estimates receipts for the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1946, will exceed the budget estimate of $38,609,000,000, made in January. Because of income tax returns, receipts in March were the highest of any month during the current year.

At the same time estimated expenditures of $64,654,000,000 are now expected to be lower than the figure projected in January.

Simple Blouse

EASY to make — and a joy to launder because it opens out flat, is this cleverly designed blouse to top off your suit. Make it in white or pastel rayon satin or crepe, and use a bright polka-dotted chiffon hanky for neck ties and bow on belt. Or try pink linen, white pique, gay flower prints — it's a honey in any material.

* * *

To obtain complete cutting and finishing pattern for the Wrap-Around Blouse (Pattern No. 5107) sizes 14, 16, 18 included, send 20 cents in coin, your name, address and pattern number.

Exquisite Doily

HERE'S one of the most exquisite crocheted doilies ever made—it's an heirloom piece lent me by a friend who collects lace. The Irish crocheted doily is 14 inches in diameter, has 19 "roses" around the edge and 16 "almonds" radiate from the center rose. Makes an ideal centerpiece for a luncheon table — use plain white linen oblong place mats edged in a plain "picot" to complement the centerpiece.

Jap 'Zeros' Got Name From Year They're Made

Maybe you've been wondering why Jap planes used in the war were called Zeros. Your history book might tell you, though it isn't likely.

The plane came by its name through its model number. Jap which they're made. The Zero was made in 1941, which in Japanese time is the year 2600.

How Sweet Is the Age of Innocence

The young wife had just gleaned a delightful bit of information. "Oh, by the way, Mother," she remarked, with exaggerated nonchalance, "Henry's going in for anthropology. You know, I always said he had brains!"

"Humph! Anthropology!" sniffed the parent. "That good-for-nothing couldn't even pronounce the word! What gave you that crazy notion?"

"Well," continued the young wife complacently, "I found some green tickets in his pocket, marked 'Mudhorse 15 to 1.' When I asked him about them he told me they were relics of a lost race."

"Discard Harsh Laxatives" Say Happy Ex-Sufferers!

Famous Cereal Brings Relief to Millions!

Constipated? Harsh drugs get you down? KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN gets at the common cause of much constipation—lack of bulk in the diet. If you suffer from this form of constipation, eat a dish of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day and drink plenty of water. If you do this regularly, you may never have to take another laxative for the rest of your life!

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! It's a gentle-acting, regulating food . . . milled extra-fine for golden softness.

More Nutritious Than Whole Wheat

ALL-BRAN, made from the vital outer layers of finest wheat, contains a concentration of protective food elements found in this grain. One ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN provides over 1/3 of your minimum daily need for iron —to help make good, red blood. Calcium and phosphorus—to help build bones and teeth. Whole-grain vitamins — to help guard against deficiencies. Protein—to help build body tissue essential to growth.

Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

The Higher the Grade The Higher YOUR Price

Grading Standards Fought For By Land O'Lakes

One of the first undertakings of Land O'Lakes Creameries was to secure more butter which would merit the Federal Government's highest scores.

The next move was inspection and grading of butter by government graders, at Land O'Lakes' own concentration points. This was the first step in a plan to market all the 93-score butter of Land O'Lakes member creameries under a trade name that would stand for top quality.

Soon, most top-scoring butter carried not only the now-familiar Land O'Lakes Indian girl label, but the federal inspection certificate. To a quality-minded public, this became a double guarantee of Land O' Lakes sweet-cream flavor.

Pioneering like this has given Land O'Lakes the soundest foundation for a continuing and expanding market for dairy products, and it has brought dairy farmers increasing prosperity and security in the form of top prices. Why not investigate all the advantages of marketing through Land O'Lakes?

Larson-Tvedt Wedding

The marriage of Winnifred L. Larson and Irvin L. Tvedt took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Larson at Battle Lake, Minnesota, Sunday afternoon, May 12 at 4 p. m. Rev. Grant V. Sorenson officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Sorenson sang "O Perfect Love" and played other appropriate music.

The wedding couple was attended by the bride's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Larson, Jr. of Battle Lake. The home was decorated with fresh apple blossoms and roses.

The bride wore a gray herringbone suit with white accessories and the bride's attendant was attired in navy blue.

Refreshments were served to the wedding party including a four tiered wedding cake made by the bride's parents.

The bride is a graduate of Concordia College, Moorhead, and taught in the Holt high school three years ago. The past year she has taught in the Newfolden high school and has made her home at the G. Sanoden home here. Mr. Tvedt is a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Tvedt of Newfolden. He was recently discharged army captain with the field artillery, 7th Army. The couple will make their home at Newfolden where the groom is manager of the Land O'Lakes Produce Store.

Marvin Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Iver Larson, returned home on Saturday from the west coast after arriving in this country from the Pacific where he served 21 months in the Navy. He was discharged at Minneapolis and came here to visit with relatives for some time before going to Tacoma, Wash. to see his folks.

Creameries To Picnic June 9

The annual picnic of the Marshall County Creameries Picnic association will be held at Middle River State Park on Sunday, June 9, county creamery representatives decided at a meeting at Newfolden recently.

The Marshall county picnic is one of the largest creamery picnics in the state and annually attracts upwards of 5,000 persons to the event. With the war hysteria out of the way, the 1946 picnic should shatter all records on June 9.

E. M. Evans, Middle River, was reelected chairman of the picnic association, Otto Hjelle of Newfolden vice-chairman and Walter Larson of Holt secretary-treasurer.

The committee in charge is already in contact with several notable speakers to address the gathering.

Sportsmen Lease Building

At their meeting held on May 17 the local Sportsmen Club voted to accept the rental basis of the Village hall from the Village Council and to fix it up for a club room. Several other pieces of business were also transacted. Membership fees will remain at $1.00 until next meeting when they will be raised to $2.00. The club now has a membership of 175 and more will join state the officers of the club.

Loren Lord of Thief River Falls gave a bow and arrow demonstration and explained hunting with that type of weapon. He also showed some fine pictures of killing moose and Alaska grizzly bear with bow and arrow. The next meeting is June 21.

Willie Larson has received a letter from the commanding officer of the company in which Reuben Larson, his nephew, was serving in Germany at the time he was killed. Reuben was driving a heavy truck with a big load when he skidded off a high road and rolled over an embankment. He was picked up right away but was so severly crushed that he died several hours later in an army hospital.

Larson-Owen Wedding

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Larson, was solemnized at Zion Lutheran Church, Park Hills, Covington, Kentucky Saturday afternoon, May 25, at 3:30 o'clock, to Mr. William J. Owen, of Fairfield Ohio, son of Mr. Robert Owen of Dayton, Ohio.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lorin L. Spenny, pastor of that church.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Lillian Truxall, of Dayton, sister of the groom. She wore a soft brown gaberdine suit with white accessories, and wore a corsage of white carnations.

The bride was attired in a lime colored crepe dress with black accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses.

The groom was attended by Mr. George Daum of Dayton. Both gentlemen wore white carnations in their lapels.

The bride is well known here having attended school here and teaching in the rural schools for five years. For the past year and eight months she has been affiliated with the National Lutheran Council, Division of American Missions, ministry to war housing in Dayton, Ohio.

The groom, after his discharge last year from military service in the Army Air Force, returned to his Civil Service position at Patterson Field, and has recently accepted a transfer to Clark Field, Manilla, Philippine Islands where they will make their home after a visit with relatives and friends here. Until their departure they will reside at 2330 Newport Ave.; Dayton, Ohio.

Farmers Union Picnic Dates

At a meeting of the Marshall County Farmers Union Board picnic dates for the county were set. The picnic for the eastern part of the county will be held the third Sunday in June while the picnic for the western part of the county will be held the first Sunday in June at the Old Mill Site.

The Board passed four resolutions: 1. Asked extension of O. P. A. 2. Asked 30 cent payment on wheat be retroactive to September 1, 1945. 3. Asked passage of the Murray-Dingel bill and called for the appointment of a county nurse. 4. Went on record opposing compulsory military training.

The meeting of the Board was in Viking. Oskar Reimnitz, state board member was present.

The Weather

The weather this week has been dry and windy. Farmers are rushing thru the finish of seeding while the weather is dry.

DFL Party Votes "Open Primary" In Congressional Race

At a meeting of the Ninth District Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party at Crookston, the Convention voted down a proposal to endorse a congressional candioate, and to leave the field to an open primary. The man nominated at the July 8th primary will receive the organization's united support.

A motion had been placed before the convention to endorse L. Burrill. However, Burrill had lost his chance for support thru a bitter denunciation of small liberal groups, and by stating that he disagreed with DFL platform. He was sharply reprimanded for his lack of tact and his denunciations. Burrill admitted he was not informed on economic matters, and was out of touch touch with current problems.

Verner Nelson, seeking the DFL nomination at the primaries had publicly stated he did not want the convention endorsement: but felt that Burrill was not entitled to it either. Nelson is on a short vacation before beginning the campaign and was not at the convention.

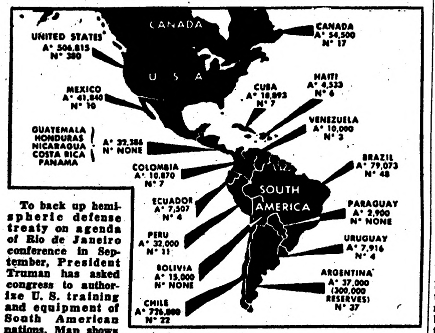
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U.S. Assured Ample Food Supply; Labor to Seek Guaranteed Wage; Big Four End Parley at Odds

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



To back up hemispheric defense treaty on agenda of Rio de Janeiro conference in September, President Truman has asked congress to authorize U. S. training and equipment of South American nations. Map shows pre-war strength of Pan-American countries, with "A" signifying size of army and "N" number of naval vessels.

FOOD:
Eat Well

Despite relatively short supplies of some cereal products, potatoes, sweet potatoes, meats, fats, sugar, canned fruits and fish through the spring and summer months, per capita food consumption in the U. S. for 1946 promises to be 14 per cent greater than in the 1935-39 period, the bureau of agricultural economics declared.

For the year as a whole, production of food crops and livestock is expected to be one-third above the 1935-39 average, the bureau predicted. During the period of the aforementioned shortages, vegetables, fish, poultry, eggs, fluid milk and cream, ice cream and skimmed milk products will be available in near record quantities.

With the nutritive value of the food supply expected to be close to the 1945 figure, per capita consumption should average about 3,300 calories. This compares with the 1935-39 total of 3,250 calories.

CONGRESS:
Champion Labor

Pro-labor senators held the floor during debate on restrictive labor legislation in an effort to muffle hasty action even as President Truman struggled to avert a rail tieup and resumption of the critical coal strike.

Declaring that full discussion was needed on labor legislation, Senator Murray (Dem., Mont.) led the opposition to a limitation of debate. Stating that pending Case bill was not an emergency measure, he charged that conservative elements were taking advantage of public resentment against the miners' walkout to push through reactionary measures.

Heated discussion swirled around the proposal of Senator Byrd (Dem., Va.) to restrict health and welfare funds to joint contributions and management by employers and employees, with Senator Pepper (Dem., Fla.) holding the floor at length against the amendment.

Meanwhile, the coal operators and John L. Lewis remained at odds over the health and welfare fund, with the companies flatly rejecting the United Mine Workers' chieftain's demands for employers' contributions of 7 per cent of payrolls and union administration of the proceeds. In seeking to break the deadlock between the disputants, Mr. Truman was said to favor a health and welfare fund jointly financed and administered by operators and miners.

STEEL:
Annual Wage

Having attained higher wages and improved working conditions, American labor next will hit for the guaranteed annual wage, under which employees would be assured of a steady year-round income regardless of time put in.

Boasting of approximately 700,000 members, the CIO - United Steelworkers plans to spearhead the drive, its recent convention calling for the advancement of the issue in negotiations for a new contract in 1947. Addressing the steel workers at the convention, USW Pres. Philip Murray declared the industry could well afford to pioneer the plan.

At the present time a presidential board is studying the advisability of establishing guaranteed annual wages, Murray said, and unions could accelerate adoption of the practice by championing its merits. By paying a guaranteed annual wage, purchasing power would be maintained and full employment encouraged, he asserted.

POLLUTION:

Tightening of pollution controls in several states has put sewage and industrial waste disposal systems among the foremost public works in in cities from coast to coast.

Indicative of nation-wide interest in pollution control is a federal bill recently approved by the house rivers and harbors committee. The measure would provide $100,000,000 a year aid to construction of state and municipal sewage disposal plants.

FOREIGN MINISTERS:
To Try Again

Agreeing only upon revising Italian armistice terms, the conference of foreign ministers of the U. S., Britain, Russia and France adjourned to June 15 with differences remaining over all the major points at issue.

Having failed in efforts to get the conference to set a date for a European peace conference of all nations and discuss arrangements for Austria, U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes was said to be very discouraged by the results of the meeting. At the same time, Senator Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.), representing the Republican party at the conference, revealed he would not return June 15.

Previous agreements consummated among the U. S., Britain and Russia blocked Byrnes' efforts in seeking a general peace conference and discussing Austria. Objecting to both proposals, Russia claimed that decisions taken at the Moscow foreign ministers meeting last December called for unanimity among the Big Four on all issues before other nations were invited to a peace conference, and the question of Austria could not be studied now under terms of the Potsdam agreement.

Foreign Commissar Molotov (left) and Secretary of State Byrnes in lively talkfest at foreign ministers' conference.

As the foreign ministers packed their bags, outstanding issues remaining unsettled concerned final disposition of the Italian port of Trieste claimed by Yugoslavia; Italian reparations; trusteeships for former Italian colonies in North Africa along Britain's lifeline to the far east; opening of the Danube to international traffic; agreement on Balkan peace treaties and restoration of free trade in eastern Europe.

Before the confab broke up, Byrnes urged that U. S., British, Russian and French representatives remaining behind to attempt to work out some of the difficulties confronting the peacemakers first report on the economic unification of Germany to spare the occupying countries the cost of supporting the broken Reich.

Said to have told the foreign ministers that the U. S. did not desire to support the American occupation zone indefinitely, Byrnes declared that thus far the U. S. has furnished 200 million dollars worth of assistance. An equal amount will be sent during the ensuing fiscal year, he revealed.

NEW BOOK CRAZE

"Home hunger" is making best-sellers out of books on house - planning and building, and has swamped public libraries from coast to coast with an all-time record demand for such volumes.

Booksellers from Atlanta to Albuquerque, from Buffalo to San Francisco, report home-planning books among their non-fiction best-sellers.

WORLD TRADE:
Rival Blocs

Although passage of the 3¾ billion dollar loan to Britain will split the world into two trade blocs headed by the U. S., Britain and Russia, it will advance the interests of capitalism, free enterprise and the democratic way of life within the Anglo - American area, Treasury Secretary Vinson told the house banking committee.

Testifying on behalf of the loan legislation, Vinson declared that 75 per cent of world trade is carried on within the U. S. - British bloc, and agreement within this area might lead to an understanding with Russia. In accepting the loan, Britain has agreed to abolish discrimination against U. S. traders, he said.

While Russia has had an opportunity for months to avail herself of credit in the export-import bank, set up by congress to stimulate foreign trade, she has not done so, Vinson said. At present, the U. S. has set aside one and one-quarter billion dollars of funds in the bank for possible foreign loans.

BASEBALL:
Form Union

At once a sport and a profession, big league baseball was well on the road to unionization with the newly organized American Baseball guild claiming a majority of the Pittsburgh Pirates and five other teams.

In singling out Pittsburgh as the first club with which to open collective bargaining, the guild, headed by Robert Murphy, asked Pres. William Benswanger to enter into early negotiations regarding wages and other conditions of employment. The guild would be willing to incorporate a no-strike clause in any contract, Murphy said.

Because of the seasonal and sportive character of the game, the unionization of baseball promises to raise many problems dealing with the question of strikes cutting down already restricted playing time; judgment of management in the use of personnel; dependence of wages on winning teams and the size of gates, and performers' demands for shares in trading prices or their objection to being sold to weaker clubs.

More Home Owners

Because high wartime earnings spurred investment in housing, 23,000,000 Americans now own their own homes, compared with 15,000,000 in 1940, the bureau of census reported. At the same time, the number of tenants declined to 17,600,000 against the prewar figure of 19,700,000.

HITLER HATES:
New Ones Listed

Known for his dislike of Jews and Communists, Adolf Hitler also nourished a hatred for horses, hunting and diplomats, Gustav Adolf von Halem, 6 foot, 3 inch elite guard, revealed during his internment in Hohen-Asperg castle.

Explaining the late fuehrer's apathy toward horses, Von Halem said that they were not sufficiently disciplined to please him. They always disturbed military parades and especially when there was music.

Humanitarian instincts motivated Hitler's hatred of hunting, Von Halem said. Jibing Herr Goering for bringing down defenseless animals, Hitler would ask his merry marshal: "If the game had guns, as you have, would you go shooting?"

The fuehrer's coolness toward diplomats was occasioned by his fear that long service abroad might weaken their Germanic spirit, Von Halem revealed.

BRITAIN:
Exports Food

Herself possessing food stocks at double the prewar rate, Great Britain undertook to increase food shipments to the British zone in Germany to prevent mass starvation there before supplies can arrive from the U. S.

With the grain reserves in the British zone virtually exhausted, the ration will have to be slashed from 1,000 to 500 calories unless American help is forthcoming. In the meantime, Britain is seeking to ease the situation by shipping 70,000 tons of barley within the next two months and 20,000 tons of potatoes. An additional 60,000 tons of potatoes may be sent later.

Though admitting that Britain's present food stocks of 3,806,000 tons doubled the prewar total, Food Minister Sir Ben Smith declared that there was no excess for processing or in the normal channels of distribution. Since D-Day, Britain had sent 1,400,000 tons of food to liberated Europe and had reduced its imports to help other countries, he said.

SCIENCE:

America's leadership in science is threatened by the rapid advance of Soviet research, Dr. I. M. Kolthoff, University of Minnesota chemistry professor who visited Russia recently, said.

Unless the United States speedily overcomes its current shortage of scientific manpower and provides more intensive support of fundamental research by either the government or private industry, the time may not be far off when America may lag behind Russia.

Cheerful Curtains for Kitchen Are Made from Chintz Goods

By Ertta Haley

ARE your kitchen curtains weary after year-long use? Is the material too heavy to be suitable for warmer days ahead?

If you have either of these problems and cannot find a nice material for curtains, perhaps you have an old chintz bedspread or drapery material tucked away in an old trunk in the attic. This is ideal for sewing gay attractive framing for kitchen windows.

A single-sized bedspread will usually yield at least two pair of one or two piece curtains for kitchen windows. Yes, this includes ruffle from the same material, too. Of course, if you prefer to make the curtains look just a little bit more tailored, then you might consider trimming the edges with a contrasting colored piping, particularly if the pattern of the material is well-covered with a floral design.

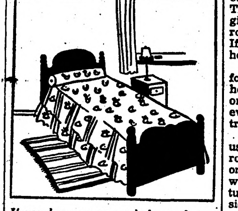
Your best pattern for kitchen windows is to cut a tissue paper facsimile of the curtains you now use. I am assuming they are the correct length and fit properly. The important thing in windows is to have sufficient fullness so the curtains do not look skimpy.

If your home, and particularly the kitchen is done in a very early American motif or is strictly modern, you might forego some of the fullness for an effect of simplicity or good tailoring. Then you will plan to clothe the windows differently: avoid the ruffle, settle for bric-a-brac or a contrasting band around the edge, and let the curtain fall in soft folds rather than in a gathered effect.

Correct Measurements For Curtains

Curtains are generally measured from the rod to the sill. If you do not have curtains that fit well, it is well to make the measurement and see that you have ample fullness and length.

If you are using a piece of old material as suggested, and it has been washed, you will not have to allow the two inches per yard of shrinkage as is done in new material, but you will have to make allowances for the following: bottom hem, which is two inches plus a one-quarter inch turn; top heading which is one and one-half inches and casing which is one inch plus one-quarter inch for turning.

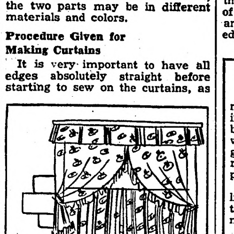


If you have a worn-out bed spread. . . .

If you are making sash curtains—two piece or half curtains, as they are sometimes called—measure from the center rod to the bottom of the sill for the lower half. For the upper half, measure from the top rod to one and one-half to two inches below the center rod. If desired, the two parts may be in different materials and colors.

Procedure Given for Making Curtains

It is very important to have all edges absolutely straight before starting to sew on the curtains, as they hang within plain sight of everyone and can give a slightly askew appearance to the room if they are lopsided. Straighten the ends of the fabric by tearing or pulling a thread. Measure from this end and if necessary straighten the fabric. Watch this closely when working with a printed fabric.



Sew some kitchen curtains.

Some women prefer leaving the selvage on the curtain to save sewing a side, but it is advisable to cut it off and finish the material. The selvage edge may shrink and give the curtains, and naturally the room, a rather bizarre appearance. If the selvage is removed, make a hem on the fabric.

If plain stitching is not desired for the hem, the material may be hemstitched or darned with colored stitches, featherstitched or even bound in harmonizing or contrasting colors.

Casings at the top of the curtain usually depend upon the size of the rod. This may require from one and one-half to two inches. If you are worried about shrinkage, place a tuck across the curtain on the inside below the casing. Use a long stitch on the machine for this or baste in place.

If you have decided upon ruffles for your curtains, then measure one of the long sides and the bottom and make the ruffle two and one-half times this length. Use long stitches on the machine first, then gather to fit the curtain, the ruffle going to the inside of the curtain and at the bottom. If you have tiebacks for the curtains, here again, use two and one-half times the length of the tie for making the ruffle.

For placing the ruffle on the curtain stitch in place and finish with a french seam. For the tie backs, however, tuck the ruffle in-between the material (tiebacks are made of a wide piece of material folded) and stitch once or twice on the edge, depending upon the fabric.

Smile, Little Boy

This little gentleman doesn't have to be so self-conscious because he's well turned out in a two-piece ensemble of kiduroy, the new corduroy that can take a beating such as only a youngster can give it.

Furnishings

Women who are handy with the needle can do a lot toward making the home attractive and livable. Slipcovers and draperies, well matched and with an eye to good taste, can bring together a room if it contains many odd pieces of furniture.

For dark rooms, consider the lighter fabrics to add cheer to the room. For bright rooms, you may use darker colors.

If you live near an industrial section, choose fabrics that launder easily so that you can keep clean and still be kind to your cleaning budget. It is worthwhile to buy good fabrics with good finishes for covering much-used chairs, etc.

When selecting binding and draperies for chairs and sofas, make sure that the material is washable or easily cleaned. It's far better to hunt than try to mend or re-dye the binding after the first cleaning.

Spring Fashion Notes

Hood for the playsuit? Yes, indeed, and it's especially good with the halter style top.

Look for the unusual in prints right at the moment. You will see geometric figures and designs that give you a sculptured look.

For suits for the week-end out of town, wear something fetching at the neck of your suit. Rippling ruffles are feminine and charming.

Special patterns are now being created in cotton to make that textile attractive even for dressy frocks.

Lady-like elegance is the phrase being used more often as we get back on a prewar basis in the world of fashion. That's why you're seeing flowery hats, swathed in veiling, dressy suits and blouses that are the height of frilliness.

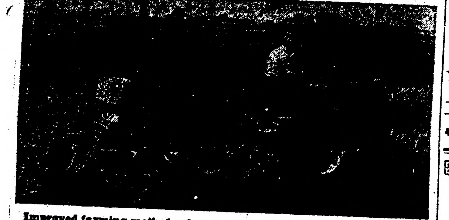
Minnesota Farmers Roll Up Sleeves To Meet Peak Crop Demands in '46



Improved farming methods plus plant food will produce bumper crops.

CHICAGO — A dual recipe for meeting peak 1946 food demands by increasing the crop producing efficiency of every acre and reducing the output cost was given midwestern farmers in a statement issued here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The two ingredients," says the statement, "are improved farming methods and the judicious use of plant food.

"By improved farming methods is meant taking advantage of the ever-accumulating store of information resulting from tests and research by state agricultural colleges and experiment stations.

"In any sound farming program the use of mixed fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash logically has a place. Experience during the war demonstrated its value in boosting food production. The application of this wartime experience will pay handsome dividends. Farmers can be sure of another thing, too. There will be adequate supplies of fertilizer to take care of their needs if they order early, and take delivery as soon as possible.

"The fertilizer industry has a factory capacity sufficient to meet all of American agriculture's plant food requirements. The co-operation of farmers in taking early delivery of their supplies will enable all needs to be met.

"The type and quantity of fertilizer to use will depend on a number of factors. But farmers can turn to advice to their county agents or to the agronomists at state colleges and agricultural experiment stations."

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

Plunder

Wars are wasteful and everybody knows it. An emotional plea for national defense is all it takes to raise money from patriotic people. Men and women will sacrifice, will give until it hurts when their sons are at war. A young man, far from home, living (?) under conditions new to him and unknown to his parents, is the unfailing combination to the family's treasure chest.

Whether parents be rich or poor, they will buy their son's passage home from a foreign war every day until he comes, so long as they can find the money, and nobody blames them. They will do it, even if they fear that the money they offer is imprudently spent, or that part of it is diverted into selfish channels. But hostilities have ceased now. Things are different.

Frugality Revives

People of the United States have begun watching where their tax money goes and wondering if it is being wisely spent. It is small wonder that Congress bristles at every suggestion to continue commodity price controls until the middle of 1946. Holding the price line costs something, and does not seem half as important to a war-weary people as it did before the last foreign beachhead was taken.

Evidences keep coming to light that taxpayers' money has been wasted by men in positions of trust. A recent public statement by Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia said more than 3½ million civilians were on federal payrolls last November 1, compared with less than one million in August, 1939; or 917,760 when the shooting stopped at the end of World War I.

Needless Expense

There is an element in government today, seeking not merely to continue the life of the OPA but to expand its functions. Already our government's price-fixing "mechanics" have started making arbitrary adjustments in margins to be earned by wholesalers and distributing agencies, an activity not even thought about for the OPA at the time it was created.

It would be unfair to allege that this enormous bureau's entire wartime activity was useless. Price controls have done some good, as arbitrary shields against abnormal dangers. They have also done harm. A retail merchant, whom I have known since I was a boy, told me recently that he made more net gain selling under war-time price ceilings than he had made during his previous 25 years in business.

Controlling Prices

Questioned for more detail, my retailer friend acknowledged to me that price controls placed on him by government during the war were much more lenient than price controls placed on him by competitors all his business life. And I am sure it is no more true in his case than it would be with such institutions as Ford, Chrysler and General Motors. Competition is the correct brake on prices.

Regardless of what name it may wear: Price Control, Federal Aid to Education or Socialized Medicine, centralization of power is undemocratic. It is paying a power-hungry ruler for doing something that would happen naturally if he would only step aside. It is someone climbing to power by learning what people want and devising a way to keep them from getting it, while making them think he is trying to get it for them.

Ness-Harstad Wedding

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Nazareth Lutheran church Saturday, May 25th at 7:30, when Miss Irene Ness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness, became united in marriage to Orris A. Harstad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Iver Harstad of Newfolden. In a church prettily decorated with flowers and candles the single ring ceremony was read by Rev. E. O. Urness in the presence of about 60 relatives and friends. Lohengrin's Wedding March was played by Grace Urness. Other nuptial music consisted of a vocal solo "O, Perfect Love" by Joyce Peterson. The bride was given away by her father. Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Tvedt friends of the young couple, acted as bride's maid and best man and Leonard Ness as usher.

The bride wore a gown of white brocaded satin and net over magquisette with a finger tip veil edged in lace and a tiara and carried a boquet of roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid's gown was of light blue taffeta and she wore a golden locket. The bride's mother wore a blue gaberdine dress with a corsage of roses and sweet peas, while the groom's mother wore a floral jersey dress with a corsage of roses and sweet peas. The bride's travel costume was a gray suit with black and white accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's parents in the church parlors to about sixty guests. The center table was set for 22 guests and its centerpiece was a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom and decorated with roses. This was flanked on each side by lighted candles. Mrs. Orlin Ness baked and decorated the wedding cake.

The bride is a graduate of the Newfolden High School and the groom also attended high school there. He was discharged last fall from the army after three years of service part of which was spent overseas in Europe. He is now in the implement business with his father at Newfolden. After a honeymoon spent in the lake resort region, the newlyweds are now at home in Newfolden.

The following will be confirmed at Nazarath church on Pentecost Sunday:

Eunice Becklund, George Fricker, Darlene Horien, Robert Johnson, Keith Movick, Gladys Ness, Harold Ness, Howard Peterson, Dorothy Sagstuen and Willis Skjerping.

Friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs Sig Nygaard at Mud Lake headquarters for a housewarming party. Sunday. A cash purse was presented to them and lunch was served.

Denny Inman had the hard last Thusday to loose 225 young Turkeys when a brooder house burned.

Had Fine Memorial Program

The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign War put on a fine program here Memorial day. Rev Mark Houseman gave the main address of the day and Rev. E. O. Urness had charge of the program and made announcements.

After the speaking program the entire group consisting also of the local Boy Scout Troop and Sunday School marched in a body to the cemetery to honor those who have given their lives that we may all have a better place to live.

Joe Maruska of Thief River Falls was here and attended to all details in connection with the parade and ceremonies at the cemetery.

Relatives and friends gathered at the Sollom home Sunday afternoon and gave Mr. and Mrs Harvey Sollom a kitchen shower. They received many nice gifts after which lunch was served.

Sheep Day At Newfolden

June 18th is designated as Marshall County Sheep Day. and the event will be held at Newfolden.

The purpose is to bring to the people of Marshall County the latest information regarding one of the most valuable farm enterprises in the county.

The program for the day will consist of Barbecue at noon followed by: speakers on sheep production, including W. Morris, University Farm, St. Paul sheep specialist; D. D. McCloud, Agricultural Development Agent, Soo Line R. R. and others.

The talks will be followed by wool and sheep judging contests. After which several demonstrations regarding new developments including the new dusting equipment which may replace the old method of dipping for control of ticks.

The business men of Newfolden through the Commercial Club are providing committees to take care of the noon lunch, as well as cash for the prizes in the various contests.

Everyone is welcome to these meetings and will enjoy the program on June 18th.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been very much mixed. On Thursday evening last week we had a cold blast hit here from the Great Lakes region that dropped the temperature to the freezing mark. Friday was a cold windy day. Saturday thru Wedneday was nice with a light rain on Tuesday evening.

Yesterday we had another good shower in the afternoon.

Myrtle Nohre and L. A. Gauthier of Crookston, Mrs. Bill Soum Marian and Joyce and Carl Lunke were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd M. Larson on Sunday.

Virginia on the Iron Range had 2½ inches of snow last Friday. This came as far west as Washkish and there was snow in the shady places there on Saturday afternoon.

Lon Inman cut his right ankle badly on Saturday when the plow hitch caught his shoe.

Eradicate The Dandelions

2, 4-D, the new weed killer is available and can be used successfully by anyone interested in getting rid of dandelions and other weeds in the lawn.

Experimental tests show that a light application will kill most lawn weeds if applied when the temperature is over 50 degrees.

The new weed killer is on the market under several trade names, all of which are effective if properly applied. Good results have been obtained with a 40% 2, 4-D solution.

Care should be taken in applying the liquid to see that it does not come in contact with Evergreens or other shrubs. A heavy application may be harmful to the white clover in the grass mixture.

Milk Business Going Strong

The whole milk business at the local creamery has now stepped up to about 2100 pounds average daily run. This keeps the force at the creamery going at top speed from early morning until late at night to keep up with the work with this new venture which is paying the farmers of this community great divdidends this year.

Creameries To Picnic June 9

The annual picnic of the Marshall County Creameries Picnic association will be held at Middle River State Park on Sunday, June 9, county creamery representatives decided at a meeting at Newfolden recently.

The Marshall county picnic is one of the largest creamery picnics in the state and annually attracts upwards of 5,000 persons to the event. With the war hysteria out of the way, the 1946 picnic should shatter all records on June 9.

E. M. Evans, Middle River, was reelected chairman of the picnic association, Otto Hjelle of Newfolden vice-chairman and Walter Larson of Holt secretary-treasurer.

The committee in charge is already in contact with several notable speakers to address the gathering.

A large crowd attended the Quality Milk Meeting held at the schoolhouse on Monday evening.

Several fine reels of sound films were shown and field men gave demonstrations and talks on quality of milk and tests of various kinds. After the program the business men of Holt treated the crowd to free lunch.

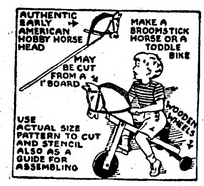
A Prancing Steed For That Small Boy

AN OLD broomstick, a piece of scrap lumber, a pattern that gives you actual-size outlines, and presto, you have a dashing, prancing horse. It is easy, for the head is so designed that it may be cut out with an ordinary hand saw,



AUTHENTIC EARLY AMERICAN HOBBY HORSE HEAD

MAY BE CUT FROM A 1" BOARD
WOODEN WHEELS
USE ACTUAL SIZE PATTERN TO CUT AND STENCIL ALSO AS A GUIDE FOR ASSEMBLING and the mane, eyes, nostrils and bridle may be stenciled or traced and painted.

If you are a little more ambitious, the same pattern gives actual-size pattern outlines for all parts of the toddle bike shown here. If you do not have a jig saw to cut the saddle and wheels, just outline them on the material and take it to your nearest woodworker to be cut. He can cut the head in a few minutes too. The pattern shows every step in assembling and gives a complete list of materials for both toys.

"SUFFERED MISERY FOR YEARS..."

Now Regular, Thanks To Famous Cereal

Given up hope of relieving constipation without taking harsh drugs? Then read this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"I would like to add my praise to KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. I suffered years of misery until I saw your ad about 5 years ago. Have been using ALL-BRAN regularly and have never had to use a laxative since." Thomas Banon, 3354 Sansom Street, Philadelphia 4, Pa.

You, too, may never need another harsh laxative for constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet, if you will eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water. Just try this for ten days. If not completely satisfied, send empty carton to Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan. You'll get double your money back.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative, but a wholesome food made from the vital outer layers of wheat. Provides ever-so-gentle bulk, helpful to normal, easy laxation. Try it as a delicious cereal—and in muffins.

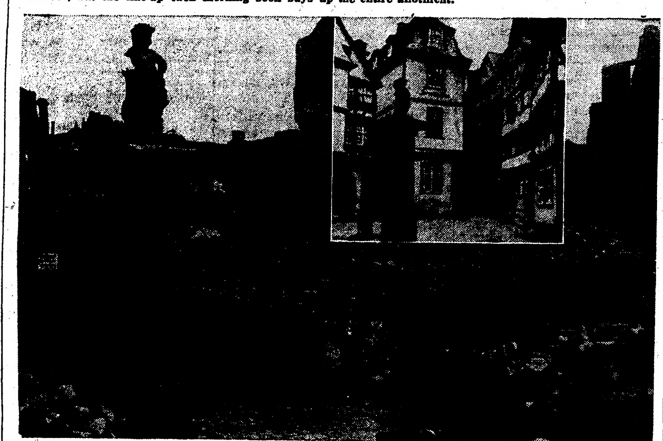
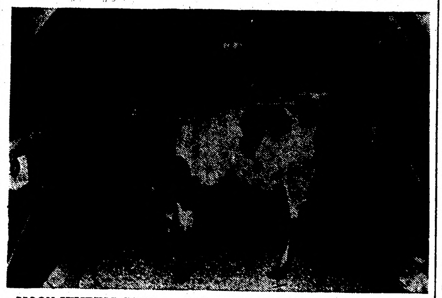
BREAD LINES BEGINNING TO FORM . . . Not the depression soup lines, but bread lines caused by the rationing of flour to bakeries, has resulted in bread lines in most cities and before the doors of most bakeries. Photo shows a bread line in Detroit. The baker says he has 600 loaves daily, soon to be cut to 450 loaves, but the line-up each morning soon buys up the entire allotment.



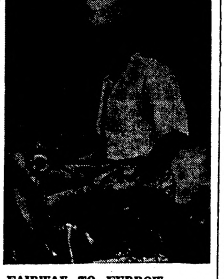
HOW ALLIED AIR FORCE WRECKED FRANKFURT . . . Bombs from American and British air forces rained from the skies caused a vast panorama of ruin at Frankfurt, Germany. Photographs show Five Finger Place as it appeared at end of war. Insert shows same location as it appeared on a prewar German post card. Only the little statue is unmarked. Few cities took a more sustained beating than Frankfurt.

TO BE TOGETHER . . . Courage and devotion dominating one of the truly great love stories of modern times. Maj. Hans G. Hornbostel, San Francisco, veteran of two wars and the "Bataan death march," is exerting every effort to enter the Leprosarium at Carville, La., so that he can remain at the side of his wife, who contracted the ravaging disease while in a Japanese prison camp. Major Hornbostel, who is not afflicted with leprosy, is shown with his wife as they talk with Dr. J. C. Geiger, chief of San Francisco health department.

POSTAL PAY INCREASE . . . Pres. Harry S. Truman as he affixed his signature to the bill giving all postal employees a raise of $400 per year. Postmaster Hannegan witnessed the signing of new postal pay bill.



MOON-JUMPING COWS . . . Flying cattle to South America from New York City leads the way to a new modern method of transportation of high quality breeding stock. Valued at $20,000 these Ayrshire dairy cattle are shown on plane, converted into a flying barn. The trip will take about 20 hours, instead of several days as would be necessary by rail and water. More exports of cattle will follow from the United States to other southern countries.



FAIRWAY TO FURROW . . . Pausing between tournaments on his farm near Denton, Texas, golf champion Byron Nelson relaxes behind the wheel of a tractor. He raises sweet potatoes, peanuts and cucumbers.

JINX FALKENBERG and her husband, Tex McCrary, are doing such an outstanding job on their husband-and-wife radio program that it's too bad they're not on a coast-to-coast hookup. Maybe NBC will so something about it; now they're just on the New York station, WEAF. Recently they did their broadcast from a plane that hovered over New Jersey and Connecticut while they talked. Jinx, who's forsaken the movies at least until the stork arrives, looked lovely in a coral-colored coat, with a twist of colored stuff in her hair. McCrary's newspaper experience, plus his work during the war, add tremendously to the value of their program, of course.

One Presidential Veto in 37 Overridden by Solons

How seldom congress passes a bill over a Presidential veto is shown by the number of such actions taken by the 14 congresses in session during the administrations of Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt, says Collier's.

Of the 705 bills vetoed in these 29 years, only 19 Presidential vetoes—or one in 37—were overridden.

Tight Dress Can Be Altered To Fit Wearer Comfortably

By Ertta Haley

A DRESS that fits you, and you alone, is good value. It will give you real pleasure every time you wear it, no matter how inexpensive or expensive it may be. But just what is meant by perfect fit, as we know it today?

A dress that fits easily at the shoulders without straining when you bend or stretch is just right for you. The shoulder seam should lie about one-quarter inch back of the center of the shoulder and be absolutely straight from neckline to sleeve. The sleeve seam should lie at the extreme edge of the shoulder.

Now, how should shoulders be padded? If you are square in the shoulders, little or no padding may be necessary. If, however, you are rounded or sloping in the shoulders, one or even two sets of pads may be necessary.

Collars should lie flat without pulling or wrinkling. If there is any tightness in sewing the collar, you can bet on its wrinkling sooner or later, particularly when the dress is washed.

That taut look around the bustline means the dress is too small, and chances are you do not look your best in it. I'll tell you how this can be remedied a little later, but in the meantime, when you buy a dress or pattern, get one that fits well across the bust. It's possible, too, that another style might be more becoming — one with fuller shoulders or more fullness in the bodice.

Waistlines, Skirts

Sleeves Important.

Most dresses you buy will not nestle down on your natural waist line because most of us vary slightly from the average. But just where is the natural waistline? Tie a tape measure or belt around the waistline and you will find out easily. Bend slightly to the front and the tape measure will settle at the correct line.

You can also determine the size of the waistline accurately if the zipper slides open and shut easily without straining. Don't try to gather in a too-large waistline with a belt. It looks untidy and you're uncomfortable. It's far better to refit the waistline.

If your dress is too tight . . .

An easy fit over the hips is a big comfort. Sit down when trying on a dress and it it doesn't ride up, you have a well fitting hipline. Length is also important. Most women are wearing their dresses just below the kneecap, but this can be varied slightly as looks best on you. Full skirts should be slightly shorter and snugly fitted skirts can be a trifle shorter than average.

Armholes must be big enough so that you feel at ease in them. When trying a dress, move the arms up and down. There should be no straining.

On long sleeves, look for the elbow easing to come right. This is at the crock of the arm.

If you have chubby arms, do not wear tight short sleeves with cuffs.

Here's how to make it fit.

These will not only make the arm look larger, but will not be comfortable.

If just the bustline is off, pieces may be added underneath the sleeves to ease the fitting, and a bolero can be made or purchased to go with the dress.

If you have a two-piece dress in which you cannot make the skirt fit, you might make a darker skirt to go with the jacket. Dark skirts are very slimming with lighter colored jackets if you are full in the hips.

If you have a princess type dress or a button-front dress, try contrasting panels down the center or on the sides to add fullness. This is a good way to adjust the dress for the short, full figure.

If the waistline is too tight, and the dress too short, with no hemline to let out, consider placing a piece of contrasting colored material at the waistline. This may be set in wide or narrow as necessitated by your problem.

If the neckline is too tight, let the shoulder seam out enough to ease the strain on it. There is usually enough in the seam allowance to take care of this minor problem.

If your sleeves are too short, add crosswise bands below the elbow. Add this detail somewhere else in the dress, too, so that it will look as if it belonged.

If your skirt has stretched from wear, adjust the bagginess at the waistline.

If the skirt is too short, add a band of ruching or ruffles or braid around the hem. Several rows of gay ribbon will also do the trick. Add this detail to the sleeves, too.

Torso Jacket

Hattie carnegie's cosmopolitan suit is made of gray sharkskin and favors the longer torso jacket. Saddle pockets around the hips accentuate the small waist.

Stitching Pointers

Mercerized thread is recommended for most sewing because it is strongest and easiest to use. Select the color of thread by matching closely to fabric.

Use correct needle and thread sizes and test on a piece of material before attempting to stitch the garment.

Fine, sharp-pointed needles are best for pinning. In pinning rayon and taffeta, take care not to mark up the fabric from pinning.

Adjust the tension to suit the fabric and test on a scrap before sewing the garment. Generally speaking, a tighter tension is more suitable for sheerer fabrics, a looser tension for heavier fabrics.

Stitch with paper underneath the fabric when working with sheer materials. This provides a firm sewing base and prevents slipping.

When you have completed as many single seams as possible, get out the ironing board and press them out. Seams should be pressed before sewing other parts together.

Press each bit of binding and facing after basting, and sometimes before and after to assure smooth fitting. They will be much easier to machine stitch if the fabric is pressed and seams are straight.

Summer Fashion Notes

Long full peplums and skirt draperies are a high fashion note these days as the fullness over the abdomen movement gathers strength.

It's often been said that most women can wear blue. So, no matter what your type, you'll be seeing plenty of all types of blues, but particularly blues that match the color of skies and seas.

Look for the South American influence in play clothes and gay cottons. They have a real south-of the-border flavor.

If you have any lace tucked away in the attic, now is the time to take it out. Lace is appearing at the neckline, on sleeve cuffs, pocket trimmings and even hems. This is one of dips fashion is taking into prewar era of the first war.

Snood Nets Enhance Smart Hair Styles

NEWS for the smart coiffures of feminine heads know no age, the Rural Home editor of nationally circulated Capper's Farmer points out.

For the young mother, busy from sunup to sundown with her youngsters, the snood net shown in the accompanying illustration offers a wise hair style, this expert declares. It is one of the types designed by Lily Dache. Tied with ribbons, it stays in place, insuring a sleek look all day long.

Whether the wearer is a junior miss or matron, she will find a net to enhance her hair-do. A teenager ready for any party pulls her hair smoothly back from her face and covers the roll with a snood net trimmed with a bow to match her blouse. A smart girl on a coke date can win approving looks with a bright red net accented by a crossgrain ribbon headband.

For a mature woman achieving elegance with an upswept coiffure, two mesh nets are suggested. One goes over hair in back to keep it neat. The other can cover her soft front curls. A young matron who fashions her own head gear for spring will tie on a green snood with two green bows. Spring flowers will provide softening touches on the sides.

With Thanks

Free schools are still free institutions in the United States, thanks to the bravery of ten congressmen, five Democrats and five Republicans. Jointly, last December 12, they broke up a piece of law-making strategy that might have wrecked American freedom completely. Thus ended Round 5 of a long and costly fight to top our public schools with a bureaucratic boss in Washington.

The House Committee on Education, by a ten-to-nine vote, rejected the famous bill to provide federal aid (?) to education. The threat of collectivism to American liberty was greater at no time during World War II than it is now, and all people who appreciate the privileges our pioneer grandfathers won with flintlock rifles, may be thankful to a sane congress.

Many Good Reasons

What happened that day made the best news of the week but, important as it was, did not eclipse the brilliant tidings of the previous week when President Truman signed a bill to place a group of government corporations under control of Congress. These highly privileged, wild entities had been foraging without restraint in rich fields of industry for varying numbers of years.

The Chief Executive complimented Congress for roping and branding these freebooters, as well he might. Indeed the 79th Congress deserves a great deal of commendation. One of its most notable achievements of the First Session was that exhaustive job by the Manasco Committee, X-raying the so-called Full Employment Bill. It deserved to be diagnosed thoroughly, and was.

Toothless Enactment

Several well informed Washington observers are predicting that a dehorned and fangless version of the Full Employment Bill will pass—into oblivion. As originally written, it was a viper, a sort of two-edged Townsend plan of pensions with an appended government guarantee of every-ready, gainful employment to everybody out of jails and hospitals, drunk or sober, on borrowed government money.

Addressing a few belated travelers in a highway hamburger emporium recently, a red-nosed tramp declared: "There's plenty of everything in the world for everybody to live easy, if greedy guys would quit grabbing everything and holding us up for our share." I submit that as a parallel to the philosophy of the Full Employment Bill. It is simply not true. Good living depends on work.

Wealth and Plenty

I wish every American could live on a farm long enough to learn how plenty depends on production. The more of anything people produce, the more of it they have. There's a difference between abundance and prosperity; production is only one ingredient, but an essential ingredient. Idleness and scarcity lead directly to poverty and want. It is true of a man. It is true of a nation.

Prosperous, productive people can afford to yield their substance freely to help genuinely unfortunate folk who are in need. On the other hand it is not a kindness to quench any man's desire to make his own living and build his own success. Doing such things for people is unfair to them. We should be proud of our 79th Congress for holding that everlasting truth in mind.

Organized Farmers Union Local at Ringbo Thursday

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar E. Reimnetz, State Fieldman and State Secretary. respectfully, of the Minnesota Farmers' Union, met with a group of farmers of the Ringbo community at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Davidson last Thursday evening to set up a new Farmers' Union Local.

The program for the evening started out with several musical numbers and duets furnished by the young people and songs by the audience. Mr. Reimnetz explained the benefits of being members of the Farmers' Union. Mrs. Reimnetz talked on various departments within the F. U. and told of how young folks can earn many awards. After these talks the following officers were elected: Chas Skoglund, Chairman; Hilmer Davidson, Vice-chairman; Roger Skoglund, Sec-Treas.; Sidney Engstrom, Membership Secretary; and Miss Viola Knutson, Program Secretary. There were nine charter members who joined and five from another local who transferred into the Ringbo local.

The date set for regular meetings were second Thursday of each month. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Algot Skoglund on July 11.

The membership in the State Farmers' Union is only $3.50 for the head of the family with ladies going as honorary members and all up to 21 years of age. After 16 years of age you can vote and hold office in the F. U.

At the close of the organization meeting there were more short talks and singing after which a very delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Davidson. The rest of the evening was spent socially.

Eradicate The Dandelions

2, 4-D, the new weed killer is available and can be used successfully by anyone interested in getting rid of dandelions and other weeds in the lawn.

Experimental tests show that a light application will kill most lawn weeds if applied when the temperature is over 50 degrees.

The new weed killer is on the market under several trade names, all of which are effective if properly applied. Good results have been obtained with a 40% 2, 4-D solution.

Care should be taken in applying the liquid to see that it does not come in contaci with Evergreens or other shrubs. A heavy application may be harmful to the white clover in the grass mixture.

Ernest Bottem Drowned

The whole community was saddened here to hear of the drowning of Ernest Bottem, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bottom, at 2:30 P. M. Tuesday while wading in the Red Lake river at Thief River Falls.

Police and firemen dragged the river for an hour and a half before recovering the body.

Ernest was playing in the river with a group of other youths. He stepped over into a sudden dropoff and was not seen again. He has been suffering with a heart ailment and it is possible that he could have had a heart attack and died from that instead of the drowning, according to reports.

The Bottom family have been Holt residents until they recently moved to Thief River Falls and their many friends here extend sympathy.

Hughy Engstrom arrived home last Thursday after having spent six months in the veterans hospital at Minneapolis. He is now feeling fine.

Milton Hanson left on Tuesday for Fargo to take treatments at the veterans' hospital there.

When Your Back Hurts -

And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

Last Year's Slacks Offer Material for Gored Skirts

By Ertta Haley

TAKE a good last look at last year's summer slacks when you trot them out with your summer wardrobe. If there's enough good material in them, they can easily be converted into a lovely skirt fitted just for you.

The twill, serge, linen or butcher linen out of which many warm weather slacks are made is nice material for sewing. The gored skirt which is a simple basic style can easily be cut from the slacks and is simple to sew.

Your most important points to consider in making this type of skirt is smooth fitting for waist and hips. The waistband should be firm but not tight. If it is too loose, the skirt will constantly twist.

When you make the placket for the skirt, take care! It should stay closed smoothly to give an unbroken hip line. It's another of the secrets of success in making a skirt. Zippers now are available, and it is easy to make a skirt with one fitted in. Or, your slacks might even have a zipper on them that could be used to an advantage in the remodeled skirt.

If the fabric you are using is light enough, you might find the gathered skirt more attractive. Straight lengths of material are gathered, making the popular dirndly type that the younger set like so well.

Rip Slacks Apart Before Cutting.

Since you want the best fit possible in the skirt, it would be best to rip the slacks apart carefully, using razor edge (being sure not to cut the precious fabric) or a small scissors. After this is done, wash and dye the fabric, if necessary, and carefully iron out all the creases so that you have a smooth cutting surface.

The skirt is started at the waistline—if it is a gathered type, or the seams of the gores, if it is that type. After these are sewed, the skirt is fitted at the side seams. Baste these first, then try on before sewing permanently to see if the skirt fits properly.

If you have an old pair of slacks . . .

After this work comes the binding at the top and the placket. All this is best basted in before sewing permanently to assure perfect fitting throughout. Do use pins before you baste, and press the fabric whenever necessary to assure easy sewing.

When the skirt is completely finished, you are ready to do the hem. Slip the skirt on—and use the kind of shoes you will wear with it, as this will determine to a great extent how long the skirt will be.

Even Hemline Is Sign of Fitness.

When you consider the length of the skirt, do so both from the point of view of your own figure and current fashion. If a helper is not available to adjust the hem, place chalk mark on the edge of a table so that you will have a chalk line wherever the table touches you. Measure from this mark to the hem to assure you evenness all the way around. You must, of course, have a straightedged table to do this.

You can make a wearable skirt.

An automatic skirt marker is another gadget that will measure the hemline for you. The container is raised or lowered to the proper height. When you press the bulb of this gadget, it squirts chalk as you turn around.

Another way of measuring the hemline is having someone help you in taking the measurement and placing pins around the skirt. In this case a tape measure is used—or a yardstick is easier—and place pins so many inches from the floor. Before taking the skirt off, have them pin it to make certain the length is correct.

After removing the skirt, take out pins while making a basting line in their place. Before turning the hem, the edge should be finished with seam binding, with a stitched turn or with a plain turn. Once the edge is finished, the skirt can be turned at the basting. Smooth the edge over and hold in place with pins or basting. Use a small overlapping stitch to finish permanently. Press before and after stitching to insure perfect smoothness and evenness.

If you are making a circular hem on a skirt, it's wise to let the skirt hang for two days or so before trying to adjust the hem. Otherwise you might be unpleasantly surprised to find that the skirt sags in the wrong places shortly after you have sewed it.

Crinoline Days

A crinoline note of femininity creeps into the play scene in this two-piece bathing suit of crisp white celanese beach cloth and jersey shorts. The parasol ruffle is trimmed with three rows of white ric rac.

Choosing Fabrics

If you are making sport clothes or classic styles, choose the conventional fabrics with subtle weaves, dots or checks. Neutral fabrics like gray and beige are always good provided they go well with your coloring.

Printed fabrics are good for all types of useful, everyday garments. They may also be used for daytime and evening wear, made up for the latter in very simple styles.

Smooth surface fabrics demand sophisticated styles. These fabrics show up every detail of construction and should be carefully worked with.

The luxury fabrics like velvet, satin and rayon crepes are for evening wear. Sometimes they are used with a less expensive fabric and used for trimming.

Tweeds, woolens and some of the sturdy rayons and cottons are for utility use, like men's clothes. Factory workers and youngsters find good use for them, too.

Fabrics with pile like velvet, corduroy, velveteen and other rayons and woolens are used for winter wear, or as trimming.

Summer Fashion Notes

Soft elbow cuffs and the new pushed up sleeves that have the look of studied carelessness are much in the news. These are particularly noticeable on blouses.

Looking for all sorts of feminine frills on hemlines. Eyelets and lace are popular, but if you go in for more tailored things, you will want different colored contrasting bands for edging.

White shoes and slippers will help you keep well groomed and comfortable during hot, sweltering weather.

The manish style suit is taking a snub this season with more feminine styles prevailing. But look for an influence of men's suits just the same, even though the suits are aping men's fashions from the time of Cavaliers, Directoire and Restoration periods.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

WITH his work in a major role in "The Razor's Edge," the film based on the Somerset Maugham book, behind him, Herbert Marshall is all set to return to the air for the summer in "The Man Called X." Replacing the Bob Hope show last year, it climbed to fourth place in audience ratings of all programs, surpassing many year-round standbys. Returning June 18, it will be heard for 14 weeks on the Hope time Tuesday evenings. Leon Belasco will again be heard in the role of "Mr. X's" aide.

Screen tests were recently sent to Australia for a movie executive to see; bids for the services of several American actors resulted. One, offering $150 weekly salary and transportation, was for the unnamed comedian in test 19, but the deal fell through. The "comedian" who'd played an unimportant part in the Mervyn LeRoy - directed "Without Reservations" was Producer-Director LeRoy.

Richard Long, the Hollywood high school lad who made his film debut in "Tomorrow Is Forever," makes his second appearance in "The Stranger," for International, an RKO release. He'll play the young brother of Loretta Young. It's Hollywood talk that Long is considered one of the most promising juvenile actors to turn up since Lew Ayres leaped to stardom in "All Quiet on the Western Front."

For a scene with Jennifer Jones in "Duel in the Sun" the camera caught only the back of Gregory Peck's head. "No one will recognize you," somebody told him. "Yes, they will," said Peck. "Since those 'Spellbound' ads with Ingrid Bergman my neck is famous."

Maybe Peggy Cummins wasn't so wise when she agreed to come to Hollywood. First, there was the "Forever Amber" disappointment. Then she was announced for "Bob, Son of Battle"; that was canceled. The latest is that she'll play the daughter in "The Late George Apley," which seems like bad casting; the little Irish girl doesn't quite fit as the stiffly Bostonian family, even though Eleanor Apley does finally break away.

Shirley Temple's delighted because she's to be starred in David O. Selznick's forthcoming "What Every Young Bride Should Know." It's scheduled to start after she completes her starring role with Cary Grant in "The Bachelor and the Bobbysoxer."

"The Big Noise" by Fielden Farrington (Crown Publishers) neatly takes the hide off the radio business; insiders claim to recognize more than one famous character under another name. Mr. Farrington is the announcer of CBS' "The Romance of Helen Trent" and "The Armstrong Theater of Today"—that is, at present he is. Maybe after that book gets around he won't be.

Barbara Bel Geddes, the young actress who's one of the toasts of Broadway for her performance in "Deep Are the Roots," will make her screen debut in "A Time to Kill." Her RKO contract allows her to alternate between stage and screen.

"Right Down Your Alley," a really different kind of quiz program, which has contestants bowling in a regulation alley to determine the amount of their prizes (usually they're better at bowling than at answering questions), has made a ten strike. Starting as a sustainer on American Broadcasting, the program picked up a sponsor after only nine Sundays on the air.

ODDS AND ENDS—Lanny Ross' fans know that he spent three years in the army before starting his current "Lanny Ross Sings"—but few know that as a boy he served an apprenticeship as a merchant seaman. . . . During his vacation this year Ron Rawson of "Life Can Be Beautiful," will take a busman's holiday and announce the Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin state fairs. . . . "Queen for a Day" may sound like a simple program to listening audiences, but it takes the efforts of 59 staff members to get the show on the air. . . . Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour will co-star in "The Private Eye," produced by Hope Enterprises, Inc.

No More He'll Say: 'For 2 Cents I'd--'

Before William Faulkner, the author, wrote "Mirrors of Chartres Street" for The Times - Picayune, he was postmaster at University, Miss.

On his last day in that exalted position, a friend inquired:

"Bill, don't you have some kind of feeling about leaving this postoffice the last time as its lord and master."

"Yes," replied Faulkner, "probably all my life I'll be at the beck and call of somebody who's got money, but never again will I be at the beck and call of every so-and-so who's got 2 cents to buy a stamp."

Incas Knew Not Money, Wheel, Written Language

Although the Incas of Peru developed one of the world's great civilizations and maintained their empire until the middle of the 16th century, these people knew nothing of the wheel, employed no money and had no written language, passing on their history to successive generations by word of mouth, says Collier's.

Virtually all existing knowledge of the Incas was obtained in this way and recorded in books by their Spanish conquerors.

How to Avoid these "BOOBY TRAPS" IN YOUR HOME!

What you can't see CAN hurt you—says the National Safety Council

1 About 5,000,000 Americans are injured every year at home—33,500 fatally! Largest single cause: falling. To avoid shin-catching obstructions and other lethal "booby traps," carry your "Eveready" flashlight in dark areas.

2 Be sure all obstacles are cleared away. Linoleum or carpeting should be tacked down firmly. In attic or basement, pack all loose objects in noninflammable boxes stored against the walls. Don't rely on your knowledge of where obstacles are located—the next person may not have that knowledge. Moreover—

3 Know in advance where your fuse box, main water and gas valves, etc., are located; have a clear path to them. Armed with your "Eveready" flashlight, you can approach without fumbling in an emergency. Be sure loose wires are out of your way.

4 Keep your "Eveready" flashlight always in the same convenient place—so you won't be tempted to do without it because it can't be located. Keep it filled with "Eveready" batteries—they're again available at your dealer's. "Eveready" batteries are the largest-selling flashlight batteries in all the world!

A Goodwill Message

The will was not a document of profound legal verbiage; just a hand-written note from a military man going to battle quite aware that fighters don't always return from such missions. It was no hastily devised instrument. Every detail shows scholarly thought. The author knew he might be giving his life for America's future, and tossed in his possessions as part of the offering.

Not even a cynical critic of the liberty Ben Toland understood and appreciated could detect a tone of bitterness in his harmonious bequests. He met death on February 21 and it is reasonably certain that the will was written at Christmas, far beyond the horizon of merriment but in a spirit of "Good will toward men." In that holiday gift-list rings a clear note of victory and hope.

To Save Americanism

As if it were his life's last tithe, five per cent went to church and five to a Christmas charity, "The 100 Neediest Cases," sponsored by the New York Times. Toland knew the worth of learning and paid a tribute to two schools that were peculiarly his own, Yale University and St. Paul's of Concord. The will's other four beneficiaries sound a chord of pure patriotism.

Not every service man who paid his life for victory in World War II possessed this young man's grasp of public affairs, but they all wanted the same thing. They wanted to see America the land of opportunity once more. The lieutenant's will expresses all this hope and more, for Toland knew how to save America's freedom: through peace between labor and management.

Paying to Be Heard

This sober young man laid 60% of his earthly holdings on the altar of industrial peace. His mother yet lived. No doubt he had personal friends who needed funds. Just the same, his largest single hope beyond his own life-span was to retain the American system of free faith, free speech, free enterprise, popular ballot, unrestricted opportunity and equality under the law.

With 20% he asked Congress to heed the plea of many martyrs, a plea for laws in the interest of all, not just pressure groups. Another 20% calls aloud to the National Association of Manufacturers, a group of small employers such as fill more than two-thirds of America's pay envelopes. Another fifth begs a hearing by the two biggest labor groups, destined to play an important role in America's future.

JUNE 30 A BIG DATE FOR ARMY MEN!

If you have been discharged from the Army—if you held a grade and wish to retain it—if you have dependents—then act now. . . . June 30, 1946, is the last day on which you can enlist in the Regular Army and still take advantage of two important benefits . . . retention of your old grade and family allowances.

ENLIST NOW AT YOUR NEAREST U. S. ARMY RECRUITING STATION

Family allowances for your dependents will be continued throughout your enlistment only if you enter the Regular Army before July 1, 1946.

If you have been discharged from the Army and wish to re-enlist at your old grade, you must enlist within 90 days after your discharge. And before July 1, 1946. Think it over. Act now.

AS AMERICAN as . . . . Horseshoe pitching

The blacksmith shops and the carriage horses have vanished long since from the streets of Home Town, U. S. A.—but the game they started goes on and on. In the cool freshness of a summer evening, the soft thud of the ringer round the peg is as typically American as the roar of airplane motors overhead.

One is as important as the other. For the measure of mechanical genius is taken in leisure and the measure of freedom is taken in the right to enjoy the ordinary pleasures of daily living.

To every American—banker, truck driver, farmer, mechanic, office worker—a glass of beer writes a pleasant period to any hard day's work. The right to enjoy this sociable drink of moderation and good sense is part of our American heritage. It fits right into the greatest pattern of living in the world—America.

Beer belongs...enjoy it

Married Men Win Game

Due to the able base stealing of Olaf (Fleet Foot) Ness and Bill (Speed) Sorum the married men of the local Sportsmen's Club were able to beat the young single men by a score of 12 to 0 on Tuesday evening. Leo (Slugger) Horien started the hitting with a sharp single followed by Carl (Ex. Pro.) Johnson with a beautiful line drive to left field. Errors were hard to overcome for the single fellows but not the veterans (married men). Bill Sorum hadn't lost any of his form on second base since he played in the big stuff. This is the first game for some of the veterans mentioned but not the last. When these old timers have a few more games played, they'll be hard to beat so you young fellows better get those 12 hours sleep and probably a nap in the afternoon.

Louis K O.'S Conn

Joe Louis heavyweight champion of the World knocked out Billy Conn in the eight round of the championship fight on Wednesday evening.

Friends and relatives gathered at the Nazareth Lutheran church on Monday evening and gave Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lorentson a kitchen shower. A good program was given and a delicious lunch served. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lindet Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Anderson of Red Lake Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Miller of Thief River Falls.

Word was received here that Mrs. Mamie Flak Newton, former Holt resident, passed away suddenly at her home in McIntosh. Funeral services were held there Monday.

Nazareth Lutheran Church To Observe 50th Anniversary

The Nazareth Lutheran church of Holt, E. O. Urness pastor, will observe its 50th anniversary June 21-23. The first session will be Friday evening with the opening sermon by Rev. R. M. Fjelstad, Moorhead, who is president of the Northern Minnesota District of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America. There will be three sessions Saturday when the following will take part: Rev. O. O. Bjorgan, Goodridge; Rev. J. Kronlokken, Gatzke and Rev. R. M. Fjelstad and Rev. J. A. Korsaven, Middle River. The Saturday evening session will be "Luther League Night" with Rev. T. C. Hanson, Roseau, giving the address. The anniversary festive service will be given Sunday morning with Rev L. M. Redal, former pastor now at Dodgeville, Wisconsin, giving the sermon. The afternoon session will be a confirmation re-union and memorial session with Pastors J. M. Runestad, Badger and C. T. Fjelstul, St. Hilaire, speaking. The closing session Sunday evening will be "Children's Night" with Rev. G. S. Thompson, Thief River Falls as speaker. Other pastors from this area will also take part and there will be special music at all sessions. On Friday evening it is planned to dedicate an outdoor illuminated cross.

Nazareth Church has been served by the following pastors: Before organization 1898: P. H. Hillman; L. C. Evanson. Since organization in 1896: I. T. Aastad; M. Flekke; T. L. Rosholt; S. T. Palm, M. B. Ordahl; L. M. Redal; T. C. Hanson and E. O. Urness.

During the anniversary histories will be read relative to the congregation and it's organizations (Ladies Aid, Luther League, Dorcas and Men's Brotherhood) Following are on the committee: Harold Nohre, Herman Peterson, L. M. Larson and E. O. Urness.

The Weather

Light rain last Thursday and a drizzle on Friday. Cloudy and cool most of the time since. A light drizzle yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Skoglund and Roger spent last week visiting relatives at Minneapolis.

The food sale held at Gunheim store on Friday by Circle 6 was a huge success with all the baked goods being sold by 5 o'clock.

Percy Hagen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Hagen, returned home last week from the Navy where he served in the South Pacific.

Louis Sagstuen has sold his fine home here to John Harper of Greenbush who will move the house there in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Stilaf Anderson from Iowa visited their folks this week.

Rail Quiz

What are the functions of the Railroad Retirement Board?

The Railroad Retirement Board is the federal government agency charged with (1) administration of the retirement system for railroad employees under the Railroad Retirement Act, approved in 1937, and (2) administration of unemployment insurance for railway employees under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, approved in 1938.

Conserve More Wheat

Housewives, by their conservation of wheat products, have helped to send more wheat overseas than was thought possible last fall, but they musn't let up in their conservation efforts now, Marshall County emergency food program manager said today.

Even when the extreme crucial period in famine areas has passed, the effects of malnutrition, filth and disease cannot be erased rapidly. We are doing everything we can to speed the recover to normalcy in these countries, but the job is tremendous, Mr. Kranz said.

After the first World War, it took seven years for European countries to get back to their normal food producing level.

Flour and bread supplies in the next two months may be low for we cannot ship unusually large quantities overseas and consume as much as usual at home, but potatoes other vegetables may be substituted for wheat products in the home menu, he said.

These products are not being sent overseas because they are highly perishable, Mr. Kranz explained. They must be transported in frerigerated ships, and even then there is danger of spoilage, and they require extra handling.

We are a rich country. We can share our food with others, and still go on eating well, Mr. Kranz said.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lorentson left Thursday for Corvallis, Oregon where they will make their home while Howard attends University there.

The Engen Garage, one of the old land marks of Holt is now torn down to be moved to Newfolden.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Vogen left last Thursday for Long Lake, Moffit, No. Dak., where Mr. Vogen will take over the management of the Federal Wildlife Refuge. Mr. Vogen has been manager of the Mud Lake Wildlife Refuge here the past eight years. During that time he built this refuge up from a dry lake bed to one of the best duck sanctuaries in this part of the country. The Mud Lake refuge also abounds with many other species of wild game, especially some very large deer herds and many beaver. There are also thousands of muskrats being raised every year.

Kidneys Must Work Well-
For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

G.I. SIDEWALK ASSOCIATION . . . When the chamber of commerce of Port Arthur, Texas, discovered a large body of unemployed veterans idle and seeking work, it moved to not only employ them but also beautify the city. The ex-G.I.s were formed into a concrete sidewalk laying association. In two weeks a pent-up demand for walks resulted in orders being signed for over 18,000 square feet. The veterans are making up to $12 a day at standard price of 35 cents per square foot.

DOES a winning horse make a star trainer, or does the trainer make the winning horse? Does a winning baseball team make the leading manager, or does the manager make the winning baseball team? Does a winning football team make the winning coach, or does the coach make the winning football team?

Connie Mack

This ancient argument keeps popping up from time to time, but the answer is as simple as adding two and three. The material nearly always is about 80 per cent of it—often more than that. As a result coaches, trainers and managers are given far too much credit for winning results, and have to shoulder far too much blame for failures they couldn't help. They have important work to handle and their superior skill is needed at times to beat an opponent just a bit better—but they can't close the gap between class and mediocrity.

In something more than 40 seasons Connie Mack has won nine pennants. He also has had as many or more tail enders. Frank Chance won four pennants in five years with the old Cubs, but Chance couldn't get the Yankees, or Highlanders as they were known then, within V-rocket range of the first division.

The same thing applies to football coaches who are bedecked with laurel and olive when they have a big, hard-charging line and fast-moving backs but who are panned to a pulp when they can't win with a poor line and slow-moving ball carriers. Football coaches, realizing this, with the help of willing alumni have outclassed all other fields in locating promising talent and bringing the same to the campus they must guard—especially when they have enough money with which to work and the scholastic requirements are softened up. No one can blame the coaches for this action, the same being for self-protection.

As far as material vs. management goes, what manager could lift the Athletics or the Phillies out of last place? In your summary you can include Stalin, Truman and John L. Lewis. The winning answer is the material.

Best College Outfit

In the midst of the tumult and the shouting from baseball, racing, boxing and golf, there is a clear note from college sports that sings its own song. This note comes from Oklahoma A. and M. to this effect:

Dear Mr. Rice:

Please allow me to introduce myself. My name is Weldon B. Boyles of Oklahoma City. I am attending Oklahoma A. & M. for the first time under the G.I. Bill.

When I first enrolled, in January of this year, I realized that Oklahoma A. & M. was turning out a basketball team of national importance and, in view of the fact that A. & M. had a national ranking football team last fall, I began to wonder if the Aggies were not setting a new American mark in that: (1) No school, two years in a row, ever ranked so high in both of our major sports (basketball, football); (2) No school has ever accomplished the feat of winning THREE top sports in ONE school year.

Here is part of what the Aggies have done so far:

In FOOTBALL, the Aggies ranked 11th in 1944, plus a Cotton Bowl win.

In BASKETBALL, the Ags placed 1st in 1944, beating DePaul.

But look what they've done this school year of 1945-1946:

1. FOOTBALL—They ranked 2nd (tied with Alabama) and won the Sugar Bowl game.
2. BASKETBALL — They ranked 1st. Kentucky did not meet them because I don't think Adolph Rupp cared to take the chance.
3. Wrestling—they won 1st place in the NCAA tournament, beating Iowa Teachers.

Is it possible, when you compare the Aggies against some of the other schools, that you might print some of the findings in your daily column? There probably are many sports lovers in our land who would enjoy the reading of such information, although you would be laying yourself wide open to a blast of controversy from many loyal alumni of other schools.

Weldon B. Boyles.

We have no set of vital statistics at hand to clear up this point, but for the moment we can't recall another college outfit with a better all-around record against the competition of present years.

Wild Animal Habitat Group Exhibitions Prove Costly

The costliest exhibitions in the natural history museums of the United States are the large habitat groups in which wild animals are shown in a representation of their natural environment, says Collier's. In addition to the expense of hunting expeditions to obtain the skins, an incredible amount of labor and money is involved in mounting them and making the artificial scenery.

The American Museum of Natural History in New York, for example, has 71 such exhibitions, the construction of 14 in one hall having required 8,500 man-days of labor and cost about $425,000.

Skillet Chicken and Rice Is Zestful Dish

IT'S chicken every Sunday and oftener, once the family has tasted Skillet Chicken and Rice, says Marjorie Griffin, rural home editor of Capper's Farmer, a farm magazine of national circulation.

As the ingredients cook together, the rice takes on an added flavor. Served in a white fluffy mound, surrounded or topped with a tender, browned piece of chicken, this rice combination is an appetite-tempting favorite. Parsley sprigs and red paprika give it added color appeal, the Capper's Farmer expert points out.

Skillet Chicken and Rice

1 fryer	⅓ c. fat
⅓ c. flour	3 c. boiling water
1½ tsp. salt	¾ c. rice, washed
1 tsp. paprika	1 onion
⅛ tsp. pepper	parsley

Cut chicken into serving pieces; rub with mixture of flour, salt, pepper and paprika. Brown in the hot fat. When well browned, reduce heat, add boiling water and onion (or 1 clove garlic). When chicken is about one fourth done, sprinkle rice over it. Cover tightly. Cook gently until chicken is tender, rice is fluffy and tender, and water is evaporated--1 to 1½ hours. Remove onion. Serves 5 to 7 depending on size of bird.

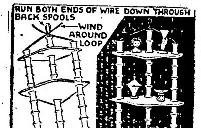
Spool Shelves for Interesting Trinkets

THESE graceful corner shelves are 10 inches wide and 7 inches deep at the bottom. Just the right size to hold the quaint match holder, the old-fashioned china doll head and other interesting trinkets that you have been treasuring. In Victorian times such shelves were strung together with cord and the spools saved from the voluminous amount of sewing done each season. Today, with spools piling up from our sewing, we make similar shelves that have all the old charm but are much more rigid and substantial.



RUN BOTH ENDS OF WIRE DOWN THROUGH BACK SPOOLS
WIND AROUND LOOP
RUN ENDS UP THROUGH SIDE SPOOLS

The spools and shelves now may be practically welded together with new easy-to-use types of glue. The wire or cord is then run through, as shown here, so that the shelves may be hung in a corner ready to hold articles of considerable weight.

* * *

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has designed an actual-size pattern for these three gracefully curved corner shelves which are graduated in size. This pattern also contains complete directions for cutting and joining these shelves as well as a pattern for another larger set of spool shelves. Ask for Pattern No. 255. Address:

He Just Had to Lean Against Something!

A convivial suburbanite who had missed his last train home noticed outside the station a neighbor, also in a rather hazy condition, leaning against a car. So he approached him and said: "Would you mind taking me home?"

"Not at all. Let's get in!" The other tactfully offered to drive.

Soon they were in their street.

"Now," said the driver, "where's your garage?"

"Don't have a garage."

"Where do you keep your car?"

"Don't have a car."

"But you were leaning against this car."

"Couldn't help myself, old boy."

Old Cotton Bathrobes Easily Made into Pajamas for Kiddies

By Ertta Haley

SINCE inexpensive cotton prints are still scarce, you are probably looking around for ways and means to convert what cottons you have into wearable clothing. There's nothing that takes up quite so much material and remains in service so short a time as pajamas for the young fry of the family.

One of the common sights around most households I know are those wornout cotton robes which you may just now be taking out with your summer clothing.

If the print on the fabric has worn or faded to such an extent as to make it look even more worn than usual, it would even be worth dyeing into a solid color. Follow your directions on the package of dye to get the best results.

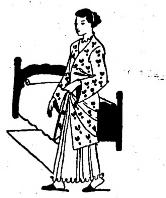
After the robe has been cleaned or dyed, and pressed flat, fit the pajama pattern to it. You may have to do some smart fitting to make it come out, but there is bound to be enough material for the project.

Pajamas may be one-piece or two-piece, depending upon the preference. The one-piece type with the slip-on top will save a lot of work because there need be no buttonholes. There are no fitting problems in making pajamas because the only requirement is that they be loose and comfortable enough for sleeping. If you are making pajamas for a tot, be sure to choose one with a drop seat.

Use Time-Saving Routine in Sewing.

Pajamas are very easy to make, especially if you use the following method in cutting and sorting. As you cut, sort out those that require sewing and pin the pieces together. Then you need not go scrambling through the lot of them when you start sewing.

In making the pants, be sure to allow a generous cut. The legs should be comfortably wide without being baggy, and the crotch must be long enough. Avoid making the pajamas too long, as they will only get wound around the legs and make for uncomfortable sleeping.

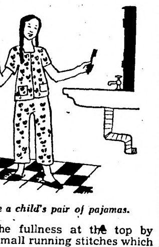


If you have a cotton bathrobe . . .

The sewing construction in the pajamas is very simple. Most edges can be finished with the pinking shears, and the seams are plain.

In sewing the legs together, the best type of seam to use is the flat fell because it is sturdy and lies flat. To make this, stitch first on the seam line from the right side. Trim away one edge to within one-eighth of an inch of the stitching. Turn the other edge flat over this, turn in the raw edge and stitch the seam from the right side.

The instructions given here apply to any type of sleeve, but particularly to the pajama sleeve, which must be fitted well to offer the greatest comfort. First place the sleeves in position, making sure the notches on the sleeve and the armhole come together at exactly the same point.



Make a child's pair of pajamas.

Adjust the fullness at the top by making small running stitches which can be pulled to make a gather for fitting the sleeve in the armhole. Adjust all the fullness between the notches. In other words, none of the gathering should fall anywhere except at the top of the sleeve—none under the arms.

Pin the sleeve in place. When pinned, hold the sleeve in your hands to make sure the lengthwise thread of the sleeve is exactly in line with the top of the pajama, not with the forward shoulder line.

Baste on the seam allowance and then try on for fit. Move the arms about, up and down, in front, etc., to make sure there is no undue strain. Stitch on the basting thread when you are sure they fit. Or, stitch outside the basting if you need a little more room.

Buttonholes, if you make this type of pajama are easily made with the machine attachment. Select your buttons first and try out a buttonhole on a piece of material so that you can get it the right size, and adjust the stitching on the buttonhole maker according to the material. Use matching colored thread for the best appearance.

Classic Sportswear

This lime green crepe with handstitching around the high neck, down the fly front and on the high pockets is worn by Donna Reed, now appearing in "They Were Expendable."

Color Selection

How carefully do you select your clothes colors? Are you swayed by the most popular colors, or do you honestly select and use only those that look best on you? Here's a guide to help you.

The color of the eyes is more important than hair color in selecting just the right shade. Those colors which are closest to your eye color will make them appear most attractive.

Since you wear your coat the most, select one with a good basic color and build your wardrobe around that. A basic color like black, brown, navy or dark green is best. You can brighten a dark colored coat with brighter dress and accessories.

When you want to appear sophisticated, combine black with the following colors; red, kelly green, chartreuse or orange. When you want to be soft and feminine, use these colors with black; pink, yellow, turquoise and lavender.

Some people look their best in dark brown rather than black, especially teen-age girls. This brown is most flattering when combined with the following colors: pale blue, turquoise, pink, chartreuse, yellow orange and green.

There are loads of colors that look well with dark green, that give pleasing variations to the wardrobe. Try some of these: yellow, luggage tan, orange, chartreuse, pink or pale green.

The texture of the fabric is very important in the color you choose. Red crepe might be very attractive but the same shade in satin would be too harsh-looking. Select color and texture at the same time for best effect.

Summer Fashion Notes

Off the face hats are youthful appearing, as are sailor models. If you prefer, however, the garden party variety, can be just as chic as any other.

Boxy jackets are favored for summertime wear. You can wear a box jacket over sports dresses, afternoon dresses and even evening gowns. Choose white or one of the soft pastel shades.

Halter necklines with wide straps at the back are popular, as are sports dresses with a deep, off-the-shoulder top.

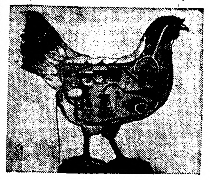
Sunback dresses which come and go have come into style again. Many of these have the straps done in a pinafore effect at the back to permit plenty of vitamin D rays from the sun to cover back and shoulders.

Farm Topics

Production of Hens Can Be Controlled

All Factors Must Be Operated Efficiently

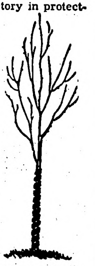
The hen has long shared honors with the cow as being the world's most efficient machine. This model of the mechanics of the hen will give some idea of the egg factory.



When eggs are laid on consecutive days, the yolk of one egg is discharged from the ovary about 30 minutes after the laying of the previous eggs.

Hens must be bred with the internal capacity to produce eggs if they are to be profitable. But the best bred hen in the world will not be profitable unless well housed, well fed and well treated. No other farm animal will respond as rapidly to proper—or unproper—management. In order that eggs complete the cycle every 24 hours, all working parts of the hen must be properly functioning. This takes a well-balanced ration along with ideal conditions.

Protect Farm Trees

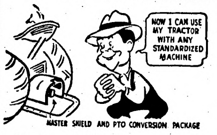


There are several methods that have proven satisfactory in protecting young trees against rabbits and other animals. Tar paper may be wrapped around the tree, or chicken wire may be stretched to circle the tree.

An effective guard may be made from discarded garden hose, which may then be wrapped around the young trees. This guard may be used year after year, requires no fastening as the hose will always retain its cylindrical shape.

The use of paper is not generally recommended as it will not last long and some animals will find little difficulty in chewing through the tar paper.

Improved Safer Hitch For Power Machines



NOW I CAN USE MY TRACTOR WITH ANY STANDARDIZED MACHINE
MASTER SHIELD AND PTO CONVERSION PACKAGE

If a farmer purchases a new tractor or standardizes the power take-off of his old tractor with conversion packages, furnished by all manufacturers of farm implements, greater convenience, economy and safety will result. These A.S.A.E. hook-ups are available at all dealers for any make of tractor.

Rabbits Prove Big Forage Consumers

Young jack rabbits consume some dry feed as early as five days after birth, according to Arizona station studies. Following weaning, at three weeks of age a rabbit consumes an average daily ration equal to 2 to 4 per cent of its body weight. From 5 to 14 weeks of age, the food consumption averages 6 per cent of the light weight of the animal.

They reach their maximum food consumption between 14 and 26 weeks of age. On this basis, it would not take many rabbits to clean up an acre of growing crops.

Harvesting Asparagus By Improved Method

In the past asparagus spears were cut by using specially designed knives. The spear was cut from ½ to 1½ inches below the surface. Specialists at Michigan State college say that this is all wrong. By holding the new growth of asparagus just below the tips between the thumb and finger it can be broken off down to the tough part. Grower will get a premium for asparagus so harvested.

'Punch Drunk'

A peculiarity of "punch-drunkenness," an incurable occupational disease of pugilists, is that its victims rarely know they are suffering from it, says Collier's. The condition produces deterioration in mental and physical ability, and its symptoms are inattention, a glassy expression and a dragging gait.

It results not from one or a dozen serious head blows, but from the cumulative effect of hundreds, and manifests itself in about 75 per cent of boxers after they have fought from 60 to 100 bouts.

DAIRYMEN BECOME SALESMEN!

Direct Selling Inaugurated by Land O'Lakes

Before Land O'Lakes, individual dairy farmers and dairy plants had no voice in management and no control over pricing. Too frequently they became the victims of ruinous market manipulations.

Setting up its own sales department in 1923, Land O'Lakes embarked upon an ambitious program of selling direct to retailers. Warehousing, refrigerating and truck delivery facilities came next. All these served to give the producer more control over more movements of his products.

That the plan was sound is shown by the steady growth of Land O'Lakes sales through the years.

Twenty-five years of Land O'Lakes pioneering has achieved greater efficiency and economy, better returns and more market stability for its members. Today, thousands of retail stores are selling millions of dollars worth of Land O'Lakes products annually. Why not investigate all the advantages of marketing through Land O'Lakes?

Marshall County Fair July 11-13

With crop prospects receiving a tremendous boost following the rain Marshall County Fair Board directors predicted record crowds would be on hand for the 40th Annual Fair in Warren on July 11, 12 and 13, when they held a busy board meeting Monday night.

Fairground buidings are being completely renovated under the supervision of Andy Anderson, grounds superintendent.

When auto race fans witness the National Championship Race meet on the last day of the fair, they will see the races on a dust free track. The directors voted to purchase calcium chloride to keep the dust down on the track mainly in front of the grandstand which will add greatly to the pleasure of the spectators.

The final distribution of premium lists for the fair is being completed in the county newspapers this week. The distribution is being made through the cooperation of the newspapers of the county and the businessmen of the county. Through this means, premium lists will be available to practically every family in the county.

(Thru an error you will find the Holt businessmen listed under the large heading of Middle River.)

4-H Clubs are busy preparing their projects for display at the Fair.

The grandstand programs will bring some of the nation's top flight attractions, including the All-American Thrill Drivers for an afternoon performance on July 12 and National Championship Auto Race on Saturday afternoon. The big "Mirth of Freedom" show, featuring more than a dozen top flight circus and vaudeville acts is the highest priced evening show brought to the Marshall County Fair.

Nazareth Lutheran Church Observed 50th Anniversary

A milestone in the history of the Nazareth Lutheran church of Holt, E. O. Urness pastor, was passed when the golden anniversary waa fittingly observed in three days of festivities.

The opening service was Friday evening with Rev. R. M. Fjelstad, Moorhead, who is president of the Northern Minnesota District of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, giving the sermon. At that service there was also a touching ceremony dedicating the illuminated cross.

Saturday morning session opened with Norwegian services, Rev. Bjorgan of Goodridge giving the sermon. At 11 o'clock Rev. J. Kronlokken of Gatzke gave the keynote sermon. Saturday afternoon Ladies Aid Day, the following spoke: Rev. J. A. Korshavn, Middle River, Rev. Thompson of Viking, Mrs. Carl Dahl of Badger, who is Circuit president of W. M. F., and Rev. Fjelstad A skit of a pioneer Ladies Aid was given at that session. Saturday evening was Luther League Night with Rev. T. C. Hanson, Roseau, giving the address. Rev. Ernest Raaum of Newfolden, pastor of the Free Lutheran church there, who livde in Holt when he was a boy, also spoke.

At 8:30 Sunday morning Rev. Urness held services for the local Boy Scouts. The Anniversary festive service was given at 10:30 Rev L. M. Redal, former pastor now at Dodgeville, Wisconsin, giving the sermon. The afternoon session was a confirmation re-union and memorial session with Pastors J. M. Runestad, Badger and C. T. Fjelstul, St. Hilaire, and Rev. H. L. Urness, Calgary, Alberta, speaking. A very impressive memorial service was held in memory of the members who had passed away the past 50 years. White carnations were placed on the altar and 50 candles were lighted. An In Memoriam certificate was was provided for by the Ladies Aid.

Sunday evening was Children's Night with Rev. G. S. Thompson, Thief River Falls as speaker There was special singing at all the sessions. The Junior and Senior choirs sang and these was also several solos, duets and trios.

Greetings were read from many former Holt residents including one from Mrs. M. B. Ordahl and family.

Outstanding guest at all the sessions was Rev. H. L. Urness, Calgary, Alberta, father of Rev. E. O. Urness.

Rev. E. O. Urness conducted the meetings and had charge of pre-arrangements.

Nazareth Church has been served by the following pastors: Before organization 1893. P. T. Hillman; L. C. Evanson. Since organization in 1896: I. T. Aastad; M. Flekke; T. L. Rosholt; S. T. Palm, M. B. Ordahl; L. M. Redal; T. C. Hanson and E. O. Urness.

French Dampen Nazi Hopes For Rebirth as Red Check

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

Baukhage

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

The ghost of Adolph Hitler, reported to have been executing a little clog dance of joy on Europe's political rubble heap, like the one he performed after signing the armistice of defeated France, is probably not quite so cheerful today.

His prediction of chaos or communism in Europe, a wishful "apres mois le deluge," hit a setback for the second time when the sturdy, middle-of-the-road Frenchman got behind the middle-of-the-road Republican Catholic party, and defeated the Communists, just as an earlier vote killed the constitution which the Reds wanted.

Because Hitler knew his greatest hope for a Nazi rebirth was a Communistic Germany, his spirit probably rejoiced when the iron curtain went down on Germany's eastern frontiers, and one of Russia's border countries after another were bulldozed into one-party, leftist-front rule.

With France turned Communist, Germany would be an island in a red sea, and would soon have to take on protective coloring, it was assumed. The next step, according to Hitler's hope, was the reaction to Nazism.

Now, for the first time since V-E Day, France seems to have shaken off her carmine shackles. Before the recent election, some quarters were predicting that if the French middle class and peasants could not get rid of the left-wing domination with ballots, they would try it with bullets. The left-wingers themselves were warning of a reactionary revolution, and as late as the spring of this year dire warnings were being sounded.

Donald B. Robinson, former civil affairs officer in France, wrote in the April Mercury magazine that: "In no nation of northwestern Europe are there such distrust and loathing between classes and groups as in France today. The bitter dissention which has driven General de Gaulle into retirement, and constantly threatens the precarious equilibrium maintained by the left coalition, is rooted in implacable hate between the moderates, centrists and rightists on the one hand and the Communists on the other. . . . "

This situation complicated the Allies' problems in regard to Germany. However, with France now staggering to her feet, there is a chance for more harmony among the western Allies, and it is possible that Germany, with proper controls and minus a huge slice of the rich mineral land of the Saar in French hands, may have her three zones sufficiently united to begin to support herself; to start to pay some of her bills with the consumer goods that her neighbor nations want from her, and can't get anywhere else.

The results of the French elections are particularly gratifying from the standpoint of the western Allies because they appear to have established a degree of harmony among the more conservative French elements without revealing a reactionary trend.

MRP Seeks Unity Against Class War

The triumphant Popular Republican movement (MRP) had a platform which, according to French authorities, went beyond the political field to take a moral stand. The platform stressed the need for reenforcing unity among the newcomers (the right wing elements of the Socialist party made up of members of the old resistance), and all those opposing the efforts (by the Communists) to incite class hatred.

At the same time, the MRP disavowed all connection with the Radical Socialists, who, despite their name, are considered too conservative by many members of the resistance who formerly had joined in a common front with the Communists.

The election results may mean a change in Russian policy, for in spite of themselves, the western Allies have been forced to take unified action if any action at all was to be taken. It is possible that Russia was merely stalling, hoping to establish her influence in Europe, including France. Now that this strategy has failed in regard to France, she may be more cooperative. Either that . . . or resign herself to taking an Allied western bloc and liking it.

Lobbyists Fill 14 Columns

The lobby barometer of the present congress has run up a pressure record this session which is probably an all-time high. Never in the history of the capital have there been more pressure groups operating, as the listings under "associations" in the classified section of the Washington telephone directory testify.

The "associations" fill 14 columns and very few are not interested in some kind of legislation, pending or prospective, and interested enough to have an office in the capital or at least a telephone number. There are a lot more with offices under the hats of their representatives, which prefer to remain anonymous to the public.

Alphabetically speaking, the American Automobile association leads the list, and the Zionists and George Zook conclude it.

One newcomer has nudged itself right up to second place—the Amvets, one of the 26 veterans organizations listed, including the American Legion and the Buck Privates association as examples of the old and the new.

Alcoholics Anonymous appear, not so anonymous this time. There is the Association of University Professors, and right next door, the University Women, which makes it congenial. There are bakers, bankers, members of the bar, and (no relation) bottlers of carbonated beverages.

The "antis" are present—four of them: Anti-Cigarette alliance; Anti-Defamation league; Anti-Poll Tax committee; and, of course, the Anti-Saloon league, to balance the Liquor dealers and the Distillers institute further on down the page.

Certain happier combinations suggest themselves. Take the National Caterers and Sandwich Makers association and the Mayonnaise and Salad Dressing manufacturers who together symbolize a fine old American institution.

There is specialization in lobbying, too. Don't think the National Association of Ornamental Nonferrous Metals manufacturers lets the National Association of Ornamental Metal manufacturers tend to their special needs.

And when it comes to boxes, you cannot put them all in one pile either. The weatherproof, corrugated variety, the weatherpoof fiber containers and the plain fiber boxers, each hoe their own row, not to mention (though you had better, if you are a congressman, unless you want to fill one of their products) the ordinary National Wooden Box association.

NEWS REVIEW

Park Visitors Greater Than Officials Expected

U. S. PARKS: Visitors Increase

Americans are going to take vacations this year in such numbers that the national park service may have to revise its 1946 travel estimate upward, Director Newton B. Drury of Chicago observes. In March this year, 1,269,064 persons visited national parks and monuments, as compared with 664,442 in March, 1941. In April, park visitors were more than double a year ago.

Statistics for the first seven months indicate that the early estimate of 25,000,000 visitors this year may be entirely too low, although it is 4,000,000 above the record-breaking season of 1941. The park season is figured from October to October.

FLOUR MILLS: Grinding Slowly

Flour mills in the U. S., except those in the Southwest, will not be able to grind their normal or full amount during the month of June, due to the scarcity of wheat supplies, the Millers' National federation has declared.

Many mills in the Kansas City area are closed down, and soft wheat grinds on the Pacific coast and in the Middle West are as much as 50 per cent below normal. Texas and Oklahoma mills, located in the heart of the new crop, are operating about 75 per cent total capacity.

AUTOS: For Disabled

The Chevrolet division, General Motors, has reported that special driving equipment for physically disabled persons soon will be available in all models. This will include installation of vacuum-controlled, hand - operated brakes, clutches, throttles, starters and dimming switches which will make operation possible without the use of feet.

None of the usual foot-driving equipment will be removed, however, allowing operation in the normal manner. Other manufacturers have similar projects on the way.

APPLES: Higher Prices

In Washington, the OPA has allowed new maximum prices for apples from the beginning of the 1946 season through October 31 to allow for increased production and packing costs. The order was made effective June 12.

SPRING WIRE: Holds Up Autos

Why can't you get that new car? The National Automobile Dealers' association lists a number of reasons, including coil springs. Worst of material shortages is hard-drawn high-carbon spring wire used in the construction of upholstered seat cushions and backs. It was this shortage which caused several plants to curtail production for several days.

Many of the limited number of passenger cars now being delivered are coming off assembly lines without bumpers. Auto manufacturers estimate they will not reach normal production volume until the end of 1946.

OATS CROP: Loan Program

The department of agriculture has announced that the 1946 crop oats loan program will have an average national loan rate of 53 cents a bushel, reflecting 75 per cent parity as of February 15, similar to the 1945 program.

Only oats grading No. 3 or better will be eligible. Grain grading weevily, smutty, ergotty, garlicky, or containing more than 14.5 moisture is excluded.

AVOID ACCIDENTS

Farm Safety Week July 21 to 27

By EDWARD EMERINE
WNU Features

Annual "Farm Safety Week" will be observed this year during the week of July 21 to July 27, the National Safety council has announced. And to me it seems like one of the best ideas yet advanced and one that should be stressed in every rural community.

It was my mother who used to say: "Be careful, son." Sometimes I thought she stressed her warning too often. But maybe she didn't, for I lived 20 safe and sound years on a Colorado ranch without an accident. Other lads were not so fortunate.

There was a neighbor who lost his hand in a threshing machine. A cousin of mine had his foot mangled by a mower. There were broken arms and legs from falling off windmills and barns. A warm, personal friend was crushed by a tractor. I realize now that farming and ranching are two pretty dangerous occupations. There may not be so many accidents because of runaway horses as there used to be, but almost every machine on a farm can cripple—or kill.

No Doctors Close to Farms.

I remember one hunting accident on a neighbor's farm. A young man was badly shot. His life might have been saved had a doctor been available. That's one of the dangers of farm accidents—doctors are always in a town, often many miles away.

Farm Safety Week is a worthwhile movement which is gaining impetus each year. Governors of many of the big farming states issue timely proclamations calling attention to it. Farm implement manufacturers and dealers feature posters and displays, and in some places safety demonstrations are held.

As everyone who lives, or has ever lived, in a farming community knows, farm accidents—though apparently rare — happen entirely too often. Most new machinery has safety devices which should be used. Proper clothing is more and more important in mechanized farming.

Urge farm safety, not only during Farm Safety Week, July 21 to July 27, but every day of the year.

Fishermen's Luck

JASPER, MO.—Fishermen's luck as shown by the cartoonists actually happened here. Two local residents, Roy R. Boucher and Clarence E. Brown, went on a fishing trip to Grand Lake, Okla., where they spent a full day fishing and returned with one tiny fish each.

Mrs. Eli W. Scott, a neighbor woman, met them, displaying two large catfish which she had caught in a small creek on Boucher's property, not more than 100 feet from his house!

The Auto Telephone

Telephone service to and from your auto is now a reality, and the A. T. & T. announces its first subscriber. This marks the end of the motor car as a pleasure vehicle.

A St. Louis man has the first autophone. He can pick up the receiver in his machine and reach 27,000,000 telephone outlets of the A. T. & T. "Ring me up sometime when I'm NOT home" is no longer a gag.

Routine cracks will presently be, "I tried to get you on the phone but your limousine was busy," and "Central, call that beachwagon again. I know he's in it."

You can get a phone in your bus for $15 a month. This gives you a phone number, a book and the right to get a wrong number while going around curves at high speed.

It is going to make the life of a driver more confusing than ever. Up to now he has only had to watch the road, observe the stop lights, listen to the radio and make conversation with the backseat driver. From now on he will have to remember names, look up phone numbers, keep the phone book handy and argue with the complaint operator as well.

Be ready for these answers any day now:

"The taxi you called has hung up."

"The beachwagon has been temporarily disconnected."

"Are you sure you are calling the right flivver?"

"I had that sedan on the phone a minute ago but it went into a ditch."

The outlook is depressing. It was bad enough to have the kids in the back seat taking the hardware off the doors, disconnecting the ceiling lights and playing handball with a hotdog and a mustard pot without having them trying to get playmates on the telephone 2,500 miles away.

One of the great benefactions of the auto was that it gave man a chance to get away from it all. Must he now be practically in a phone booth when he is bounding over the wide-open spaces?

Listen, central, if anybody asks for our car, say we communicate by smoke signals only.

Orson's Worst Night

In all his experiences with "Around the World" (or "Welles-A-Poppin',") Mr. Welles will not soon forget his most terrible night in the theater, which must have been at the try-out of this play in New Haven. Everything went wrong. The movies in the introductory episode, the key to the whole story, would not focus and after five minutes of confusion Orson came out and was beginning to explain that it would be necessary to forget them when suddenly they began screening clearly. The moment Mr. Welles bowed off, the screen went white again. This time Orson, maintaining amazing poise and good humor, came out and made the curtain speech of the year. "We don't know any more what the trouble is than you do," he said. "But my mother always told me this would happen to me someday."

An Allegory

In the midst of a forest there was a shrewd mouse-trap manufacturer who turned out a dependable item. His was a home industry. Son Joe worked hard for long hours making steel springs by hand. Mother kept the books and wrote the letters. Dad did the assembly work and finishing. There were no sales problems. Customers already had beaten a path to his door—and formed a waiting line.

But there was beefing in the line. Deliveries were slow and service was bad. Finally one day, in a stack of third-class mail, Mom found an advertisement for spring-winding machines. It was very timely because Joe's work-bench was the bottle-neck. Nobody else could make springs and he was always rushed to keep up with Dad. So Dad bought Joe a spring-winding machine.

Industrial Unrest

Turning out a better trap than ever, and a lot more per day, business was fine. Prosperity came. Dad was flush, declared Saturday afternoons off, and raised pay all the way around. About the time the general good feeling was at its height, Joe married a cute little communistic viewpoint. Then it was that the rodent extermination industry started to undergo complete reorganization.

The little c.v. convinced Joe that he ought to have a half interest in the business, and there wasn't much Dad could do about it. After the 50-50 partnership was formed, the c.v. started telling Mom off right regularly, making quips about faked accounts, and gifts from buyers, to shock the F.T.C. Mom had to keep books with the c.v. looking over her shoulder, eating an apple.

Industrial Strife

At length the junior partner made bold to demand a spot on the payroll for the c.v., at Mom's pay, with authority to watch Mom and keep her honest. That was the day the spring - winding machine broke down. Repairing it seemed quite useless to Dad, what with a shop full of headaches, padded payrolls, no profits, and all departments working at cross purposes. He'd just quit!

Retiring from active duty (but retaining an interest) Dad pulled out and took Mom on a fishing trip. New people had to be hired at top scale to operate the finishing department and run the office. Joe missed a few payments on the new spring-winding machine he'd bought on credit after junking the old one. Now nobody but little c.v. could think up a way out of the dilemma.

Such a Brilliance

Here was the solution c.v. worked out: Raise wages again, all along the line, and boost the price of traps. Even Joe favored it, and he was general manager now. It was done. The very next buyer showed an unpleasant reaction. Word drifted back along the line of buyers which melted down to a third of its average length. Joe ran after the customers but didn't catch many.

That was Friday. Early Monday morning a man of few words came in a truck with some unpaid installment notes. He took the spring-winding machine away, leaving the whole crew wondering where to go to look for a job. Some say the machine was offered to Dad, cheap, but he was not interested. By this time, old crafty Dad was busy with research on an odorless electronic, destined, in due time, to put mouse-traps off the market entirely.

Merchandise

Warnings against inflation are beginning to reach us country people with increasing force and frequency. Nearly all the experts who comment on it say we have inflation already but it can get much worse. Accurate definitions of inflation are rather complicated. In fact, some of the definitions are harder to understand than the condition itself, such as we all can see by looking around.

When just about everybody has spending money in their pockets because they can't find enough of the things they want to buy, that is where inflation begins. The results are quite natural. Automatically people start bidding against each other for what items they do find, and prices advance far beyond real values. Then, no matter what we buy, we are squandering money.

Regulation Prices.

What we need to cure inflation is plain to see: more things to buy. That's all it takes. If I need a hat and can find only one that fits my head and suits my taste, the dealer can (unless restrained by law) charge me whatever he wishes. I may rebel at the price but somebody else will pay it and the merchant will not need to worry about me. What will set the matter straight? More hats!

When hats are offered by every haberdasher in town, some competitor is certain to lower his prices to increase sales. Another will try to outdo him, and this competition continues until falling prices get too near cost to go cheaper. It is that simple. Goods are the scare-crows that frighten away inflation. Whatever interferes with the production of merchandise only makes inflation worse.

Artificial Feeding

Inflation is like hunger. It is a want that has the full force of a need. Hunger includes a craving that throws a person's sense of values completely out of plumb. Food is the only satisfactory answer to the hunger question and, just so, goods are the only sound solution to inflation. There are trick ways to hold prices down, when goods have to be scarce, but they are only temporary help.

Once in a while somebody has a strange ailment that makes eating impossible, or very dangerous. Physicians deny such a patient food while they try to adjust the malady. Sometimes they use drugs to make the patient sleep and forget his craving; sometimes they flow energizing liquids into the blood-stream, but it is no diet. Nobody can live on it; it only makes starvation slower.

War Is a Malady

During the war, people in America were rightly denied goods; there were not enough workmen; not enough factories, not enough materials to supply the nation's defenders, our men and their allies. Consumer goods were scarce and a lot of people had extra money. All prices would have skyrocketed but government restrained it by law. It was an emergency—drastic remedy; no complaint.

Price controls did not contribute anything permanent to this country's economic strength, however. They simply eased the shock for civilians who had to undergo economic surgery or perish of dictatorship. Now the ordeal is over and the patient is wholesomely hungry for merchandise. Every regulation that now retards production should be removed or relaxed in the public interest.

Rail Quiz

In view of heavy military movements, how did Great Northern passenger traffic in 1945 compare with that in earlier years?

Passenger traffic in 1945 was the heaviest in Great Northern history, with 1944 a close second.

YOUNG BRAZILIAN LIKES THE U.S. WAY OF LIFE

Francisco Oswald, handsome young Brazilian lawyer, who has just completed a year studying personnel and manufacturing methods at Western Electric Company under a scholarship established by the Inter-American Affairs Committee, has sampled many phases of American life and has found practically everything to his liking. He is impressed most of all by our war production. "What you have done and the speed and skill with which you do it knocks me down.

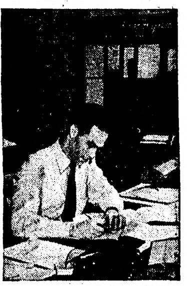
"I am also amazed by your educational system. I never expected to find so many well educated people in the plants and on the street. Everybody here can get a good education. In Brazil our colleges and universities are good. Our high schools in the big cities are good also, but in the country—no. It is the lack of transportation. You cannot have good schools in the country if you cannot get to the schools. It is too bad."

Francisco developed a great enthusiasm for our sports and food—he has gained fifteen pounds so far—and for our girls, who ask him first thing if he can dance the Samba, and he even learned to prefer our cigarettes and coffee to Brazilian brands.

In speaking of Brazilian-United States relations, Francisco says, "In my enthusiasm for the United States, I am typical of my generation. It is the dream of every Brazilian boy to visit North America some day. We read so much about it in our books and magazines and of course your movies have great influence."

Francisco during his stay here has become especially interested in safety, training and other personnel work. When he finishes his study here one year from now, he hopes to work for a North American company in Brazil.

"There is a big job to be done there. Brazil has done a lot in industrial relations but on a much smaller scale. I am filled with new ideas and I want to try them with my own people. It will be very interesting."



Young Brazilian Likes Our Ways—Here he's shown editing copy for "Kearnygram," official newspaper of Western Electric's Kearny, N. J., Plant.

Household Hints

To remove a fishy smell from dishes, soak them in salt water before washing them.

There is more carotene in carrots that are in their prime than in young or old carrots.

A lump of glossy starch rubbed over the grease spot on the wallpaper will absorb the grease.

Men's shirt collars will fray less if turned up before being laundered.

To lengthen a hemless dress, get one-fourth-inch colored braid and sew in slightly overlapping rows to the narrow bottom seam.

Machine stitch around buttonholes twice before working them by hand in children's underwear and nightclothes. Buttonholes will last longer and children will be more likely to handle their opening and closing themselves.

RE-ELECT
V. F. KRUTA

COUNTY COMMISSIONER
5th Dist. Marshall County

TO THE VOTERS...

In about a couple of weeks. you will go to the polls to elect the officials to operate your government. These officials will range all the way from United States Senator to county officials.

As a candidate for re-election as commissioner, I solicit the vote of every citizen in the Fifth District. As your commissioner for the past three and a half years, it has been my duty and trust to fulfill that office to the best of my ability. I have done everything possible to work for the best of this section, such as holding down real and property taxes, getting blading machines in all sections of the district so your roads would be in better shape, and I have worked at all times for a fair distribution of work throughout the county.

When I assumed office, there were deficits in the welfare, road and bridge, and sanatarium funds. These funds have now good balances. County debts have been substantially reduced.

Before you go to the polls, I ask that you review my record and when you have, I feel confident that you will realize that I have consistently worked hard for the best interests of the district.

Your vote, support and influence is solicited and appreciated.

(Signed)
V. F. Kruta.
Co. Commissioner, 5th Dist.
Marshall County.

King Customer

Catering to the customer has been America's most profitable and highly diversified craft for several generations, and it must never stop if this country is to stay great and free. Catering to the customer is an honorable and interesting activity, and there is nothing to stop it but man-made laws. May they never be enacted! Certainly 1946 is no time to experiment with silly ideas.

Take the automotive industry for an example. It is probably the best example. Automobile men have gone to great lengths to please the American buyer. His wish for speed has been served, seasoned with safety. His need as to seating capacity, his taste in design, his whim in color, and (most important) his buying power, have been taken into account. Result: A car for a king.

Primitive Notions

Perhaps the first time a car manufacturer decided suddenly to rip the insides out of his plant and put in new machinery to give King Customer a better dollar's worth, the stockholders winced. Maybe, in that long-gone day, stockholders considered such expenses wasteful, but they learned better. Catering to the customer is exactly what makes dividends grow bigger each year.

We may imagine also that, back in the early days of the horseless carriage, some factory workers worried about their jobs for a while after lower prices were announced. Probably some good workmen asked, "How long can the big boss keep paying us after he starts giving his profits to the consumer?" These doubters are wiser now too, same as the old-style stockholders.

Imitating Nobody

Yearly better machines, more handsome and less costly, have built big industries and created thousands of good jobs. Wage earners and stockholders prospered together while shrewd management studied King Customer's needs and met them. When the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor the United States had one automobile for every four people —one for each 139 people in the rest of the world.

American manufacturers know the route that leads to national prosperity. Just the same, they are being urged to turn aside and try a course completely strange to western industry. It's an old jungle road that has lost many great races in poverty. It means business servile to power. It means opening private records to be thumbed at will by partisan fact-finding committees.

Looking for What?

Such a committee will be concerned with wages — only with wages. It will have small interest in prices of cars to the user; less in returns to investors. Its job will be to say what wages an employer is able to pay. Rightly, wages are determined by a workman's ability to produce. The new concept seems to be that an employer's savings have a bearing on wage levels.

Such a scheme would ear-mark for wages all but a paltry share of a firm's earnings and investors would turn away. Down would come cash reserves, plant equipment and output. Quality would suffer, prices would advance and sales drop off. Paying men, not by what they produce but according to the employer's ability to pay, is the surest (if not the fastest) way to hopelessly low wages and a dog's life for us all.

Marshall County Fair July 11-13

Marshall County's 40th Annual Fair will be on at Warren on July 11, 12 and 13, (Thursday, Friday and Satuaday), when a great array of grandstand attractions plus extensive exhibits of farm, home, business and organizations will be shown to the bublic in a tremendous Victory celebration.

The grandstand programs will bring some of the nation's top flight attractions, including the All-American Thrill Drivers for an afternoon performance on July 12 and National Championship Auto Race on Saturday afternoon. The big "Mirth of Freedom" show, featuring more than a dozen top flight circus and vaudeville acts is the highest priced evening show brought to the Marshall County Fair.

The track wil be treated for dust and will add to the comfort of the spectators.

A $400.00 Fireworks program will also be displayed at the Friday night's program as a special attraction.

A combined Marshall County Band with 50 or more talented musicians from several county towns will play at all programs during the Fair.

Marshall County 4-H clubs will take a prominent part in activities at the Fair and will exhibit numerous projects and club booths. The 4-H style Queen Revue will take place before the Grandstand Friday evening. Marshall county's rural shools will also have an exceptionally fine exhibit this year in their own building.

Midway will have eight big thrill rides, eight clean and moral shows and 40 concessions.

Dancing on the Fairgrounds each night.

No expense has been spared to make 1946 Victory Marshall County Fair the finest in history and we cordially invite the residents of Holt and the entire area to attend one or more days," said W. R. Holbrpok, secretary. "You can be assured of seeing outstanding programs, fine exhibits and receiving a friendly welcome at the big Marshall County Fair."

Victor Johnson and son Roy who are operating a drag line near McIntosh, were home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Peterson left Tuesday for a few days vacation in the lake region.

Mrs. G. Sanoden and Russell were called to Crookston on Wednesday to be at the bedside of her mother who had a very serious surgical operation.

Larson-Hanson Wedding

At a candlelight ceremony at the Nazareth Lutheran church Friday evening, June 28, Miss Ethel Marie Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Larson, became the bride of Ernest Hanson son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hanson of Thief River Falls, Rev. E. O. Urness officiating at a double ring ceremony.

Miss Ruby Palm, a close friend of the bride and Melvin Larson, brother of the bride, were their attendants.

Miss Grace Urness played a fifteen minute program of organ music preceding the ceremony, and the wedding march as the bridal party proceeded to the altar. While the couple was kneeling Miss Joyce Peterson cousin of the bride sang the Hymn "Oh Perfect Love".

The bride wore a white suit with white accessories and a corsage of red talisman roses and baby asters. Her string of white pearls was a gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid wore a blue suit with white accessories. She wore a corsage of pale pink talisman roses and baby asters. Her jewelry, a gold cross, was a gift of the bride. The groom and best man wore boutonniers of white carnations. Marlan Augustine, brother-in-law of the bride was usher.

The bride's mother wore a pale blue crepe dress with black accessories. Mrs. Hanson wore a maroon suit with black accessories. Their corsages were white gardenias.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in the church parlors for 70 relatives and friends. The parlors were beautifully decorated with blue and white streamers and white peonies. Delores Larson and Verna Peterson, cousins of the bride, were waitresses. Adeline Mattson a close friend of the bride, poured. Centering the beautifully decorated bridal table was a wedding cake.

The bride, a graduate of the Lincoln high school and Teachers Training at Thief River Falls, has taught the past three years.

The groom served four years in the army, three of which was spent overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson will make their home in Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony entertained at a Romme Grot supper Tuesday evening, their 25th wedding anniversary, the following: Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness and family Mr. and Mrs. Herman Peterson and Vi, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Johnson, Mrs. O. B. Johnson, Murnett Johnson and Verna Peter-Peterson.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

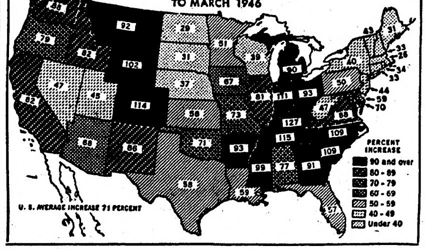
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Heavy Farm Debt Retirement Near End; Latin America Hikes Famine Aid; Russ Want Atom Veto

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



FARM DEBT:
Decline Slows

Smaller declines in mortgage reduction within the last year and an increase in the number of states showing larger indebtedness suggest that the period of heavy retirement of farm debt since 1923 may be ended, the department of agriculture reported.

Despite signs of increasing indebtedness, however, the record for the war years shows an overall cut of 1½ billion dollars in debt in sharp contrast to the 43 per cent rise during the 1915-19 period. As of the first of this year, total indebtedness stood at 5 billion dollars, half of the 1923 figure of 10½ billion.

Slowing of debt reduction was reflected in the 100 per cent drop in repayments last year in comparison with 1944. At the same time, 20 states showed increases in indebtedness in contrast to 8 the preceding year. Higher acreage values as of March, 1945, over the 1935-39 period ranged from 115 per cent for Tennessee to 26 per cent for Massachusetts.

FAMINE AID:
South America Helps

Winding up a 15,000-mile food survey in South America, former President Herbert Hoover reported that as a result of increasing their exports and cutting down on their own imports, our good neighbors will increase the available supply of foodstuffs for a hungry world by 800,000 tons.

In reporting on his South American swing as chairman of President Truman's famine committee, Hoover warmly praised the relief efforts of Juan Peron's Argentine government. Despite a partial crop failure, Argentina will supply 90 per cent of South American grain shipments during the next four months, with exports expected to rise to 750,000 tons monthly following emergency measures.

As aids to overseas relief, Colombia, Venezuela, Chile, Peru and Uruguay agreed to slash their cereal and fats imports to a minimum during the next few critical months, Hoover said. Mexico, Ecuador, Chile, Peru and Uruguay will hike their shipments of beans, rice, meat, fats and sugar. In all, the Latin Americans agreed to increase exports approximately 450,000 tons and decrease their own imports 380,000.

UNRRA Aid

In asking congress to appropriate the remaining 465 million dollars of the 2¾ billions it authorized for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration, President Truman disclosed that the U. S. accounted for 71.7 per cent of the tonnage already distributed by the UNRRA and 65.8 per cent of its value.

Pointing out the need for additional relief, Mr. Truman declared that many of the countries receiving UNRRA aid have only a few weeks stocks of food remaining. In some countries minimum rations may not even be met for people who have been living on the borderline of starvation.

With 7 million of 27 million people in Hunan province alone facing starvation, famine conditions are worse in China, the President said. Because of poor crops in the Hunan rice bowl, men, women and children are eating grass, roots, dry bark and even clay. The situation is further aggravated by the lack of adequate transport facilities to distribute available supplies.

RUBBER:
Boost Price

Taking cognizance of the heavy world demand for natural rubber and increased costs of postwar operations, the U. S. agreed to a 3¼ cent pound boost in the price of the commodity in negotiations with the international rubber monopoly embracing Britain, the Netherlands and France.

With the U. S. able to produce synthetic rubber for most of its needs at approximately 16 cents a pound from its tremendous capacity of 1,000,000 tons annually, the agreement to pay the monopoly 23½ cents a pound represented a move to maintain foreign revenue for U. S. trade. Natural rubber from far eastern sources will provide the bulk of U. S. supplies, with this country continuing production of 250,000 tons of synthetic annually. Synthetic plants with a capacity of 350,000 tons will be kept in a standby condition.

Under the U. S. agreement with the British, Dutch and French, the monopoly will continue to make allocations of rubber to various users. Though this country will be able to buy rubber directly from Malaya, the British will peg prices there by paying 23½ cents per pound for the commodity.

LABOR:
Top Wages

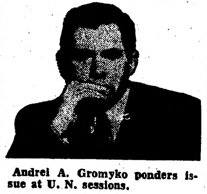
Of all the workers employed in 32 major industrial classifications, those working for transportation equipment industries made the highest average weekly earnings in both January and July, 1945.

Employees in transportation equipment industries, excluding automobile manufacturing, averaged $62.61 a week in January, 1945, and $59.64 a week in July, 1945.

ATOM CONTROL:
Russ Proposal

Hanging on to the veto prerogative of the major powers of the United Nations, Russia's counter-proposal to the U. S. plan for control of atomic energy hit the U. S. provision requiring the surrender of the privilege in atomic supervision.

In jealously guarding its veto power even in atomic affairs, Russia continued to insist upon the means of offsetting any voting combinations against it. Reflecting Moscow's concern over such a development, the London Daily Worker stated: "There is within U. N. and its security council an Anglo-American bloc against the Soviet union. . . . With the veto power removed, the U. S. and Britain, with their satellites, would be able . . . to carry the day against the USSR."



Andrei A. Gromyko ponders issue at U. N. sessions.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko skirted the real issues in insisting upon retention of the veto power in an atomic control commission plan. He repeated Russian press talk by declaring that removal of the veto prerogative constituted efforts to undermine the principle of unity of the big five on all international questions.

Aside from the thorny issue of the veto, the Russian counter-proposal resembled the U. S. control plan in major respects. The Reds suggested conclusion of an international agreement to prohibit use of atomic weapons, forbid production and maintenance of such armament, and force destruction of all stocks of A-bombs.

The Russ plan would also establish two committees, one for studying the control of atomic development for peaceful use, and the other for guarding against production of atomic weapons.

Early reaction to the U. S. plan found Britain pleading its co-operation for atomic control without flatly endorsing the American proposal and China, Brazil and Mexico supporting the U. S. proposition.

AGRICULTURE . . .

Prospects of poultry flock reduction in May and June to levels more nearly in keeping with available feed have been improved by culling approximately 28 million non-productive and low-producing birds in May alone, the department of agriculture said. Producers were urged early last month to cull at least 55 million non-productive and low-producing birds from their flocks in May and June in the famine program.

PALESTINE:
Hot Spot

Great Britain stood right in the middle of the fevered struggle in Palestine over large-scale Jewish immigration to the Holy Land so bitterly contested by the predominant Arab population.

Following the pacification of the Arabs by Foreign Minister Bevin's blunt rejection of the proposed immigration of 100,000 Jews to Palestine, the moderate Jewish resistance movement joined with extremist groups in a reign of terror, blowing up bridges and rail yards, firing at British troops and kidnapping officers.

The violent outbreaks of the Jewish elements were seen as pressure moves designed to bring about a modification of the British stand. Though the proposal to admit 100,000 Jews to Palestine did not meet with complete approval of Jewish leaders when first presented, they settled for it and may fight for acceptance of a similar compromise.

JEWEL THEFT:
In Indies

The theft of $3,000,000 of crown jewels and heirlooms of the royal Hesse family of Germany was topped by the stealing of $6,000,000 of gold, currency and gems by a British, Dutch and Japanese ring in the East Indies.

Special British police were called in to crack the case after a British captain and Dutchman learned of the whereabouts of the treasure from a Japanese official's Eurasian mistress and divided the loot between them.

Originally, the Jap had hauled 10 steel trunks and 5 crates of gold, currency and gems to his mistress' dwelling after V-J Day and told her to take her pick of the loot. After she had chosen jewels valued at six million dollars the Jap then turned the remainder of the cache estimated at twenty two millions to his superior.

When the woman began bragging of her sudden wealth to friends—exclaiming "I am richer than a queen (and) I am going to sleep in a golden bed—a Dutch civilian gained her confidence and learned of the loot. He tipped off a British captain, who commandeered the treasure and split it with him. Made aware of the missing fortune, special British police entered the case and seized the pair.

Meanwhile, Allied officials redoubled efforts to nail the missing Japs with the remainder of the treasure, which had been confiscated from Dutch civilians during the Nipponese occupation of the East Indies.

RED ARMY:
Tighten Discipline

Completing the swing from a "democratic" to the traditional authoritarian type of army, Russia ordered the tightening up of discipline in military ranks and the cultivation of respect and pride in the profession of arms.

First steps in the Russian program to develop a more efficient and closer knit military machine were the re-establishment of rank, cultivation of old military traditions and the reward of merit. This signalized a radical departure from the old bolshevik principle of equality of men in the service, with its attendant lack of discipline.

The latest orders issued from the Kremlin serve to still further tighten up regulations to promote a smoother working military machine. Prompt and precise execution of orders are now required; soldiers must bear difficulties without protest and be ready to shed their blood; the men must knuckle down to serious consideration of military technique, and troops must respect their superiors and observe all the rules of military etiquette, such as saluting.

CONGRESS:
Report on Reds

Two Democratic congressmen joined two Republicans in hitting at Russian politics in eastern Europe and sharply criticizing U. S. diplomacy in a report filed with the house foreign affairs committee summarizing their findings of an overseas tour last fall.

Listing their observations, Representatives Ryder (Dem., Conn.), Gordon (Dem., Ill.), Bolton (Rep., Ohio) and Mundt (Rep., Minn.) declared:

- ● Soviet secret police and agents have conducted a reign of terror in Poland in support of the Russian-backed provisional government.
- ● U. S. concessions to Russia have weakened the hand of Communists friendly to the U. S. on the all-powerful politburo ruling the Soviet.
- ● U. S. inability to claim credit for vast lend-lease shipments have enabled Soviet officials to accredit the supplies to Russian production and strengthen their own political position.

SUGAR:
Output Drops

The world's sugar production for 1945-46 now being marketed is estimated at 27.2 million short tons, (raw value), by the department of agriculture's office of foreign agricultural relations. This is three-quarters of a million tons less than the previous season, 3.5 million tons less than in 1943-44, and, 7.3 million tons below the 1935-39 prewar average of the department indicated in its survey.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ness left last week for a vacation trip through North Dakota and Minnesota. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ole Ellingson of Warren.

The local Boy Scout Troop No. 112 arrived home Saturday after spending a week at the Lake Aggassiz Council Camp on Pikes Bay, Cass Lake. This was the first time for many of the boys and they enjoyed the outdoor life as well, as did the veteran campers.

Activities of the week consisted of hiking, handicraft, swimming, boating and sports. The Holt troop, though small, was very active and lead in many fields.

Scoutmaster Hartley Peterson and Assistant Leonard Ness took the boys on a tour of Cass Lake and vicinity climaxing it with a visit to Lake Windigo, on Star Island. This lake, which is located on an island in the center of Cass Lake, has no connecting body of water with the larger lake itself and is the only one of its kind in the world.

The last evening at camp was spent at a huge Council fire where the first year campers were accepted in an impressive ceremony. Memories of such evenings spent around a campfire will linger a long time with every local boy.

Local Scouts attending were: Vernon Engen, George Fricker, Willis Skjerping, Dale Olson, Robert Johnson, Emery Horien, Harold Ness, Donald Larson and Keith Movick.

PAID ADVERTISEMENT. Prepared for Edward J. Thye, Northfield, and Luther W. Youngdahl, 5120 Cedar Ave., Minneapolis, by Republican Volunteers for Thye and Youngdahl, Leo Baumgartner, Litchfield, chairman, for which regular rates have been paid.

Men We Can Rely On...

EDWARD J. THYE

LUTHER W. YOUNGDAHL

Thye for Senator

Edward J. Thye, Minnesota's popular and efficient Governor, has filed as a candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator, and, if elected, will continue in that office the devoted service he has rendered as Governor. First farmer ever to serve as Governor in Minnesota, he has been one of the most popular. Applauding the high character of his administration and his down-to-earth humanness, farmers, workers and other groups over the state have said: "Here is the man we need to represent us in Washington."

A son of Norwegian parents who came to America early in life to make their way in the new world, Ed Thye has lived close to the people. He has known what it means, as a veteran of World War I, to walk the streets looking for work. He has known as a farmer what it means to work through long hard days and see crops fail. Elevated to the Governorship, he has rounded out from day to day a notable record and become one of Minnesota's greatest Governors. He has insisted on economy and reduction of the state debt and sought constantly to make the state government more helpful to the people, as in the last session of the Legislature when he insisted, first of all, that the Legislature increase the grant for dependent children and old age assistance.

Youngdahl for Governor

Luther W. Youngdahl has filed as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor with a promise that should bring comfort and reassurance to all citizens who want good government. If elected Governor, he has said, he will seek to continue the splendid improvements and the progressive and effective administration Minnesota has enjoyed under Governor Stassen and Governor Thye and, being no man to rest on past accomplishments, will seek where possible to improve the services of the state government. A state government, he believes, must be responsive to the needs of the people and alert and ready to meet new and changing conditions.

Like Governor Thye, Luther Youngdahl is a son of sturdy Scandinavian parents who came to America from the old country to carve out useful careers here. He is a World War I veteran. He has served 16 years on the judicial bench, the last four as an associate justice of the Minnesota supreme court, and has had opportunity, through this service and his own deep interest in people, to acquire a keen insight into problems of government and public welfare. Few men have entered the race for Governor so well equipped, through training and broad human interests, to serve the people.

It Was Tried

Soon after V-E Day, Col. Edward D. Churchill, surgical consultant of the Allied Mediterranean forces, toured six German military hospital areas and reported his findings. The report is most significant in the light of efforts to make medicine the servant of politics in America. Comments on the report are here reprinted by permission of COLLIERS, the National Weekly.

"As we all know, American doctors' care of wounded in this war has been and continues phenomenal as regards its record-breaking percentages of cures and its development of new techniques and remedies. There was considerable expectation that the German doctors . . . would have some pretty phenomenal achievements of their own to report . . . but Colonel Churchill did not find them.

A Generation Behind

"His over-all conclusion . . . was that German handling of wounded was about 20 years behind the American procedure. Going into details, he reported that German army doctors as a rule just casually passed up badly wounded men on the assumption that they were going to die anyway, whereas our doctors fight to the last gasp for every wounded man's life, and frequently win. . . .

"As for professional pride in pulling off near-miracles of cure or amelioration, such pride just was not in the bulk of German military physicians and surgeons. . . . They were victims of apathy and lack of ambition which would enrage a typical American doctor. This is a sad backslide from Germany's proud position as world leader in medicine and surgery in the pre-Hitler days.

How Did It Happen?

"Are there any lessons in it for us? It began to happen soon after Hitler saddled his brand of totalitarianism on Germany. It seems reasonable to conclude that it happened because Hitler saddled Nazi totalitarianism on Germany. . . . In Nazi philosophy, your race and politics matter far more than your brains and talents.

You might be a brilliant physician or surgeon or research scientist, but if you were a Jew or an anti-Nazi of any description, you had to get out of Germany if you could, . . . go to a concentration camp if you couldn't get out. Thus Hitler and his crew decimated German science. Their masterrace convictions, too, led logically to . . . the use, in some concentration camps, of humans of "inferior" breed as guinea pigs for . . . laboratory experiments.

Medicine vs. Politics

"Ruled by the politicians and browbeaten by Nazi gangsters, German medicine (on the strength of Colonel Churchill's findings, at any rate) withered and, in due time, the German armed forces paid, in . . . bigger death totals than they need have suffered." Here is the sound conclusion reached by Collier's, a conclusion in which America's best doctors concur:

"The lesson in the German experience seems clear enough. . . . There is no substitute for a free, bold and inquisitive medical profession or for generously financed and expertly staffed medical research, carried on year-in and year-out. It is devotedly to be hoped that the lesson of the German medical collapse will not be lost on us."

Saddles

Casper, Wyo., boasts a saddle maker who has been at the business for forty years in that city. He knows his trade, a fact not hard to prove. You see there are a great many people in his state who know a good saddle when they see one and a saddle maker has to be good to stay in business long in Wyoming. Not many days ago I dropped into his shop and got introduced.

I was a prospective customer. We need a couple of good saddles at the Harding College stable and had shopped close to home with no success. To my astonishment the Casper saddler was no better able to supply our needs than those in Memphis or Little Rock. He was able, however, to give me some facts I had not learned before from any of the saddle stores visited earlier.

Saddletrees Scarce.

A good saddle is built on a wooden frame called a tree, much as a shoe is built on a wooden last, except that the tree is built into the saddle and becomes a permanent part of it. Saddletrees are made by men of a highly specialized craft. Trees have to be shaped right, no bulkier and no heavier than strength and design require. Men able to do such things with wood are by no means common.

During the war Uncle Sam needed skillful saddletree men in the construction of gliders. "The government employed most of them at about $160 a week," the saddler declared. Good saddles not being made any more, might have skyrocketed in price but the Office of Price Administration fixed a ceiling to stop it. Stocks of new saddles soon were bought up by users at ceiling prices.

But the War Is Over

Now the glider business is slack. Wonders have been done with gliders and they are not being forgotten, but fewer are being built. Unemployed saddletree men would like to start building saddletrees again—there's quite a demand. Living costs have built up, however, and they think they ought to have $120 a week. That's $6,000 a year and 25% under their defense-plant scale of pay.

Saddle manufacturers, like the one in Casper, want trees because —no trees, no saddles. They are willing to pay tree builders $120 a week and wouldn't kick a bit if saddles might be sold at prices they would easily bring. I guess there are thousands of customers besides me who are ready to pay more for a saddle than it would have cost in the months immediately before the war.

Ceiling Lingers On

"If today I engaged a good tree builder," said the Wyoming saddler, "paid him $120 a week in return for his best services and most competent work, and then sold the total product at ceiling prices, it would pay about three-fourths of the wages of the man who made the tree." Obviously it is out of balance. Craftsmen, manufacturers, dealers and users are all waiting for ceilings to lift.

The saddle business is not large when you contrast it to automobiles and railroads, but it is no isolated case. Many small business men are smothering for sales that are tied up by O.P.A. Small plants, employing less than 1,000 men, provide jobs for 78% of industrial workers. Carried too far, this price policy can bring panic and poverty. Liquidating some war-year bureaus would help balance the national budget and help clear the way for new and much needed production.

Pork and Beans

HORATIO Alger whose heroes, boys of sturdy character, all rose to riches and fame, should be alive to write the success story of pork and beans. Here is a striking case of simple, honest, goodness, advancing slowly but surely to well deserved glory. Until within the past two years, the plebeian bean and its colleague pork were considered an excellent home dish but hardly a company one. They were tasty, everyone agreed, but not smart. But now you should see them at midnight suppers in Newport and on Park Avenue buffet tables. A smart magazine recently showed them in silver casseroles at the same parties with the brightest social lights.

Here are two ways of serving baked beans popular now with society hostesses. But remember that, although these good old substantials have climbed the social ladder, they are still just the thing for kitchenette suppers on cold nights and for picnics on summer afternoons.

Two Smart Recipes

Baked Beans with Sausages: Chop one small onion fine, dice one small green pepper and add to one No. 2 can of tomatoes with one teaspoon sugar, and salt and pepper to taste. Cook gently for ten minutes, add the contents of one 1-pound can of New England oven-baked beans, and pour into a buttered shallow baking dish. Arrange twelve sausages over the top, and place in a hot oven. When sausages are brown on top, turn them over, reduce heat, and cook slowly for from forty-five minutes to an hour. This serves six.

Hurry-Up New England Bean Pot: Dice one green pepper, and sauté it in two tablespoons fat for three minutes. Add the contents of one No. 2 can of tomatoes, and cook three minutes more. Add one cup cooked diced carrots (fresh or the contents of one 8-ounce can), one can of New England oven-baked beans and one 12-ounce can of corned beef. Season to taste and heat thoroughly. This serves eight.*

Starving Corn Plants Easy to Detect

Marginal "firing" of corn leaves shows soil's potash supply is too low to nourish the growing plant.

LAFAYETTE, IND. — Detecting symptoms of plant food hunger in Midwestern crops and applying remedies in the form of fertilizers containing potash, nitrogen, phosphorus, boron and other nutrients will help farmers build greater postwar profits and halt the steadily rising danger of soil bankruptcy, according to Dr. George N. Hoffer, noted agronomist.

Dr. Hoffer pointed out that corn plants and various legumes are better "indicators" of plant food deficiencies in the soil than any other Midwestern crops. Describing the symptoms of starvation for potash and other nutrients in corn, he said:

"If corn plants bear leaves that are yellowish-green to yellow in appearance, nitrogen starvation is indicated. The leaf blades begin to turn orange yellow at the tips and the yellowing follows the midrib. The affected tissues later become dry. Frequently corn growers make the mistake of attributing nitrogen starvation to dry weather. Corrective measures are the introduction of more legumes into the rotation, return of crop residues and the use of supplementary nitrogen fertilizers.

"On young plants, purplish-tinted leaves may mean a deficiency of phosphorus. Plants make slow progress in growth and development. Phosphorus deficiency occurs chiefly in acid soils. Liming benefits these soils by creating a more favorable soil reaction for the phosphate fertilizers applied to correct the deficiency.

"Potash deficiency is indicated by yellow and brown 'scorched' edges and leaves. This symptom must be distinguished from the yellowing of the midribs that characterize nitrogen starvation. Potash is the mineral nutrient that determines the efficiency working of the corn plants. It is needed in all parts of the plant for growth, for starch production, for the manufacture of proteins, and for the absorption of mineral nutrients by the roots.

"When potash starvation symptoms are noticed, a definite degree of soil exhaustion is indicated. The only way to correct this deficiency is to apply potash fertilizers."

TO THE VOTERS...

In just a few more days you will go to the polls to elect the officials to operate your government. These officials will range all the way from United States Senator to county officials.

As a candidate for re-election as commissioner, I solicit the vote of every citizen in the Fifth District. As your commissioner for the past three and a half years, it has been my duty and trust to fulfill that office to the best of my ability. I have done everything possible to work for the best of this section, such as holding down real and property taxes, getting blading machines in all sections of the district so your roads would be in better shape, and I have worked at all times for a fair distribution of work throughout the county.

When I assumed office, there were deficits in the welfare, road and bridge, and sanatarium funds. These funds have now good balances. County debts have been substantially reduced.

Before you go to the polls, I ask that you review my record and when you have, I feel confident that you will realize that I have consistently worked hard for the best interests of the district.

Marshall County Fair July 11-13

Fifteen of some of the United States best known dirt trace auto mobile race drivers have entered in the National Championship Auto Ruce meet at the Marshall County Fair in Warren on Saturday afternoon, Jean Mandeloff, representative of the Racing Corporation of America, announced when he arrived in Warren Monday afternoon.

Mandeloff will spend the entire week in the city making final preparations for the big meet which is expected to attract the biggest crowd that has ever attended an afternoon program at the Marshall County Fair.

All drivers competing in the local meet drove in the big Iowa Sweepstakes meet at Des Moines Iowa where more than 25,000 people witnessed the race. Several of the drivers were in the money in the Iowa meet including Hal Cole, driving an Offenhauser who ran second. Four of the cars and drivers also competed in the 500 mile Memorial Day race at Indianapolis.

The grandstand programs will bring some of the nation's top flight attractions, including the All-American Thrill Drivers for an afternoon performance on July 12 and National Championship Auto Race on Saturday afternoon. The big "Mirth of Freedom" show, featuring more than a dozen top flight circus and vaudeville acts is the highest priced evening show brought to the Marshall County Fair.

The track wil be treated for dust and will add to the comfort of the spectators.

A $400.00 Fireworks program will also be displayed at the Friday night's program as a special attraction.

A combined Marshall County Band with 50 or more talented musicians from several county towns will play at all programs during the Fair.

Marshall County 4-H clubs will take a prominent part in activities at the Fair and will exhibit numerous projects and club booths. The 4-H style Queen Revue will take place before the Grandstand Friday evening. Marshall county's rural shools will also have an exceptionally fine exhibit this year in their own building.

Midway will have eight big thrill rides, eight clean and moral shows and 40 concessions.

Dancing on the Fairgrounds each night.

No expense has been spared to make 1946 Victory Marshall County Fair the finest in history and we cordially invite the residents of Holt and the entire area to attend one or more days," said W. R. Holbrpok, secretary. "You can be assured of seeing outstanding programs, fine exhibits and receiving a friendly welcome at the big Marshall County Fair."

Mrs. Paul Olson visited at the Urness home Monday. She also called on Mrs. Bill Sorum and Mrs. Fred Larson.

Word has been received here that Theo. Nygaard and family who left here some time ago, are now settled on their new dairy farm at Saintclaireville, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Toren of Middle River and Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Smith spent the week end at McGregor visiting Mrs. C. E. Smith, who is ill, and at the Alfred Swanson home.

Primary Election Vote Light

The primary election in most places in the state of Minnesota was a light affair. The vote in this county was very light in many precints. In the race for county commissioner in the fifth district Sofus Bjertness of Grygla took top place with H. O. Hanson, Holt, taking second high for nomination for that office.

Sheriff O. C. Toftner, Warren, and Ed Vanderville, Argyle, are on for the sheriff's office and Edwin K. Rokke and Ervin R. VanSickle, Warren, are winners in the race for Clerk of Court.

Gov. Edward J. Thye won over the veteran Henrik Shipstead for the U. S. Senate. Luther Youngdahl took the lead for Governor over Hjalmer Peterson.

Verner Nelson of Underwood took the nomination for Congress man for the Ninth district on the DFL ticket.

Mrs. Ed Horien of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Horien and family visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Rees at Strathcona on Sunday helping Mrs. Rees celebrate her birthday.

The Bare Fact

Private Jones had been told to report at the M. O.'s surgery for a minor nose operation.

"Go into the other room," said the M. O. when Jones appeared, "and take off all your clothes."

"What!" protested Jones. "Take off all my clothes just for a nose treatment? Is that necessary?"

"Do as you are told, and don't ask questions!" barked the M. O.

"Yes, sir," answered Jones, and went into the next room. "Can't understand it," Jones remarked to another man in the room with him. "All I need is nose treatment and he makes me take off all my clothes."

"That's nothing," replied the unclad stranger, "he ordered me to do the same thing, and I only came here to deliver a parcel!"

WATCH HIS VOTING RECORD CAREFULLY!

Know Your Congressman To Make Democracy Work

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

The time of the singing of candidates has come, and the voice of the mock-turtle is heard in the land.

The representatives of the people are about to assure you that you have been well-represented, and that they would like to continue to do the representing.

And who are you to say no, if you don't know exactly how well your representatives in the house of representatives or in the senate have carried out your interests?

Issues are being joined, there are sharp cleavages of thought these days. And if you don't take the trouble to vote for the men in congress who are voting the way you want them to, you have no right to lambast congress. True, it does take some trouble to learn to read your congressman's record correctly. A simple statement by a candidate that he voted for the X bill (the one you wanted passed) doesn't mean too much.

A number of energetic organizations are out to tell you how to read the lawmaker's records. One organization is the National Citizen's Political Action committee, which reminds voters:

"A favorite device of congressmen is to vote for a series of mangling amendments, or to procrastinate with investigations or recommittal. Then, having partially or completely wrecked the usefulness of a bill, they may vote for the final version. Don't take these votes at face value."

In other words, don't be satisfied with the record of the final vote. See how your congressman voted on the amendments.

The NC-PAC literature concludes with a warning that any voter, whatever side he is on, may well take to heart:

"When your congressmen start promising in their forthcoming campaigns, check their past voting records very carefully. Don't take it for granted that if they voted for a measure, they were for it, and fought for it. Perhaps they helped cripple it first."

Disguise Enmity To Legislation

That is true, and with a little investigation, you will learn that a lot of congressmen, whose real views and activities you really wouldn't subscribe to at all, may have been voting in favor of some of the bills you would like to see passed. Later, when he is soliciting your support, he will point with pride to these measures, omitting to mention the fact that he helped to emasculate them carefully before hand.

You will also find sometimes that although he has loudly shouted down a bill (which you didn't like, and, secretly, he did), he did not actually work against it. Perhaps, finally, he even voted for it if there was no roll call.

Another way in which a congressman can fool his constituents is to offer an amendment which appeals to his particular locality, but which he knows can't possibly go through. That appeases the constituents and, at the same time, doesn't hurt the congressman with the particular interests with whom he may be friendly. They know, as well as he does, that the whole thing is just an empty gesture.

Kill Bill With Recommittal

The vote to "recommit" is a favorite trick, and usually reveals the true sentiments of a senator or congressman. Not much attention is paid to these votes. When a bill is "recommitted," it is sent back to committee, supposedly for reconsideration. Actually, recommittal usually means the measure is pigeonholed forever.

On the other hand, when a powerful committee pigeonholes a bill you would like to see passed, and your congressman is willing to sign a petition to try to get it out, you can be pretty certain he is sincerely working to get it through.

Of course, what goes on secretly in committees is most important, and can usually be found out, for the newspaper and radio correspondents make every effort to report the inside facts. This is not difficult for the reporters, since committee members whose efforts were defeated are usually willing to divulge the machinations of the majority — if there were any machinations.

Admittedly getting all this information takes time and trouble on your part. But that is the price you have to pay for the kind of government you want. The government makes you take time to figure out your income tax and to do a lot of other little chores, but it doesn't force you to inform yourself on how your government is being run. However, the information is all there, if you care to take the trouble to get it. Reports of public hearings, as well as the record of what happens on house and senate floors, are available for the asking. That is a part of your congressman's job — reporting to you.

As Lowell Mellett says in his "Handbook of Politics":

"The true test of a member of congress is not the good bills for which he voted, but the good bills he voted against — plus the number of bad bills he voted for."

Knowledge is power. Know your congressman, don't knock him.

Ike Didn't Tell It All

The final report of General Eisenhower to the combined chiefs of staff, which has at last been released, is a splendid example of terse and comprehensive exposition. Into less than 123 pages is compressed the epic of the greatest military operation in history, extending from D-Day to V-E Day.

It is unfortunate, for the sake of mystery lovers, that the document does not go into detail concerning one phase of the invasion which has rightly been called the "greatest deception in history" — the clever ruses which caused the enemy to make his fatal miscalculations.

The Germans knew that the Allied landing must be made somewhere within a relatively limited length of shore-line, but despite this, they were completely deceived as to where that landing was to be. The result was that the Allies were able to get a toehold which they might never have been able to secure, had the Germans guessed the prospective location of the real beachheads.

Obviously, the natural place for a landing would be in reasonable proximity to Calais, where the English channel is narrowest. Actually, the nearest beachhead was established more than a hundred miles farther to the west, but the whole German 15th army remained immobilized in that locality until it was too late.

But even after the landings were made, the Germans were not sure they were the main objectives. This was because of a five-prong plan of deception, all the prongs pointing to simulated diversionary attacks by land, sea and air, away from the actual invasion area.

One simulated attack was at Cap d'Antifer, northwest of Le Havre, far to the east of the invasion area. There, planes, ships and balloons moved in, gradually producing echoes on the German radar warning instruments similar to the approach of a convoy.

Another fake landing was staged in the direction of Boulogne, still farther east, with 16 ships and accompanying planes. The steady patrolling of the skies was taken by the Germans to be the air cover of an oncoming armada.

Far to the west, halfway down the Cherbourg peninsula, and at various other points, dummy airborne invasions were carried out. The Germans finally decided that the real thing was approaching Boulogne, and opened up with all they had. Meantime, the actual invasion forces crossed the channel without any interference by air or sea.

It was a grand fake.

1946 Wheat Harvest to Alleviate World Famine

WHEAT:
Harvest Is On

When wheat ripens in the southwest, it ripens in a hurry. Shortly after harvesting of a normal crop began the elevators were filled to overflowing. "Where are the cars so we can ship it?" asked growers. Thus, another wheat harvest started out normally!

There is strong belief now that the world grain outlook has apparently eased to a startling degree, but no official figures are yet available. Officials said exports in the final 10 days of June were in line with the first 20-day period when 834,000 tons were shipped for famine relief. The department hopes to equal or possibly exceed its 400,000,000 bushel export commitment with heavy July shipments.

TOURISTS:
Sell Their Autos

Reports from Mexico and Cuba indicate that great numbers of tourists have taken their cars out of the United States, ostensibly for use in their travels, and then sold them at "fabulous" prices. And the U. S. government doesn't like it.

The government has moved to break up what it described as a practice of taking automobiles abroad as "personal baggage" and selling them at exorbitant prices. To halt it, the commerce department has forbidden export of cars as personal baggage unless the traveler proves he has lived in the United States continuously for a year and has owned the car for six months.

654,000 AUTOS:
Made in First Half

A total of 654,000 passenger cars were turned out in the first six months of 1946, the Automobile Manufacturers' association has reported. About 140,000 cars were assembled in June. This is far below schedule.

Production by General Motors increased slightly during June. In the week ending June 22, the five car manufacturing divisions of the corporation turned out 18,111 passenger cars in contrast with 16,280 for the preceding week. Only 4,692 trucks were produced, compared with 4,802 the week before.

Truck ouptut is expected to be accelerated as a result of the opening on June 25 of the GMC truck division in Pontiac, Mich.

5-YEAR TAX:
Tops 151-Year Total

During the five years from 1941 through 1945 tax collections by the federal government totaled $121,524,000,000, or about 38 per cent more than the $88,723,000,000 returned in the preceding 151 years of the nation's history, according to figures of a New York trust company.

In 1917 the United States paid its first billion-dollar tax bill. In 1942, federal tax revenues reached 12 billions; in 1943, 21 billions; in 1944, 40 billions and in 1945, 41 billions.

Earliest federal revenues, according to the study, came from customs duties, tobacco and liquor excise taxes.

HOMEMAKERS:
Leaders to Be Named

A campaign to recognize outstanding women in Nebraska and part of Iowa has been launched by the agricultural committee of the Omaha chamber of commerce. Nominations from rural communities will be received until November 1.

The rural homemakers recognition program was designed to honor women in every community who have outstanding records. Individual selection of the rural homemakers will be made by county committees composed of women who are leaders in that particular county.

The Omaha chamber of commerce and the chairman of the rural homemakers program, May Yard, believe the plan so meritorious that it will spread to all parts of the United States.

OIL MEN:
To Aid Farmers

A program calling for special types of research which will be of direct aid to farming and for co-operation with all chemurgic research groups and farm organizations has been set up by directors of the American Petroleum institute at a recent meeting in Dallas. It will be sponsored by local oil companies in their own areas. Final action on the plan will be taken at a meeting in Chicago.

DOUBLE INDEMNITY

Judge Says War Clause Invalid

CHICAGO. — A decision holding that the war clause in a life insurance policy was invalid because the service-incurred death did not directly result from combat or enemy action has been placed on file in United States district court here.

Federal Judge William J. Campbell ruled that John P. Hooker, 52, of Winnetka, Ill., a real estate broker, should collect double indemnity on a policy taken out by his son, Marine Capt. George K. Hooker. Captain Hooker leaped to his death in training maneuvers near Auckland, New Zealand, in 1943.

Was Training Accident.

The $10,000 policy carried a double indemnity clause for accidental death, but stated the double payment would not be made if death resulted from war or any act incident thereto.

In May, 1943, Captain Hooker, 26, was sent out as a scout in a sham battle. He was captured by "enemy" marine corps forces, and attempting to escape, leaped over a bush which hid from view a 75-foot cliff. The resulting plunge caused his death.

Company Paid $10,000.

The life insurance company paid the elder Hooker $10,000, but refused the additional $10,000, claiming the captain's death resulted from an act incident to the war, Mr. Hooker filed suit in November, 1943.

In his opinion, Judge Campbell pointed out that the captain's death occurred in "routine training" and not as a result of combat or activities in immediate support of operations against the enemy.

INSURANCE AT NEW HIGH

NEW YORK. — Topping all records, life insurance owned by American families will reach an estimated 163 billion dollars at midyear, the institute of life insurance has reported.

Purchases of new life insurance in the first half of the year are estimated at 11 billion dollars, or about half again as large as in the first half of 1945 and practically twice that in the first half of 1941.

Greatest gains, the institute said, have been in the purchase of ordinary insurance, although group life coverage has shown a marked recovery from the setback which followed V-J Day.

Sand Snow

Of the dozen or more varieties of snow classified by scientists, the oddest is sand snow which has been observed in the Arctic regions by explorers. Consisting of fine particles, this snow, when falling at very low temperatures, takes on the characteristics of sand, becoming so hard and rough that neither sled nor ski can glide on it.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

This air view shows tons of water being pumped into the oil-fed fire that blazed in four slips of the St. George ferry terminal on Staten island. A number of persons were trapped in the buildings. Nine alarms quickly sounded, summoning every piece of apparatus available and three fireboats.

OWNER OF CROWN JEWELS . . . A photo of the Countess Von Hesse, princess of Prussia, as she looked in the days when Hitler and Goering were entertained at her Kronberg castle. It was from this castle that the Hesse-Darmstadt jewels were stolen.

SPEED RECORD . . . The fastest airmail delivery in the history of the United States was accomplished when a P-80 jet propelled plane carrying mail left Schenectady, N. Y., and arrived in Washington, D. C., in 49 minutes. Capt. Robert Baird, pilot, of Clarksdale, Miss., is handing the pouch and a letter from W. Stuart Symington, assistant secretary of war for air, to Vincent Burke, postmaster at Washington. The plane reached a top speed of 580 miles an hour.

AROUND THE HOUSE

To soften putty for removal from window panes, draw a hot soldering iron over the material, being careful to keep the heat away from the glass. Most putty, however, when it needs to be replaced, can be removed with a small screwdriver.

Record the guests who have dined at your table by having them autograph the tablecloth. Then, before the next dinner, you can embroider each signature in outline stitch.

If you're planning to paint your house this summer and intend to do the work yourself, remember it is smart to let the first coat dry ten days before applying the second.

When game is on the menu, avoid handling before cooking by flouring this way: Put a small amount of flour in a paper sack, pour in the pieces of meat and shake the bag until each piece is well coated with flour.

If you prefer to close up the shelves where your canned goods are stored, try this trick. Fasten worn out window shades, still on rollers, to the top shelves and pull down to desired length.

The oyster shell is good for something. Put it in the bottom of the tea kettle and it will prevent formation of hard-water scale.

In building a casement window in the kitchen remember that it should open out, not in. And the base should be at least a foot above the sink.

A basket equipped with such items as soap, polishes, short-handled brushes, sponge, clean and lintless dustcloths, and the like will save time in cleaning as you go from room to room.

EARLY DELIVERY OF PLANT FOOD BENEFITS FARMER

CHICAGO — Foresight in making early arrangements for 1946 fertilizer supplies and taking delivery as soon as possible will pay farmers dividends at spring planting time, according to a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Agriculture is looking to the plant food industry for record supplies this year," the statement points out. "The only way these can be assured is for the tonnage to flow steadily from factory to farm in the months between now and spring seeding operations. That means ordering early and taking immediate delivery.

Bumper grain crops produced by generous fertilizer use.

"The farmer who acts promptly helps accomplish two important results. First, he makes certain that he will secure needed fertilizer for his own particular land at exactly the time he needs it most. Second, he eases the production, storage and transportation problems faced by the manufacturer. Thus he encourages a greater overall output."

Costliest Parade

The world's costliest parade is the Pareshnath procession, staged yearly by the Jains in India. Besides lavish costumes and floats, the Great Indradwaja, a 50-foot banner that must never be lowered, necessitates large payments for the temporary removal of all telephone, telegraph and trolley wires crossing the line of march.—Collier's Magazine.

HEAVY YIELDING HYBRID CORN NEEDS MORE NUTRIMENT

CHICAGO—Hybrid corn's upward surge in popularity in recent years among the nation's farmers was indicated by a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, showing that this variety accounted for nearly 65 per cent of all corn planted in the United States in 1945, compared with 22 per cent in 1939.

"In some of the Corn Belt states, hybrid plantings represented more than 95 per cent of all corn grown this year," the statement points out.

"While hybrids yield from 20 to 25 per cent more bushels per acre than old-fashioned open-pollinated varieties, they likewise make a bigger draft on the soil's plant food resources. Thus they create the need for more widespread use of fertilizers not only to make these big yields possible, but to replace to some extent at least, the nitrogen, phosphorus and potash removed by the crop.

"Recognizing these facts, most farmers have been using more fertilizer on corn each year. Farmers have been acquiring increasing knowledge about the best way to handle this crop, due to experimental projects carried on at state agricultural colleges and experiment stations."

Mrs. Art Sorter Died Friday

The neighborhood and all who knew her were deeply grieved to hear of the death of Mrs. Arthur Sorter on Friday. Funeral services were held on Tuesday in the First Lutheran Church in Middle River with Rev. J. A. Korshavn officiating. Vocal duets were rendered by Mrs. Joseph Blom and Mrs. Elmer Huset, accompanied by Miss Louann Bakken. Interment was made in the Woodman cemetery at Middle River. Honorary pallbearers were: A. J. Holm, Anton Wartenburg, Harold Ness, L. H. Olson, Roy Ingalls and Henry Severts. Active pall bearers were: Herbert Johnson, Adolph Klenk, Edgar Olson, William Wartenberg, and Bennie Ness.

Out of town relatives and friends attending were Mr. and Mrs. K. Paetznick of St. Cloud, Mrs. Abraham Sorter and Lloyd Sorter of Wannaska, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sorter of Goodridge.

Maud Curtis Sorter was born February 8, 1908 in Cedar Township, Marshall County, Minnesota, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Curtis. She attended school in Middle River and was a graduate of Middle River High school. Mrs. Sorter' grew to womanhood in the Middle River community. She was united in marriage to Arthur Sorter on July 16, 1929 at Warren, Minn. To this union five children were born. Mr. and Mrs. Sorter lived in Middle River until 1940 when they moved to their farm in Cedar township. Mrs. Sorter had been in failing health for several weeks and passed away on Friday morning, July 12th at Mercy hospital in Thief River Falls. At the time of her death she was 38 years, 5 months, and 4 days of age. Besides her husband, Mrs. Sorter is survived by five children, namely, Ervin, Norman, Luvern, Willard and Martha. She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. George Curtis of Middle River; three sisters, Ress E. Wickwire of Long View, Washington; Alice Herrick of Ranten, Washington; and Mabel (Mrs. Leonard Nelson) of Middle River four brothers, Ray Curtis of Blue Earth, Minnesota; Glen, Robert and Harry Curtis all of Middle River. Congress Methods to Be Revamped

Few Legislators Authors Of Bills They Introduce

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

A bright young railroad executive who has his cum laude in law from a famed university was sitting with me in Burt's the other day.

Burt's is a sort of greenroom for radio folk and others who move and speak and have their being in what is euphemistically referred to as Washington's Radio center. Inspired (or infuriated) by the presence of so many of the few who say so much to so many, my friend launched forth into a tirade on the responsibility of the publicist.

"You can't play baseball according to football rules," he said, shaking a menacing fist at me, "and that is what Washington officials are doing. You studied political science 30 years ago. I studied it only 20 years ago. And you know perfectly well that the present generation is not following the rules laid down by our founding fathers. You ought to tell the public about it.

"Now maybe the principles of our government are wrong. I am not defending them. But I am saying that we are deserting them. Rule of the majority, a republican form of government operated by the representatives of the people, is a travesty, when legislation is jammed through by minorities. And I mean bureaucrats as well as lobbyists."

This happened when the senate was neck-deep in the final debate over the OPA and my friend claimed congress was revolting against what he called the high pressure methods of the administration. Since the congress was tearing the administration measure to shreds at that moment I pointed out that while it was true that congress was sore at Stabilizer Bowles for what they called propagandizing, the example was not a very good one. So he proceeded to develop his theme with specific references all too familiar to me and my colleagues of the microphone and typewriter.

Town Seethes With Lobbyists

You too, are familiar with the power of the "pressure boys" as my friend Kenneth Crawford called them in his revealing book by that name. Crawford estimated there were 6,000 active lobbyists in Washington when World War II started. There are many more now. Speaker Rayburn said the town was "seething" with them.

We all remember the seven-digit sum of money contributed to a campaign fund which came out of the members' dues of one great labor union. True, the head of the union later quarrelled with the president whom he had helped elect because the president refused to take his orders. Nevertheless, this example illustrates what "big money" attempts, and sometimes succeeds in doing.

We know, too, that when the entire economy of the country was locked to a dead center by strikes in two essential industries, coal and transportation, and that when the government itself gave orders, those orders were disobeyed. Minority rule was operating then. Minority groups nullified the wishes of the duly-elected representatives of the people.

My friend, with all his vehemence, with his allegiance to management, made no claim that the demands of the railroad men, the coal miners, were unjust. He merely said that in order to obtain what they considered justice, the powerful leaders of the organizations to which they belong were able to play baseball according to football rules—temporarily at least.

The theory that the creation of the laws of the land has been taken from the hands of the elected representatives of the people was put forth by Crawford in "The Pressure Boys" seven years ago when he said: "It is improbable that a single important law enacted in the last 10 years has been written by its congressional sponsor or its nominal author. Administration bills are prepared by New Deal experts in executive departments. Legislation independently inaugurated is almost invariably prepared in the office of a lobbyist. Congress maintains a legislative drafting service which writes bills for committees, but it seldom is called upon by individual legislators for assistance in writing any minor private bills."

LaFollette Bill Would Revamp

Thomas Mechlin, writing on this subject in the current Virginia Quarterly Review, touches on the subject of readymade legislation. He tells how a lobby "gets its own staff together and knocks out a bill which the front office would like to see made a law eventually. It then runs the draft over to a large law firm which has one of its members in congress. Although the congressman cannot personally represent the client, the method used in submitting the proposed legislation through the 'body' of the firm takes care of that. . . . If the lobby is well-organized, it will exploit high-powered publicity from then on out."

I am constrained to admit that much in all of these assertions is true. But I would like to mention three hopeful signs on the horizon, minuscule though they may be. Two were measures introduced but not acted upon in this session of congress. They will be presented again and have a good chance of passing.

One is the LaFollette measure for revamping congress, one provision of which increases the technical assistance available to members. The second is a bill introduced by Representative Sabath of Illinois, which provides for an all-inclusive investigation of lobbies. Most congressmen don't like lobbyists and Sabath's bill, as Mechlin admits, was a crystallization of this feeling.

The third indication was a resolution introduced during the OPA fight by Senator Taylor (D., of Idaho) authorizing the publication of a document on how each senator voted on every measure. He said that the people are becoming more aware of their political responsibilities, that politics is no longer solely in the hands of politicians, ward-heelers and lobbyists.

Congress is sensitive to the need of a restoration of majority rule, but the only real hope lies within the majority itself. Unfortunately, the giant sleeps.

South Dakotans Are Visitors

Two recent visitors to Washington, Mrs. Evelyn Baker and Mrs. James Magee of Custer and Belle Fourche, S. D., can tell their friends back home in the Black Hills region that while they were here they took in three events which might set the tone for all such future events.

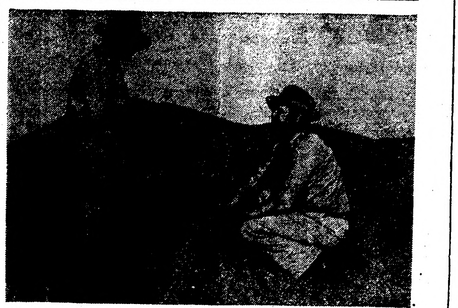
The ladies, winners of a radio contest to honor women who did their bit during the war years, visited Washington during the week when three top-drawer government officials, all close friends of Harry Truman, were sworn into new jobs.

The swearing-in of a cabinet officer used to be a rather modest affair. The swearinee, his family, a few friends, and his office staff, a few of the press, usually gathered in his new office, and the whole affair was over in about the time it takes for bride and groom to say "I do."

True, Fred Vinson and Lewis Schwellenbach did travel to Capitol Hill for their inaugurations as treasury and labor secretaries respectively. But those events occasioned no such hoopla as did the ceremonies which made Monday—Tuesday — Wednesday Washington news one late week in June.

Mrs. Magee and Mrs. Baker and five thousand other spectators, plus the navy band, gathered on the White House lawn to watch Mr. Vinson take over his new office as chief justice of the United States; they saw John Snyder's big moment made bigger when President Truman strolled from the White House to the treasury portico to watch his St. Louis crony take the oath as head of the treasury department; and they observed tall, young-looking John Steelman's swearing-in as reconversion director.

Having observed these impressive occasions, the Black Hills visitors could appreciate the widely-whispered remark of Undersecretary of Navy John Sullivan. (Sullivan got his swearing-in done quietly and traditionally on June 18.) As Sullivan congratulated John Steelman after the rose garden ceremony, he asked, "Well, are you the last of the June brides?"



HERE'S TEXAS FLOUR . . . Well, not flour, but the makin's. Ed Stallwitz, Moore county wheat grower (left), and County Agent J. B. Walde crawl up on a mountain of wheat. Newly harvested wheat has had to be dumped on the ground because the elevators are full to overflowing.

NEWS REVIEW

Days of 'Easy Payments' Said to Be on Way Back

CREDIT:
Payments Easier

The old days of "a dollar down and a dollar every time we catch you" are not back yet, but time or "easy" payments have been liberalized on many items. It is expected that charge accounts will continue to rise also with relaxation of the 30-day rule under which all bills had to be paid by the 10th day of the second month after purchase.

Under regulation W, federal reserve system measure controlling credit, many items have been listed under group A which required a down payment of one-third and 12 months' maximum maturity. Attic ventilating fans, automobile batteries, tires and inner tubes have been removed from group A. Many household appliances are expected to be removed within a short time. Furniture is still under control when sold on credit.

RUSS ENVOY:
Says No War

The new Russian ambassador to the United States, Nikolai V. Novikov, in one of his first statements promised that the Soviet Union will never start a war against the United States or anyone else."

While he insisted that all differences between the two major powers could be ironed out, he cautioned that solutions for many world problems will require time and patience.

COMMUNISTS:
In State Department

Charges of Communism in the U. S. state department is "more a matter of alarm than of fact," Dean Acheson, under-secretary of state, told the house foreign affairs committee in Washington.

He denied that 300 of the state department personnel had been fired because of Communistic leanings, as intimated by Representative Cox (D., Ga.), on the house floor. They were let go for economy reasons, he said.

Of all the lists submitted by members of congress and other persons, raising the Communist issue against various permanent department personnel, he said, accusations against but one employee have been substantiated, and this person has been discharged. The employee was not identified.

DEGNAN CASE:
Killer Found?

The entire United States was shocked last January when little Suzanne Degnan was found slain near her home in Chicago. The case proved to be one of the most stubborn police, the FBI and others ever attempted to solve. Now, they believe they have found the killer.

William Heirens must face the music. He faces 21 burglary and 4 assault charges, to say nothing of the evidence piled up connecting him with the kidnap-murder of Suzanne.

Heirens, police said, once confessed the Degnan murder. But more often he steadfastly has denied every crime of which the police have accused him. He was a student at the University of Chicago.

ATOM BOMB:
And Human Beings

The extent of heat damage to some of the more distant parts of the target fleet in Bikini lagoon, where the atom bomb test was made July 1, showed human survival would have been doubtful. Ships a mile from the center of the blast were burned and blackened as though by a tremendous blast furnace.

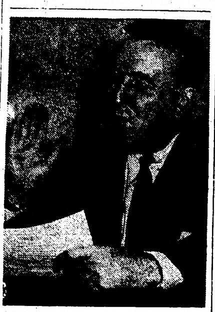
Anyone on the decks of these ships would have burned to death in an instant, those who inspected the damage believe. While some animals survived on most ships, the fate of human beings might have been different. Studies of animals' injuries may show whether enough crewmen could have lived through the blast to operate the stricken ship. Making the study is Dr. Carl Compton of the Massachusetts institute of technology.

U. S. FILMS:
Shown in Paris

They were gayer than ever in "Gay Paree" when the first "new" American films to be imported to France under the terms of the French loan made their appearance. Well, maybe the films weren't exactly the latest but—

The pictures shown during the opening week included "Citizen Kane," "Kitty Foyle," "Too Many Husbands" and "Dangerous Adventure." All are in English with French subtitles dubbed in.

The new movies made their appearance in the middle of a bitter attack by some French writers on what they termed the "assassination" of the French movie industry.



RESIGNS . . . Chester Bowles resigned as economic stabilizer in protest of the OPA extension bill. In a radio address Bowles said the nation owed President Truman a vote of thanks for vetoing the bill.

SHADES OF BRYAN

Silver Ratio 16-1 May Prevail

WASHINGTON.—The senate has tacked a rider to the post office appropriations bill which would boost the price of silver to 90.3 cents an ounce for the next two years. After that the treasury may begin buying the white metal at $1.29 an ounce.

If the senate bill comes through conference and becomes a law, the old William Jennings Bryan ratio of 16 to 1 may yet prevail. Before the devaluation some years ago, the price of gold was $20.67 an ounce. One-sixteenth of $20.67 is $1.29.

Silver producers of the western part of the United States have always resented the old ratio of about 32 to 1, which was the relationship between the two metals when Bryan made his famous "Cross of Gold" speech. New mines had been opened and silver had become more abundant. The silver producers have tried for years to restore the old 16 to 1 ratio which prevailed before 1873.

The only stickler now is that gold is priced at $35 an ounce. Even if silver advances to $1.29, it will not be up to the coveted 16 to 1 ratio which westerners believe is the proper balance in a world where bimetallism is used.

While most countries are now off the gold standard, silver is still used in almost every country. In some countries, such as India, nickel and other metals are used. For many years the U. S. treasury did not purchase silver in quantities sufficient to hold prices up. The silver purchase act of 1934 was designed to aid the white metal regain some of its old prestige.

Rocket Ascended Over 44 Miles, Above Stratosphere

In the United States, the first man-made object to pass beyond the stratosphere was a rocket fired secretly at White Sands, New Mexico, on October 25, 1945, says Collier's. Developed by the GALCIT organization of the California Institute of Technology, this rocket, the starting weight of which was 680 pounds, was propelled by liquid fuel to a height of 235,000 feet, or over 44 miles, according to the radar equipment that measured its flight.

Household Hints

After flowering plants have faded and been removed from piazza boxes, fill boxes with small growing evergreens or pine boughs.

Place the screen door hook on the door casing instead of on the screen and it won't hop in the way.

In making coffee, tea or chocolate to be served iced, double the strength to allow for the ice used in cooling.

Relax in your bath. Instead of making it a speedy cleansing, take 15 minutes for your ablutions. Scrub the body with a good soap, rinse, and dry body briskly with a towel.

Save lemon halves after juice is extracted for use in cleaning wooden drain and mixing boards, and in removing stains from porcelain.

Try using a potato masher to cream butter and sugar for a cake. The wooden kind is especially good for this purpose.

Here's a camper's treat to try next time you have bacon. When bacon is done, remove from skillet, pour off most of the bacon grease, and let bread brown in skillet, first on one side, then on the other. The toast, which is soft inside, needs no butter. If you like, sprinkle it with sugar and cinnamon.

PIONEERS FOR 25 YEARS

ALL DRESSED UP AND EVERYWHERE TO GO!

Packaging Improvements Pioneered By Land O'Lakes

Back in 1924, Land O'Lakes, cooperating with the Federal State Inspection Department, established uniform weights and packages for butter sold under the Land O'Lakes label. This resulted in savings for the producer, since it eliminated possible claims and adjustments for off weights.

That same year, a print room was installed where butter could be trade marked and packed in quarter, half-pound and pound prints for consumer use. Land O'Lakes quality butter in prints found immediate public acceptance, thereby providing a more efficient butter-selling pattern for the entire industry.

Pioneering on the part of Land O'Lakes has achieved similar improvements in packaging for cheese and many other dairy products. Thus millions of consumers have come to learn that Land O'Lakes on the label is assurance of top quality . . . and that means that top prices are paid to dairy farmers for their distinctively packaged products. Why not investigate all the advantages of marketing through Land O' Lakes?

The Weather

The weather the past week was hot and dry. We had a light rain on Monday evening and Tuesday and Wednesday the weather was cool and breezy. Fine for the crops and they are filling fine. Yesterday was hot.

Mrs. Sigrid Deihl of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Christine Thompson of Kensington, Minn. Hilmer and Gordon Backlund of Holmis City, Minn., and Peter Backlund of Hendon, Sask., visited relatives and friends here and at Gatzke over the week end.

Given Kitchen Shower Here

Friends of Mrs. Irwin Tvedt (Wyn Larson) of Newfolden gave her a kitchen shower at the Orlin Ness home on Monday afternoon. A short program was given and a delicious lunch served. Mrs. Tvedt received many nice gifts.

Mrs. Leonard Larson and children of Tacoma, Wash., arrived here last week for a visit with her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. Paskewitz.

Willis Sorum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Sorum, who served for a long time in the Merchant Marines, has now enlisted in the U. S. Army.

Marlan Augustine had a plowing bee on the Mrs. S. H. Nohre farm on Tuesday. He has rented the place from her for the coming year. Those who helped him plow were Donald Larson, Elroy and Orvis Benitt. They had four tractors going all day and turned a lot of ground.

Won Prizes At The Fair

The seventh and eighth grade pupils of the Holt School won first prize at the Marshall County fair on the woolen afghan made at school last winter.

Bond Sales Hit $285,110

People of this county are continuing to buy U. S. Savings Bonds in substantial quantities. A tabulation made public this week showed that sales in Marshall county totaled $285,110 in the first six months of 1945.

O. M. Mattson who was chairman of the county War Finance Committee during the war announced the figures as compiled by the state Savings Bonds Division.

"The sales" he said, are not far below the bond sales in a similar period last year, when the war was on, showing that many people find that bonds are an excellent way to invest their surplus funds."

Redemptions are considerably higher than they were during the war, which is to be expected. In this county average monthly redemptions since January 1 have been $38,340 as against average monthly sales of $47,518. It was pointed out, however, that more than 70 per cent of all the savings bonds sold since 1941 are still held by the original purchasers.

Minnesota bond sales during the special efforts in June totalled $14,137,000, highest sales recorded since the war ended.

Roy Sorum, Donald Horien, Herb Goethe and l Clarence Bottem left on Tuesday for Alexandria where they will be employed with Ivan Ose Construction crew.

Frank Erickson and daughter left last week for Harmony, Minnesota, to visit with Mr. Erickson's aged mother and where they will be employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Ring and family of Bettendorf, Iowa, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Ring this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lee and Velma, Marguerite and Sherman Lee of Newfolden visited at the G. Sanoden home Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Wm. Paskewitz spent a few days at a hospital at Thief River Falls this week after becoming suddenly ill.

Trays Are Trip Savers

Trays save trips from kitchen to dining room and from sink to cupboards. At the table stack dishes into glass, silverware and china groups so they can be unloaded in washing order at the sink, suggests the Home Editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

Stuffed Baked Potato Teases Family Palate

Stuffed baked potatoes a la mayonnaise have a festive air that adds eye appeal to the dinner table and whets the family's appetite.

This recipe, prepared by Marjorie Griffin, Home Editor of the nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer, pays zestful dividends.

Baked Potatoes a la Mayonnaise

6 large baking potatoes	1 egg separated
½ c. mayonnaise	1 tsp. salt
	¼ tsp. pepper

Bake potatoes in hot oven (450° F) 1 hour or until done. Cut a slice from top of each and scoop out potato. Mash, add mayonnaise, egg yolk and seasonings. Refill shells. Beat egg white until stiff and heap lightly on top of each potato. Place in 350° F. oven until brown. Serves 6.

1500 Saw County Fair

Nearly 15,000 came to look at the Marshall County fair in Warren, thereby breaking every attendance record the fair has held W. R. Holbrook, secretary, said.

With skies sunny, climax of the event came Saturday with the auto races in the afternoon and a big program in the evening. A crowd from 6,000 to 7,000 witnessed these events, the secretary said.

Outstanding exhibits of the fair, according to Holbrook, were the 4-H club entries, both in booths and in livestock.

More than 100 prizes were given to exhibits in the rural school building.

Top honors in livestock went to O. C. Krueger, Warren and Arne Rantonen, Middle River, Brown Swiss cattle; Carl Rosendahl, Warren Milking Shorthorn; Hirst Bros., Viking, Shropshire and L. A. Sedlacek, Radium, Hampshire sheep.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Swenson and Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Johnson and Sharon of Duluth visited relatives at Newfolden and Holt and at the Reierson resort at Baudette last week.

Big Crew At Mud Lake Refuge

L. F. Larson, Arnold Sannes, Gerald Moberg Carsten Sagstuen, Eddy Henning and Oscar Carlson are all working at the refuge. A large crew of men are now catching up with the work that had to be left undone at the Mud Lake refuge during the war when no help could be had.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sagstuen spent the week end fishing at Wheeler's Point and Waskish. They returned with a good catch.

Pastor and Mrs. Urness and boys were guests at the Sletvold summer cottage near Battle Lake last part of last week. On Saturday Pastor Urness took Mrs. Urness and the boys to Mount Carmel Bible Camp near Alexandria where they are attending this week. Grace returned after visiting the Elness home near Brandon and also attending a Bible Camp for a few days at Lake Geneva. Pastor Urness expects to join his wife and boys at the Sletvold cottage near Battle Lake next week.

Washington Not Always Glamorous

World's Greatest Capital Has Its Seamy Side Too!

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—A boy joined the staff of a four-page paper of which he was one day to become editor. The office was a rattle-trap building whose notable characteristics, he later said, were "sewer gas, rats, dirt, overgrown rowdy newsboys who had to be held in check by a long whip and firearms," and it was "positively dangerous at times to go into the alley which they infested, leading to the composing room."

The town as the boy had grown up in it was a straggling overgrown country village "with zigzag grades, no sewerage, no street cars, no water supply except from pumps and springs, unimproved reservations, second-rate dwellings and streets of mud and mire."

That doesn't sound like the nation's capital whose budget for the coming year is $76,755,009—but that was the way it was in 1858 as described by the editor of the Washington Evening Star, Theodore Noyes, who died early this month. He joined the paper in 1877.

Except for the Australian capital of Canberra which arose almost as Camelot at a wave of Merlin's wand, there is nothing to compare with the bizarre history of a city whose site was based on a political deal and no city which has gone through more vicissitudes than this Baghdad-on-the-Potomac.

No city was ever more magnificently planned, or more discreditably neglected in its early days, as Mr. Noyes' description indicates. Today, as the undisputed capital of the world, it still has to battle with a grudging congress for its budget. It remains the chief city of the greatest democratic republic whose 938,000 citizens have no voice in their own government and whose citizenship itself is a bar to the basic privilege of a democracy—the ballot.

Mr. Noyes was, as is the newspaper he served, a Washington institution. He will be remembered for his long campaign to give Washington a vote in congressional and national matters.

Rats Were Menace To City's Health

Some time ago I had occasion to mention the invasion of Washington by rats and how the city hired a modern Pied Piper who has done an effective, if silent, job. This was brought to my mind recently when I encountered a fat, black cat on my way to work early one morning. The cat had a guilty look, and I had a hunch he had spent the night in riotous living and was merely sneaking in to change his collar.

However, the cataclysm caused by the rat-invasion in which, believe it or not, a baby's hand was eaten, brought hasty action and I see that it was considered worthy of comment by experts, including the editors of the magazine of the American Museum of Natural History.

The campaign began when a case of typhus which is spread by fleas and mites on rats, was discovered. Traps set in the neighborhood caught a number of rats whose blood was typhus-infected. The United States Public Health service got busy, shocked to learn that the scourge of Europe two centuries ago was a possibility right here in our fair capital.

An expert was called in. He first sealed up all points where commercial transportation entered the city. Then 300 traps were set up in the zone where the infection had been found. Five days later the traps were taken in and the area was thoroughly dusted with DDT, the insecticide which the army perfected.

Next red-squill bait was distributed. It kills rats, but not pets or children who might pick up the bait. In places where there was no danger to human beings the deadly "1080" was distributed. The campaign was successful. Meanwhile, a clean-up of potential rat-breeding premises was started with court orders to enforce it. Today Washington has a complete scientific rat-control program which will cost us about $75,000 annually.

However, it still leaves a few rats for energetic cats.

When People Vote, They Win

The June "Economic Outlook," published by the Congress of Industrial Organizations, contains an article entitled "When the People Vote—They Win." That might be interpreted in more ways than one. The article points out that an "off year" is so designated politically not only because the presidency is not at stake, but because the politicians know that general apathy on the part of the voter has marked those elections in the past: 1938 (off) thirty million voters went to the polls; 1940 (on) fifty million votes; 1942 (off) twenty-eight million; 1944 (on) forty-eight million.

The CIO takes the attitude that what the people as a whole want is what they (the CIO) want, and that the people get what they want when they vote for it. They say: "Mass registration and mass voting is the best guarantee of liberal progressive government."

They might also add that if you want conservative rather than liberal progressive government, you have to vote for it, too. In any case you can't get what you want unless you go after it. The "Outlook" prints a table showing how the vote shifted in certain districts in off-years. The table showed that when the vote fell off, it was the Democratic vote. Districts which swung from Democratic to Republican candidates in most cases shifted with a decrease in the total vote . . . "the Republican vote remaining relatively stable, while the Democratic vote dropped sharply."

Does this prove that Democrats are sleepier than Republicans, or that the Republican is a creature of habit?

War Profiteering Will Be Scandal

The juicy scandal uncovered by the senate war investigating committee in which "profiteering at its worst," as Senator Mead called it, was exposed, is, I fear, only the beginning.

Any moment I expect to hear an explosion in connection with surplus property. War breeds waste, and the cloak of patriotic endeavor as Samuel Johnson indicated even more bluntly, often covers skullduggery.

The same thing happened after the last war, and on a smaller scale, after all wars. But what is probably making people squirm all over Washington is the revelation of the fact that telephone wires were pretty generally tapped, and heaven knows what may be in the FBI files. It is a strange thing about the telephone. People have just come to take for granted that because you can't see anybody on the line, nobody is there.

I wouldn't be surprised to learn that telephone conversations with most of the government departments are being recorded right now. I have reason to believe that when the question of installing these recorders in the White House was brought up, it was flatly turned down. White House employees have a long and excellent record for fidelity. Of course they are carefully screened, and when the campaign to get everybody fingerprinted (an excellent idea if you have nothing to conceal about your past and no plans for an over-adventurous future) was begun, the White House employees voluntarily came forward and offered their thumbs, fingers and hands for the ink-pad.

• • •

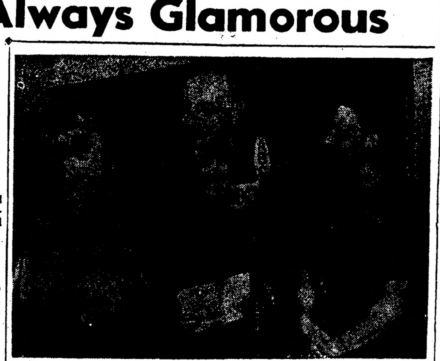
The senate galleries were full. It was a scorcher of a day and a filibuster was going on. The senate chamber is air-cooled. What caused the crowd? The heat or the stupidity?

• • •

Pretty Goldwyn Girl Georgia Lange (who visited Washington with her five pulchritudinous pals of "Kid From Brooklyn") stepped up to a newsstand and moved a paperweight off the face of the cover girl on the July Coronet. Why? I asked her. Because it was her face.

• • •

I never saw a purple bear, I never hope to see one—but I'd like to see that little silver-blue fellow, born recently in the Bronx zoo.



TRIP TO CAPITAL . . . Mrs. Evelyn Baker and Mrs. James Magee won a trip to Washington in a contest conducted by radio station KOTA in Rapid City, S. D., to honor women who did their jobs quietly and well during the war. Mrs. Baker's husband was killed on Okinawa and she has two children. Mrs. Magee lost a son in the war.

NEWS REVIEW

Truman Sets Jaw, Shows That Job Irritates Him

TRUMAN:
Temper Short

Maybe it's hot weather, but President Truman's temper is considerably shorter than it used to be. This was evident recently when he spoke out at a press conference stating that John O'Donnell, a reporter, had spread "another lie." (Incidentally, O'Donnell once received an iron cross from FDR.) Other displays of irritability have been noticed by those close to him. Is it his health? No, says his doctor; it's just being President.

"I don't know of any President who kept so many appointments," said Col. Wallace Graham, the President's physician.

Mr. Truman wakes himself between 5:30 and 6:00 each morning, showers, shaves and dresses without the aid of a valet, and goes for a mile walk. He sometimes splashes in the White House swimming pool, but never plays golf or engages in any game more strenuous than pitching horseshoes. He may keep eight or ten appointments of 10 to 20 minutes each, see visitors, legislators, foreign diplomats, head a reception line and do some work in his office, all in an afternoon and evening. He sleeps soundly too.

But sometimes these days, he's a little irritable! Maybe he's just like the rest of us.

INVISIBLE DEATH:
Surrounds Bikini

Some of the things that happened at Bikini atoll when the atomic bomb exploded are still a mystery, correspondents aver. The A-bomb rays, for instance, clung like a secret weapon or invisible death around that South Pacific area for hours and days—and even longer perhaps.

The blast of x-rays and invisible alpha, beta and neutron rays that hit ships from the atom bomb were more crippling than the blast that smashed down and the heat that wrecked some. One of the navy's "drone" ships, which went pilotless into the cloud and returned, was unsafe to approach for more than three days. It is believed that had there been pilots in the planes they would have been killed. Mice that flew into the cloud changed color. White mice became brown. Hair usually turns white or gray when exposed to radioactive rays. All the drones brought back evidence of extreme radioactivity in or near the cloud. This invisible ray attack was worst at about 15,000 feet altitude. The roof of X-ray is placed at about 2,000 feet, so the other rays were different.

So far the scientists have made no report. But newsmen are asking: "Could human beings have lived on airplanes and ships after the blast?"

COTTON:
Crop Is Bigger

There were 18,316,000 acres of cotton in cultivation on July 1, or 3.2 per cent more than a year ago, the department of agriculture has estimated.

The acreage in cultivation July 1 and the percentage of the 1945 acreage, respectively, by states included: Missouri, 310,000 acres and 116 per cent; Virginia, 20,000 and 105; North Carolina, 580,000 and 102; South Carolina, 950,000 and 98; Georgia, 1,235,000 and 98; Florida, 23,000 and 100; Tennessee, 600,000 and 99; Alabama, 1,510,000 and 107; Mississippi, 2,420,000 and 106; Arkansas, 1,660,000 and 107; Louisiana, 900,000 and 104; Oklahoma, 1,120,000 and 95; Texas, 6,350,000 and 104; New Mexico, 116,000 and 99; Arizona, 145,000 and 94; California, 359,000 and 113, and all other states, 18,000 and 99.

WHEAT QUOTA:
To Europe Passed

The United States was ahead of its quota of wheat shipments to Europe in the first six months of 1946, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson reported a few days ago. He reported to President Truman that 50,000,000 bushels were shipped in June, bringing shipments for the year up to 397,000,000 bushels.

COAL LAND:
Good for Farming

At Altoona, Pa., tests have shown that stripped coal fields, properly backfilled, are better farm land than before the coal was removed. It was the opinion of the state mine inspector that practically all of the land can be restored for agricultural purposes, either for cropping, grazing or planting orchards.

Record '46 Corn Crop Forecast

WASHINGTON.—The largest crop of corn ever raised in the United States, and near record production of wheat and oats has been forecast by the department of agriculture. The department stated the current outlook for total crop production has seldom been surpassed. Except for 1942, the reported condition of all crops is the best in seven years.

Continued favorable weather is necessary to bring this prospect to realization. Indicated corn crop is 3,341,646,000 bushels, compared with the preceding record of 3,203,000,000 bushels harvested in 1944 and with 3,018,410,000 bushels in 1945.

Winter wheat crop of 857,163,000 bushels would be a record and although spring wheat promise is only 232,929,000 bushels, the total wheat harvest looks like 1,090,092,000 bushels based on present condition.

Production of oats is estimated at 1,471,026,000 bushels, compared with 1,547,663,000 bushels harvested last year, which was the largest oats crop ever raised. Barley production is placed at 230,278,000 bushels, against 263,961,000 bushels last year and 1935-44 average of 289,598,000 bushels.

Corn Peak in Prospect.

In commenting on the report, the department said the nation's corn cribs will have more corn in them this year than ever before if the all-time high production indicated by July 1 prospects materializes. The expected yield an acre of 36.5 bushels on the 91,500,000 acres for harvest which is virtually the same as last year, would also be an all-time high. Measured by the 1935-44 average, the 1946 acreage for harvest is only a trifle less but the prospective yield an acre is 8.0 bushels more and the production over a fourth larger.

Acreage and yield an acre changes from last year fall into simple patterns. A big wedge of states extending from Kansas and Oklahoma northeast to the New England states shows either increased acreage or no change while almost all states outside the "wedge" show decreases. Another broad wedge of states extending from South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas southeast to Virginia and North Carolina shows good to excellent yield prospects. Outside this "wedge" prospective yields show wide variations.

JANET BLAIR, in pigtails, calico dress and high button shoes, reported for a test for "Regina" in Columbia's "Gallant Journey"; Producer-Director William Wellman said she was the first girl he thought of for the part. She was supposed to look 11, and she did. She says it was the first time she wasn't told that she looked too young to play a role. Janet started her career as a soloist with Hal Kemp's band straight out of high school, broke into pictures before she was 20. In her colorful gay 90s costume she grows up charmingly in the picture, with Glenn Ford, who's 19 when the picture begins, romancing with her.

Between scenes of "Angel on My Shoulder," Claude Rains covered his own shoulders with a worn tweed coat. He's superstitious about it. He wore it on the "Casablanca" set — the picture won an Academy award. And on the set of "Caesar and Cleopatra" in London, for which he got the highest salary ever given an actor, $1,280,000.

"Happy Hollywood Homes" will be the title of a Columbia Screen Snapshot, showing film players and directors and their mates who've been married for more than 10 years. Producer Ralph Staub expects to have about 60 such couples in the picture. Unprejudiced observers think maybe he's sticking his chin out, since Hollywood marriages have a way of breaking up even after 10 years.

If a tune's danceable, singable and has an appealing idea, the chances are it's set for the "Hit Parade," according to Harry Warren, who wrote "On the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe," "Down Argentine Way" and other hits. "Of course," he added, "a Bing Crosby or Frank Sinatra to sing it won't do any harm." He's currently writing the music for M-G-M's "Summer Holiday."

Johnny Desmond sent a carton of his latest records to Princess Elizabeth of England at her request. She became a Desmond fan when he sang for her in Bedford with the Glenn Miller army air force band, and asked that copies of his first recordings be sent to her. It was reported later that Desmond was her "favorite crooner"; she'd heard him sing his "Soldier and a Song" over the armed forces network.

Meredith Willson has been named to the music advisory committee of the Atwater Kent radio auditions, one of the radio's oldest and most honored radio institutions, which was started in 1927, but was discontinued during the war. Resumed this year, it is designed to uncover young talent in singers and musicians, and has given a start to many a successful career.

One-Mile Slide Down Rope Dangerous Acrobatic Feat

Probably the most dangerous acrobatic performance staged today is the rope-sliding act that climaxes the 15-day New Year's celebration held in Lhasa, Tibet, says Collier's.

Protected by a breastplate and using only their arms to balance themselves, two men attempt to slide on their stomachs down a leather rope, a mile in length, stretched from the Dalai Lama's palace on the hill to the plain below.

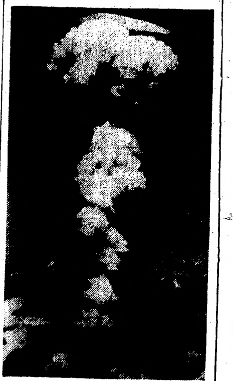
MEAT BEGINS TO FLOOD MARKETS . . . Interior view of meat packing plant in New York City a scant few days following expiration of the office of price administration — showing meat on the hook and plentiful. In meat centers such as Chicago, Kansas City and Los Angeles the supply was even more plentiful. Whether it was a rush by farmers to get cattle to market before enactment of new OPA or because of, at least, temporary end of black market, the reason is not entirely clear. Higher prices was a factor

U.S. CAVALRY PARADES IN TOKYO . . . The U.S. 1st cavalry division is shown parading down one of the main streets of Tokyo during celebration held in the Japanese capital. Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger, commanding officer of the 8th army and Maj. Gen. William Chase, commanding officer of the crack cavalry unit, reviewed the display of U.S. might from a stand in front of the Imperial hotel in Tokyo. Many GI's watched from the sidewalks.

THE WINNER AND HIS CANDIDATE . . . Former governor of Minnesota, Harold Stassen, and Mrs. Stassen are shown as they voted at St. Paul in Minnesota Republican primary election. Insert shows Edward J. Thye, Republican governor of Minnesota and political protege of Stassen, who defeated Senator Henrik Shipstead. Stassen fought Shipstead on his record of having voted against the U. N.



CLOUD OVER BIKINI . . . The atom bomb as it exploded over the "guinea pig" fleet moored in the lagoon at Bikini. The photographer was in a B-29 flying at a safe distance and altitude from the atom bomb explosion on the atolls.

TOKYO GANGSTER LAID TO REST . . . Tokyo had its first gangster funeral since the occupation, when Matsuda, the "Boss of Shimbashi" district, was sent off to his ancestors in the true gangster fashion, "a-la-Chicago." The streets were banked with flowers as the two-hour memorial service began with the chanting of the priests and the beating of tom-toms by his "boys." Photo shows Matsuda's ashes being carried in the procession through streets of Shimbashi.

VET DANCES WITH PLASTIC LEGS . . . Jerry Singer, Hollywood film dancer, who lost a leg at Okinawa, is dancing again these days, despite artificial leg. He is shown [illegible] a dance for film, "If I'm Lucky."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To prevent ugly marks on your floors apply wax to the casters on your furniture.

When washing hollow handled knives do not allow them to remain too long in water as this might loosen them.

To clean a soured sponge, rub fresh lemon into it thoroughly. Rinse several times in lukewarm water.

Hang up towels to dry immediately after using them to prevent mildew. Never put a damp towel in the laundry bag or leave it in a heap on the bathroom floor.

Sew loose buttons on at once. Takes only a moment and prevents your losing the button.

To avoid cloudy iced tea never pour hot tea over ice or place it in the refrigerator. Let the tea cool in room temperature first.

Ripened Flax Should Not Be Allowed To Stand

It's a mistake to let flax stand in the field after it is ripe, the County Agent, Mr. Forbes said this week. Many weeds make rapid growth during those last days it is allowed to stand.

Yield and quality of flax will not be reduced if the crop is harvested when only 90 percent of the bolls are brown, according to M. L. Armour, extension agronomist at University Farm. However, the longer the flax field is left standing after it is ripe the greater the labor and mechanical power required to cut the crop and the higher the dockage in the threshed flax

Flax should be loosely bound in small bundles to aid in drying. A sickle with smooth-edged sections is preferred for cutting.

If some portions of the field are weedy these sections should be threshed or combined separately, Armour adds.

The Prohibition Day Song

After a Drink of Moon

It was a nice October eve
Last August in July;
The moon lay thick upon the ground;
The mud shone in the sky.

The flowers were singing sweetly
The bird were all in bloom,
I went down in the cellar
To sweep an upstairs room.

I saw, a thousand miles away,
A house just out of sight;
Another funny thing I saw—
Two cats have a dog-fight.

Don't weary of this cra-Z poem;
The end is coming soon—
I saw bottle of White Mule—
A cow jump over the moon.

(That happened in a pasture)
My 4d was speeding slow
When I came down from my cellar
To the upstairs down below.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Williamson and family of Greenbush visited at the Ralph Ness and Hans Ness homes on Sunday.

Soil Survey Book Of Red River Valley In Minnesota

Readers of the Holt Weekly News have an opportunity to secure without charge a copy of a very excellent publication entitled "Soil Survey of the Red River Valley Area of Minnesota"

This 100 page book contains descriptions and illustrations of soils in the western half of the Minnesota side of the Red River Valley. Also included are a number of soil maps of the various counties, showing the type of soil and drainage in the area.

Copies of the book, which previously cost $1.25 if purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, are available free by writing to U. S. Rep. Harold Hagen, Washington, D. C. His office will fill the orders received as long as the supply lasts.

Fluff Plant To Reopen

The O. T. Ness and son Fluff Plant here will begin operating again on Monday after being shut down all summer due to strikes in many manufacturing plants in the east where they use the finished product.

Much Polio In Minnesota

Polio cases in Minnesota are on the rampage and especially so in the Twin Cities. Many city people are sending their children to the country for the summer.

Brought In First Grain Here

Fredrick Voth brought in the first grain here this year. He came in with a load of oats on Tuesday that weighed 36 lbs. to the bushel and was of a very high quality Johnny Hoffman brought in the first load of barley on Wednesday and yesterday Oscar Fosholm sent in a load of fine barley. The 20-acre field yielded 60 bushels to the acre.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hams (Lucille Horien) of International Falls, a girl, on Monday.

Better Pastures Mean Bigger Yields Of High Quality Feed at Lower Cost

More and better hay per acre results from the use of plenty of plant food.

CHICAGO — Pasture improvement will be the key to profitable operations for dairy farmers in the years immediately ahead, according to a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"From all present indications competition will be keen," the statement points out. "To meet that competition successfully dairymen will have to reduce their production costs and increase the milk output per cow. Pasture improvement providing abundant, high-quality feed at low cost will help them to do this.

"Good management methods are required to build pastures up to a high productive rate and keep them there. The use of plenty of mixed fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash is a prime necessity to provide adequate nourishment to assure a good stand of grasses.

"Agronomists have demonstrated through scientific experiments that fertilized pasture not only yields more feed but better feed as well. Farmers themselves have proved this by practical experience.

"Dairymen planning a pasture improvement program can obtain valuable information from agronomists at various state colleges and experiment stations. They are assured, too, that plenty of plant food will be available for their soil rebuilding projects, for the fertilizer industry has manufacturing facilities sufficient to meet all peacetime needs."

Record Egret Flock Now In Minnesota

More than 40 snow-white American egrets are "vacationing" near Hastings, the state game and fish division reported recently.

Thaddeus Surber, veteran naturalist for the division, says that this is the largest concentration of the big heron-like birds ever to be reported in this state. According to Surber,, the main nesting region of the egret is far to the south of Minnesota, but after the breeding season some of the birds are taken with an urge to push farther north before returning to the south for the winter. These wanderers have been observed in small numbers in recennt years.

Game Warden Leonard Berggren of Hastings says he counted 46 egrets on July 15. Thirty were observed last Wednesday and it is believed that more were still in the vicinity. Some people, he says, have the mistaken impression that they are albino great blue herons. Berggren observes that the birds are not particularly wary and spend a good deal of time feeding and resting. He adds that the black legs and feet of the American egret offer a shap contrast to its white plumage.

Surber states that in the days of the feather trade the American egret was very nearly exterminated on its southern breeding grounds. After receiving the protection of both federal and state laws, the birds increased in number until now they are once again penetrating the northern states. It is believed that a few egrets may nest in Minnesota, though no definite records have been reported.

The game and fish division asks that all observers who may see these egrets in southern Minnesota during the next few weeks make sure that they receive the protection extended to them by law and due such beautiful visitor to the state.

Went To University Hospital

Bernard Larson, who has been a patient at St. Lukes hospital, was taken to University hospital at Minneapolis for treatments on Sunday night.

Funeral services were conducted here on Friday afternoon from the Nazareth Lutheran church for Carl Hanson, 38, of Mahnomen. Rev. E. O. Urness officiated and interment was made in the Holt cemetery.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been extremely hot here. Wednesday we had a hard hot wind all day and continuing all night thru Thursday morning. Yesterday was more or less cloudy but hot. No rain. Temperatures have been in the 80's every day and up 92.

Harvest is now on in full swing with everything and every body going as hard as can be.

Farmers say the crops are fine considering the dry weather we have had. But they are now running into a crisis with no binder twine in the country. Some drive hundreds of miles to get a few hundred pounds.

On Tuesday a survey showed no twine in Marshall County.

Pennington County Fair At Thief River Falls

The Pennington County Fair, one of the largest county fairs in northern Minnesota is on at Thief River Falls this week. The fair opened on Wednesday and runs thru Saturday night. Four big nights presenting the "Victory Vogues of 1946". 12 big circus and vaudeville acts on Thursday and Friday afternoons.

Lost Hand In Grinder

Leonard Peterson, son of Emil Peterson of Middle River had the misfortune to lose his left hand the other day while he was operating a giant meat grinder. He was grinding large chunks of horse meat for his mink farm when his hand got caught and was ground up to above the wrist. He had it amputated a little above the elbow.

Many people have been out looking for blueberries the past week. The crop is light in most places with none on the ridges but pretty fair on most places in the swamps. Canada has a heavy crop as the frost did not catch them in bloom this spring.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

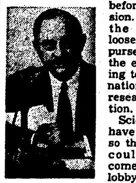
Echo of Bombs Induces Science Aid

Scientists Favor Unhampered Freedom in Research Work

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

The bomb which leveled Hiroshima and has since been echoing in the Pacific did something to congress that could not have been done before the explosion. It induced the senate to loosen the public purse strings to the extent of voting to subsidize a national scientific research foundation.



Scientists don't have many votes, so the persuasion couldn't have come by way of a lobby. The public imagination had been stirred. Suddenly the layman realized that science was a powerful factor in war. He realized too that perhaps men who could smash the atom and make it smash the enemy, might learn how to use the powers of the sleeping giant—atomic energy—for the good as well as the ill of mankind.

At this writing congress has not completed action of the bill but probably will have done so by the time these lines are read. The idea of a national research program seemed very good to me. Therefore, I was somewhat surprised to hear a pharmacological authority of my acquaintance say that passage of this legislation "would be as destructive in the field of science" as the bomb was in the midst of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. He made the observation in a group, several of whom were scientists. His hearers appeared to echo his sentiments—sentiments which I later learned he had set forth in the recent Bulletin of the American Association of University Professors. He (Dr. Theodore Koppanyi) said: "In an analysis of the bill, a basic wrong immediately leaps to the eye. This is the assumption that scientific research can be 'initiated' or 'prescribed for.' If this assumption could be grounded, the natural sequel to a national research foundation would be federal foundations to 'initiate' and 'prescribe for' the composition of music, the painting of pictures, the writing of poems, and the establishment of social controls and education, for science is probably the most personal and individualistic of all human endeavors. No agency, however authorized and directed, can develop a national policy for scientific research."

Difficult to Pass On Projects

The theories and ways of thinking of scientists, Dr. Koppanyi explained, (and his colleagues agreed) are as diverse as the world itself.

"How can we set up a court with the power to pass on what is good and what is not good for science?" he asked, and then he turned to me with this question: "Would you approve of having a member of your profession—a commentator or newswriter—appointed by a President of the United States, as head of a similarly selected group of your colleagues who were made privy to private government information, which was barred from other speakers or writers?"

Naturally I said: "No." (That would be the end of the freedom of the press and radio.)

Then Dr. Koppanyi concluded: "You can spend a lot of money and get no return. But if you trust in human ingenuity, motivated by desire of public service, the love of science, recognition, and maybe selfish aims alike, you will have done more for basic science than you could ever do with billions of dollars of federal money."

Social Science Study Lags

Spokesmen for the so-called social sciences (the study of people, of individuals and groups) were loud in criticizing the omission from the bill of provisions for research in this field.

An engineer spoke for the social scientists in these words: "We've gone miles ahead in our study of inaminate things, in physics, chemistry and the other sciences that deal with inorganic matter, compared to our advancement in the study of human beings—why they act the way they do under given conditions, their relations to other individuals and to groups, and the action of the groups in relation to each other."

He spoke of the recent pogrom in Kielce, Poland, where the Jews were attacked and killed. It all started from a false rumor, a planted rumor. The very same thing, the engineer pointed out, touched off the riots three years ago in Detroit. Those are known facts but there is very little public knowledge of what causes such action, how it can be prevented.

Possession Is Law to Russ

Russian expropriation of Austrian property and her delaying tactics in the setting of the peace conference date seem to be predicated on the theory: Why start any discussions of who gets what if you can operate on the old theory that possession is nine points of the law?

Possession is an important factor. Take the recent experience of a Philadelphia horse. Around midnight one night a horse walked into a residential district and began devouring gardens of dahlias, morning-glories, snapdragons and other flowers. The infuriated householders tried to shoo the horse away, but he kicked at them and went right on expropriating the bourgeois blooms. However, in the good old American tradition, a policeman appeared with a rope and lassoed the beast. He was removed to the police stables where he couldn't exercise a veto on this purely procedural process.

This subversive tendency in the animal world was revealed in another part of Philadelphia at about the same time. Returning from a week-end, a householder and his family who had started a counter revolutionary campaign against what they thought to be a harmless mouse, found a large-sized rat in the trap they had set. The rat with the trap attached as a minor incumbrance went right after the family which climbed tables and chairs. This time when the cop came he felt aggressive warfare justifiable and finished the rat with his reactionary night-stick.

Congress' Work Is Never Done

Congressmen invariably come to work January 14 brisk of step, bright of eye, confident they'll have all the bills passed, all the necessary business disposed of by July 1 at the latest, so they can go home to their fences.

The old timers, of course, know they are just kidding themselves.

Business is never completed by July 1, though they work from sun to sun for, like woman's, congress' work is never done. Consequently, fishing trips, motor jaunts, and important electioneering have to be postponed while house and senate members labor in Washington heat to complete last-minute legislation.

This year, it was the OPAgony that fevered congressional brows late into July. Debate was so furious, night sessions were so frequent that I wasn't surprised when I heard a man in the visitor's gallery of the capitol ask: "Why did they wait so long to get at the OPA bill? Seems to me they always have a lot of stuff left to do at the end of a session that they could have taken up earlier. Do they always let it go so long that these closing days sound like a rowdy jam session?"

I reported this remark to a man who knows Capitol Hill, as you and I know the short-cut home.

"There are no jams in congress," he answered as he inhaled another tablespoonful of the famous senate restaurant bean soup.

"Not even on OPA?" I modestly needled.

"No," he said, "but I'll admit they came to a near-jam when they had to work like the dickens to get the bill to the President before the OPA expired. But they did get it to him (he was talking about the first OPA bill)—and it was better than a lot of people had expected. That was no jam."

Chester Bowles has passed from the Washington scene, his head bloody but unbowed, and full of thoughts of further battle. We'll see what happens in the next senatorial elections in the Nutmeg state.

PROTEST STRIKES . . . In protest against soaring prices following end of OPA controls, buyers' strikes were planned throughout the nation under instigation of unions, veterans' groups, consumers councils and other organizations. Typical is this scene showing St. Louis housewives picketing a dairy in protest against the entire dairy industry in St. Louis, where milk prices have risen 15 per cent and butter 23 per cent.

NEWS REVIEW

Wheeler, Veteran Senator, Defeated; Talmadge Wins

POLITICS:
Beat Wheeler

Political observers studied the campaign in the Democratic senatorial primary in Montana for a clue to the cause of defeat of the veteran Burton K. Wheeler, with a variety of reasons appearing to contribute to his downfall.

Since the rugged veteran led the non-interventionist cause before Pearl Harbor, the Japanese attack on the U. S. and the swing of American sentiment toward effective world co-operation were seen to have acted strongly against him. But because of the closeness of his defeat, the CIO-PAC fight against him, the opposition of the powerful railroad brotherhoods and the diversion of the main strength of the Democratic organization to his opponent, Leif Erickson, could have weaned enough votes away from him to spell defeat.

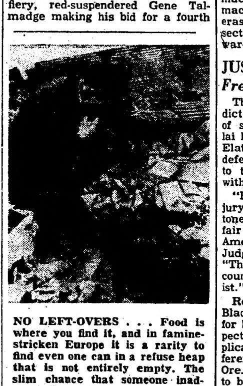
Winding up 24 years of senatorial service, Wheeler said: ". . . . The people of Montana have been very good to me. . . . Those who voted in the Democratic primary have relieved me of a great responsibility and a lot of work. . . . Probably I have lost many supporters because I did not go along blindly with a Democratic administration in the last few years, but I could not sacrifice my principles. . . ."

Return Talmadge

Georgia's gubernatorial election shared the national spotlight with Montana's senatorial race, with fiery, red-suspendered Gene Talmadge making his bid for a fourth term on a platform of "white supremacy."

Despite the fact that his No. 1 opponent, James V. Carmichael, rolled up an impressive popular vote, Talmadge took an early lead in the decisive unit voting in which winners are determined by the number of counties they carry.

Against a background of a U. S. Supreme court decision opening Democratic primaries in the South to Negroes, and another court ruling forbidding segregation on interstate buses, Talmadge conducted a vigorous "white supremacy" campaign. With Georgia's state administration under retiring Gov. Ellis Arnall making no effort to curb the colored vote, more than 100,000 Negroes flocked to the polls, separate booths being set up in some election stations.



NO LEFT-OVERS . . . Food is where you find it, and in famine-stricken Europe it is a rarity to find even one can in a refuse heap that is not entirely empty. The slim chance that someone inadvertently might have left a bit of food prompted this hungry Viennese to stop during his lunch hour to investigate.

INVENTORIES:
Hit Hoarding

Hitting at the withholding of merchandise from the market in anticipation of higher prices, Civilian Production administration drew up stringent inventory controls on manufacturers of electrical appliances and other scarce goods.

At the same time, CPA disclosed that exports may be limited if shippers move out a flood of goods at high prices to badly depleted foreign markets. Restoration of OPA price control would make such a step unnecessary, it was said.

Under CPA regulations, inventories of finished goods would be restricted to 30 days. Included are refrigerators, furniture, washing machines, electric ranges, sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, cameras, asphalt and tarred roofing, insect screen cloth and galvanized ware.

JUSTICE:
Free Spy Suspect

The jury had just returned a verdict of not guilty on five charges of spying against 30-year-old Nicolai Redin, Russian naval lieutenant. Elated by the finding, the stocky defendant rose to his feet, crossed to the jury box and shook hands with the seven men and five women.

"Ladies and gentlemen of the jury," he said in heavily accented tones, "I want to thank you for the fair trial I have received here in America." Then shaking hands with Judge Lloyd Black, he declared: "The friendship between our two countries has existed and will exist."

Redin's acquittal followed Judge Black's censure of the prosecution for building up the international aspects of the case, with their implications of U. S. and Russian differences. Arrested in Portland, Ore., last March as he was about to board a ship for Russia, he was charged with obtaining and attempting to transmit secret plans of the new 14,000-ton destroyer tender, USS Yellowstone.

SET-ASIDE TERMINATED

Wheat Sale Requirement Ends

Producer wheat set-aside requirements, under which it was mandatory for wheat farmers to sell half the grain from the 1946 crop that they took to elevators or warehouses for storage, have been terminated by the government. The set-aside provision had been inoperative since June 30, final effective date of grain ceilings.

Action to eliminate the requirement preceded final vote on the senate version of the new price control bill, which as it now stands, makes it mandatory for the government to issue certificates protecting producers forced to sell their grain through a government order against a price rise in the next nine months.

Favors Revision.

No announcement was made regarding other provisions of the set-aside, contained in an amendment to war food order No. 144, and overall wheat control regulation. However, it is known that officials in the department of agriculture favor changing the set-aside to the terminal level in place of country level if congress returns ceilings to wheat.

The set-aside became effective last May, and unofficial estimates place the amount of wheat purchased prior to July 1 under this procurement plan at about 37 million bushels.

Ends Obligation.

Removal of the producer part of the requirement automatically removes the department from obligation to any congressional directive guaranteeing farmers against a price rise, while retaining the machinery for siphoning off 250 million bushels of wheat for the export program as it is marketed.

If price control on wheat is eliminated, the government will have to set up new procurement machinery, officials admitted, but said that there is no change in the heavy export goal.

A Mystery Solved

A youngster returned from summer camp. His fond parents were very interested in hearing how he had spent his vacation and asked him dozens of questions, one of which was: "How on earth did they manage to wake 350 boys every morning?"

"Well," he said, "they blew a bugle—at first."

"At first?"

"Yeah, but after a while they couldn't find the mouthpiece of the bugle."

After the boy had gone to sleep, the parents struggled to unpack his bags. Out of one bag rolled a small, curious object.

On close inspection it turned out to be the mouthpiece of a bugle.

How to Outbluff a VICIOUS DOG at night!

. . . as recommended by Lt. Comdr. Willy Necker, Wheeling, Ill.—noted dog trainer and judge at dog shows...and wartime head of U. S. Coast Guard War Dog Training.

1 The fact that 999 dogs out of a thousand are friendly, safe and lovable doesn't alter the fact that occasionally—through mistreatment, neglect or disease—a dog may turn vicious.

2 Such animals are dangerous. Especially at night! If cornered outdoors, at night, turn on your "Eveready" flashlight! Shine it directly at the dog's eyes, to blind and perhaps bewilder him. He may leap at the light, however; so don't hold it in front of you. Hold it at arm's length to the side. Most important . . .

3 Keep still. It's instinctive with most animals to attack anything that runs away or moves aggressively. If the dog refrains from attacking for a few seconds, you have probably won—but, if not, protect your throat. Use flashlight as club. Shout! If bitten, see a doctor as soon as possible.

4 For bright light, white light, effective light—insist on "Eveready" batteries. Your dealer now has them. Ask for them by name. For "Eveready" batteries have no equals—that's why they're the largest-selling flashlight batteries in the world. Yet their extra light, extra life, cost you nothing extra!

"80.6% of sufferers showed CLINICAL IMPROVEMENT after only 10-day treatment with SORETONE

Foster D. Snell, Inc., well-known consulting chemists, have just completed a test with a group of men and women suffering from Athlete's Foot. These people were told to use Soretone. At the end of only a ten-day test period, their feet were examined by a physician. We quote from the report:

"After the use of Soretone according to the directions on the label for a period of only ten days, 80.6% of the cases showed clinical improvement of an infection which is most stubborn to control."

Improvements were shown in the symptoms of Athlete's Foot—the itching, burning, redness, etc. The report says:

"In our opinion Soretone is of very definite benefit in the treatment of this disease, which is commonly known as 'Athlete's Foot'."

A Sermon

America has three big F's. They stand for farm, factory and finance. They cover the nation and make it what it is. You may be neither a farmer, a factory worker nor a financier but, if not, you are probably so dependent on one of the three groups that you are one with it, in thought and aim. There are exceptions, but the big F's tie in all of us but a small minority.

In the matter of stability, the three F's are as dependent on each other as the legs of a stool. If one goes down, they all topple. Neither of these big groups of people can enjoy prosperity long unless the others likewise prosper. And here is a wonder of all time: Why are these three classes suspicious of each other? Why do they so consistently work against each other?

Farmers' Markets

When is the agricultural industry prosperous? The answer is plain to any observing farmer: Farmers have a quick market for all they produce, at good prices, only when factory workers are very largely employed at good wages. Laborers constitute a big class and they work hard. When they have good jobs they eat well, cover their tables with the best of what farmers sell.

Here is where the preaching starts: Since farm prosperity depends on good wages at factories, it is in every farmer's interest to work for the healthy welfare of labor. Why then does the political Farm Bloc concern itself so avidly with class legislation instead of working for the thing that always helps the farmer—namely, labor's sound advancement?

The Workman's Pay

This is definitely a Christian teaching. The illustrious Paul, who wrote most of the New Testament, said, "Do not take account of your own interests, but the interests of others as well." Moreover the rule is not confined to the farm for its application. It is just as righteous and just as practical for the use of working men who want to improve their living standards. Thus:

When do laborers enjoy steady work at high wages? Every thinking worker knows the answer. Labor prospers when men of wealth put out their money, expanding old businesses and building new ones. Of course it is for their own gain but it pays the workers. Mystery: Why don't labor's leaders do their best to make investments attractive? Such strategy would pay rich and direct returns. It is the only way to higher and higher wages.

And Profits Too.

Returns to employers respond to the same rule. Factory owners sell 80% of all they make to laborers and farmers. These men wear good clothes, drive good cars and modernize their homes when they can afford it. Any financier, able to see which side of his bread is buttered, knows where profits come from. They come from prosperous, buying farmers and happy, well-paid workers.

If the three big F's would look out for one another; if employers never oppressed labor; if farmers did not envy capitalists; if workers never used intimidation, prosperity would certainly follow. It would be for us all. The code that Jesus upheld in the Sermon on the Mount 2,000 years ago is still good. Communism, envy, greed and violence can't live in the climate with applied Christianity.

Visitors at the Patrick McCullough home Wednesday evening of last week were Mrs. Ida Wagner, Alma and Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Wagner, Mr. and Anton Wagner and family from Middle River and Mavis Peatz from Paynesville, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson and daughters Dorothy and Mrs. Torrance Lillevold spent Saturday afternoon at Grand Forks attending to matters of business.

The following were entertained at the Lars Ring home last Friday: Oscar Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hanson of Mahnomen, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brunsberg and son and Clarence Hanson of Grand Forks, Gladys Hanson of St. Paul, Harold Hanson of Warren, Chas. Let's Review

Education, or the lack of it, gets blamed for about all the world's ills. It is pretty generally agreed that the peoples of Earth need teaching, or perhaps re-teaching. Moreover it is not much trouble in any company to start a free-for-all discussion about the science of education. In fact there are some who insist that teaching is an art and not a science at all.

Some commentators crusade for penetrating study in narrow fields of learning while others whoop-it-up for wider browsing ranges. Both philosophies can be run to extremes. Over done, specialization gets people in ruts while versatility, gone wild, leads men's minds a wool-gathering. Surely there is a happy medium, seeing that both extremes are selfish and quite short-sighted.

What to Study

Schooling actually does not help people much unless it makes better neighbors of them. It should, by all means, train them to engage in activities with other people, for the benefit of all. Today this is clearly the most essential feature of education because people who don't understand co-operation are being led by the nose straight through collectivism to dictatorship.

George William Curtis once wrote: "While good men sit at home, not knowing that there's anything to be done, nor caring to know, half persuaded that this republic is the contemptible rule of a mob and secretly longing for some splendid and vigorous despotism, . . . remember that it is not a government mastered by ignorance; it is a government betrayed by intelligence."

Betrayed by What?

We have a sad state of affairs indeed when intelligent people realize that things are taking place which they suspect are very bad for the country, yet fail to take a hand in remedying matters. Preserving the personal liberty of all people ought to be every man's personal duty. Those who have been without freedom consider its safety a high moral obligation.

Some men have deep learning in fields that do not embrace history, government or economics. Others have gained far-flung knowledge without sensing the duties of citizenship or any obligation toward other people. Curtis' long life ended before this century began but he saw the political dangers of this day with amazing clearness: "Betrayed by intelligence," he said.

Time Fades Facts

The notion that a nation may be governed, not by a ruler but by the people themselves, was not raw new in Mr. Curtis' time. Our own republic was hardly half as old as now when he began writing for "Harper's Monthly." Otherwise he had all the examples we have. One big difference in his generation and ours is this: They still appreciated their freedom.

Students would not be helped much now by a smattering of more arts. Neither is there a crying need for more specialization. Consolidating our recent scientific gains and preserving our freedom is our No. 1 problem. Our vital classroom need is a refresher course in comparative welfare. Where and under what system have the most people lived the best lives? Answer: We have it, right here in the U. S. A.

Lutheran Welfare Worshop

A Lutheran Welfare Educational Workshop will be held on Sept. 23, in Trinity Lutheran Church ot Crookston. Workers from the staff of Lutheran Welfare will describe their work and answer questions. Lutherans from the following counties are being invited to attend: Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Beltrami, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Clearwater Norman and Mahnomen.

The Workshop is sponsored by a welfare planning committee of Lutheran pastors from this area. One of the topics for discussion will be the advisability of opening an area Lutheran Welfare office and securing a trained Lutheran Welfare worker to serve this territory exclusively.

According to Dr. Rolf A. Syrdal, State President of the Lutheran Welfare Society, the work has increased so much in the past two years that the case workers must be brought closer to them. "In two years," says Dr. Syrdal, "the number of unmarried mothers cared for has increased 183 percent - the number of children placed for adoption has increased 258 per cent the cost of your boarding home program has increased 76 per cent for the same period.

Sunday, September 29, has been set as Lutheran Welfare Sunday for churches of the ten Synods supporting Lutheran Welfare in Minnesota.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been extremely hot here. Friday we had about a hundred above with no breeze. Saturday through Tuesday was very hot and and some winds. Wednesday it broke with the day being cloudy and cooler. Yesterday was cool and dry. We had a trace of rain last Friday evening.

Harvest More Grass Seed

Farmers of Marshall County are urged by Mr. Chas. Kranz, local AAA chairman, to give serious consideration to the possibility of harvesting additional acreages of clover and alfalfa seed. In addition to prospects that seed will command good prizes, Mr. Kranz points out the Government is also offering a special payment of 9 cents per pound for all red clover and 7 cents per pound for all alsike clover seed harvested during the current year and moved into commercial channels prior to January 1, 1947. These payments, which will be made to any farmer who harvests red clover, alsike and alfalfa seed, and sells it before January 1, 1947, should make it financially worthwhile to harvest even some of the 10w-yielding fields.

Grass and legume seeds, says the comitteeman, are more vitally needed now then ever before to provide future food supplies and to maintain soil fertility Not only have the soils of this Nation suffered from the heavy production of crops during the war years, but these same soils must continue to carry extra burden of production while war-torn countries are restoring their agriculture. Heavy seedings of legumes in the future will be required to repair this damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Andor Hjelle of Thief River Falls, formerly of Holt have sold their home in that city and have bought a home in Warren where they will go into business on their own in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wittkowski arrived here Tuesday evening from Greenfield, Iowa, and Russel Sanoden from Montana, after being called home because of the death of their sister.

Squads Right

Loyal military experts want every precaution taken in America to prevent another such calamity as Pearl Harbor. The nation as a whole subscribes to that policy. The shout for universal military training is itself an hysterical cry for more national safety, but it is ill-considered. Being a school man, knowing the possibilities of youth, I know it is unwise.

I am in favor of an adequate standing army, a powerful peacetime navy and all the other factors of a positive national defense. I am willing to let men of proven generalship say how big an army is adequate and how much navy is ample. Those are matters that few civilians are qualified to discuss. But however big the need is, America should have no less.

Least Costly Way

I am in favor of advancing the base pay of enlisted personnel to an attractive level; sufficiently high to get enough men in service by voluntary enlistment. My reasons are three: (1) It would save the country money, (2) It would provide a better fighting force and (3) It would cause the least disturbance to economic, scientific and cultural progress of the nation.

Cramming a year of military training into the life pattern of every American boy when he turns 18 or finishes high school, would be an undertaking of fabulous cost, needless cost. Most of the youngsters could never use what they learned (principally squads right) and many of them, if distorted into soldiers, would make miserably poor ones at best.

No Misfit's Job

There is no place in the American armed services for a misfit, however sternly trained. The most routine army post is filled better by a willing soldier. Furthermore, war is growing yearly more technical. It requires more knowledge than a reluctant trainee can acquire in a year. When a man does acquire useful skill in defense, he deserves to be retained and paid well.

Without any shade of disrespect to America's fighting men and their singular resourcefulness and heroism, World War II was won in laboratory, field and factory as certainly as on the firing line. A lot of young men who would be misfits in any fighting force will be the technicians of tomorrow, and they can't spare a year of preparation to learn foot drill.

One Basic Error

I know that a great many smart people are in favor of universal military training, and for honorable reasons. But I have another serious objection to it in addition to the ones presented above. Universal military training is regimentation of the whole nation, in a limited way. It is the opening wedge with which the few can show the many who's boss.

Suspicion may well be leveled at the Naziferous notion of compulsory military training. It sounds like a defense measure but it is not. The first effect of it would be to interrupt the training of technicians and, since modern warfare is technical, it would actually cripple national defense. By carefully selecting volunteers and paying them well, Uncle Sam can have a better fighting force at less cost in money and with less confusion.

Eternal 'No' Is Typical of Russians

Soviet Assistance Termed America's 'Great Mistake'

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

An army officer, back from a long tour of duty in Germany, called on me the other day. He was pretty grim about the situation in Europe and into every few minutes of his conversation crept the word "Russia."

"I like to talk about America's great mistake," he said. "Germany is supposed to have lost the war by making mistakes; by attacking Russia, by not invading England after Dunkirk, by this and by that. I contend that America's great mistake was not staying out of Europe until Germany had licked Russia. I mean staying out in every way. Because without American supplies Russia would have been beaten."

I reminded him of the fact that America wanted a short war, that we had opposed Churchill's plan for attacking Europe through the Balkans and thereby obtaining possession of the trouble-making strip of territory which the Russians now dominate from the northern border of Greece up through Berlin. We wanted to shorten the war by leaving the eastern front to Russia while the western allies smashed the German power entrenched in France, the Low Countries and Italy. Thus, millions of American lives would be (and were) saved.

Churchill Foresaw Balkan Influence

Churchill probably foresaw the difficulties which would arise with a Russia able to expand her influence up to the fringes of western Europe. Roosevelt believed that the war must be won quickly and he thought that by giving the Russians everything they asked for in the way of military support their suspicions would be removed and that they would play ball with the Allies in the peace and after. He believed that Stalin needed peace so badly that he would come around.

General Eisenhower himself didn't achieve any more of a realistic viewpoint in regard to Russia than Roosevelt did—if we are to believe his somewhat verbose Boswell, Mr. Butcher, in his 900-page diary. Butcher writes:

"Ike said he felt that . . . the more contact we have with the Russians the more they will understand us and the greater will be their co-operation. The Russians are blunt and forthright in their dealings and any evasiveness arouses their suspicions. It should be possible to work with Russia if we follow the same pattern of friendly co-operation that has resulted in the great accord of allied unity. . . ."

Roosevelt and the generals were proved right when they said Stalin needed peace. But they were wrong when they thought he would come around. The state department understands the situation now and, as the recently concluded meeting of the foreign ministers demonstrates, appeasement has been over for some time. We know Russia can't fight and doesn't want to. Russia knows we can't fight whether we want to or not. She is acting accordingly and according to historical precedent.

Tragic History Inspires 'No-Ism'

But anyone who studies Russian history knows that the eternal "no" which seems about the only answer the Russian statesmen are allowed to make, comes from something far deeper than mere stubbornness.

This "no-ism" is only one of the many typical characteristics which the Soviets have revealed. It has nothing to do with the fact that they believe in a theory of political economy which is opposed to our own. It is a deeply implanted quality which is Russian rather than merely Soviet or Communist.

And so when you read "Soviet Russia evoked the veto for the sixth time in security council history. . ." (maybe the 16th time by the time you read this) . . . remember it's an old Kalmuck custom. Mother Russia has taught her children from the days of the invasion of Ghengis Khan, that when a stranger beckons, the only answer is "no, no, a thousand times no!" In fact, a Russian seldom says "no" once—it is always "net, net, net!"

Of course, Ghengis Khan didn't take "no" for an answer. Which is about the course the rest of the world can follow—if it can. Let's hope the process won't be as rugged.

OPA Battle Has Political Side

Whatever one may think of the intricacy of the economic theory behind the OPA, its political implications are a thousandfold more difficult to assess.

As congress battled over the tattered remains of the price control law, many a congressman who thoroughly detested the whole set-up began to worry a little as to what might happen back home if he were held partially responsible for wrecking the agency.

It was all right for the representatives of farm communities. The farmer would reap the reward of higher prices first. By the time he felt the effect of higher prices on the things he had to buy, OPA probably would be forgotten. But congressmen from industrial centers were in quite a different position. These communities are heard from the moment the missus encounters a markup at the corner grocery. That is the reason that a number of Republicans supported the administration stand on OPA. If the Republican party is to capture the house of representatives next November, it will have to pick up votes in the cities.

Congress Scans Types of Closing

It took some time for congress to make up its mind whether it would adjourn "sine die" (without date set for reconvening), as they usually do when a session comes to an end, or whether they would "recess." When congress merely recesses it can reassemble without a special proclamation by the President.

When the President calls congress into session, he has to issue a proclamation. That's all the Constitution demands. He doesn't have to deliver it. Out of courtesy, however, the White House always telegraphs the president of the senate and the speaker of the house.

But the proclamation is not good unless the Great Seal of the United States is affixed thereunto. Nobody can do that but the secretary of state, for he is the keeper of the seal. So along with the proclamation, the President has to issue a warrant, ordering the secretary of state to do the affixing.

I might say that the secretary of state usually delegates this task, which reminds me of a story, which, I believe, never has been printed. When Secretary of State Hull had been in office 12 years, there was a little outburst of congratulations. President Roosevelt, as they were talking privately, remarked: "Cordell, you are the sole guardian of the great seal, as you know." He paused, and Mr. Hull replied: "Yes, Mr. President." Then the President, looking him straight in the eye, asked: "Where is it?"

It was Hull's turn to pause. "I don't know," he admitted, "I've never seen it."

Barbers to Boost Vocabulary Too

It is probably fitting that along with the dollar haircut which has made its appearance in metropolitan barber-shops, we may find the barber presenting us four-dollar words. Barbers long have been known for the quality of their verbal output and in some cases for the quality as well. Now they may have a chance really to reach the heights, for the leader of a barber's union has offered to "enlist the aid of 10,000 barbers" in a campaign to get some of the facts of atomic life across to the customer.

Atom Bomb Blast Sinks Battleship and Carrier

CROSSROADS: Heavy Damage

Although accompanied by none of the fanfare of the first surface test, the underwater explosion of the atomic bomb in Bikini lagoon produced equally startling results, with the one A-charge sinking no less than ten ships and heavily damaging six others.

Hours after the blast, the water of Bikini lagoon remained too hot from radioactivity set off by the bomb to permit close inspection of the damage. Clouds along a 30-mile front became contaminated with atomic particles and naval observers disclosed that rain from the mass could be deadly.

A massive column of water, hurtling more than a mile into the Pacific sky, and a thick sheet of spray and steam that rose to 9,000 feet, followed the detonation of the bomb, which was touched off by radio from beneath a medium landing ship.

Veteran of two world wars, the 21,000-ton battleship Arkansas sank within five minutes of the blast, and the 33,000-ton aircraft carrier Saratoga also went down. The battleship New York, the Jap dreadnaught Nagato and the destroyer Hughes and transport Fallon were severely crippled by the charge.

UNDAUNTED VOYAGER . . . Unwanted by his Australian mother, 2-year-old Daniel Joseph Sprague Jr. traveled alone to San Francisco on the S. S. Monterey with 688 other children and war brides. Aboard the ship, the blond, wide-eyed little boy was "adopted" temporarily by Mrs. Edna Mayerhofer, 22, who will join her husband in Brooklyn, N. Y.

ATOMIC CONTROL: Russ Rejection

Even as Bikini reverberated with the explosion of the second atomic bomb test in the Pacific, Russia turned thumbs down on the U. S. proposal for international control of the atomic energy.

Addressing a closed meeting of the United Nations atomic energy committee on controls in New York, Soviet Representative Gromyko asserted that the U. S. suggestion that the veto be eliminated in atomic regulation could not be accepted by Russia because it would tend to destroy the principle of unanimity among the Big Five in preserving postwar peace.

Gromyko also rapped the proposal for establishing an independent agency for the control of atomic energy, declaring that the U.N. security council consisting of the Big Five as permanent members possessed both the power and means to deal with the problem.

OPA: Back in Business

No sooner had President Truman signed the compromise OPA bill extending the agency until June 30, 1947, than it swung into action to stabilize the national economy, which strained with the removal of controls.

Passed after the President had vetoed an earlier bill, the compromise measure contained many provisions designed to assure both producers and distributors of adequate working margins. However, it modified the original Taft amendment, which Mr. Truman charged would allow manufacturers unwarranted profits, by setting up ceilings based on 1940 prices plus increased costs.

PALESTINE: Hit Terrorism

Hitting at the use of violence designed to alter Britain's position in the ticklish problem of setting up a Jewish homeland in Arab-dominated Holy Land, the Labor government released a white paper in London purporting to show that prominent leaders of the Jewish agency for Palestine had unified underground organizations for a reign of terror.

Basing its contentions on intercepted messages between high agency officials in London and Jerusalem, the government said that the first co-ordinated outbreak of violence closely followed a communication revealing that the three main underground groups had been linked together for joint action.

ASTRONOMICAL FIGURES

War Spending Hits High Peak

Further evidence that wartime spending soared to astronomical peaks is contained in a treasury department report disclosing that nearly a trillion dollars was spent in this country during the six defense and war years. Figures computed by treasury analysts show that the exact amount spent through the calendar years 1940 to 1945 was 987 billion dollars.

The burden of arming and fighting costs accounted for unprecedented spending by the federal government, with a total outlay of 365 billion dollars, or about three-eighths of the total.

Expenditures of state and local governments, cities and counties amounted to about 50 billion dollars. The remaining 572 billion dollars was accounted for by spending of individuals and corporations, the figure including 517 billion dollars for consumers' goods and services and 55 billion dollars for production equipment.

The federal government was the only unit which went deep into the hole, the treasury report reveals. While spending 365 billion dollars, the federal government took in only 156 billion dollars in taxes, leaving a deficit of 209 billion dollars.

State and local governments took in 58 billion dollars in taxes, winding up about 8 billion dollars ahead as their expenditures amounted to only 50 billion dollars.

Individuals and corporations fared best, with a profit of 201 billion dollars. Their income after taxes were paid totaled 773 billion dollars while their other expenditures were reported as 572 billion dollars.

The 8 billion dollar surplus accumulated by state and local governments and the 201 billion dollar surplus piled up by individuals and corporations exactly equalled the federal deficit of 209 billion dollars.

That is not a coincidence, according to the treasury analysts, who insist that "total spendings and total income really are the same figure—they are the head and tail of a coin." In other words, one man's expenditure is another man's income.

These figures, the treasury declares, explain the origin of the enormous federal debt. The federal government was required to borrow to pay the excess of its spending over its income. It still owes that money plus some extra borrowing and some prewar debt, amounting in all to more than 268 billion dollars.

Rather Dumb Show

A father and his young son were walking out together, and the boy asked how electricity passed through wires.

"I don't know," said his father. "I never learned much about electricity when I was at school."

They walked a little further, then the boy asked what caused thunder and lightning.

"To tell you the truth," replied his father, "I never have understood about that myself."

"I say, Dad——" began the boy a little later, and then paused. "Oh, well, never mind—it really doesn't matter."

"Oh, go ahead," said the father. "Ask questions—ask a lot of questions. How else will you learn?"

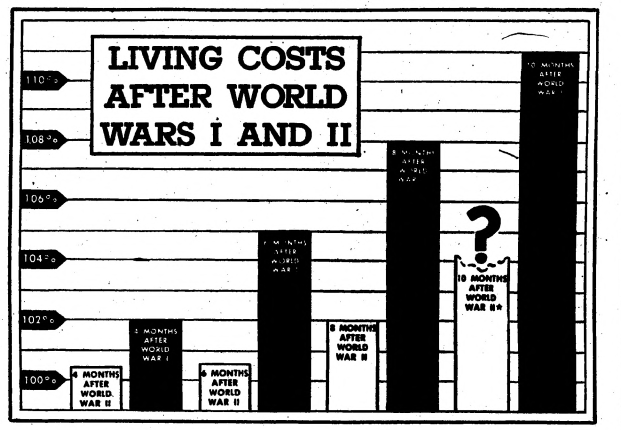
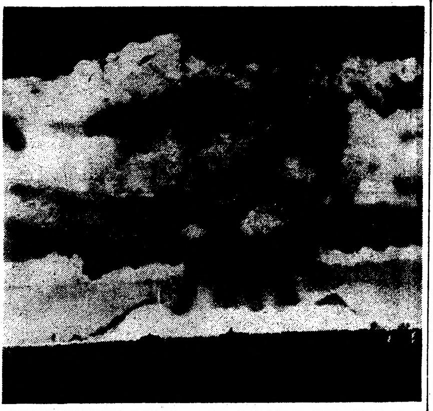
PEACE ON EARTH . . . As Old Glory was lowered in the gathering dusk of V-J Day, 1945, a marine kneels in silent prayer beside the grave of a comrade in the cemetery on Okinawa. Peace came for him after the war as it came for many on the battlefields. Insert shows Air Vice Marshall Isett, New Zealand, as he signs the surrender aboard the USS Missouri in Tokyo bay, while General MacArthur looks on. One year later, on August 14, all the world will honor those who willingly gave their lives that their's might live in peace. While V-J Day marked the end of the war, hundreds of thousands of veterans are still on active duty, finishing their job to see that war never lifts its head in the world. The nation honors all who contributed to success of the war against Japan, many who formerly fought against Germany.



H. C. L. AFTER TWO WARS . . . Following the trend of the cost of living in the United States after World Wars I and II, economists point out that in 1918 and 1919 prices rose spectacularly. Cost of commodities took but slight rises after World War II because of government price controls. Following demise of OPA, prices rose sharply on some staples and articles. This chart compares increases after both wars. It is based on the U. S. bureau of labor statistics' consumers' price index and covers 200 goods and services in 34 large cities throughout the country.



WATER SPOUTED A MILE . . . Power and heat of the fifth atomic bomb churned Bikini lagoon into a caldron of flame, smoke and steam and pitched battleships about like toy boats. The underwater explosion sank the battleship Arkansas and two smaller craft and dealt mortal wounds to the aircraft carrier Saratoga, which sank seven hours after the explosion. Size of water disturbance can be seen in above photograph, by comparison with naval ships still floating.

Krug did their bit for National Home Food Preservation week by canning peaches at community center in Washington. They are shown with their cans of peaches ready to be placed in canner. Hundreds of wives of U. S. government officials took active part in the program to preserve home-grown food.

Budget Balance In Doubt

A balanced Federal budget for the current fiscal year, which began July 1, is the nation's biggest financial question.

Weighing government estimates against business trends and congressional appropriations, fiscal experts say a balanced budget for the 1946-47 bookkeeping year may or may not be achieved, depending on whether Treasury receipts are greater than now expected.

Budget estimates pointing to a balance in the current year, after more than a decade of record-breaking deficits, have been upset by appropriations greater than anticipated early in 1946. Meanwhile, receipts also have held up better than expected and further gains in revenues may result from business improvement.

Economists are watching the budget with particular interest now because a balanced Federal budget is regarded as one of the most effective means of checking the inflationary trend in prices.

Rail Quiz

What is the story of the headlight?

In the early days of railroading, trains ran only in daylight hours, and headlights were unknown. As the railroads developed, however, night operations became increasingly necessary. The first crude step was taken under the direction of Horatio Allen, then with the South Carolina Railroad in South Carolina. He attached a small flat car to the front of the locomotive, covered the car with a heavy layer of sand on which he kept a bonfire of pine knots burning. In other instances, large candles protected by glass cases, fitted with reflectors, were used. Whale oil was extensively used in the 1840's and 1850's. After the discovery of petroleum in 1859, kerosene lamps took the place of candles and whale oil lamps. Then came gas lights, fed from storage tanks, and finally electricity. The first patent for an electric headlight was issued to Leonidas G. Woolley May 3, 1881, and several electric headlights were in use in 1884. Since the introduction of electric lighting, great progress has been made. Today locomotive headlights are powerful searchlights.

AS AMERICAN . . .
as a Weiner Roast

In a frying pan on the kitchen stove a weiner is just a weiner. But out under the open sky, with a breeze stirring in the trees and a fire crackling in an open grate, a weiner and bun and a glass of beer are a treat fit for a king.

Most Americans like a weiner roast—and most Americans enjoy a glass of beer. For it is the great American talent to find endless satisfaction in the simple, wholesome pleasures that add color and joy to every hour of our living.

To every American - - - banker, truck driver, farmer, mechanic, office worker - - - a glass of beer writes a pleasant period to any hard day's work. The right to enjoy this sociable drink of moderation and good sense is part of our American heritage. It fits right into the greatest pattern of living in the world - - - America.

Life Of Carl Ludvig Hanson

Funeral services were conducted from the Nazareth Lutheran church here on Friday, July 26 for Carl Hanson of Mahnomen. Carl was killed in a tractor accident on a farm near Harvey, N. Dak., on July 21 when the rear wheels of the machine became locked, throwing him the ground The tractor spun around three times, each time running over his body.

Carl Ludvig Hanson was born at Holt on October 10, 1906 and baptized and confirmed. At the age of 18 years he moved with his parent to a farm near Mahnomen where he grew up. He was 40 years old. Rev. Urness officiated at the services. Interment was made in the Holt cemetery.

Pallbearers were his five brothers and brother-in-law. He was preceded in death by his mother eight years ago.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his father, Oscar Hanson of Mahnemen, six brothers and two sisters.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to take this means of thanking Rev. Urness for his comforting message, those who sang, and those who gave floral and memorial offering in memory of our son and brother Carl.

Oscar Hanson and family.

79th Congress Goes Home

Oliver Canty and family, who have been here about a year, have decided to move out west and will sell out their stock, machinery and a lot of new furniture at an auction sale on their farm south of town on Saturday August 24.

Veterans Picnic Postponed

The Veterans Club picnic scheduled to be held at the Sig Nygaard home on the Mud Lake refuge next Sunday has been postponed due to the polio epidemic.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been very dry. We had a trace of rain on Friday which cooled the temperature down over the week end. Monday it cooled down to 42 in the morning. Tuesday we had another trace of rain and Wednesday night a good shower. but it cleared up at once yesterday morning.

Funeral Held For Mrs. Julius Borchert and Infant Son

Funeral services were conductdd on Friday afternoon for Mrs. Julius Borchert and baby boy of Mentor. First at the Lutheran Church at Mentor and then at Holt. At Mentor Rev. T. C. Hanson of Roseau conducted the service due to the absence of the local postor who is away on vacation. (His text was Philippians 1. 21-24). Pastor Urness of Holt spoke briefly and songs sung were as follaws; "Teach me to Pray" by Miss Adeline Groven of Mentor. "Safe in the Arms of Jeses" by Miss Sylvia Borchert of Thief River Falls and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" by Mr. Howard Bringold of Bemidji. At the Lutheran church at Holt Rev. E. O. Urness, local pastor was in charge and based his sermon on Luke 12. 32-24. Pastor Hanson from Roseau, former pastor also spoke briefly.

The songs sung were "My Faith Looks up to Thee" by the audience. "Near to the Heart of God" by Marvin Sandberg of Holt and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" by Miss Sylvia Borchert. Mrs. Marvin Sandberg served as organist and Miss Adeline Groven as accompanist for Miss Borchert.

Gladys Mabel Borchert was was born to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sanoden at Crookston on Jan. 29 1917. She grew to womanhood at Holt where the family has resided for about 30 years. She graduated from Mentor High school in 1934 and was married to Julius Borchert on June 10, 1939. She has since made her home on the Borchert farm near Mentor.

She was a member of the Mentor Lutheran Ladies Aid and was a teacher in the Lutheran Sunday School.

She passed away at the Bethesda hospital at Crookston on August 5, 1946, and had attained the age of 29 years, 6 months and 6 days.

She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Bonita Joan, her parents; one sister, Mrs. William Wittkowski of Des Moines, Iowa and one brother Russell Sanoden of Holt. The son, Mark Stephen, born August 5th, passed away August 7th and was buried in the same casket with his mother.

Gladys, as she was known to her friends, was a fine Christian lady, devoted to her family and to her church. She was an ideal mother and good wife. Her host of friends, together with her family, will always remember her with devotion.

Besides floral tributes considerable money was given in memoriam to charitable and missionary causes; some for the family to designate and also the Nazareth Lutheran Church building fund at Holt.

Interment was made in the Holt cemetery. Included at the committal service was also a prayer In opening by Rev. David L. Forsythe of Farmers City, Ill., uncle of Gladys, and in closing prayer by Pastor Hanson.

The following served as pallbeareas: Chester Gallan, Emil Olson and Mr. Allen of Mentor; Marvin Sandberg and Sam Lorentson of Holt and Delmar Hagen of Gatzke.

Lunch was served in the church basement after the committa service by Circle Five.

Celebrate 25th Anniversary

Neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson pleasantly surprised them on Sunday afternoon at their home, the occasion being their 25th wedding anniversary. The self-invited guests gave a program which was presided over by Walter Larson as master of ceremonies. The honor guests received a large cash purse as a remembrance of the day and a very delicious lunch was served.

This One Is Good

Francis X. Bushman was summoned to New York in the early days of the movies to sign a contract with Metro. His press agent, who wanted the matinee idol to receive a substantial salary increase, filled his pockets with two thousand pennies and dropped handfuls of them as he and the actor walked from Grand Central Terminal toward the Metro office.

Children, then grownups, followed them to pick up the coins. Metro officials, looking out their windows, judged Bushman's popularity by the vast throng that dogged his footsteps and paid him $1,000 a week without argument.

Although never in the movies, John D. Rockefeller did the same with dimes.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

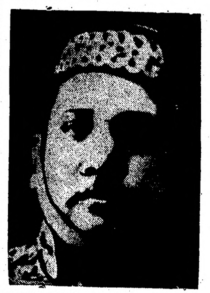
FARMERS TAKE TO AIR . . . More than 500 flying farmers from Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana left their tractors and combines to fly to Lafayette, Ind., to attend the first annual flying farmers' field day at Purdue university, and to prove that the airplane will play an important part in Midwest agriculture. The new group, which has 1,056 members, watched demonstrations.

Bell, Washington, D. C., former undersecretary of the treasury; Roy L. Thompson, New Orleans Federal Land Bank president, chairman; and George H. Mead, Dayton, Ohio, former chairman of the industrial advisory board under the NRA and member of advisory board of Office of War Mobilization.

EYE-DROPPER BABY—THEN AND NOW . . . When Richard Roseman was born in 1943, he weighed just 24 ounces. Doctors fighting to save the life of the tiny mite fed him with an eye-dropper, as shown at left. He was kept in an incubator. Today, Richard is a strapping young man of 40 pounds, of sturdy body and well-developed muscles.



REGAINED MEMORY AND RIGHTS . . . Rajah Kumar Ramendra Narayan Roy of India, who was believed to have died and been burned on funeral pyre, 12 years later regained his memory and was awarded his property rights. He reported that rain had put out the fire and brought him out of coma and that for years he wandered as a beggar over India. The Lord Privy council now has ruled that he is the rightful owner of a huge estate with a yearly income.

BATTING FOR HAY FEVER SUFFERERS . . . Full war on ragweed, which is blamed for most of the miseries of hay fever victims, was opened in Brooklyn as a campaign got underway to eradicate the weed in vacant lots. Photo shows city employees spraying a luxurious growth of the pesty weeds with a herbicide, dichlorophenoxyacetic. In six to eight weeks, treated plants die from a .01 per cent solution of spraying. Complete control of ragweed is now possible.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Small Nations Get Voice in Peace; Parts Strikes Hit Auto Output; Vote Furlough Pay in Bonds

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

PEACE PARLEY:
Open Discussion

Smaller nations won the right to discuss any question pertaining to the peace treaty drafts for Germany's former European satellites at the Paris peace conference in a surprise concession by Russia.

The Russian action followed Greece's demand that the conference be allowed to consider any item which relates to a just and durable peace. After hearing Yugoslavia and the Ukraine of the Soviet bloc attack the proposal, Russian Foreign Minister Molotov advanced his compromise. By offering the opportunity for thoroughly discussing the treaty drafts, his plan would permit the molding of a sound peace, he said.

While moving for free discussion of the treaty drafts, Russia continued to insist upon a two-thirds vote for the adoption of any recommendations for changing or altering the terms drawn up by the Big Four. Backed by the U. S. on the two-thirds rule, Molotov pointed out that such a majority vote was in effect both at Versailles after World War I and at the United Nations conference in San Francisco.

KKK:
Under Investigation

Ku Klux Klan activities in seven states were reported under investigation by the justice department as the government sought to prevent widespread outbreaks occasioned by Negro voting in southern primaries, dislocations of populations resulting from the war and congested living conditions.

Tom C. Clark

Heralded by Attorney General Tom Clark's statement in Philadelphia, Pa., that "we must rid ourselves of such things as organized bigotry," the government investigation reached into New York, Michigan, Tennessee, Florida, California, Mississippi and Georgia for federal violations.

While the inquiry was concentrated in the seven states, the department revealed that it had received complaints from all other parts of the country against Klan activities. Complainants included individuals, labor unions and civil rights societies, it was said.

PALESTINE:
Plan Partition

Unless substantial American financial aid, estimated at 300 million dollars, is forthcoming, British officials declared that they may have to reconsider an Anglo-American plan for partitioning Palestine into four spheres to solve the complex Jewish resettlement problem.

Of the 300 million dollars, it was reported, some 250 million would be advanced to the Arabs for self-liquidating projects, if they could not secure a loan from the international bank set up at Bretton Woods. At the same time, another 50 million dollars would be granted outright to the Arabs for economic development.

While the cost of Jewish resettlement was estimated at 280 million dollars, it was said that Jewish agencies and individuals would put up 260 million dollars, with the remaining 20 million drawn from Germany in reparations for Nazi confiscations.

Under the partition proposal, the Jews would receive the northeast section of Palestine and the Arabs chiefly the central part. Both would have the right to determine the number of immigrants to be admitted in their sectors. In addition, the Negeb desert area in the southwest would be open to Jews under British administration.

FARM PRICES:
At Top

Sharp increases in prices received by farmers for cotton, grains, meat animals, poultry and eggs and dairy products during the month ended July 15 raised the general level of prices received 26 points over the preceding month to 244 per cent of its 1909-14 mark.

This increase was the largest ever recorded for any single month and raised the index nine points above any previous month in the 37 years of record.

AUTO PRODUCTION:
Face Drop

Up to a postwar production record of 312,576 units in July, output of cars and trucks threatened to take another slide this month as strikes at supplier plants cut down the flow of essential materials to booming assembly lines.

Because a walkout of 80 tool and die workers at the Dura division of the Detroit Harvester company in Toledo, Ohio, affected shipments of door handles and interior hardware, Studebaker was compelled to lay off 4,000 employees and Hudson 12,000.

Meanwhile, Ford announced that unless labor differences were resolved in plants of seven critical suppliers, it would be forced to reduce operations. Strikes were tying up production of ball bearings, interior hardware, truck wheel rims, bolts and clutch disc assemblies and covers.

In calling for a settlement of the disputes in supplier plants to assure continued high auto and truck output, Henry Ford II took a crack at Walter Reuther, CIO-United Automobile chieftain, who had asked for an industry-wide union-management conference to increase production. The answer for higher output lies in uninterrupted activity, he said.

General Motors, Chrysler, Hudson, Packard and Nash echoed Ford's stand in rejecting Reuther's bid for an industry-wide conference. Of all the producers, only Studebaker, Willys-Overland and Kaiser-Frazer accepted the UAW invitation.

The threatened drop in production came as manufacturers boosted their August goals to 453,148 units. With July output showing a big jump over previous months, the half-year total for 1946 aggregated 1,292,214 cars and trucks, of which 862,628 were passenger autos.

FURLOUGH PAY:
In Bonds

G.I.s entitled to pay for unused furloughs will receive their money in bonds if the amount exceeds $50 under a bill approved by congress. Disbursements in securities was decided upon after the administration warned that payment in cash would have an inflationary effect.

To be issued in amounts of $25, the bonds will not be redeemed before five years, though they can be applied against U. S. government life insurance or national service life insurance before that time. In cases where excess sums do not total $25, payment will be made in cash.

Under terms of the bill, G.I.s are to be credited with leave time at the rate of 2½ days per month between September 8, 1939, and August 31, 1946, with payment for the unused portions. In addition, a buck private would be entitled to a subsistence allowance of 70 cents a day and a staff sergeant to his own subsistence allowance plus $1.25 for dependents.

In the Atomic World

Atomic energy, when harnessed for peacetime purposes, may be employed in accomplishing such bizarre tasks as irrigating the Sahara and melting the ice cap on Greenland, according to Harry A. Winne, noted electrical engineer.

Despite his fanciful predictions, however, Winne said atomic energy will not replace, but rather supplement, other sources of energy.

WAR PROFITS:
Garssons Kick

Denying the war department's charge that it made excessive profits on war contracts, Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., asked the U. S. tax court to bar the government's efforts to obtain a refund of $358,874.58 for the fiscal year ending November 30, 1943.

The company was an important unit in the Garsson munitions empire under scrutiny of the senate investigating committee headed by Senator Mead (Dem., N. Y.). Representative May (Dem., Ky.) was charged with having exerted his influence with the war department for awarding the combine war contracts and high army officers in Washington, D. C., were shown to have frolicked at the Garssons' expense and pushed their interests.

Erie Basin asked the tax court to overrule government refusals to consider certain rentals, salaries, maintenance expenses and depreciation charges as legitimate expenses. Further, it asserted that the U. S. failed to consider such factors as efficiency, reasonableness of costs and its contribution to the war effort in charging it with excess profits.

RED CROSS:
Continue Work

German war prisoners stood to benefit as the International Red Cross committee, meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, authorized the collection of $3,750,000 from affiliated societies and governments for relief work up to 1950.

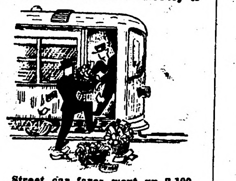
Humanitarian in its motives and recognizing no distinction in race, color or creed, the IRCC record of achievement during the war was especially noteworthy. The IRCC revealed that its activities included maintenance of a 27 million card index for 15 million prisoners of war; 900,000 inquiries to regiments regarding missing soldiers; visits by 420 IRCC delegates to POW camps in 56 countries to check on conditions, and safe delivery of 107 million letters or postal packages.

Of the $11,250,000 the IRCC received during six years, the Swiss government and its private citizens contributed nearly $5,000,000. France was next in line with $980,000, followed by Great Britain with $720,000, the U. S. with $650,000 and Germany with $500,000.

HUNGARY:
Riding High

Uncontrollable inflation hit Hungary much as it hit Germany after World War I, leaving a stricken populace with bushel-baskets full of money virtually worthless in buying power.

As postwar production and distribution collapsed in the face of heavy demand, the government printed more and more currency to meet the need for additional money for the soaring price level.



Street car fares went up 2,100 times in inflation-ridden Hungary.

Whereas a clerk or typist earned about 425 pengoes ($85) monthly before inflation, he got 32,000,000 by March. Street car fares went up 210,000 times and flour 2,200,000 times.

Five pengoes were worth a dollar before inflation, but by May, one billion were valued at only 10 cents. As a last resort, the Hungarian government decided to retire the pengo by this month and replace it with a new currency unit, the florint.

OPA:
Farmers to Pay More

Farm machinery prices were scheduled to rise as the revised OPA took steps to comply with the compromise bill designed to assure dealers of adequate profit margins.

Heeding the congressional provision for restoring dealers' peacetime profit margins, OPA granted a 6 per cent boost in retail ceilings for farm machinery. Previously OPA had compelled dealers to absorb part of higher manufacturers' prices on the grounds that large volume and less selling effort would afford sufficient return.

Higher fertilizer prices also appeared in the offing as OPA granted producers of ammonium sulphate a 10 per cent rise in ceilings and permitted importers of Chilean nitrate of soda and nitrate of soda-potash an increase of $5.50 a ton in their top.

BOOZE FIGHTING:
State Business

Boozefighting — in the curative sense of the word—is an official business of Connecticut now that the state's new Commission on Alcoholism has taken over the Yale Plan clinics for treatment of alcoholics.

Three other states have earmarked funds to further treatment of alcoholics and 14 cities throughout the country have well established committees for education on alcoholism.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To remove dust from wall paper, wipe with a soft wall brush or soft cloth. Hard rubbing will streak and roughen the paper.

Tip on painting: Don't overload brush, dip it one-third its length, and keep the can about half full.

If you wish to mix cheese with other ingredients to be cooked, cut the cheese in small pieces or grate it.

When you line dresser drawers or cupboard shelves, cut at least three layers of papers. Place them all at once. Then when the top is soiled, slip one paper off.

Sandpaper is useful in cleaning suede shoes. After a thorough brushing, go over them lightly with fine sandpaper, then follow with a cloth which has been moistened with vinegar.

Late fall is regarded as the best time to do house painting, for by then the long summer sun has removed all moisture from the wood.

To help restore the original lustre of gilt picture frames rub with a sponge moistened slightly with turpentine.

Minn. State Fair Is Cancelled

The king is dead; long live the king!

Hardly had the health directive cancelling the Minnesota State Fair been received last week than work on the 1947 "biggest of all" state fairs began.

The largest and most modern fair plant in America will be ready for use in 1947, said president W. S. Moscrip, as a result of building operations under way

In addition to the many structures which had been remodeled and repainted for the 1946 state fair, the balance of the livestock plant still in the hands of the government will, it is expected, be ready for occupancy next year said Moscrip.

Work on the new $600,000 AgricultureHorticulture building is scheduled to be half completed by snowfall, and the biggest farm crops' exhibit ever put on in the Northwest will be staged.

A small army of workmen has been busy the past week putting the fair back in moth-balls for the winter. Cost of cancelling the fair, said Moscrip, will exceed $100,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Soderberg left Thursday morning for their home at Pontiac, Mich., after visiting at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. C. L. Sandberg and other relatives.

Week end guests at the Harold Nohre home were: Alvilda Larson of Fargo and Borghild Martin from Washington, D. C.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

What's Enough?

What will John Q. Public pay for what he wants? He will pay every cent he thinks it is worth to him. Ultimately he will be willing to pay more, if he finds out the item is worth more than he first thought. On the other hand he will kick at a price and refuse to pay it as soon as he finds out any item is worth less to him than the money he paid for it.

These statements are so plain and simple that any schoolboy is able to understand them. You would hardly think anybody could get these facts mixed-up, but they are often used wrongly. Under them is hid the 1946 labor-management problem which is the most serious and the most dangerous one that has ever confronted this nation. What lies behind all the headlines telling about strikes?

Can't Get Together

In extreme brevity, union laborers are asking their employers for more pay—more wages than the employers (for some reason) are willing to lay out. Why not pay working men whatever they ask? All trades, especially farmers, want laborers to draw high wages because that's the key to good times. Farmers, whose fields feed the workers, have good markets and prosperity when labor prospers.

The answer is not hard: The workers' wages, just like the owners' profits come out of what John Q. Public will pay for what he wants. If the price is too steep for John, then there's no sale and no profits and presently no wages. If the price is within reasonable range of John's pocketbook, he buys. That makes profits and wages — better jobs and more of them, and prosperity.

High Wages Popular

There is such a thing as oppression; I have seen it in China. There is such a thing as exploitation of labor—ignorant labor. But it's foolhardy to mistreat workers in a modern American factory. If an employer should try holding wages down to fatten his own bank account, his customers would all favor higher pay for his workers because (in such a case) it could be done without boosting prices.

In most cases, when wages advance prices have to advance to cover the expense. There is no other way to raise wages except by boosting prices unless the prices already in force are fictitious and unfair, which competition seldom permits. Customers object to wage increases only when they call for price increases to cover them. Even then, Mr. Public is not always right.

Who Can Say When?

Many a wage increase is appropriate and economically sound even when prices have to be raised immediately to cover them. Boosting prices to pay better wages is good business, up to a point. But what point? Up to the point that John Q. Public gets slow about buying. So long as volume can stay large, the price is sound. When volume drops off and prices have to be boosted to pay for the blunder, that's unsound.

There are experts in every business who can estimate with remarkable accuracy how many of this-or-that will sell for some stipulated price. They know long before the first one is made. This year, when steady jobs at good pay are so vital to everybody, prices should be set in advance to get volume sales. Labor, as well as industry, should be interested in the right prices.

Tom Risdal of Fargo was a Holt visitor a few days this week

May God bless you all. Those kind deeds will long be remembered. Julius Borchert and Bonnie and the Sanodens.

To Help State's Polio Victims

Facililties have been provided that will assure prompt treatment for victims of polio here and in other communities througout Minnesota through a co-ordinated pooling of services, upon which all communities may draw, through a plan developed this week by Governor Edward J. Thye in cooperation with interested state departments and medical leaders.

The preparations centered around two actions:

1. Governor Thye appointed Dr. Edwin J. Simons, chief of the medical unit of the State Division of Social Welfare and president of the Minnesota Medical Association, co-ordinator of public and private resources for treatment of polio and asked him to organize and co-ordinate all resources possible that will be helpful in reducing spread of the disease and providing treatment.

2. Dr. Simons worked out and announced plans under which a variety of helpful services will be co-ordinated and made available to local communities, particularly in areas outside the Twin Cities, needing assistance in fighting the disease.

Instructions are being dispatched this week to all physicians, public health nurses and county welfare boards, announcing details of the program. Pledges of ample funds have been received from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the Helping hand Fund of "The Farmer" U. S. Children's Bureau, State Division of Social Welfare and other sources, Dr. Simmons said, to assure that victims of the disease, wherever located, may have prompt and adequate treatment. Governor Thye has asked officials to eliminate all red tape, where any exists, and make available at once any assistance needed.

The program outlined by Dr. Simons has been worked out and the main features include:

Funds to cover costs of treatment, special equipment and special service, will be provided, where families of the victims are not able to do so. To avoid any possible delay, the question of whether a family can afford to provide the treatment needed will be left entirely to the family

The plan contemplates full use of the family physician as the main line of defense, aided and supported by public health nurses where available.

Field nurses of the social welfare division will contact the family of each polio victim reported and the physician and inform them of the assistance available.

Wild Rice Harvest To Start

Opening date for the 1946 wild rice harvest will be August 25th, it was announced this week by Chester S. Wilson, commissioner of conservation.

Since 1939 wild rice has had the same legal status as fish and game and has been managed as a state-owned crop. Although wild rice grows throughout the eastern United States, it is more abundant in Minnesota than in any other part of its range.

There are more than 200 good stands in the state that are larger than five acres, as well as hundreds of smaller patches and fringing rice beds along lakes and streams. The total area occupied by wild rice ranges between 15 and 30 thousand acres, according to seasonal conditions. About 550,000 pounds of non processed rice were harvested in 1945. This was about one-half the yield of a bumper crop, which has exceeded 1,000,000 pounds in good years, and somewhat above the general average of 5000,000.

GOP Leaders Intrigue Press With Election Prospects

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — This weather—in Washington and elsewhere—develops more heat than light. That's a trite phrase, I know, but it's apropos because heat, rather than light, is always the keyword at this season, politically speaking. Congress accomplished its fadeout rather gracefully, I thought, even if they must have prayed for forgiveness for "the things we have left undone" as fervently as for the things they did which didn't sit too well with their consciences.

And now the voice of the vote-getter is heard in the land.

Radio and newspaper correspondents are being courted by both political parties. For example, recently, a crowd of radio folk was given a luncheon-table look at the vote-getting machinery behind the Republican lines. Our hosts were Republican Chairman Carroll B. Reece at one end of the table, and Republican Campaign Manager Clarence Brown at the other. (A similar jaunt into Democratic territory will be reported in a future column.)

Reece Quiet, Popular Chief

Reece is a slight, greying, quiet-voiced man whose Tennessee accent reminds one occasionally of Claude Pepper in one of Claude's unoratorical moments if you can catch him in one. (Personal confession: I like Pepper and Reece both and so do a lot of people who would be the first to say, "the views of these notables do not NECESSARILY agree with those of the undersigned.")

It is a little presumptuous of me to refer to Reece as "greying" because the year 1889 had to stretch itself from January to December to fill the time-gap between my birthday and his. He has taught in almost as many academic institutions as I have casually attended. He was a battalion commander in World War I whereas I never rose above the exalted station of shavetail, and among his five decorations are the Distinguished Service Cross, the Distinguished Service Medal and the Purple Heart. He was cited for bravery by a marshal, three generals and a colonel.

Perhaps the same qualities which won Reece his decorations qualified him for his present job. He certainly doesn't lack assurance even if he doesn't rattle sabers in expressing it.

But we are not talking about Reece. We are talking about his job. He is out on the hustings, although his trip, which will take him as far west as Seattle and as far south as Georgia, is mildly camouflaged as a vacation. Anyhow Mrs. and Miss Reece are going along, and a part of the time will be spent at a resort in the Rockies.

Backstopping Reece here in the capital where nobody votes, but where a lot of writers and talkers remain, will be Clarence Brown, representative from the seventh district of Ohio, a state which might be called a latter-day mother of presidents and which right now is looking hopefully over the patterns of maternity gowns.

Brown and Reece complement each other very well. Reece is slight, dignified, soft-spoken. Brown is large, loud enough to be heard in the back row without using the PA system, and hail-fellow-well-met. As "campaign manager" he is going to sweat it out (that is literal) with the rest of the Washingtonians who don't vacate in the summer.

I have a fellow feeling for Representative Brown, tinged perhaps with the natural deference a reporter always has for a publisher. Brown publishes several country newspapers (that's the way he put it himself in the congressional directory) whereas I merely write for "several" besides this one. Also he has three more children than I have. He and I once met on the debating platform, and while I would naturally never admit that I didn't present the best argument, I will concede somewhat grudgingly that Brown's resounding oratory won him the most applause. We were debating selective service, and I hasten to explain that former Senator (now Supreme court justice) Burton and I had the unpopular side. Anyhow, Brown (may-the-best-man-win) won.

Reece and Brown didn't talk on-the-record at the luncheon but I have a good idea of how things looked to the Republicans at that congenial gathering of radio folk. If the elections were held as of that moment, they claimed, the Republicans would win a majority of seats in the house of representatives and would make very heavy inroads on the Democratic majority in the senate. Since then many of the primary battles have been fought and I'll report the reactions later.

Gallup Poll Heartens GOP

In the first place I understand that the Republicans took considerable satisfaction in the Gallup poll which showed that, excluding the one-party Democratic states, 46 per cent of the persons interviewed showed a Democratic preference and 54 per cent a Republican preference.

The GOP leaders believed they had a good, fighting chance to win 15 to 17 senatorial seats from their opponents. In New York, they say Governor Dewey's good record and the campaign he is planning ought to pull in a Republican senator (they won't say whom). They believe Democratic Senator Mead will have to run or the governorship.

They felt they had a chance in Delaware and West Virginia and that if the ballots were cast at that moment they would win in Missouri (I'm still talking about the senatorial race). They called Montana and Washington probabilities rather than mere possibilities.

Carroll B. Reece and Rep. Brown

O'Mahoney knows he has a fight, they say, and they believe the Republican candidate, John Henderson, has a chance against the popular gentleman from Wyoming.

I heard a lot of talk, too, about the interesting possibility in Connecticut where Repr. Clare Luce was expected to oppose former OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, which would be a colorful affair with all the technical skill of her publisher husband, and all the skill of an advertising man, Mr. Bowles, pitted against each other.

As to the house of representatives, Republican machinery has been grinding in at least 75 districts.

Ol' Kentuck Bloody Battleground

Kentucky was catalogued as still a dark and bloody battleground. At the time of the luncheon, Representative May's followers seemed to feel, according to press reports, that he was a martyr. If something should come out to change their minds on that score, he might go down to defeat. And we are reminded that, as one Republican put it: "every 20 years or so Kentucky changes its mind."

What the Republicans seem to count on most is the natural reaction, the "throw the rascals out" theory which Americans always have reverted to after so long a period of any party's incumbency. In addition, say the GOPundits, there are the usual mistakes of the party in power which result in the well known attitude of one of Clarence Brown's constituents who told him:

"I don't know who I'm FUR, but I know durned well who I'm AGIN."

NEWS REVIEW

New Farm Plan Studied; Death of UNRRA Looms

UNRRA:

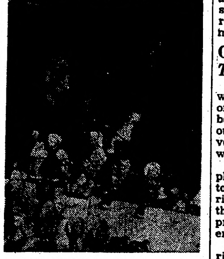
U. S. to Quit

Following close upon the blast of Senators Butler (Rep., Neb.) and Ellender (Dem., La.) against use of United Nations relief and rehabilitation funds abroad, Assistant Secretary of State William L. Clayton told the fifth UNRRA council meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, that the U. S. would not contribute additional funds to the agency.

W. S. Clayton

While the senators had charged that UNRRA supplies were being used to bolster foreign governments, Clayton stated that the U. S. was withdrawing future assistance to the agency because the period of immediate postwar impoverishment was passing and the U. S. and other countries had supplied sufficient credit mediums for financing recovery.

In all, the U. S. provided no less than 2½ billion dollars of aid to UNRRA, sufficient for supplies to fill 2,000 cargo ships.



WAR INSPIRATION . . . Separated by the war, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Manske found inspiration for a unique business venture. Mrs. Manske, the former Jane Faunts of swimming fame, sculpted small figurines of their daughter to send to her husband, former football star. Now they are in business selling figurines.

FARM PROGRAM:

New Proposals

A new farm program calling for a combination of sound open market practices and governmental assistance was proposed by the special house committee on postwar economic policy and planning headed by Representative Colmer (Dem., Miss.).

In recommending changes in present farm legislation, the committee urged:

Greater flexibility be allowed in farm prices, especially toward each other.

Supply and demand be given greater opportunity to determine farm prices rather than artificial controls.

Re-examination of the outmoded parity price formula designed to give farmers an income on a par with industrial workers.

Concentration on a long rather than a short range farm program.

For establishing a "floor" under farm prices to prevent a disastrous drop, the committee proposed a support program guaranteeing producers "60, 70 or 80 per cent of parity"; a supplemental payment during hard times to assure a certain percentage of pre-depression income and limits on the rate of decline for a specified commodity in a year.

CIO:

To Fight Prices

Remaining militant in its postwar program to aid the interests of more than five million members, the CIO announced an all-out drive on rising prices to prevent further depreciation of the workers' dollar.

Revealing that it had given up plans for another big wage drive to win further increases to offset rising living costs, the union stated that demands for more money probably would result in still higher prices.

In forecasting additional price rises of 15 to 20 per cent during the next few months, the CIO said that the corresponding reduction in purchasing power of the consumer's dollar would represent a wage cut of 17 per cent. A successful consumer strike against higher prices would terminate current inflation within the next 18 months at the worst and three to six months at the best, it said.

'ENCOURAGED' DESPITE LAGS

Vet Housing May Reach Goal

WASHINGTON.—Despite reports indicating building lags throughout the nation, Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt predicted that his veterans' housing program will achieve its goal of getting 1,200,000 temporary and permanent homes started in 1946.

Wyatt's prediction was based on a report which he characterized as "encouraging" although it contained facts indicating the picture is not too bright. The report showed:

A total of 496,000 family units of all types were started in the first half of the year. To achieve the 1,200,000 goal, the number of "starts" will have to average 117,000 per month in the last half of the year compared with an average of 83,000 in the first half and with 92,500 in June.

First Slump Reported.

In June, for the first time since the Wyatt program began last January, "starts" of conventional and prefabricated houses and apartments slumped. The June figure was only 62,000, compared with 66,000 in May. To achieve the Wyatt goal, 84,500 of these new homes must be started every month in the last half of the year. They constitute the largest portion of the program.

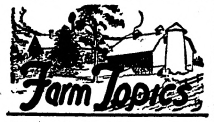
Production of prefabricated houses has been far below Wyatt's earlier expectations, so that the 1946 goal for "starts" of this type has been reduced from 250,000 to 100,000. To achieve the over-all goal of 1,200,000 family units, the national housing agency will have to start 738,000 conventional type houses and apartments, instead of 650,000 as originally planned, 212,000 temporary homes instead of 200,000, and 100,000 instead of 50,000 "conversions" (adding family units by remodeling older houses and apartments).

In the first half of 1946, 225,000 units of all types were completed. Of these, 72,000 were "temporary" units, such as relocated barracks and trailers. Only 153,000 permanent homes and apartment units were completed, and only 40,000 of these were started after the Wyatt program began.

The Wyatt report attributed to the bureau of labor statistics an estimate that it takes six to seven months to complete a new family unit today compared with three to four months before the war.

Wyatt did not mention in his report that the number of applications for priorities to build under his program declined sharply in June, a fact that may presage another slump in "starts" during July.

Priority applications, which were for 125,102 units during May, dropped to 45,705 units in June. July figures will not be available until September.

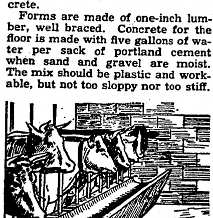


Clean Milk Comes From Modern Barns

Well Constructed and Clean Mangers Urged

Concrete dairy barn floors and mangers will prove a big help in producing milk of high quality as well as reducing the amount of labor required. The U. S. public health service milk code provides that no dairy barn meets the requirements for producing high grade milk without a long-lasting, non-absorbent, sanitary floor such as concrete.

Forms are made of one-inch lumber, well braced. Concrete for the floor is made with five gallons of water per sack of portland cement when sand and gravel are moist. The mix should be plastic and workable, but not too sloppy nor too stiff.



Barn floors and mangers properly designed and built help assure clean, comfortable, healthy stock—high quality milk.

Build the manger curb first; then the litter alley and the manger. Leave holes in concrete for future stall equipment if not now available. Then build stall platforms. These will vary according to the kind of cattle. The mangers should be finished with a steel trowel. The concrete should be damp cured for at least five days before using.

Know Your Breed

Guernsey

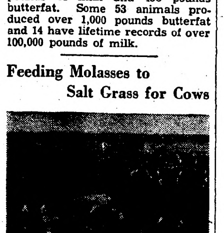
By W. J. DRYDEN

Valleywood Valiant Hero 235690, a grand champion Guernsey bull of registered performance.

The Guernsey breed originated on the small English channel island of Guernsey. The breed was brought to America as early as 1818.

The Guernsey is of medium size with fawn and white clearly delineated markings. Summary of 98,297 advanced registered records show the average production was 10,151 pounds of milk and 498 pounds butterfat. Some 53 animals produced over 1,000 pounds butterfat and 14 have lifetime records of over 100,000 pounds of milk.

Feeding Molasses to Salt Grass for Cows



Good stuff, the salt grass, Herefords say after they've sampled it. Photo—Food Mach. Corp.

Salt grass which cattle ordinarily will not eat may be covered with a solution of one-third water and two-thirds molasses. Power spray may be used economically with a 20-foot width.

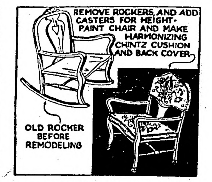
Cattle fatten on the molasses and water combined with the grass, produce bigger and tastier steaks. Other similar uses may be devised for use of power sprays to meet individual requirements.

Weed Killer Shortens Farm Crop Maturity

Experiments in Hawaii and Puerto Rico with 2,4-D—miracle weed killer, indicate that it may control the growth of pineapples two years instead of three. It is generally believed that further experiments will prove that 2,4-D will shorten the time of maturity for many crops in America. Earlier maturing tomatoes, melons, corn, yams, potatoes and other farm crops are among those being experimented with.

Changing Character Of Outmoded Rocker

IN TODAY'S cramped living quarters there is little space for a rocker that neither harmonizes with antiques nor modern furniture. Yet, with the slight alterations shown here, such a chair may be made to seem at home with either type of furniture.



REMOVE ROCKERS AND ADD CASTERS FOR HEIGHT-PAINT CHAIR AND MAKE HARMONIZING CHINTZ CUSHION AND BACK COVER
OLD ROCKER BEFORE REMODELING

After the rockers have been removed, it may be made to change character to suit the material used for cushion and back covers.

Kidneys Must Work Well-
For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.
Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Peterson-Lunke Wedding

The Nazareth Lutheran Parsonage was the scene of a wedding on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock when Miss Verna Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Peterson, became the bride of Mr. Arthur Lunke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lunke. Rev. E. O. Urness performed the single ring ceremony. Their attendants were Miss Joyce Peterson sister of the bride, and Mr. Melvin Larson, cousin of the bride.

The bride wore a luggage brown wool jersey dress with dark brown accessories studded with gold nail heads. Her corsage was of salmon colored gladiolas and sweetpeas. The bridesmaid wore a gold wool dress with dark brown accessories. Her corsage was of white gladiolas and sweet peas. The groom and bestman wore buttonaires of white sweetpeas.

The bride is a graduate of Newfolden High school and has been employed at Carlson's for the past four years. The groom has been at home on his parents farm near Holt.

A lunch was served to the wedding party by Mrs. E. O. Urness following the ceremony.

The newlyweds went to Minneapolis for their wedding trip.

Betty Johnson is now employed as assistant to Dr. Snyder at Thief River Falls.

G. Sanoden was taken ill Friday and had to be rushed to St. Lukes hospital on Friday.

H. O. Hanson was taken ill Thursday night and had to be rushed to a hospital at Thief River Falls. He is responding very well to treatment there and will, after his recovery from this attack, be in fine shape.

Timber Reservss to be Tapped

Timber reserves on the Red Lake Indian reservation will be tapped to provide lumber for the veterans' housing program, Wilson W. Wyatt, housing expeditor announced in Washington.

As part of a $1,234,000 access road construction program to open up timber in eight reservations, 28 miles of road will be built in the Red Lake section, mostly with Indian labor.

Work on this and 200 miles of road in the other seven reservations throughout the nation,s forest sections will begin within 30 days. The department of the interior will supervise the program. Indian labor will be used for the road projects.

Wyatt said the reservations will provide about 17,000,000 feet of lumber this year when the access roads have opened up presently inaccessible sections. That would be enough lumber for approximately 17,000 six room houses. He also estimates 15,194,000 board feet will be made available in 1947.

Pork and Beans

HORATIO Alger whose heroes, boys of sturdy character, all rose to riches and fame, should be alive to write the success story of pork and beans. Here is a striking case of simple, honest, goodness, advancing slowly but surely to well deserved glory. Until within the past two years, the plebeian bean and its colleague pork were considered an excellent home dish but hardly a company one. They were tasty, everyone agreed, but not smart. But now you should see them at midnight suppers in Newport and on Park Avenue buffet tables. A smart magazine recently showed them in silver casseroles at the same parties with the brightest social lights.

Here are two ways of serving baked beans popular now with society hostesses. But remember that, although these good old substantials have climbed the social ladder, they are still just the thing for kitchenette suppers on cold nights and for picnics on summer afternoons.

Two Smart Recipes

Baked Beans with Sausages: Chop one small onion fine, dice one small green pepper and add to one No. 2 can of tomatoes with one teaspoon sugar, and salt and pepper to taste. Cook gently for ten minutes, add the contents of one 1-pound can of New England oven-baked beans, and pour into a buttered shallow baking dish. Arrange twelve sausages over the top, and place in a hot oven. When sausages are brown on top, turn them over, reduce heat, and cook slowly for from forty-five minutes to an hour. This serves six.

Hurry-Up New England Bean Pot: Dice one green pepper, and sauté it in two tablespoons fat for three minutes. Add the contents of one No. 2 can of tomatoes, and cook three minutes more. Add one cup cooked diced carrots (fresh or the contents of one 8-ounce can), one can of New England oven-baked beans and one 12-ounce can of corned beef. Season to taste and heat thoroughly. This serves eight.*

Golden Wedding Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lunke will observe their Golden Wedding anniversary on Sunday, with a gathering at their home sponsored by Circle 2 of the Nazareth Ladies Aid. Although invitations have been issued, anyone who may have been missed who desires to come are hereby cordially invited.

Their Faces Are Red!

THEIR faces are red—these ruddy tomatoes—but they have nothing to blush about. They aren't aware of their popularity perhaps, but actually they're invited to more meals than any other vegetable.

Just look over your favorite recipes, and see how many of them include tomatoes in some form or other. Soups, sauces, meats, vegetables, salads, cocktails and desserts—they are all made better by that delicious and healthful blushing tomato.

Let 'Em Blush

If you like fresh tomatoes, be sure that they do blush. For the merely pink tomatoes, hard and under-sized which are shipped to our northern climates during the winter, are hardly recognizable as the same fruit that ripens in the gardens until it is large, deep crimson and full-flavored—full of juice and health-giving properties.

Canned tomatoes, of course, are always of the blushing type. They have been picked from the pick of the crop at their prime, and they have been quickly put into cans so that their natural goodness is preserved. It is these canned tomatoes that we have come to rely on as an all-year round treat. Have you tried the following simple way of using canned tomatoes?

Scalloped Tomatoes Scotch Style: Bring to boiling the contents of one No. 2 can of tomatoes, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one tablespoon sugar and a few grains of pepper. Add one-half cup of quick-cooking rolled oats and pour into a buttered baking dish. Cover the top with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven—375 degrees—for thirty to forty minutes. This serves six persons.*

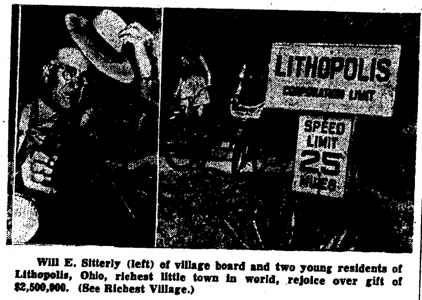
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Act Fast on Vets' Furlough Pay; Axis Allies Seek Soft Peace; Tighten Consumer Credit Rules

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Will E. Sitterly (left) of village board and two young residents of Lithopolis, Ohio, richest little town in world, rejoice over gift of $2,500,000. (See Richest Village.)

FURLOUGH PAY:

Fast Action

Application forms for vets' unused furlough pay will be available at all post offices by mid-September but disbursement of the five-year bonds will not take place before the end of the month because of time required in printing.

In announcing the procedure to be followed, the war department stated:

1. Applications will be acknowledged when received to assure the vet his claim is on record.

2. Disbursing officers will accept sworn statements of applicants unless there is suspicion of fraud.

3. Army vets unable to determine how much unused furlough pay they have coming, figured on the basis of 2½ days per month, can apply for information to the adjutant general's personnel records branch at St. Louis, Mo.

PARIS:

Wanted: Softer Terms

Addressing the delegates of 21 Allied nations at the peace conference in Luxembourg palace, representatives of Italy, Romania and Bulgaria pleaded for moderation of terms on the grounds that, as co-belligerents of the victors in the closing stages of the war, they had made substantial sacrifices for victory.

Speaking for Italy, Premier De Gasperi stated that his country had contributed troops, naval power and materials for three years and that the Allies should think twice before internationalizing Italian dominated Trieste and submitting 180,000 Italians in Venezia Guilia to Yugoslav rule. He also asserted that excessive reparations would weigh down the Italian economy and reduction of armaments would imperil the safety of the state.

Foreign Minister Giorgu Tatarescu of Romania followed De Gasperi to the speaker's dais and asserted that no less than 385,000 Romanians had fought on the allied side during the last six months of the war. Furthermore, he said, German and Hungarian forces had inflicted large-scale damage of Romania after she had deserted the axis cause. Tatarescu asked for a larger army and scaling down of heavy reparations.

On behalf of Bulgaria, Foreign Minister George Koulishev claimed that his country had suffered 32,000 casualties during the eight months it fought on the allied side. He charged Greek demands for $750,000,000 in reparations were excessive and asked that Bulgaria be permitted to disarm within reasonable limits. Regulation of traffic on the Danube should be the interest of all the countries bordering the river, including Bulgaria, Koulishev said.

Unable to come before the peace conference like Italy, Romania and Bulgaria as 11th hour co-belligerents, Hungary pleaded that, despite its participation on Germany's side, it never really was sympathetic to the Nazi cause. After this lame assertion, the Hungarian representative called for the return of at least one-fifth of the province of Transylvania from Romania.

RICHEST VILLAGE:

Spending Problem

Biggest job of the little village of Lithopolis, Ohio, population 288, is not how to raise money but how to enjoy the millions left to it by the Wagnall family.

In all, the Wagnalls have left $3,000,000 to the little settlement in which Adam Wagnalls of the Funk and Wagnalls publishing house, was born. Following an initial gift of $500,000 for a 9,000-volume library, auditorium and dining hall, Mrs. Mabel Wagnall Jones then willed an additional $2,500,000 to Lithopolis to establish a community memorial in honor of her famous father.

Discussing use of the latest endowment, Will E. Sitterly, 66-year-old farmer member of the board of trustees of Lithopolis, declared the money must be used to the advantage of both rich and poor. Although believing that it will take years to complete a program of sound expenditure, villagers looked for an immediate expansion in educational facilities.

Meanwhile economists figured that the total endowments amounted to $10,000 for each of Lithopolis' 288 residents.

CONSUMERS:

Credit Curbs

Apprehensive over an inflationary trend, the federal reserve board clamped down on consumer credit regulations to slacken the flow of easy money in the face of a continued shortage of goods.

The action came after consumer installment loans had risen to the unprecedented rate of 575 million dollars a year during the first quarter of 1946. Normally, consumers do not add to their debts during this period, when they are paying off obligations contracted during Christmas time.

With the price of many automobiles topping $1,500, the board hiked coverage of its credit regulations up to $2,000. Anyone purchasing a car in the $1,500 to $2,000 range will have to put at least one-third down and pay off the balance in 15 months.

Time for paying off credits on non-durable or semi-durable goods was cut from 18 to 15 months while the period for so-called hard goods was continued at 12 months. With many personal loans being used for purchase of such hard goods as furniture, refrigerators, autos, etc., such obligations will have to be repaid in 15 months.

DARDANELLES:

Hot Spot

Another major international row appeared in the making with Soviet Russia's demand upon Turkey that she break the Montreux convention of 1936 and share control of the vital Dardanelles straits leading to the Black sea with Moscow.

Under the convention, the Turks have been entrusted with the guardianship of the strategic waterway and, while they have expressed a willingness to maintain the present arrangement, they have informed the U. S. and Britain that they cannot hold out against the Russian proposals alone. By granting Russian demands, the Turks would be forced to permit Red troops to occupy parts of their soil along the straits.

In vesting control of the Dardanelles only in nations bordering upon the Black sea, Russia proposed to exclude the warships of other countries from the region. While the Reds recommended that all merchant vessels be allowed to ply the Black sea, dominant Soviet control of the straits would permit Moscow to lay down shipping conditions and put an iron clamp on Allied naval moves against southern Russia.

FARM CREDIT:

Co-Ordinate Activity

President Truman's approval of the Farmers' Home corporation bill sponsored by Representative Cooley (Dem., N. C.) set the stage for the streamlining of the government's agricultural credit activities for low income borrowers.

As expressed by Cooley, purpose of the bill is to empower one agency under the secretary of agriculture to make direct loans to farmers who cannot get credit elsewhere for 5 per cent or less. Three-member county committees, consisting of at least two farmers, will be set up to pass on loan applications, and no short-term advance will be made without their approval.

In the reorganization, the Farm Security administration, some activities of the Farm Credit administration and all programs of the National Housing agency pertaining to the FSA will be abolished. The secretary of agriculture also will be required to liquidate all resettlement and rehabilitation projects described by Cooley as "communistic."

DRAFT:

Plan Calls

Unless there are more volunteers, draft boards will be asked to call up 185,000 more men in the seven months beginning September 1 to enable the army to maintain its authorized strength through the year, the war department revealed.

Although enlistments are expected to total 279,000 by next June 30, discharge of fathers and soldiers with 18 months of service as required by law will necessitate the heavy peacetime induction, it was said.

With army strength authorized at 1,310,000 on January 1 and 1,070,000 next July, 20,000 active duty reserve officer volunteers will be recalled to duty. Another 25,000 officers will be selected to bring regular officer strength up to 50,000 as authorized by law.

POLITICS:

La Follette Falls

While Circuit Judge Joseph R. McCarthy attributed his victory over Robert M. La Follette in the Republican senatorial primary in Wisconsin to the voters' reaction against centralized government, political wiseacres blamed late campaign boners as potent reasons for Young Bob's demise.

Perhaps the most serious of La Follette's blunders was his open last-minute support of Gov. Walter S. Goodland's opponent after the 83-year-old chief executive had vetoed a bill earlier this year which would have prevented Young Bob from returning to the GOP fold. With many of Goodland's supporters resenting La Follette's 11th hour move, it was figured that enough may have deserted his cause to result in his narrow loss.

Young Bob La Follette

Young Bob's defeat temporarily ended the La Follettes' 41-year dominance in Wisconsin politics, with the old Progressive leadership built up by Fighting Bob Sr., making way for the rising star of industrialist Tom E. Coleman as the conservative boss of Badger State politics.

PALESTINE:

Turn on Heat

The illegal Jewish underground organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi, called upon all Jewish resistance movements in Palestine to unite in the fight for attainment of a Jewish national home in the Holy Land even as British officials lambasted zionists for seeking to high pressure the government into acceding to their demands.

Pointing out that it was necessary to press their drive now while the British were being hard put to maintain order in Palestine, Irgun suggested that the two other resistance groups, Haganah and the Stern gang, combine to form the nucleus of an underground government and army.

Meanwhile, the U. S. refused to formally participate in implementation of a proposal to divide Palestine into Arab and Jewish zones and advance Arabs in the Near East $300,000,000 for economic development to offset overcrowding from large-scale Jewish immigration.

SCHOOL LUNCHES:

Set Program

Twenty-six states and the territory of Hawaii have already signed agreements to take advantage of federal school lunch program funds provided under the national school lunch act, the department of agriculture announced.

During past years, the school lunch program has been run on a year-to-year basis, but the new act makes it permanent and increases the responsibilities of states in the administrative field.

C.O.'S:

Amnesty Asked

More than 300 leading ministers of all denominations have urged President Truman to grant amnesty to conscientious objectors still kept imprisoned by the goverment.

The ministers' letter followed adoption of amnesty resolutions by the Federal Council of Churches and by a number of denominational groups.

FARM BRIEFS . . .

Of farm-retail price spreads, the department of agriculture says, the farmer's share of the consumer's dollar spent for food products in June remained at 53 cents. This share was slightly lower than the share of 54 cents in June, 1945, and 3½ per cent lower than the record of 55 cents. Charges for marketing farm food products remained relatively stable during the month.

CLAIMS WORLD'S SMALLEST COLT . . . Whoever heard of a 15-pound colt? But seeing is believing and above is "Cricket," 15 pounds of long legs, fuzzy hair and frisky tail. Seven-year-old "Tiny," a 210 pound pony, believed to be the smallest matured pony in the world, gave birth to "Cricket." They are shown with their owner, Homer Houser, Dayton, Ohio, who raises colts and shows them at fairs.

WHALE OF A FISH—STORY! . . . Mildred Knight, Chicago, is amazed (and so are we) by the extremely rare "fur fish" exhibited by Pat Wilsic, Boulder Junction, Wis. The fur fish is one of three hippocampus specimens on record and there won't be another for 50 years. Wilsic is a member of the Burlington Liars club and claims the fish weighed 13 pounds when caught in waters 50 to 60 degrees below zero. It was 2 feet 6⅞ inches long.

SEE AMERICA FIRST GLACIER NATIONAL PARK
GREAT NORTHERN
GN

Great Northern has waited several months to begin construction of 500 plywood and steel boxcars—duplicates of the car in the picture above—but necessary materials have not been obtainable. The railway built 1,500 of these high grade boxcars in the past three years.

BOXCAR FACTS --NOT FICTION

The inability of Great Northern to provide enough boxcars to handle quickly this year's grain crop, in addition to supplying sufficient equipment for transport of lumber and many other Northwest products, indeed is not a pleasant situation for the railway.

For years Great Northern maintained, by intelligent planning and operating know-how, a reputation for on-the-spot service to grain growers when they wanted it most—at harvest time. Reservoirs of serviceable cars were established at strategic points in advance of harvest. A plentiful supply of boxcars assured swift, efficient movement of grain to markets.

That service, not possible during the war, could have been resumed this year—and to a high degree of success—if:

1. A large percentage of the railway's boxcar ownership had been on its own line ahead of the Northwest harvest.

2. Sufficient materials had been obtained by Great Northern to build several hundred new boxcars, and to repair a large amount of war-worn equipment.

Great Northern owns 24,632 boxcars. Yet, where all our boxcars are not is the pertinent though disturbing point.

When this was written on August 21, Great Northern had on the railway slightly more than 60 per cent of its total boxcar ownership, or less than 15,000 cars. Of this number, only 5,640 cars were Great Northern-owned; the remaining 9,216 belonged to other lines. This means that while the railway is so urgently needing at least 100 per cent of its boxcars in daily, home-line service, it actually has on its line 10,000 fewer boxcars than it owns. Those are boxcar facts—not fiction!

Why doesn't Great Northern have a higher percentage of its boxcar ownership on its own line? One reason, of course, is that the boxcar shortage is universal. No railway has escaped it entirely.

The fact that Great Northern primarily is an originating line intensifies the shortage on the system. The source of empty boxcars for use by shippers along Great Northern is relatively small because more loaded cars move from this railway than move to it.

The necessity for repairing a large percentage of the empty boxcars allocated to the railway also contributes to the shortage. Equipment which is unfit for grain or merchandise transport is an economic liability. Regardless of what lines own bad order boxcars delivered to Great Northern, the railway must recondition them before releasing for further service. The owner railways pay the repair bills—but Great Northern patrons are deprived of use of the cars while they are in shops.

According to the Association of American Railroads, other major factors contributing to the shortage are: an increase in less-than-carload movements of lighter loads, thus requiring more cars; shorter average hauls of other types of freight, creating a longer average turn-around time; the 5-day week, which stops unloading of cars from Friday night to Monday, although railway operations are on a 7-day basis.

Toward increasing the utilization of available boxcars the Office of Defense Transportation has revised and tightened loading and unloading requirements, and has established heavy demurrage penalties. In addition, Shippers Advisory Boards continue to give the railways effective assistance in obtaining the fullest possible use of equipment.

When the urgently-needed improvement in Great Northern's boxcar supply will begin cannot be predicted at this time.

However, the railway's management believes that a real, lasting improvement will begin only when individual roads and car-building concerns are able to obtain adequate materials to build the thousands of new boxcars now on order.

Double Wedding at G. Johnsons

The Carl Johnson home was the scene of a lovely double wedding on Saturday evening August 31st at 8 o'colck. Laverne Johnson became the bride of Donald Inman son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Inman and Marion Johnson became the bride of Milton Davidson son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Davidson in a candlelight service read by Rev. Myher in the presence of approximately 100 relatives and friends.

"Oh Perfect Love" was sung by Betty, Joyce and Elaine Johnson, cousin and sisters of the brides during the ceremony in which the couples attended each other.

The brides wore identical dresses of white wool with tropunto embroidery and corsages pink roses with white baby asters. Gold bracelets, their only jewelry were gifts of the grooms.

Following the ceremony Evelyn Sagstuen, Cousin of the brides sang "I Love You Truly"

A profusion of flowers lent a garden atmosphere to the Johnson home. An informal recpetion was held following the ceremony at which lunch was served buffet style from a table centered with two identical two tiered wedding cakes in pink and white with ligeted tapers in a golden candlelabrum.

The couples left for a short honeymoon trip.

Rail Quiz

Didn't the first numbered patent issued by the federal government tie in with railroading?

Yes. Patent No. 1 in 1836 went to a gearlike arrangement for locomotive wheels and rail to mesh for grades. This cog invention was outmoded quickly by a locomotive which startled the world by pulling a train up a grade without help of outside cogs or gears.

Scouts Buy Huge Camp Site

Culmination of a one year's search by the Boy Scouts of America, Lake Agassiz Council of Grand Forks, N. D., for a site to locate a camp large enough to care for 600 boys was recorded at Detroit Lakes last week when C. A. Baker, Detroit Lakes realtor, turned over the deed of 32 acres of land on the southwest shores of White Earth lake to the council.

Decision to build the camp on White Earth lake came after many sites throughout the northwestern Minnesota lake region had been viewed by members of the council.

The area on White Earth lake was first visited by R. C. Hadlick, council president and Arthur Hendry, council secretary, about a year ago. Since that time many other visitations have been made by various members of the council.

Construction of a road leading to the camp site is to begin immediately with actual construction of buildings to get under way as soon as materials become available.

Located about 30 miles north of Detroit Lakes and 4 miles east of White Earth village, the 32 acres are heavily timbered with nearly a mile of lake frontage.

The camp at White Earth lake will serve scouters from northeastern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota.

Johnson-Johnson Wedding

The marriage of Miss Irene Helen Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Helga Johnson of Middle River, and Murnett Johnson, son of Mrs Cora Johnson of Holt, was solemnized at the Finnish Lutheran Church at a candle light ceremony on Friday, August 23, at 8 p. m. Rev. Urness performed the ceremony before a host of relatives and friends.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Arnie, entered the church to the strains of Lohengrins wedding march, played by Delores Sandberg. Joyce Peterson, niece of the groom, sang "I Love You Truly" and "O, Perfect Love". Miss Sandberg wore a pale yellow gown with a corsage of gladiolas and Miss Peterson a white gown with a corsage of gladiolas.

The bride was beautifully attired in a short sleeve gown of rayon jersey bodice, and net over taffeta skirt. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of orange blossoms and she carried salmon colored gladiolas. Her only jewelry consisted of a locket, a gift of the groom.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Alice Johnson who was attired in a pale blue gown of net over taffeta with long blue gloves. She carried a matching buquet of gladiolas.

Sulo Johnson, brother of the bride, was best man.

The groom wore a brown pin stripe suit while the best man wore a blue pin stripe suit. Both wore carnation buttonierres.

The bride's mother wore a black dress trimmed in blue with a corsage of white gladiolas. The mother of the groom was attired in a black dress with a corsage of white gladiolas. Arleen Johnson, neice of the bride, and Gladys Ness, niece of the groom, acted as ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given at the bride's home for approximately 50 guests. The table was decorated with garden cut flowers and candles. The two-tiered wedding cake was decorated with a miniature bride and groom.

The bride is a graduate of Middle River High School and Roseau Teachers' Training and has taught in public schools for four years. The groom is a graduate of the St. Hilaire High School and served in the armed forces for four years.

Immediately after the reception the couple left on a short wedding trip. The bride chose a neutral brown wool jersey dress trimmed in green with black accessories for her trip.

SOVIET CONTROL OF STRAITS WOULD GIVE RUSSIA HOLD ON SUEZ ROAD TO INDIA-CHINA

Vital waterway connecting Mediterranean and Black seas, Dardanelles loom as new trouble spot. (See: Foreign Affairs.)

FOREIGN AFFAIRS:
U. S. Stays Tough

If the Russians sought to test American temper on their aggressive postwar diplomacy, they received ample indication that this country would stand fast on a stiffening of its principles.

Even as the state department peppered Russia and its satellites with strong notes, four U. S. cruisers, six destroyers and the giant aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt hovered in the Mediterranean, joining the British fleet in an impressive show of strength.

Yugoslavia— Strongest U. S. action was taken against Tito's Communist-dominated Yugoslav government for shooting down two unprotected American transport planes which strayed off their course while en route from Austria to Italy.

Lashing Belgrade for shooting at the defenseless planes of a friendly nation, the U. S. demanded release of fliers of the stricken craft within 48 hours or threatened referral of the case to the United Nations with Yugoslavia charged with aggressive acts. Ridiculing Belgrade's reference to the incidents as "unhappy accidents," the U. S. stated the attacks were deliberate.

Convinced that the U. S. wasn't fooling, Tito ordered release of the fliers and hastened to tell American newsmen that he had commanded his armed forces to desist from further attacks on planes.

Dardanelles—With the Russians backing up their demand on Turkey for joint control of the Dardanelles straits connecting the Black sea with the Mediterranean with a show of military strength in the surrounding territory, the U. S. warned Moscow that an assault upon Turkish soil would be considered a threat to world peace.

While rejecting Russia's proposal for joint control of the vital waterway with Turkey, the U. S. indicated its willingness to participate in a conference to revise existing regulations and expressed agreement with the Soviet on these points:

1. Merchant ships of all countries should be allowed to use the straits.
2. Warships of the Black sea powers should always be allowed passage through the straits.
3. Special permission should be needed for passage of the warships of other powers through the straits.

Poland—Charging irregularities in counting ballots, censorship restrictions and persecution of non-Communists, the U. S. note to Warsaw accused the Russian-dominated government of violation of its commitments to hold free and unfettered elections.

To achieve such elections, the U. S. said, fullest freedom must be given to such parties as the Polish Workers, Peasants, Labor and Socialists. Further, representatives of those parties must be granted positions on electoral commissions; local results must be announced and adequate appeal provided for election disputes.

The latest U. S. protest followed earlier assurances of Polish Ambassador Oscar Lange that Warsaw would conduct free elections while he was negotiating a $90,000,000 loan from this country.

MEAT:
Bolster Enforcement

Reimposition of OPA controls on meat led the big packers to predict a revival of the black market, but agency officials replied that a strengthening of its enforcement powers would enable it to cope better with illegal operations.

With meat ceilings scheduled for September 9, OPAdministrator Paul Porter reported that the agency would employ 2,500 investigators to check against black marketeers. Although doubling the number of agents, Porter stated that it would be impossible for OPA to curb illegal operations entirely.

Prices of choice cattle soared with announcement of re-establishment of meat ceilings, one load bringing the unheard of top of $28.40 per hundredweight in the Chicago yards. Big packers complained that high bidding of smaller operators would compel them to remain out of the market rather than violate price ceilings, reducing the flow of meat to normal retail channels. Some relief was expected during the heavy fall runs, however.

MOBILIZATION:
Plan Ahead

Warning that the U. S. will have little time for preparation before the next war, army and navy members of the services' industrial college issued a 37-page report outlining tentative plans for economic mobilization in event of hostilities.

Elaborate groundwork for M-Day would be laid during peacetime under the plan. Headed by the President, a national security council would formulate diplomatic and military policy; a resources board would develop policies for controlling wartime economy; a central research agency would co-ordinate scientific work, and a civilian plans board would fit together the activities of the various groups.

In addition, a national intelligence authority would furnish planners with necessary information; a foreign resources board would evaluate the requirements of countries aiding our economy, and a public relations agency would keep the public informed on mobilization plans.

Complementing the services' work, Donald M. Nelson, former war production chief, will undertake a civilian study of economic mobilization at the request of President Truman.

HOUSING:
Materials Problem

Pressed by the American Veterans' committee's advisory council, Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt declared that more materials would be diverted from commercial construction for private dwellings to meet the huge demand for living quarters.

At the same time, Wyatt revealed that the government has been forced to slash its provision of temporary dwelling units in some localities because of increased costs.

As head of the AVC delegation which met with Wyatt, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. asserted that during the first seven months of this year, commercial construction totaled over 3 billion dollars in comparison with only 1½ billion dollars for private residences. He called for channeling of 90 per cent of materials to dwellings.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY:
Collects Old Check

It took him 26 years to get around to collecting it but T. N. Myers of Alliance, Neb., is $4.80 richer today because of the Chicago and North Western railway's record system.

It was April of 1920 and Myers was racing the stork from Interior, S. D., to his home in Alliance when the train was stopped at Chadron, Neb., by huge snowdrifts. Overhearing a section foreman offer 60 cents an hour to anyone who would help shovel the train through, he volunteered his services. As luck would have it, he arrived in Alliance in time to be with his wife before their daughter was born, but he did not pick up his pay.

At this year's birthday party for their daughter, the Myerses all agreed it would be interesting to find out if he still could collect his pay from the North Western. A letter to the Chadron, Neb., office was referred to Chicago, where records verified the road had waited 26 years for Myers to pick up his check.

PARIS:
Present Claims

New claims were advanced against the vanquished at the Paris peace conference by smaller nations seeking geographical security against potential aggressors and compensation for war damages.

Hitting against award of the South Tyrol to Italy after World War I Austria asked the conference to settle the territorial status of the region in a manner satisfactory to the predominantly Austrian populace.

Basing its claim on maps dating back to 1327 A. D., Egypt demanded the return of the oasis of Giarubub, ceded to Italy in 1925, and also asked for the plateau of Sollum, invasion pathway from Libya. In addition, the Egyptians requested reparations from Italy for the bombardment of cities and ports.

Albania demanded Italian reparations totaling over 900 million dollars and called for stringent reduction of the Italian army, navy and air force to guarantee against future aggression. At the same time, Albania flatly rejected Greece's claims for a rectification of their southern border.

REFUGEES:
Come Long Way

Immigration authorities agreed to consider the admission of 18 Estonian refugees to the U. S. after first turning down their plea to enter this country following their arrival in Miami, Fla., on a 38-foot sloop from European waters.

Comprising 11 men, six wives and a flaxen-haired five-year-old girl, the Estonians first fled their native country when the Germans took it over. Declaring that the Russians were equally repressive, the refugees refused to return to their Communist-dominated homeland and left Sweden for the New world May 30. They were at sea almost continuously for 2½ months.

Unon first being denied admittance to the U. S. by Immigration Director Francis J. H. Dever, Skipper Felix Tandre heroically announced: "If we must go on, we will, even if we must travel all the way to Australia. Our ship is small, but it has taken us this far. They can't take the sea away from us."

Reject Baseball Guild

Big bow-legged Honus ("Hans") Wagner, once the greatest shortstop in the business and now a coach with the Pittsburgh Pirates, pointed up to the clubhouse blackboard. It announced that the team had rejected the American Baseball guild by a 15 to 3 vote.

The disclosure that the Pirates had voted against unionization in an election conducted by the Pennsylvania labor relations board did not deter stubborn, soft-spoken Robert Murphy, guild chief. Though the national labor relations board had thrown out his earlier complaint against the Pittsburgh management of unfair practices, he filed similar charges before the PLRB.

Wagner points to results.

The Pirates' action constituted their second rejection of guild leadership. On June 7, they had refused to strike before a game with the New York Giants. If nothing else, Murphy's organization threat did spur the big league magnates to meet with player representatives for discussion of improved terms.

BRITAIN:
Control Steel

Pending formulation of plans for nationalization of British iron and steel operations, the labor government announced the formation of a special board to control production, distribution and prices of the industry.

While Supply Minister John Wilmot revealed that the industry's leaders had agreed to accept positions on the new board in order to familiarize themselves with nationalization proceedings, he said that they would not advise the government on plans for public ownership. Pending nationalization, the industry agreed to push modernization of facilities to step up output.

Announcement of continued government regulation of Britain's iron and steel operations came even as London revealed that the British had taken over the entire German iron and steel industry in their occupation zone.

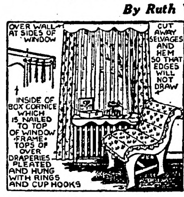
FARM REALTY:
Still Rising

The upward movement in farm real estate values continued during the four months ended July 1, with an increase for the country as a whole of about 4 per cent, the department of agriculture reported. This brought the U. S. index (1912-14—100) to 147, a rise of 13 per cent since July, 1945.

Seventy-seven per cent above the 1935-39 average, this level is only 14 per cent below the 1920 peak.

Chair, Shelf and Cornice Easily Made

By Ruth Wyeth Spears



OVER WALL AT SIDES OF WINDOW
CUT AWAY SELVAGES AND HEM SO THAT EDGES WILL NOT DRAW
INSIDE OF BOX CORNICE WHICH IS NAILED TO TOP OF WINDOW FRAME. TOPS OF OVER DRAPERIES PLEATED AND HUNG WITH RINGS AND CUP HOOKS

IT IS a combination of things that harmonize that make a home cozy and attractive. This corner of a room that was furnished with next to nothing proves that.

The chair frame was made from odds and ends of lumber—no piece longer than 2½ feet. The shelf and matching cornice also were made of scrap lumber. The curtains and chair cushion are of an inexpensive cotton print.

"80.6% of sufferers showed CLINICAL IMPROVEMENT after only 10-day treatment with SORETONE

Foster D. Snell, Inc., well-known consulting chemists, have just completed a test with a group of men and women suffering from Athlete's Foot. These people were told to use Soretone. At the end of only a ten-day test period, their feet were examined in two ways: 1. Scrapings were taken from the feet and examined by the bacteriologist. 2. Each subject was examined by a physician. We quote from the report:

"After the use of Soretone according to the directions on the label for a period of only ten days, 80.6% of the cases showed clinical improvement of an infection which is most stubborn to control."

Improvements were shown in the symptoms of Athlete's Foot—the itching, burning, redness, etc. The report says:

"In our opinion Soretone is of very definite benefit in the treatment of this disease, which is commonly known as 'Athlete's Foot'."

So if Athlete's Foot troubles you, don't temporize with this nasty, devilish, stubborn infection. Get SORETONE! McKesson & Robbins, Inc., Bridgeport, Connecticut.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Does your mixing bowl move away from you under the beating and stirring you do? Set it on a damp cloth and it will remain steady. A tea towel works fine for this.

Cutting one-fourth-inch notches in the edges of bacon or smoked ham with the scissors will keep it from curling when cooking.

Laces can be stiffened by rinsing them in a solution composed of one teaspoon of borax and a quart of water.

Run a short curtain rod through the top of the shoe bag to prevent it from sagging. This holds the bag in place more securely and the shoes remain in order.

Children should have some time for rest before each meal. Before breakfast and supper they can sit quietly and look at books until the meal is on the table, but at dinner time, after they have been playing hard all morning, they should lie down to rest for about 15 minutes.

Revive old fiber porch rugs with a coat of canvas paint. Leave rug on floor to paint it but put papers underneath to protect floor.

Wear can be distributed on large and small-sized rugs by turning them around from time to time.

Oak, ash and gold frames look best on pictures with yellowish and brownish tones; black, silver and gray frames on black and white or gray pictures; and cherry, mahogany, cream-colored and gold woods look well on most colored pictures.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

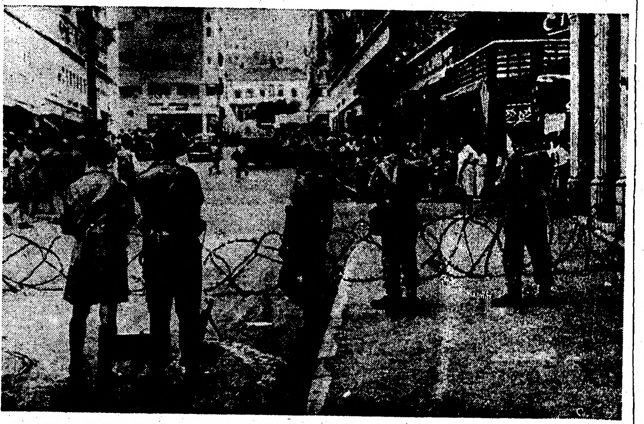
MOHAMMEDANS GO BESERK . . . Members of the All-Indian Moslem league are shown demonstrating in London for "Pakistan," an All-Moslem independent state in India. The following day bloody riots broke out in Calcutta, India, between Moslems and Hindus. Some two thousand persons were killed and other thousands injured. British troops in armored cars fired repeatedly on mobs of looters, but street battles went on unchecked.—Sound Photo.



BRITISH TROOPS GUARD TROUBLED HAIFA . . . British troops guard the barbed wired streets of Haifa, Palestine, during the outbreak which followed when immigrants from Europe, seeking entrance into Palestine, were transferred to British ships and transported to the island of Cyprus and detention camps. Three Jews were killed and many injured during the demonstration.

BATTLE FLAG OF BATTLING SHIP . . . Before a large gathering, the battle flag of the battered but still afloat USS Nevada was presented to the state of Nevada. The presentation was made by Rear Adm. Francis W. Rockwell (right), former commanding officer of the Nevada, to Gov. Vail Pittman, accepting for the state. This is the first time in naval history that a flag of a major battleship has been returned to a state.

DIGS GRAVES . . . Denna Barthel, 19-year-old North Liberty, Ind., miss, is believed to be the only girl grave digger in the U. S. Her eagerness to obtain a musical education led her to hire out as a grave digger at Sauktown, Ind. She was proclaimed "Girl of the Year" by Guitar guild.

MIDDIE TRAINING MANEUVERS . . . Four hundred and forty Annapolis midshipmen and 315 West Point cadets make two amphibious landings as "invation troops" near the Virginia capes. A few veteran marines in each landing craft led the middies and cadets ashore in the war games. Photo shows, left to right, Secretary of Navy James Forrestal, Amd. Aubrey Fitch, and two West Point cadets "digging in" the beach.

DERBY WINNER . . . Gilbert Klegan, 14, San Diego, who won the 1946 All-American Soap Box derby at Akron, Ohio. More than 65,000 spectators watched the event. Racers from all sections of the country participated.

AS AMERICAN... as the World Series

"One on in the fifth, folks, and it's a terrific clout to the upper right field stand . . ."

The crackling voice of the sports announcer comes over every radio in the land. Newspapers carry the scores in glaring headlines. The farmer comes in from the fields to see how they're doing. The business man postpones the pending deal while he learns the latest. Everyone who walks through a shop or office is greeted with the inevitable question, "Who's ahead?" The World Series is on!

Baseball makes the whole country kin, for American sports and American pleasures are as democratic as America, itself. And a glass of foam-topped amber beer, properly chilled, is a democratic pleasure, too—enjoyed by everyone, anytime, anywhere.

To every American . . . banker, truck driver, farmer, mechanic, office worker . . . a glass of beer writes a pleasant period to any hard day's work. The right to enjoy this sociable drink of moderation and good sense is part of our American heritage. It fits right into the greatest pattern of living in the world . . . America.

Duck Season Set By U. S.

Complaints reaching the Minnesota Department of Conservation regarding the Oct. 5th opening of duck hunting season indicate that many persons are confused as to the quarter from which such authority emanates.

The regulations for the taking of ducks and other migraiory game birds are fixed by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, under an international treaty and act of Congress, not by the Minnesota Dept. of Conservation, as many have apparently been led to believe.

Some time before the federal regulations for this season were announced, the Minnesoto Division of Game and Fish learned that the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service coutemplated setting the opening date of the duck season for Minnesota on October 5th. A vigorous protest was immediately telegraphed the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, urging that the opening date be advanced to an earlier date in September, and this was followed up by a letter, pointing out that the late opening would deprive Minnesota hunters of an opportunity to get their fair share of the ducks raised in Minnesota, and that Minnesota sportsmen were perfectly willing to submit to any other reasonable regulations as to length of season, bag limits, or other restrictions necessary to conserve the waterfowl population.

The recommendations of the Minnesota Department of Conservation on this point were not adopted, however, and the opening date was fixed by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service at October 5th for the notrhern zone.

Lunke's Say "Thanks"

To all the friends and relatives who so pleasantly helped us celebrate our Golden Wedding anniversary a most hearty "Thank you". We wish especially to thank members of Circle 2 for sponsoring this joyous occasion, our children and grandchildren for their personal gifts, all who took part in the program and all who brought flowers. We thank you one and all for the sum of money given us and for the many acts of kindness shown us during these fifty years we have lived in this community. May God's blessing be your reward.
Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lunke.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hoistad of Rutland, N. D. and Mr. and Mrs. William Kohler of Fargo attended the Golden Wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lunke on Sunday. Mr. Hoistad is Mrs. Lunke's nephew.

Mrs. S. B. Moe returned to her home at Duluth on Monday after having spent the week end at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lunke and attending their Golden Wedding. Her two daughters Eleanor and Florence left for their home Wednesday. They also visited at the Wm. Stienhauer and L. Haagenson homes.

Louis Sagstuen and George Fricker Jr. are employed at Carlsons' Store.

Mrs. Frank Hoffman and daughters returned to their home at Albany, Oregon last week, after a visit here. Mr. Hoffman and two children remained here for an indefinite time for business reasons.

Mrs. C. O. Larson and daugter Marian returned home recently from a vacation trip to Yellowstone National Park.

Carol Ness Is Called Home

The community was shocked to hear of the death of Carol Ness, 10 year old daughter of Mr and Mrs. Bertil Ness, on Sunday morning. Funeral services were held on Wednesday at the Nazareth Lutheran church with Rev. E. O. Urness officiating.

Carol Bernice Ness was born December 10, 1935, baptised by Rev. Redal and was at the time of her death 10 years, 8 months and 18 days.

Carol was in the sixth grade at school, having attended her first three years at Sunnyside school, and the past two at Holt. She was outstanding in her classes.

Carol became ill on Monday but by Wednesday seemed quite well. Thursday evening she was worse and Saturday her illness was diagnosed as poliomyelitis She was rushed to Grand Forks for further treatment. Carol was cheerful during her illness and on Saturday evening told her folks, "Don't worry about me, just pray. I'll be home soon." Then she happily said goodnight.

She is survived by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Bertil Ness, sister Joanne, grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lunke, and Mrs. Annette Edwards. Also nine uncles, six aunts and 21 cousins.

Marvin Sandberg sang Carol's two favorite hymns, Lord Jesus I Long To Be Perfectly Whole, and Children of the Heavenly Father.

Pallbearers were John Ness, Edwin, Rubin, and Harold Ness.

Besides many beautiful flowers, inmemoriums were given for various organizations including our local Building Fund and Sunday School.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lubitz and family were gucsts at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kisch last Sunday.

Holt School to Open Sept. 16

With schools in Holt and elsewhere in Minnesota opening next Monday, after the two weeks postponement due to the polio epidemic, many parents and others will be concerned about the traffic hazards facing the youngsters.

"Traffic accidents take a greater toll of life and limb in the course of the year than does polio," said W. F. Rosenwald, traffic engineer of the State Highway Department. "Traffic accidents, however, can be prevented if everyone will take proper precautions. The following suggestions are especially important as means of insuring the safety of school children:

"Drivers should be alert and STOP signs displayed by school safety patrols.

"Drivers should remember that the law requires a full stop when meeting or overtaking a school bus stopped to pick up or discharge passengers on rural roads.

"Drivers should be especially alert when driving in residential or school areas, and doubly alert in the hours when children are going to and from school.

"Parents and teachers should train children to obey instruction from safety leaders, where patrols are used.

"Children should be trained to walk on the left side, facing traffic, and giving way to oncoming traffic, when walking any road. They should be trained to LOOK LEFT, LOOK RIGHT and make sure they can cross safely before starting across any road or street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Carlson and family spent the week end at Bertha attending the wedding of Mrs. Carlson's sister.

Siama Neimela is receiving some more medical aid at St. Luke's hospital at Thief River Falls this week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson and Dorothy visited at the Torrance Lillevold home at Grygla on Sunday.

Official Notice

With the opening of school and a possible danger of continuation of a polio epidemic the following regulations are requested.

1 It is important that for the NEXT TWO MONTHS parents, teachers, playground instructors, and coaches maintain the same vigilance and precautions outlined earlier and which are here specifically mentioned below.

2 Parents will not send any child to school who has any symptom of illness such as coughs, fevers, running nose, diarrhea. or who complains of cold, sore throat, headache or weakness.

3 Teachers are hereby given authority to immediately send home any child who exhibits even the slightest of symptoms or complaints mentioned above. Such children shall not be re-admitted to school without a certificate signed by the family physician.

4 It is recommended that school officials pay special attention to hygiene and sanitation, especially in regard to heating and ventilation, proper maintenance of lavatories, insect control and supervision of school lunch rooms. Recreational activities, especially for younger children, should so be regulated to prevent fatigue or chilling.

5 In any home where a case of poliomyelitis might develop, all the other children in the family, including those of high school age, shall be restricted to the home for a minimum of two weeks and shall not be re-admitted to school without a certificate from the family physician.

6 It is emphasized that this type of co-operative control among parents, teachers, and other individuals is probably the best means of prevention, not only of poliomyelitis, but most other communicable diseases for which specific immunizing procedures and vaccines are not yet available.

Is Old Bossy Paying Her Board

It cost money to keep a dairy cow. She is a lot of bother, too. So business-like farmers insist that Old Bossy pay a profit or go.

There is a good, sure income from the better producers. Farmers find good cows one of the most profitable ways of diversifying.

It always pays to eliminate non-producers — whether in dairying or any other kind of financial investment. If you have some investments that are not profitable, weed them out now and put good ones in their place. Our knowledge of finance is always at your command.

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

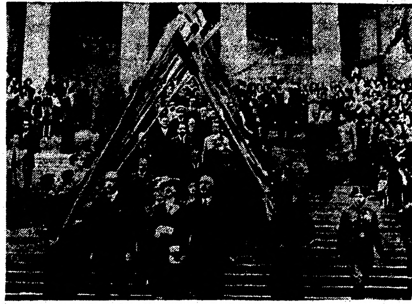
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Tighten Controls to Speed Up Vet Housing; Boost Ceilings To Encourage Meat Production

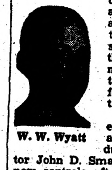
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Still holding sway in Spain, Generalissimo Francisco Franco leaves church in Motrico with wife under archway of oars formed by sailors who comprised guard of honor.

HOUSING:
Aid to Vets



W. W. Wyatt

In ordering a 27 per cent reduction in commercial building and channeling greater amounts of material to new housing, the government sought to increase the construction of new dwellings and to reduce the time for their completion.

Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt and Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small worked out the new controls after the building industry had warned of a serious bogging of the whole emergency housing program for vets.

Leaving a meeting with government officials prior to the announcement of the new program, Joseph Myerhoff, president of the National Association of Home Builders, declared that the industry had failed to get the flow of materials necessary for the completion of 200,000 to 300,000 homes under construction, and that the shortages have lengthened the construction time from 3 to 4 months to 9 to 12 months.

J. D. Small

With Small agreeing to the transfer of all housing control to Wyatt, the government instituted sweeping directives to answer the widespread complaints.

Non-residential construction was cut back from over 48 million dollars weekly to 35 million dollars to divert more materials for home building. Twenty-seven more materials, including stoves, linoleum and light fixtures, were added to the list of 25 already subject to vet priorities.

MEAT:
Production Incentive

Taking advantage of the new OPA act empowering him to set livestock ceilings, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson called for substantial boosts in cattle and hog prices to encourage feeding this fall and to assure adequate supplies of beef next winter and spring.

Declaring that prospects pointed to plentiful supplies of feed grains this year, Anderson stated that it was necessary to bring stock prices in line with feed costs to spur farmers into fattening stock. Otherwise, he said, large numbers of lean animals would be butchered, creating a serious shortage later.

Anderson's recommendation for a boost in the cattle top to $20.25 per hundredweight, Chicago basis, and in the hog ceiling to $16.25 ran counter to OPAdministrator Paul Porter's desire to establish prices around the old level of $18 and $14.85. As a result of the boosts, retail ceilings were scheduled to rise from two to eight cents on beef and about three cents on pork.

FREIGHT CARS:
Act to Avert Crisis

With the government fearing a shortage of 50,000 to 75,000 freight cars at the peak of industrial and agricultural carloadings this fall, Reconversion Director Steelman enlisted the aid of five U. S. departments and agencies to avert a serious transportation bottleneck.

Under Steelman's comprehensive plan, department of agriculture and office of defense transportation will act together to move perishable crops and speed the shipment of tin cans, sugar and other essential supplies to west coast and middle west canneries.

War shipping administration and maritime commission will provide ships for the diversion of freight to water carriers wherever feasible, and office of price administration will grant shippers relief for higher costs.

Civilian production administration will step up the flow of materials needed to repair 80,000 old freight cars and build 40,000 new ones this year.

GREECE:
Big Stakes

Greece forged to the front of the troubled European picture as the scene of the latest tug of diplomatic war between the western allies and Soviet Russia.

Working boldly to establish supremacy throughout eastern Europe and adjoining Asia Minor, Moscow recalled Amb. Konstantine K. Rodionov from Greece as a mark of displeasure against the holding of a plebiscite to return King George II to his throne.

Because Britain, supported by the U. S., favored both the restoration of the monarchy and the Populist party government now in the saddle, Russia's move really was pointed against Anglo-American policy. The presence of 40,000 British troops in Greece has acted as a lever against a Communist inspired seizure of power, and the visit of U S. warships to Grecian waters before the plebiscite was seen as a gesture of friendship for the rightist regime.

The tussle between the Anglo-American and Russian blocs in Greece is for big stakes: A government friendly to the British would assure them of a toehold in the Balkans and an advance base for the Near East and Suez, while Russian domination of the country would result in complete Soviet hegemony in the Balkans and a protected flank in the event of trouble in Asia Minor.

BASEBALL:
On Even Terms

Thanks to the scares Robert Murphy's baseball guild and Jorge Pasquel's Mexican league threw into the major league magnates, big-time ball players were granted a substantial voice in shaping working conditions on the diamond at meetings concluded in Chicago.

A player representative from each league will sit on a special seven-man advisory committee to regulate playing conditions throughout the season. Commissioner A. B. ("Happy") Chandler will head the new committee, which also includes presidents of the two leagues and two club owners.

In addition a uniform player contract came out of the Chicago meetings, subject to the players' approval. Following the lines recommended by the players earlier, the new contract was said to establish a minimum wage to be paid even if a man were shipped to the minors; a revision of the 10-day release clause and a lengthening of the barnstorming period from 10 to 30 days.

The army's newest bombing plane, the XB-36 ranks as the biggest thing with wings. Six-motored, with a wingspan of 230 feet, the XB-36 can carry 30 tons of bombs on a short mission, transport 400 troops.

FEDERAL COURT:
Upholds Talmadge

Georgia's system of deciding elections by the county unit vote, praised by proponents as designed to prevent political control by big city bosses, was upheld by a three-man federal court, sitting in the state capital.

Under the unit procedure, each county is entitled to from two to six votes, depending upon its population, with the winning candidate in the county receiving all its unit votes. Thus, while a candidate may not poll a popular majority because of being outvoted in a few large counties, he still may get the necessary 206 unit votes from smaller counties.

In passing on a suit brought by two Atlanta citizens protesting Eugene Talmadge's gubernatorial victory on the county unit vote, the court ruled that federal or state governments never have sought equal influence for each voter. Pointing to the U. S. senate, the court said each state has two votes, regardless of population, in the making of all laws and confirming of treaties and federal appointments.

ATOM BOMB:
U. S. Continues Output

The U. S. served notice on the world that it would continue production of the atomic bomb in the event the United Nations failed to work out adequate controls for nuclear energy.

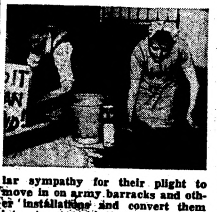
In the first of a series of scientific reports to the U. N.'s atomic energy commission covering development of the new explosive, Brig. Gen. K. D. Nichols and Lt. Col. John R. Ruhoff declared that failure to set up safeguards would only leave the alternative of manufacturing a sufficient number of high-powered bombs to deter potential aggressors.

While atomic warfare would result in serious losses, the experts said, a nation surviving the first shock would be able to come back. Although such cities as London, Paris and New York would be better able to withstand atomic bombing than Hiroshima if the population were well disciplined, the experts opined, it would be difficult to disperse a closely-knit industrial system.

The reports were submitted to the atomic commission by U. S. member, Bernard M. Baruch. Control plans remain snarled by Russia's insistence of maintaining the veto power over activities of a supervisory agency.

British Have Housing Troubles

Major destruction from bombings and a reduction in wartime building left Britain with a housing problem as serious as the one plaguing the U. S. As in this country, vets have been especially affected, but they have taken advantage of popular sympathy for their plight to move in on army barracks and other installations and convert them into temporary shelters. In this photo, ex-serviceman John Sutton and wife, Evelyn, clean up old anti-aircraft post at Derby which they have made into home.



ALASKA:
New Frontier

Alaska loomed as the new American frontier as authorities expected a large flow of settlers to be attracted to the new promised land by the availability of several million acres to homesteaders of the 1946 vintage.

Following the procedure used in settling the Old West, there is no payment for land in excess of 80 acres up to 160, only a fee ranging up to $16. Applicants must be 21, U. S. citizens and owners of no more than 160 acres of land in this country.

Residence on the land must be maintained for seven months of each year for three years and homesteaders must cultivate one-sixteenth of their claim the first year and one-eighteenth or more by the third year. At the same time, buildings must be built to meet federal requirements.

In addition to farm land, 80 acre tracts can be purchased for trade or manufacturing plants or leased for grazing, fur farming and mining operations.

SMALL TOWNS:
Provide Recreation

Rejecting the theory that nearby fields and woods are sufficient for recreation, small cities and towns in increasing numbers are activating or expanding municipal recreation facilities for all age groups according to the American Public Works association.

Recreation by districts or groups of adjacent towns, is being organized in California under provisions of the state public resources code.

Livestock Shrinkage Is Expensive

With the prevailing high prices for livestock, you can not afford to ignore the fact that your livestock shrinks when being hauled to market. The farther it is hauled the more it will shrink, and even though you pay to have your livestock fed after it arrives at the market, you still have a shrink. When you stand a shrink of fifty to one hundred pounds at 12 or 15 cents per pound, thats money lost. It probably amounts to at least 25 or 50 cents per cwt. on your animal.

The next time you have livestock for sale, give us a trial. You are assured of correct prices, weights and grading.

Ask How To Can Pears

To skin or not to skin pears is one of the questions home canners are asking who plan to put up this fruit to help meet family nutrition needs this winter.

Whether the skin should be removed from pears is a matter of personal preference, according to Ina Rowe, extension nutritionist at University Farm. Since the skin is quite tender, many homemakers like to can pears with the skin on them. Peeling pears with a knife is a waste of good fruit, she says. However, pears can be scalded in boiling water just long enough to loosen the skins, then plunged into a kettle of cold water and the skins rubbed off into the water. The next step is to cut the fruit in half and remove end, stem, string and core. To avoid discoloration parboil the pears in sugar syrup, pack in hot jars and process for 15 minutes in boiling water bath. A thin slice of lemon put into each jar will help pears retain their color.

The Weather

The drought which has held full sway here for the past two months broke on Wednesday when a nice driszly rain broke loose in this area. The rain not only helped a great deal for late fall pastures and plowing, but also helped in checking the bad grass and brush fires which had a big start in this end of the county

Life of Gilbert Sanoden

A pall of gloom settled over the entire community on Monday to hear of the passing of one of its outstanding citizens, Gilbert Sanoden, on Sunday evening. Until a few years ago he operated a grain elevator, and later a restaurant and a milk route in Holt and devoted much of his time and energy to serving on the Church, school and town boards. For several years he was mayor of Holt. He will always be remembered for his integrity in service on these boards as well as his honesty in his business deals.

Gilbert Sanoden was born Jan. 12, 1882, in Filmore county, Minnesota, the son of Asle and Guri Olson. He was baptised there April 2, 1882 by Pastor J. I. Krohn. At an early age he moved to a farm near Fertile, Minnesota with his parents and there grew to manhood.

He was married to Mabel Forsythe April 18, 1916 at Dugdale, Minn. To this union three children were born. He moved with his family to Holt 25 years ago.

Mr. Sanoden was first taken ill in January and has been in poor health since that time. On August 19th he was taken to the St. Luke's hospital at Thief River Falls and remained there until Sept. 15 when he was taken to his home and there died peacefully the same evening.

He was proceded in death by one daughter Mrs. Julius Borchert who passed away August 5th of this year. He leaves to mourn his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Wm. Wittkowski of Des Moines, Iowa; and one son Russel at home. There are two sister namely Mrs. I. G. Borgen, Rugby, No. Dak., and Mrs. Nicolai Olson, San Jose, California. Also one brother at Fergus Falls, Minnesota.

L. D. R. Convention

The Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation of the Theif River Falls Circuit will hold their fall convention at Viking, Minnesota in the Evangelical Lutheran Church on Sunday, September 29th. There is to be an afternoon session at 2:30 p. m. followed by a fellowship supper at 6:00 p. m.

Miss May Rendahl, Missionary from Madagascar home on furlough, will be the main speaker. Her talk will correlate with the convention theme "Lovest Thou Me" and will be "Provimg Our Love through Obedience to His Missionary Call". Ragna Steenerson, our former district Pres. will also speak on "Proving Our Love Through an Efficient LDR Organization".

Mrs. Wm. Wittkowski arrived here last week from De Moines, Iowa, due to the serious illness of her father, Gilbert Sanoden.

Funeral services were conducted at the Nazareth Lutheran church on Wednesday. Carlson Funeral Home had charge of arrangements and Pastor E. O. Urness had charge of services. Special music consisted of favorite hymns of the deseased; "Beautiful Isle" and "Some Day We'll Understand" sung by Marvin Sandberg and "Behold a Host" sung by Pastor Urness. Following served as pallbearers: G Nordrum, L. M. Larson, Geo. Fricker, G. H. Nohre, Sam Lorentson and J. Broden. Mrs. M. Sandberg served as organist.

Mr. Sanoden will always be remembered as a loving husband and father and he leaves behind a host of friends. At the time of his death he was 64 years, 7 months and 15 days.

Interement was made at the Holt Ridge cemetery.

Official Notice

With the opening of school and a possible danger of continuation of a polio epidemic the following regulations are requested.

1 It is important that for the NEXT TWO MONTHS parents, teachers, playground instructors, and coaches maintain the same vigilance and precautions outlined earlier and which are here specifically mentioned below.

2 Parents will not send any child to school who has any symptom of illnesss such as coughs, fevers, running nose, diarrhea, or who complains of cold, sore throat, headache or weakness.

3 Teachers are hereby given authority to immediately send home any child who exhibits even the slightest of symptoms or complaints mentioned above. Such children shall not be re-admitted to school without a certificate signed by the family physician.

4 It is recommended that school officials pay special attention to hygiene and sanitation, especially in regard to heating and ventilation, proper maintenance of lavatories, insect control and supervision of school lunch rooms. Recreational activities, especially for younger children, should so be regulated to prevent fatigue or chilling.

5 In any home where a case of poliomyelitis might develop, all the other children in the family, including those of high school age, shall be restricted to the home for a minimum of two weeks and shall not be re-admitted to school without a certificate from the family physician.

6 It is emphasized that this type of co-operative control among parents, teachers, and other individuals is probably the best means of prevention, not only of poliomyelitis, but most other communicable diseases for which specific immunizing procedures and vaccines are not yet available.

Is Old Bossy Paying Her Board

It cost money to keep a dairy cow. She is a lot of bother, too. So business-like farmers insist that Old Bossy pay a profit or go.

There is a good, sure income from the better producers. Farmers find good cows one of the most profitable ways of diversifying.

It always pays to eliminate non-producers — whether in dairying or any other kind of financial investment. If you have some investments that are not profitable, weed them out now and put good ones in their place. Our knowledge of finance is always at your command.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

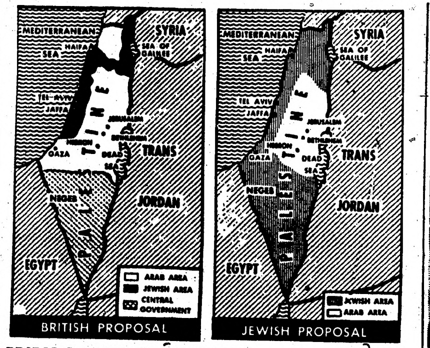
BIG FOUR AT PARIS CONFERENCE . . . During the Paris peace conference, representatives of the Big Four hold special sessions to determine policies. French Premier Georges Bidault serves as host to representatives of the United States, Russia and Great Britain. Sen. Tom Connally, Sec. of State James F. Byrnes and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg are shown at extreme right.

THIS STRIKE MET WITH FAVOR . . . No need for these students to wish that the school house would burn down. The teachers at Norwalk, Conn., went on strike. No teachers, no school. Vacation days can begin again. Here Rudy Baxa, custodian Norwalk Center Junior high school, tells the students to go home. Bone of contention for the teachers is that $90,112 be added to the $813,000 school budget for pay raises for the 236 teachers. This is one strike where those who are concerned are willing that it be continued for some time.



PROPOSED PLANS FOR JEWISH ZONE . . . Some 1,800 square miles in Palestine would be granted the Jews under a reported American compromise which President Truman is believed to favor and which has been favored by the Jewish Agency for Palestine. The new plan also would demand Jewish and Arab autonomy in their respective areas. Aboe at left is the Palestinian division originally proposed by the Anglo-American cabinet committee and backed by Britain. At right is the approximate division under the plan favored by the Jewish agency.

MISS SHANGHAI . . . Not to be outdone by the selection of "Miss America 1946," Miss Wong Yung-Mai, poses in the approved manner after she was chosen "Miss Shanghai of 1946," at the contest staged in the Chinese city for relief funds.

TERMINAL LEAVE SIGN-UP . . . Flood of 10,000 veterans at Los Angeles office to obtain the first terminal leave forms available in Southern California is shown in above photograph. This rush was typical of that to be found in nearly every city in the United States. The forms were printed locally through special arrangement with the war department, and are identical with those issued by the government. Bonds will be issued for amount of pay due.

Household Hints

Use lukewarm water and borax to wash out your refrigerator. It will keep it sweet and clean.

Fasten the strings of baby's bonnet to the bonnet with snap fasteners. Then the strings can easily be removed when they need washing, and the bonnet does not.

If sunshine fades your colored clothes, you are an accessory after the fact. Hang colored garments in the shade after laundering to preserve their colors.

Extra buttons kept in a glass jar are more easily seen than those scattered loosely in a box.

Less time is required and there is less danger of doughnuts slipping back into the hot fat if a wire egg whip is used to lift them instead of a fork.

You can't afford to be careless with delicate curtains these days. When washing them, baste the curtains into muslin bags or pillow cases to protect them.

When painting, wear an old sock over your shoe to wipe up drips on the floor without stooping.

Nazi Bigwigs Await Sentence; Dewey Faces Mead in Strategic Race for Governor in New York

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Searching for mines of the type that blew up transport scheduled to carry illegal Jewish immigrants to Palestine to detention camp on Cyprus, British combed seaside settlement of S'Doth Yam. Tommy is shown tapping floor of nursery in quest for hidden cache.

WAR CRIMINALS:

Germany

Defiant to the last, Nazi bigwigs awaited sentence on war crimes after a 10-month trial at Nuernberg. Winding up the lengthy case, in which 3,000 documents were introduced and 5,000,000 words of testimony taken, former Reichsmarshal Goering denounced the allies for accusing the German leaders alone of violations of international law; ex-Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop ripped the prosecution for refusal to admit as evidence an alleged warning by Churchill that Germany would be destroyed if she became too strong, and Finance Minister Schacht pleaded he had tried to avert the war.

Japan

Counsel for 27 high Japanese leaders on trial for war crimes in Tokyo was thrown into a dither by the revelation that officials of the war department had misused confidential information to tip off the prosecution on its strategy. Knowledge that counsel would claim Japan was forced into the war by America's diplomatic moves and economic sanctions was radioed to the prosecution and accidentally fell into the hands of the defense.

Philippines

Concluding three days of fiery oratory before the people's court for his release on bail, Jose Laurel, Filipino puppet ruler under the Japanese charged with collaboration, declared everyone had worked for the enemy out of fear or other motives. Mentioning Japanese money, Laurel shouted that it was in general circulation throughout the nation and therefore everyone who accepted it had assisted the Nipponese.

AUTO OUTPUT:

Hits Lag

In calling a press conference in Detroit, Mich., C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors corporation, presented the company's case against both the government and workers for the serious lag in auto production.

Pointing out that G.M. had turned out only 400,000 cars and trucks in the year following V-J Day instead of the 1,400,000 scheduled, Wilson charged the Truman administration with having attempted to appease labor unions by taking the lid off wages while at the same time stating that price increases were unnecessary. As a result, manufacturers were "put in the nutcracker," he averred.

Although G.M. has 88,000 more employees on its payroll than in 1941, production is about half, Wilson said. Tests on relative jobs have shown that worker productivity is about 80 per cent of the prewar rate. Refusal of employees to extend themselves, a high absenteeism rate, inexperience and a large turnover partly due to the ease in collecting unemployment compensation all have contributed to the inefficiency, Wilson declared.

HOUSING:

Fear New Obstacle

Having trimmed commercial construction and tightened allocation of materials to speed up the veterans' emergency housing program, Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt feared a prospective labor shortage as a new obstacle to the rapid erection of dwellings.

Revealing his apprehensions in his August report on the vet housing situation, Wyatt indicated that the government would strive to head off the latest bogeyman with an intensive recruiting and apprentice training program.

Despite a pickup in new building in July, Wyatt disclosed in his report, the emergency housing program is lagging behind the announced goal of 1,200,000 homes and apartments for this year. During the first seven months of 1946, 607,100 new dwellings were started and 287,100 completed.

REDEVELOPMENT:

Big problems of small towns recently assumed the limelight in Oklahoma where technical aid and research facilities are being centered on rural redevelopment by the new state Institute of Community Development.

The institute is helping small towns build a new economy to fit the changing times since the traditional pattern of rural life in the state is affected by soil erosion and a growing manpower surplus.

NEW YORK:

Election Battle

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's renomination as the Republican candidate for re-election in November, and Sen. James M. Mead's selection as the Democratic choice for the office, promised to make New York one of the strategic political battlegrounds for the 1948 presidential race.

Governor Dewey

In naming Mead, the Democrats pushed one of their strongest standard-bearers into the fight to capture the governmental apparatus of the all-important empire state and at the same time squelch Dewey's aspirations for the White House. The son of Irish immigrants, who got his start in life as a water carrier for a railroad section gang, Mead has made an impressive record in the senate, particularly as head of the war investigating committee.

Senator Mead

That Dewey hoped to make the impending gubernatorial race a springboard for the 1948 presidential run was seen in his strong castigation of the Truman administration for "bungling and confusion" in his renomination speech. As the party lines were being drawn for battle, Dewey stood as the favorite to win because of his administrative record in office.

NAVY:

To Provide Comforts

One could almost have heard the rattle down in Davey Jones' locker when the navy announced that it was air-conditioning the new cruisers, Salem and Newport News, to determine the best kind of equipment for eventually cooling all of its ships.

In announcing the navy's plans for providing additional comfort for crews on the bounding main, Vice-Adm. Edward L. Cochrane, chief of the bureau of ships, emphasized that air-conditioning had proved invaluable in boosting morale and fighting efficiency in combat.

Various types of new air-conditioning equipment will be used in the tests in the new 17,000-ton cruisers, with the cool air transmitted into all living and working compartments save machinery areas where the heat is too intense. Simplified coils will be shockproof and easily cleaned, it was said.

Farm Co-Ops Grow

Business volume and membership of farmers' co-operative associations showed a substantial increase in the 1944-45 marketing season over the previous season, according to Farm Credit administration.

Estimated membership in the agricultural co-operatives operating in the year ended June 30, 1945, was 4,505,000, an increase of 230,000. Business handled by the co-ops went from $5,160,000,000 to $5,645,000,000.

Electrified Fish

Of the many species of fish that discharge electricity, including several kinds of rays and catfish, the most powerful is the so-called electric eel of South American rivers which may attain a length of eight feet, says Collier's.

As its electric tissues occupy about 80 per cent of its body, this fish is capable of producing a number of successive 200-watt, 600-volt discharges which are of sufficient intensity to stun large animals and kill small ones.

Costliest Parade

The world's costliest parade is the Pareshnath procession, staged yearly by the Jains in India. Besides lavish costumes and floats, the Great Indradwaja, a 50-foot banner that must never be lowered, necessitates large payments for the temporary removal of all telephone, telegraph and trolley wires crossing the line of march.—Collier's Magazine.

Wartime Expansion Prepared LAND O'LAKES for Greater Peacetime Service

Even before World War II came to the United States, Land O'Lakes was "alerted" to perform the greatest effort in its history.

When war came, Land O'Lakes supplied tremendous quantities of dairy products to aid our own armed forces and those of our allies. Among these products were dried milk and eggs, butter, evaporated milk, poultry. By 1944 Land O'Lakes had become the largest producer of dried milk in the United States.

Increased wartime demand for dairy products called for increased dairy farm yields, and this stimulated the expansion of Land O'Lakes' Feed, Seed and Fertilizer Division to aid greater production.

Throughout the war, Land O'Lakes held to its same high standards on 93 score butter, and with other dairy producers throughout the country, helped to provide adequate quantities of milk solids.

Here is another example of cooperative effort leading the way to securing a ready market and top returns for dairy producers. Membership in Land O'Lakes holds many advantages for you. Why not investigate today?

USO Appeal For Funds

Volunteer workers will start next week in practically every county in Minnesota, the USO appeal for funds to carry USO through 1947.

Under the chairmanship of Thomas L. Daniels, USO state chairman, volunteer solicitors will conduct a house to house campaign in every community.

Goal of the Minnesota USO campaign is $400,000 of the $19,000,000 national quota. Many communities having local welfare agencies supported through community chests will have a joint campaign for USO and home-front appeals. This includes agencies such as Salvation Army Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts etc.

There are at present 85 Camp-Shows units overseas with fifteen more enroute by the first of October when the USO campaign opens, USO will send a minimum of six elaborate musical comedies to overseas as well as 50 variety reviews and 25 comedies involving a total cast of 1,000 artists, Mr. Daniels pointed out.

"Here at home USO faces a big job. There are 2100 patients in Minnesota Veterans hospitals. To them, USO takes entertainment they would not otherwise receive", Mr. Daniels said. "Our debt to these men is great, and we must let them know their sacrifices are not forgotten."

Russel Sanoden began his studies at Concordia College in Moorhead last Thursday.

Mrs. A. Bennes, Mrs. J. Hagberg, and Mrs. C. Sandberg visited at the Sanoden home Saturday.

Many people from this community were out picking potatoes last week but had to come home Thursday because of the rain.

Is Old Bossy Paying Her Board

It cost money to keep a dairy cow. She is a lot of bother, too. So business-like farmers insist that Old Bossy pay a profit or go.

There is a good, sure income from the better producers. Farmers find good cows one of the most profitable ways of diversifying.

It always pays to eliminate non-producers — whether in dairying or any other kind of financial investment. If you have some investments that are not profitable, weed them out now and put good ones in their place. Our knowledge of finance is always at your command.

Kidneys Must Work Well-
For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.
Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Meat Slump Vexes Housewives, Puts Policy-Makers on Spot; U.S. Opposes High Reparations

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

His fame but little tarnished by charges that he had bungled the British drive in northern France, Field Marshal Montgomery received a hero's welcome upon his visit to the U. S. He is shown here with Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor inspecting the guard at West Point.

MEAT:
New Crisis

As housewives scoured their neighborhoods for scarce meat and exercised their culinary arts for putting up more meatless meals, men folk were left to tussle with the difficult task of overcoming the distressing shortage.

It was hard to tell which job was harder, the women's or the men's, for the heavy shipments of livestock to market during the recent suspension of OPA and reluctance of feeders to fatten up the small supply of range cattle under OPA ceilings complicated the policy-makers' problems.

As the crisis sharpened, department of agriculture had the only word of encouragement, stating that late fall runs of grass-feds would partially relieve the stringent shortage. But their predictions were tempered somewhat by livestock experts' statements that the high prices for range cattle would make feeders' purchases less profitable and further cut the supply of finished animals in late winter and spring.

With packers laying off thousands of workers in the face of diminished receipts of livestock, AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen called for restoration of free markets to stimulate shipments. President Truman was asked to recognize the "futility of OPA and chuck it out the window."

Leather and pharmaceutical industries also felt repercussions of the livestock situation, with shortages of hides and animal organs affecting their production.

With supplies of hides approximating only 35 per cent of needs, tanneries have been forced to lay off numerous workers, it was reported. And with supplies for October and November estimated at even less, more employees will have to be laid off.

Previously affected by black market waste of animal organs because of lack of processing facilities, pharmaceutical producers were faced with further diminution of supplies for insulin, liver extract, pituitary extract, adrenal cortex, hormones, ovarian solutions and other medicinals by the drop in slaughtering.

REPARATIONS:
U. S. Stand

The U. S. does not contemplate priming the reparations pump for European nations.

Willard Thorp, state department representative in charge of economic affairs, clearly enunciated this country's policy after Italy's wartime enemies had put in claims for 7 billion dollars in reparations against it. He declared that the U. S. was averse to seeing money advanced Italy for reconstruction siphoned out in reparations, leaving it in further need of aid.

Thorp indirectly slapped at the various claimants' moving cries for reparations to compensate for war damages and expenditures for fighting the allied battle by pointing out that the U. S. had spent 335 billion dollars in battling the axis and consuming valuable resources but did not intend to assess Italy for part of the cost. Since the armistice, this country has advanced Italy 1 billion dollars and paid out more than 100 million dollars for cost of troop occupation.

Against the claims of 7 billion, Italy asked that the sum be pared to approximately 250 million dollars. With 11 billion dollars, Great Britain is the largest claimant.

STATES:

State action to spur housing through passage of appropriations and enabling legislation for municipal action is reported by the National Association of Housing Officials.

Since the first of the year, four states have appropriated funds for emergency housing. New York appropriated 35 million dollars early in the 1946 legislative session for statewide projects under the federal Lanham act, such as converting military barracks to civilian use.

CANADA:
Farmers Strike

Following the technique of "direct action," 20,000 members of the Alberta Farmers' union in the western Canadian province withheld all produce except milk from market in their drive for a readjustment of parity prices.

Pickets appeared at many points but concentrated their strength at grain elevators. Some operators were warned that they would lose striking farmers business if they accepted deliveries from nonstrikers.

With the strike in full swing and union members of neighboring Saskatchewan joining the movement, government officials promised thorough consideration of the parity question. Farmers demanded an increase in the parity level to compensate for the higher cost of commodities they must purchase.

GREECE:
Reconstruction Plan

Long-range plans for the reconstruction of Greece, serving as a postwar pattern for recasting the economy of other backward nations, were formulated by a special United Nations commission headed by F. S. Harris, president of Utah Agricultural college.

Presented at the conference of U. N.'s food and agriculture organization in Copenhagen, Denmark, the plan envisaged:

——Irrigation of one-fifth the total area and erection of hydro-electric projects with capacity equal to Boulder dam's.

——Revitalization of the soil through fertilization and expansion of the fruit industry.

——Increase non-profit merchandising of co-operatives and take the co-ops from politics.

——Aid small industries like spinning, weaving, clothing, shoes and harnesses and olive oil refining.

Reconstruction would be started with a 100 million dollar loan. Credits would be advanced upon agreement to carry out reforms in government, shifting of the tax burden from the peasants and development of educational facilities.

BLACK MARKET:
OPA Gets Tough

A woman photographer's picture of a burly Los Angeles OPA agent gripping an automobile salesman by the throat and wielding a blackjack graphically revealed the agency's toughened enforcement policies in the drive to stamp out the black market menace.

While the salesman pictured later was freed, six other salesmen were arrested on charges of selling cars over ceiling prices and arraigned with 65 more before a U. S. commissioner for OPA violations. Acting on complaints of purchasers, the OPA drive was pointed toward stamping out an alleged multi-million dollar black market in new and used automobiles.

As OPA critics decried the employment of armed agents in tracking down OPA violations, agency officials in Washington snapped: "Enforcement of price ceilings is not a cream puff affair and sometimes we have to use a blackjack in self-defense or to apprehend a reluctant suspect. We're not dealing with nice people but with . . . law breakers."

LABOR:
Teamsters Revolt

With union officials branding the strike of 25,000 members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in New York City "the worst rank and file revolt in history," IBT Pres. Dan Tobin stepped into the picture at the request of Mayor O'Dwyer to help settle the walkout.

Tobin acted after O'Dwyer had cited the union's refusal to permit the transport of essential food and medicines and warned him that the IBT would have to accept responsibility for "bloodshed and injury." Tobin ordered 10,000 sympathy strikers of 23 locals in New York and New Jersey to return to work and suggested that employer approval of an 18½ cent an hour raise for 15,000 strikers would serve as a basis for negotiation.

Besides curtailing the supply of food, the walkout threatened to seriously affect many industries. National Sugar Refining company was forced to suspend operations, more than 25 soft drink bottlers closed, and bakers ran low on sugar stocks. In all, some 1,270,000 workers were faced with lay-offs as a result of the trucking and maritime strikes.

POLITICS:
Taft Leads

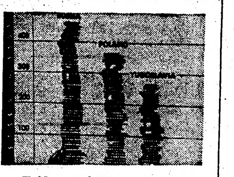
Mother of Republican presidents, Ohio witnessed another native GOP aspirant to the White House hoist his standard at the party's state convention in Columbus. Taking the conservative lead, Bob Taft served warning that a Republican congressional victory this fall would mean formulation of a program along traditional GOP lines, including:

- Removal of price and wage controls by April 1, 1947, except for rents.
- Expiration of the second war powers act.
- Termination of conscription unless war threatens.

After enunciating the program, Taft then ominously added that the GOP intended to put it into effect in 1949 if President Truman disapproved before then.

Meanwhile, politicos attempted to read a meaning into the sweeping GOP victory in Maine, with Democrats finding some comfort in the fact that Republican congressional majorities were below the 1944 level.

U. S. Aids Red Bloc



Evidence of U. S. efforts to promote good will with Russia and the soviet bloc in eastern Europe despite recurring difficulties is emphasized by its substantial postwar relief and reconstruction contributions to these countries. Since the end of hostilities, Russia alone has received $290,000,000 in lend-lease credits and $175,000,000 in UNRRA funds for a total of $466,000,000. Poland has obtained $367,000,000 in U. S. goods; Yugoslavia, $267,000,000; and Romania, Hungary and Albania $20,000,000.

GREAT BRITAIN:
Squatter Trouble

Staid John Bull, renowned for his reverence for law and order, fidgeted uneasily over the communist-led squatter drive in Britain which saw hundreds of homeless families take over swanky vacant apartments and mansions without permission.

Although put into power by the liberal and working man vote, the Labor party showed no stomach for the radical movement and Prime Minister Attlee's own spacious estate was guarded by troops against the squatters. Charging that both civil and criminal law was being violated by the unauthorized invasion of buildings, the government warned that "anarchy may result unless lawless measures of this sort are stamped out."

First starting out as an independent influx of individuals into vacant army huts, abandoned public buildings, etc., the movement developed into formidable proportions under skilled communist direction. As the government moved to oust the squatters, rabid reds exhorted them to hold fast and called upon all organized workers to fight the evictions.

URBAN TRANSIT:

Setting a new record, 23,254,000,000 passengers were carried on the nation's urban transit lines last year, according to American Transit association. This was an increase of 237,000,000 above the 1944 peak.

The new record was attributed to the quick shift which most industries were able to make from war to peace activities which kept unemployment at a minimum and to the reduced registration of passenger automobiles due to the inability of people to purchase new cars.

Omar, Darling!

The honeymoon couple sat on the sands together.

"Graceful birds, gulls, aren't they?" the bridegroom said.

"Looking for food, I expect," answered the bride.

"Isn't the sun gorgeous?" the bridegroom said, after a pause.

"Reminds me of a poached egg," answered the bride.

"It's grand to take in deep breaths of ozone-laden air," he said, breathing deeply.

"Don't find it very filling myself," answered the bride; and then there was a short silence.

"And what is my romantic little wife thinking about?" the bridegroom asked fondly.

"Food!" she answered.

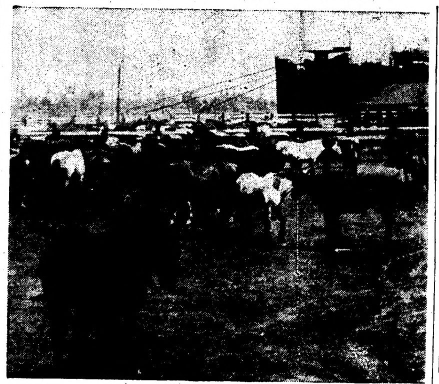
ENLIVENING CHILEAN PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION . . . Here is shown one of the numerous fights that marked election day in Chile, when the people went to the polls to vote for a new president. Communists and Socialists were rivals in the brawls. The tackler here seems to be trying to haul his opponent into the ditch. Gabriel Gonzalez Videla received a majority of votes over his opponent Edwardo Coke.

ITALIAN ORGAN GRINDER LURES CROWDS . . . Banned from the sidewalks of New York by edict of former Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, now the boss of UNRRA, the hurdy gurdy survives in Italy, and this particular street organ in Palermo, Sicily, was used to attract crowds when the American representative of UNRRA wanted to announce the distribution of relief supplies.



FARM RELIEF HORSES MENACED . . . These government-owned horses bought by the U. S. department of agriculture for European farm relief, faced possible death because they were unable to be transported to their destination as a result of strike-delayed shipping schedules. UNRRA officials say that a death toll of over 10 per cent resulted in shipping yards at Savannah, Ga., due to pneumonia and lack of nourishment. The horses were from the West and could not stand mud.

TOMATOES ARE HIGHER . . . Louis "Corky" Grimes, 2, Chicago, knows that tomatoes are plenty high in the local stores, but finds that they come even higher in his neighbor's yard. This giant tomato plant in the yard of Frank Grimaldi, is 8½ feet tall, believed to be a record.

QUADRUPLETS BORN TO FRENCH MOTHER . . . Four nurses feed the quadruplet daughters born to Mrs. Margaret Walza, 38, of Paris, France. The four little girls, who are thriving in an incubator, are Jacqueline, Danielle, Anne-Marie and Nicole. With food and clothing scarce, Mrs. Walza will have a problem to provide for her new family. Many offers of ration cards and food have been placed at the disposal of the new quadruplet girls.

HEADS V.F.W. . . . Louis E. Starr, Portland, Ore., newly-elected national commander-in-chief of Veterans of Foreign Wars, which held its 1946 convention at Boston. The convention favored extension of draft and universal training.
